ANSLEY ESTATE IN GLEN GROVE SOLD

Twenty Acres, Not Including Residence, to Be Subdivided This Spring.

J. H. Hammill & Co. on Saturday took up an option on the Ansley property, on the north side of Glen Grove avenue, in North Toronto, and about a quarter of a mile west of Yonge street. They report the price they paid as about $10,000 an acre.

The property, which was being considered by the city for a park, will be subdivided this spring.

ROSEDALE-CUDMORE TO BE OPENED UP

A Bridge Over the Belt Line Ravine to Carry Rosedale to the North-east.

The syndicate headed by Hon. Wallace Nesbitt, who have owned the forty acres east of Bayview and south of St. Clair avenue for over twenty years, are about to put it on the market. It is immediately east and adjoining Rosedale but across the Belt Line ravine; the owners have purchased a steel bridge and intend to erect it south of the Canadian Pacific Railway's viaduct and connecting with the Summerhill extension of the Church street cars. Rosedale is now practically built up to this new annex, and when the bridge is up will have one of the most beautiful sections of the township added to it. The right of way for the bridge has been purchased and plans for the division of the property will be submitted in a short time. This bridge will also connect Rosedale with Bayview avenue and Leaside.

A. E. AUSTIN DIES AT CAIRO HOSPITAL

Young Toronto Financial Man Succumbs to Typhoid-Pneumonia.

Deep regret is felt in financial and social circles on the death in Cairo, of A. E. Austin, a partner of the firm of Austin and Duncanson, stock brokers, with offices at 23 Jordan street.

Altho advices were received by his parents and firm, stating that he was ill in Egypt, no knowledge was had of the serious nature of the disease to which Mr. Austin succumbed, until a cable was received Saturday, telling of his death in a hospital at Cairo, the cause being typhoid pneumonia. The body will likely be buried in Egypt, as it is doubtful if the authorities of that country will allow it to be shipped to Canada for burial.

Mr. Austin, altho only 24 years of age, had already made a mark for himself in financial circles, and had earned a wide circle of friends. His father, A. W. Austin, is president of the Consumers' Gas Company.

CHAMBERLIN HAS REQUEST GRANTED

Commission Will Take Evidence Abroad as to G.T.R. Financing.

NEW YORK, February 16.—Judge Julius M. Mayer yesterday granted the application of President Edson J. Chamberlin of the Grand Trunk Railway Company, for a commission to take testimony abroad of the directors of the company, and certain bankers in London, for use in his trial under the criminal provision of the Sherman law.

Judge Mayer, in his memorandum, said:

"It is asserted that the Grand Trunk Railway System and the New Haven System were active competitors among several states and with the Dominion of Canada, and that after certain improvements and extensions had been planned and entered upon by the Grand Trunk System work was discontinued, and that the purpose of such discontinuance was to prevent competition.

"The allegation is that in pursuance of the alleged conspiracy the defendant Chamberlin, on Nov. 9, 1912, caused the discontinuance of the work.

"Chamberlin is president of the Grand Trunk Railway and desires that testimony be taken to show that the discontinuance was not in pursuance of any unlawful agreement, but by direction of the board of directors of the Grand Trunk Railway, and was made because of financial conditions occasioned by the Balkan war."

EGGS SLUMP AT CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—Fresh eggs sold today for 19 cents, a figure lower than that for any time in 20 years at this season. The markets were swamped with thousands of cases yesterday.

Retailers in many instances sold them for 21 cents. Storage eggs, which cost 15 to 17 cents, were quoted at from 12 to 13 cents wholesale. Extremely mild weather in the west is said to be responsible for the increased receipts.
