PRESBYTERIANS TAKE AFTERNOON TO SEE LONDON'S BEAUTIES

Commissioners to Assembly Take Auto Trip.

MANY ENJOY BOWLING

Others Enjoy Games of Golf on Picturesque Hunt Club Links.

Saturday at noon the right reverend the moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of Canada, Rev. Dr. Fletcher, turned the commissioners out to play, and they entered with as much zest into the task of preventing themselves from becoming dull boys as they had into the work of deliberating upon the business problems of the church for preceding days of the 1918 assembly.

Large numbers availed themselves of the opportunity of seeing London, its river drive and river park, through participating in the motor trip arranged on their behalf. At 3 o'clock long lines of automobiles were drawn up on Waterloo street and Queen's avenue, and shortly after the trail was taken in the direction of the Hospital for the Insane, the first of the public buildings visited. The itinerary of the trip included views of the military camps and hospitals, then a run out the north side of the river to Byron, a passing glimpse of the sanatorium, then a pause in Springbank Park for ice cream and cake.

Those who arranged the trip specifically stated that car owners might choose their own route home, to suit their own pleasure or that of their ministerial guests.

Met at Pavilion.

Presbyterian independence of thought seemed to be manifest pretty much throughout the entire trip, owing doubtless to the fact that the ecclesiastical lawyer, the venerable senior clerk, was not present to insist on law and order. Cars turned off at their own sweet will, those who were most demonstratively democratic escaping clouds of dust, even if they lost the dignity of the procession. In any case, by various ways and divers times they managed to become a united family once more over ice cream and cake at the Springbank pavilion.

Donors of Automobiles.

The following generously provided cars for the drive: Messrs. Forsythe, J. Miller, C. Hall, Morris, C. H. Firth, McArthur, S. J. Radcliffe, R. H. Morrison, H. H. Rennie, W. B. Gillespie, George Reid, T. Loveless, D. Gidley, W. C. Falls, Murray, Webster, J. Purdom, J. C. Beemer, W. E. Gunn, Beveridge, C. H. Elliott, W. S. Brown, Gammage, Collar, McClurg, J. A. McLandress, Pickles, R. B. Waniess, A. E. Silverwood, Mrs. Geo. McLachlin, Miss Bell, Mrs. J. W. Little, Dr. Thompson, Sheriff Cameron, Dr. Hughes, McLaughlin Garage.

Several enthusiasts over bowling made up rinks and accepted the hospitality for the afternoon of the various bowling clubs of the city. A few indulged in tennis, and prominent among those who engaged in the more eminently Presbyterian game of golf were Rev. Dr. R. P. MacKay and Rev. Dr. MacTavish of Toronto. Sharing the interest of the game for the golfers was the beauty and picturesqueness of the links at the Hunt Club, declared by some at least to be in point of general picturesqueness unequalled by any they had seen in any place.

In connection with the game arranged for Dr. McKay and Dr. MacTavish, a prominent local ecclesiastic on hearing the expression that Dr. MacKay was a "left-hand player" immediately took upon himself the task of finding for the convener of the board of foreign missions a set of left-hand clubs. After much patient searching he was able to produce them in triumph, only to find that Dr. McKay was not "left-handed," but that he was accustomed to play "left hand."

Two hundred and thirty-five commissioners to the General Assembly, duly appointed by presbyteries and entitled to vote have reported up to the present time, in addition to the large number of outstanding men of the church who are in attendance on committee work. Of the 235 commissioners, 150 are from Ontario points, 23 from the Maritime Provinces, 18 from Quebec, 24 from Saskatchewan, 12 from Alberta and 8 from British Columbia.

DEFENDANT GIVEN $90 BY JURY IN SUIT FOR DAMAGES

Action Arose Following Auto Collision in London

The jury in the case of Hart vs. Brooks, the last of the jury actions to be heard at the June county court sittings returned a verdict of $90 in favor of the defendant, John Brooks. The case was tried on Saturday before Judge Macbeth, who has presided at the sittings.

E. N. Hart entered action to recover $250 damages from John Brooks, as the result of a collision between motor cars driven by the plaintiff and defendant on the Proof Line road. Brooks entered a counter-claim for $90, and his counsel, J. B. McKillop, showed the jury that the collision was really due to Hart being on the wrong side of the road at the time the attempt was made to turn around.

In dismissing the case of Hart, the plaintiff, the jury was guided to a large extent by expert evidence given by Charles Talbot, Middlesex County engineer. The county engineer was taken to the scene of the collision early the next morning by Brooks and the road measured. The engineer stated at the point where the collision occurred the road was 24 feet wide.

According to evidence given by Brooks and the measurements of the county engineer, Hart was occupying 16 feet 3 inches of this roadway, and Brooks 7 feet 9 inches at that portion of the highway where the motor car wheels locked.

Hart claimed that the collision was due to negligence on the part of Brooks, and Brooks counter-claimed and endeavored to show that the accident was due to the lack of caution on the part of Hart.

Judge Macbeth dismissed the last of the jurors at the conclusion of this case.

WON D. S. O.

Lieut.-Col. John N. Gunn, recently returned from France, is among those honored by the D. S. O. in the King's Birthday list. Col. Gunn has been overseas three years, during which time he was in command of the 8th Field Ambulance. He was invalided to Canada after a return of trench fever, and the decoration comes as a pleasant recognition of services in the field.

Col. Gunn has been a recent visitor in London in the home of his wife's parents, Rev. W. M. Martin and Mrs. Martin, Ridout street south. Lieut.-Col. Gunn, Mrs. Gunn and little daughter left on Wednesday for Calgary, where Col. Gunn was practicing at the time of the outbreak of the war.

HAS LEG FRACTURED.

Miss Margaret M. Stanley, lady superintendent of Victoria Hospital, had her legs fractured in Toronto on Saturday, when she slipped while coming down a stairway at the Sick Children's Hospital. She has been in Toronto for several days attending a convention. She was taken to the Toronto General Hospital.

PATRICIA

FRANCES BURNHAM.—A woman's picture with the delicate imagery and romance so dear to the heart of woman. The story is a sweet, pretty romance, done so exquisitely and artistically that it will delight every pure-minded person who is fortunate enough to see it. The stars are Tyrone Power, whom the late William Winter, America's foremost critic, stated was the world's greatest actor, and Frances Burnham, one of photoplays' youngest stars, and who is altogether satisfying and delightfully sweet and piquant in her characterization of Lorelei. MAJESTIC

SMILING DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS AT THE POPULAR MAJESTIC TODAY AND TUESDAY.

Famous Artcraft Star Has Unique Part In New Comedy Picture, "Mr. Fix-It."

Essaying one of the most unique roles in which he has ever appeared, Douglas Fairbanks, the famous Artcraft star, will appear in a novel characterization, "Mr. Fix-It," which has just been released at the Majestic today and Tuesday.

In this interesting subject, Fairbanks will be seen as a young society man, whose hobby is to be happy and bring happiness to others. The scenes of "Mr. Fix-It" transpire in the slums of New York, as well as in the home of a wealthy New York family, which is divided by the bickerings and petty jealousies of its members. In adjusting the heart affairs of two young women, both of whom are engaged contrary to their wishes, some very amusing complications arise, of which Fairbanks makes the most. "Mr. Fix-It" will be seen at the Majestic Theatre today and Tuesday.

Douglas Fairbanks, the smiling and athletic screen favorite, will appear at the Majestic today and Tuesday in one of his best comedies, "Mr. Fix-It," a guaranteed laugh maker.

CHINA IS CALLING FOR MORE WORKERS, SAYS DR. M'GILLIVRAY

Famous Missionary Statesman Tells of Problems

DR. FALCONER'S ADDRESS

Discusses "Is Civilization Going Upward of Downward?"

"If I could have the press of the western lands and the cables at my command I could visualize the front in China just as you have the front in France and Flanders visualized. Oh, every day the recruits there would then be for the ranks of our army of missionary workers in China, and the money that would be poured in. It would come, not in a few hundreds of dollars, but in a great victory loan for this cause for victory and for Jesus' sake."

With the foregoing words Rev. Dr. Donald MacGillivray of Shanghai, eminent missionary-statesman-linguist and man of letters, brought to a close his sermon in the Presbyterian General Assembly church, St. Andrew's, Sunday at the morning service.

Dr. MacGillivray and Rev. Professor J. W. Falconer of Halifax were honored this year in being chosen by the assembly as the preachers for the assembly church on assembly Sunday, the latter occupying the pulpit in the evening. Seated on the platform below the pulpit at both services, according to custom, were the moderator of the assembly, the Right Rev. Colin Fletcher, D.D., and the senior and associate clerks, Rev. Dr. Robert Campbell of Montreal, and Rev. Dr. John Somerville of Toronto.

Work in China.

Choosing as his text, "And the leaves of the trees shall be for the healing of the nations," and translating "tree" as "the cross of Christ," Dr. MacGillivray graphically related the manner in which "the leaves of healing" are being given to China through the agency of literature and the Christian Literature Society, his particular field. Dr. MacGillivray's time is now given over to translation work and writing. He is famous as compiler of the Chinese dictionary. In the course of three illustrations of the important and far-reaching work he and his associates are doing, he emphasized the value the secular press of China is proving as an ally.

"In the first place," he said, "our aim is to reach the reading class of China, the 'unreached' millions of readers. Since the revolution of 1912, the so-called secular papers have been friendly towards us. They see that the people engaged in literary work love China; hence we have obtained valuable allies in the secular press of China. They are young, but they have a great future. We do not need printing presses. We can borrow the public press. Articles written by Christian missionaries are reprinted in them and become the instrument of the Holy Spirit to make Christ known to millions of people who never come within a hundred miles of a tract, who never hear the gospel preached.

In Heathen Hands.

In China, the paper that comes out in the afternoon is not a back number the next morning. It is sold over and over again. The Chinese are very economical, hence the wide circulation of the papers.

Who owns the papers? Heathen men. Who edit them? Heathen men. Who are the reporters? Heathen men. Not always are the articles we send to them of a religious character. For example, yesterday in the course of the motor trip given the commissioners, we visited the institution which is a hospital to heal those mentally afflicted. Thank God the name for this institution has been changed! I will write an article, telling about hospitals of this kind that they have in Canada, and at the close mention the fact that Dr. J. T. Kerr established a hospital for the insane at Canton, where hundreds of afflicted people have been cured. The secular press is friendly to articles like that, interested in articles which relate to the state, the home, the status of womanhood. So articles such as that open the way for acceptance of religious articles.

"Again, from reading the Chinese secular papers we are able to find the trend of Chinese thought, what the Chinese are discussing, and to understand the progress of things. We are thus able the more rapidly to adapt our message to the China of today. By the way, there is a report that the colleges are going to be amalgamated, and some of the professors released for other work. I want to make a plea for the best men. He will do the articles and I'll do the translation."

Another Phase.

The second phase of the service rendered by the literature branch of the missionary army in China dwelt upon by Dr. MacGillivray, was the assistance given to the educated native ministry.

"Looking over the magnificent library of the late Dr. Ross in the reading-room," said the preacher, "made me contrast with this the pitifully small equipment in the way of books of the Chinese pastors, with their poor salaries. Who is going to do the great work of evangelization in China? Not the foreign missionaries, with their stammering tongues and imperfect knowledge of the Chinese soul, but the Chinese pastors. They need all the mental training and knowledge made possible to be gained from books to grapple with the problems that come before them.

Concerning the Chinese or "Hastings" dictionary, the preacher created a smile when he stated that some suspicion had attached to the term "Hastings" associated with higher criticism. He assured that a pen knife had been used on the original in the nature of "performing a surgical operation to make it more digestible for the Chinese students."

In the third place Dr. MacGillivary stated that the demand is growing among the Chinese pastors for comprehensive biblical commentaries. They want commentaries that are up-to-date, comprehensive with reference to the original Greek and Hebrew. To meet this need men who have made good in helping with the dictionary and who are thoroughly versed in Hebrew and Greek are engaged on the work of writing commentaries.

In his work, as in preparing the dictionary, scholars of several denominations have been engaged, American, old countryman and Canadian. "And a Quaker wrote the article on war," said Dr. MacGillivary.

Co-operative Work.

"That is what we mean by co-operative working out in China. What we are concerned with out there are the great fundamental truths held by everybody. We haven't time for writing treatises on infant baptism. In preparing the dictionary it has pleased God to direct us to put our strength to the presentation of the truths which are common to those who are sincere followers of Jesus." The dictionary, he added, is destined to exert the greatest possible influence on the new ministry of China.

By means of the service of literature, he declared, in conclusion, the things being fought are of tremendous consequences to the Chinese Church. And yet, there is only one Canadian engaged in doing this work.

"While it is a tremendous work, it is not too great for Jesus Christ. Out there we are waging the war under one generalissimo, Christ Jesus, and our one plan is to look after all fronts, not to neglect any, at home or abroad.

"Are you enlisted for the duration of the war? Come what may, are you prepared to hear the voice of God calling you east as well as to go to other parts of the earth?"

The importance of continuing missionary propaganda in the eastern lands while the great world conflict is raging in Europe was presented in five reasons quoted from Robert E. Speer as follows: "The war has been entered upon with Germany (1) to check wrong, (2) to make the world safe for democracy, (3) to insure brotherhood and equality, (4) to insure justice for the weak, (5) to make it law that strength is given for service.

"This is almost our missionary program," said Dr. MacGillivray, stating, "and I would like to add to these five reasons given by Robert E. Speer one more. We have entered the war to end war, and war will not end until China is Christianized."

Impressive Service.

The impressive assembly communion service was held in the church at 4 o'clock, conducted by the moderator, Rev. Dr. Fletcher, and the ex-moderator, Rev. Dr. John Neil of Toronto.

The following elders who are commissioners have been invited to officiate: D. McKellar, Judge Farrell Moosomin; F. W. Monteith, A. S. MacGregor, Jas. Gray, John Lochead, London; A. J. Walker, Dr. J. McLean, Jas. Rodger, Wm. Shearer, J. K. MacDonald, Toronto; Thos. Yellowlees, W. P. Christie, Alex. Hastings, D. D. Wilson.

The assembly church attracted a large number of visitors on Sunday evening to hear Rev. Prof. J. W. Falconer, of Halifax, who preached orthodox Presbyterianism, namely fellowship between God and man as the interpretation of life. In the course of his sermon characterized by rare beauty of diction as well as of thought he declared that humanism and materialism as one extreme, and fatalism as the other cannot satisfactorily answer the questions which people are asking in these days of world catastrophe, when the sure foundations of life seem to be shaken, and the faith of our fathers toppling.

Plenty of Signs.

"The accusation which Christ made against the people of his times," said Prof. Falconer, "was that while they could read the signs of the sky, they could not read the signs of their times. Never were there such signs as there are today. People are asking, What is civilization? Is there such a thing as progressive civilization? Are we going downward instead of upwards?

While there is great truth in one position held that man is the pyramid of his own existence, because of the manner in which man has progressed from the jungle to the high cultivation of this age of invention, yet there are two objections to this explanation of life. The first is that there are certain instincts in man that cannot be satisfied by man, the instinct of God and of immortality. There are certain things humanism cannot supply or materialism impart. Humanism cannot find a satisfactory answer for the terrible spectacle to which civilization is brought at the present time, when the annals of civilization, which should be written in golden enterprises of peace, are being written deep red in the blood of conflict.

Is Not Sufficient.

"In the fatalistic interpretation of life that we are God's puppets, there is perhaps more truth than in the humanistic and materialistic interpretation of life. But this, too, is untrue and insufficient. In the first place, in our hearts we realize we are originative beings with the will to start things, with sense of judgment and the knowledge that we must stand before the judgment seat of God. In the second place, if he are simply God's puppets, God is the direct cause of all sin and trouble. God knocked our first parents down. All the turmoil of the war is due to God.

"In his perfidy He tore up the scrap of paper, trod ruthlessly across Belgium, sent the shaft after the Lusitania. Such an interpretation is inconceivable.

"Where are we then, if neither God nor man is the explanation of life, of the progress of civilization?

"In the fellowship between God and man we find the interpretation of life. The compassion of God is but man's social consciousness. When God planned to call the Gentiles, He gave Paul a vision of the life of Jesus. Progress of civilization is righteousness, peace and truth. There are times when civilization seems to go backwards, others when it goes forward by leaps and bounds. Love of God in the human heart brings the world forward."

LONDON MAN IS NEW PRESIDENT OF THE ONTARIO TYPOS

Ottawa Is Selected for Next Annual Meeting.

BRANTFORD, June 8.—As a result of the conference of the Ontario typographical unions, which concluded here today, an agreement may be made by the I. T. U. in Canada with the Canadian Press Association similar to that which at present exists with the American publishers, by which the settlement of all disputes by arbitration is obligatory.

The suggestion was made by T. H. Preston at the opening of the conference when he, as an employer, took part in the welcome to the typos. The delegates took the matter up and appointed a committee to confer with Mr. Preston, so that it might be brought before the next meeting of the Canadian Press.

A resolution calling for the holding of an examination for apprentices as their time expires was passed on to the next executive for action. It was felt that this method was the only one which could be adopted to keep up the standard required of the journeyman printer.

Resolution Defeated.

The appointment of a Canadian representative on the International as vice-president was the subject of a resolution, which was defeated, on the ground that if the Canadian representative was to hold office automatically as vice-president there would be no chance of the election of a Canadian president, and there was no reason why Canadian representatives should not aspire to the highest office in the I.T.U.

PRESIDENT H. B. ARCHER.

The delegates were given a drive around the city in the afternoon and concluded their business at a night session. The retiring president, G. P. Doughty, Guelph, was given a gold ring, and Secretary-Treasurer Myland an honorarium. Ottawa was chosen as the next place of meeting, June 9 and 10, 1919.

Londoner President.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President, H. B. Archer, London; vice-president, C. H. Whitehead, Brantford; secretary-treasurer, G. L. Myland, Toronto.

The committee on thanks returned a resolution of appreciation for the civic welcome and the fine treatment accorded the conference by the local union, and the conference was declared to have been the most successful on record.

FOUR SERGEANTS OF NO. 3 HOSPITAL IN LIST OF WOUNDED

Four more Londoners have been reported as wounded on May 30th, in the German air raid made on No. 3 Stationary Hospital, in which a number of nurses and A. M. C. men were killed. Three London boys were among those killed as well as two nursing sisters, who graduated at Victoria Hospital.

Information was received in the city Saturday that Sergt. Harry Tozer, 12 Woodward avenue; Sergt. D. Osborne, Albion street, and Sergt. Lloyd Orr, Mount Pleasant avenue, had sustained wounds as a result of the raid.

Telegrams from the director of records, Ottawa, informed relatives that all three had been admitted to the general hospital at Camiers.

Sergt. Arthur Smith, 148 Fullarton, is also believed to have been wounded in the same air raid, as he was attached to No. 3 Stationary Hospital.

RELIABLE SHOES NO EXTRAVAGANCE

If you would be practical in your desire to economize in your shoe bill you will consult with the reliable shoe dealers, who have for years been supplying you with reliable shoes. There is absolutely no economy in buying so-called cheap shoes, which, as a rule, are made up of all kinds of substitutes for the real material which should go into a SHOE TO WEAR. No good, reliable dealer who knows the shoe business and what to buy for the trade he has been serving for years will charge you any higher price than the value of the article warrants. Be assured of this and buy your shoes from reliable merchants who prize their name and the business they have been building up for years, and you'll lose no money, on your year's shoe bill. "The Educational Link" is a special department appearing every Saturday in

The Mail and Empire.

It is believed is the only attempt in Canadian daily journalism to provide a weekly department relating to public education. While surveying the whole field of education, it devotes particular attention to the Province of Ontario. Its aim is to be helpful to Inspectors, Trustees, Teachers, Parents and others in developing and using our school system to the greatest possible benefit of the rising generation, and to connect all the nation's activities directly with public education.

Some idea of the scope of this department may be gathered from the titles of a few of the topics recently discussed in leading articles: "The Administration of the Public Schools," "A Real Boys' Parliament," "A New English History and Education," "Essentials of Public School Education," "School-room Confinement and Health," "The First English Medical Woman," "Truancy in the Public Schools," "Uniformity in School Books," "Some Rural Views on Public Schools," "Athletics, Books, Intelligence," "Mr. Martin's Attack on Education," "The Food Production Campaign," "Boys and the Cigarette Habit," "Lessons From Denmark Schools," "Ontario Legislature and Education." The Educational Link is indispensable to all in any way actively engaged in education.

COMING ON TUESDAY

Methodist Delegation to Assembly Postpones Its Visit.

The Duke of Devonshire, governor-general of Canada, will pay a visit to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The fact is being taken into account that in all probability members of the assembly will want to take advantage of seeing the review of troops by the governor-general later in the afternoon, and for this reason a visit from a delegation to convey greetings from the London Methodist Conference has been postponed until Tuesday morning.
