TIMELY GOSSIP OF THE THOROBREDS

King's Horse in New York, en Route to This Country —Steeplechase Permits.

The Atlantic transport liner Manhattan docked in New York on Sunday, bringing but two thorobred horses. One of these, however, is a present to the breeding bureau of Canada from King George. Besides being a remarkably handsome individual, Spey Pearl—that's his name—is royally bred, being the son of one great Derby winner and the grandson of another, and has been pronounced by such a shrewd horseman as John Huggins the greatest horse he ever saw. Spey Pearl is a golden bay colt (solid colored), four years old, by Spearmint, winner of the Derby of 1906, out of Pearl of Loch, by Persimmon, winner of the Derby of 1896 for the then Prince of Wales, afterwards King Edward VII.

Many noted English turfmen have insisted that Spearmint, his sire, was the greatest Derby winner which had appeared for a quarter of a century, and away back when his sire, Carbine, won the Melbourne Cup in a field of thirty-one in 1894, with 145 pounds up, in 1890, he was hailed as the greatest race horse ever saddled in any country. Persimmon was regarded almost universally as the greatest race horse of his day, and his own brother, Diamond Jubilee, won the same great classic in 1900. And then again both Persimmon and Diamond Jubilee were among the very best in the stud of their day, Persimmon's stud triumphs having been achieved in England and Diamond Jubilee's in Argentina, where for years he has headed the list of winning sires by a wide margin.

The United States National Steeplechase and Hunt Association announced that at a meeting of the board of stewards of the association permission had been granted for the Westchester Racing Association, the Maryland Jockey Club and the Queen's County Jockey Club to hold steeplechases at their race meetings. Henry J. Morris was appointed steward to represent the N. S. and H. A. at Belmont Park in the spring and fall. Frank J. Bryan will assume the same duty at Pimlico, and F. S. Von Stade will officiate as the association's steward at the Queen's County race meet at Aqueduct.

J. A. Devereux, Lawrence B. Smith, John S. Pettit and Roger H. Bayly received permission to ride as gentlemen riders, subject to the approval of the hunts committee. The following jockeys and trainers were licensed:

Jockeys—Edward Landry, E. A. Burke, William Allen, F. E. Williams, T. B. Tuckey, Sam Stevenson, William Booth, Edward T. Kiencki, J. K. Russell, Herbert McAfee, Frank Stacey, Thomas Fennessey, Samuel J. Bush, Harvey Williams, Thomas Parrette, Norman Kennedy and C. Smoot.

Trainers—John Riddick, M. Daly, Orville E. Roberts, John Hastings, Silas Vestch, C. H. Douglas, John Lambert, Patrick Deegan, W. Freeman and E. A. Burke.

Edward B. McLean, who has one of the largest strings of steeplechasers in training, is on the lookout for a second jockey to supplement Freddie Williams, who already is under contract to the Washington owner. It is likely that J. Smith may be engaged. At present this rider stands suspended for an unsatisfactory ride on the Canadian circuit, but he has made application for the ban to be lifted. All the McLean horses are quartered at Bennings, but in a few days a division will be moved over to Pimlico for the spring meeting of the Maryland Jockey Club, at which there will be steeplechasers on every day of the meeting. A few of the green horses may be shipped to Havre de Grace in order to give them racing education.

The Bedwell horses are destined to race in Canada during the approaching season. Bedwell will himself visit the Woodbine and the principal tracks of the Dominion with the pick of his string, while the remainder will be raced over the "independent" courses under the direction of Trainer Tigue.

Nine Per Cent. Small Jockey Club Dividend

Baltimore, Md., April 8.—Roy H. Neely, a prominent young business man of Havana, Cuba, and an official of the Havana Electric Company, was elected a director of the Cuban-American Jockey Club at a meeting of the directors of the club held in their offices here. No other change was made in the organization, the other directors being re-elected. A dividend of nine per cent. was also declared on the stock of the club. General Manager H. D. (Curley) Brown announced that the winter meeting at Marianao Park, Havana, was most successful. He stated that the above dividend declared, while seemingly small, was most satisfactory to the stockholders. Mr. Brown said that between now and the next meeting, which will be held on the island next year, a large amount of the money earned from the meeting just closed will be expended on improvements, and that the purses and stakes for the next meeting will be considerably increased.

Thomas Hitchcock's jumpers, which will be shipped north from Aiken next week, will include several sons of Yankee that were foaled in France. Yankee has always been known as a great sire of jumpers, and the French importations have shown the usual ability of the get of this sire to negotiate the obstacles.

The Bowie management is considering the advisability of including steeplechases in the program for the fall meeting. The infield is fairly level, but considerable work would be necessary to prepare the field in time for racing in the fall. If the management accedes to the request of the owners of steeplechasers, the work of installing the jumps will be in charge of Superintendent Richard Pending, who is an old steeplechase rider.

Geo. Kennedy Tells How Bob Fleming Boosted Newsy Lalonde's Stipend

In his second hockey trip out west Geo. Kennedy told some stories about Newsy Lalonde and the methods of that sporting financier:

Newsy Lalonde has long been known as the John D. Rockefeller of professional sport in this broad Dominion, and many are the tales told of the Cornwall youth's financial exploits. With the exception of playing hockey during the winter and lacrosse during the summer months, the Ontario flash doesn't find time for any business, and the fact that today he owns a fine residence in Montreal and has made a substantial pile and increased it as a result of shrewd investments shows that sport has at least been good to one athlete.

Newsy gets into the limelight at more frequent intervals than some of the crowned heads of Europe, and he draws a "flash" head where the other stars in the sport realm must content themselves with brief mention. From 1902 until the present day Lalonde has been drawing down good money for exhibiting his wares. Home town sentiment cuts very little swath with him. He scents the bigger money and usually gets it, irrespective of where he plays. And wherever he dons the spangles he gives of the best that is in him. When he played lacrosse for Cornwall he played hard for the home town, and a year later when he went to Montreal he played just as hard against his native town. It was, and is, always the same to him just so long as he is being well paid.

George Kennedy, the Montreal sporting impresario, tells some good stories about Lalonde and the latter's ability to get the money. Someone wanted to know how it was that Newsy was playing lacrosse for the Nationals on a co-operative system when it had long been known that the player wanted good legal tender and plenty of it for his services. The story that he had been playing co-operative lacrosse just wouldn't go down with those who believe they knew the player, and Kennedy's arrival and subsequent oratorical effort threw a lot of light on the subject.

"Nuthin' to it," observed Kennedy. "Lalonde plays lacrosse and takes his bit along with the other players, but it's the big fellows behind the Nationals who meet Newsy after the game and pay over the salary. Lalonde is idolized by the Frenchmen in Montreal, and he's stronger with the millionaire class than some autoists are with traffic cops. Lalonde earns a lot of money in lacrosse and hockey. What the clubs fail to pay he gets from the club's supporters. Sometimes he gets between $2000 and $5000 in addition to his split of the club's treasury."

And Kennedy's face wreathed in smiles as he thought of a little incident in which he was one of the principals and Lalonde the other. "Lalonde doesn't play for nothing, and you've got to show him before he starts that the money is there," continued Kennedy. "Well do I remember when we were bidding with Bob Fleming of Toronto for Lalonde's services. Lalonde was to receive $5000 for the season, with $2500 in advance. I gave Lalonde a cheque on Saturday, but that wasn't good enough. He hauled me down to the bank to get the money, and when the cashier couldn't dig up enough from the cash boxes Newsy had him chasing around to branch banks picking up every loose dollar to satisfy that cheque, which called for $2500. It took a lot of time and bills of big denomination were difficult to secure owing to the fact that the bank was closed, but Lalonde stopped right with the cashier until he had his $2500, with over half of it in one dollar bills. He had a bunch the size of a steamroller. And this was all at my expense, notwithstanding the fact that I had always done business with him and that I figured I was good at any time for the amount. No, Lalonde will never go broke as long as he can play lacrosse and count small change. He not only wants what he wants when he wants it, but he gets it." Lalonde is good for many more seasons in both hockey and lacrosse.

CALLS HOUSEWIVES TO CONSERVE FOOD

National League Issues Appeal to Every Woman in the United States.

WANTS PRODUCTION

Country's Greatest Cry is for Organization of Resources.

Special to The Toronto World.

New York, April 9.—A call to American housewives to organize the edible resources of the country and beat the food dictator to it, was issued by the National Housewives' League today.

Detailed plans will be outlined by the national executive committee, representing every state in the union, at the Hotel Astor here tomorrow.

"Beat the bread line—that's what we want to do," said Mrs. Jennie Dewey Heath, president of the league, in a statement to the United Press. "We can, and we must. The government expects every housewife to do her duty. That duty is plain.

"Next to the need for men for defence, America's greatest cry is for production and conservation of food.

"Let every woman realize what being at war means to our food supply.

"The call for conservation is not a call for economy's sake. It is a call of necessity. It is virtually a command of the federal government.

"We ask every woman's organization in the country to organize with us along army lines.

"Get the services of an army officer to help in co-ordinating plans.

"Open recruiting stations to secure farm laborers for the already long waiting lists in the state labor departments.

"Map a definite program in each locality under the best dietician you can obtain. Pledge each housewife to follow that program. The diet outline should be changed each week to conform to the changed market.

"Here is the big chance for patriotic women of America to do their part. It is a call to arms to crush the coming of the soup kitchen.

"The food supply of America must be guarded if we expect to win in this world-war.

Mobilize, organize and report to the National Housewives' League, 25 West 45th street, New York City."

HOUSEHOLD HELPS ON EXHIBITION

Comprehensive Show of Utilities for the Home at the Arena.

Introduced by Dr. Norman Allen as "the most distinguished citizen of Canada," General Sir Sam Hughesat the Arena last night opened the Toronto Household Exhibition in a very brief speech. He declared that the time was very opportune for such work, and expressed his appreciation of the spirit which actuated the promoters.

Sir Sam, who was accompanied by Dr. Allen and Col. R. C. Levesconte, had with him on the platform Col. B. H. Belson, brigadier of the 2nd Infantry Brigade, and Captain J. A. Belton, 247th Battalion, Peterboro; also Aid. Sam Ryding. A brother of Captain Belton is commander-in-chief of the Sultan of Morocco's forces.

The exhibit is of great interest to the careful and thoro housewife, and comprises many of the labor-saving devices which simplify domestic work. Demonstrations are given by experts in the manipulation of household articles, and pointers and information are freely and courteously given the visitor. Now that thrift is a virtue, the large diet kitchen, where nutritious foods are prepared and served at a small cost, will give valuable assistance to the housekeeper who is desirous of reducing her food bill.

Soldiers' Exhibit.

One of the features of the exhibition is the exhibit of the Military Hospitals Commission, which has a great selection of serviceable articles made by returned soldiers on view. Convalescent homes, from Sydney, Cape Breton, to Sydney, B.C., are represented, and the work is of the highest quality, reflecting great credit on the vocational instructors in the various hospitals. Some of the work, particularly embroidering, has from time immemorial belonged to the woman's field, but the returned men have invaded it, with surprising results. So fine is the work that a number of women last night were slow to believe it the result of male effort.

This line of endeavor is by the tubercular patients of Freeport Home, Kitchener, who were taught by the matron, and turned out all the articles while in bed.

There is an exhibit of architectural and mechanical drawing by returned Ontario men, who received their education in the Technical School, Toronto, that is worthy of note.

The Ontario College of Agriculture, in conjunction with the department of agriculture, has a large exhibit of household equipment in charge of a highly-trained staff, whose knowledge will be at the service of everyone for the asking. Dairying is shown in its many branches, and fruit and vegetable growing are presented in a scientific manner.

Some of the articles on view are: Pianos, gramophones, vacuum cleaners, washing machines, motor boats, toys, statuary work, electric articles, art pictures, tires, ranges, and foods of all descriptions, including baking powders, flours, jellies, candies and milk goods, etc. The exhibition will continue until Saturday night.

Society—Conducted by Mrs. Edmund Phillips

Their will be afternoon tea, high tea, bridge and dancing, every afternoon and evening, and the gallery is transformed with rugs, flowers, comfortable seats and music, and will be a meeting place for all the young people during the week. MAYOR ON THE TRAIL OF PACIFIST JUDGE

Police Will Prevent Recurrence of Speech Made at Alexandra Theatre.

Mayor Church yesterday sent a clipping of The World containing the pacifist views of Judge Rutherford of New York, who lectured in the Royal Alexandra Theatre on Sunday afternoon, to Chief of Police Grasett. Yesterday afternoon his worship stated that at the meeting of the police commissioners today regulations would be passed making it necessary for a permit from the police department before a public meeting of any kind can be held in the city.

It is not the intention of the police commissioners to prevent free speech, but to prevent the recurrence of such a speech as was delivered by the member of the New York bar on Sunday.

Mayor Church also intends to ask Col. Hugh Clark, secretary for external affairs, as to how the judge got across the border. On every hand strong disapproval was voiced regarding the judge's statements, and Hon. I. B. Lucas and Hon. Mr. McGarry have had the matter brought to their attention.
