MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.—Last evening M. H. Perley, Esq. delivered his commencing Lecture, on the Early History of New Brunswick; and as might easily have been anticipated, from the peculiarly interesting nature of the subject, the spacious Hall was crowded with eager and attentive listeners, amounting in number to, at least, 800. Every one must naturally desire to know as much as possible, of the country in which his lot is cast; and those who listened to Mr. Perley last evening must have been both gratified and instructed, by the pleasing and lucid manner in which he treated his subject, by the research displayed, and the highly interesting and (to very many,) novel facts adduced. Mr. P. has been fortunate, in having had access to many original and official documents, not hitherto attainable by historic writers, but which materially elucidate the history of this young but rapidly rising province: he has made diligent and efficient use of these advantages, and we hesitate not to say, that he has succeeded in compiling the best and most authentic history of New-Brunswick, ever yet published. Repeated plaudits from the audience cheered the Lecturer, and testified the gratification he imparted; and much impression appeared to be made, especially, by the statement of one fact; viz. that in the reign of Henry VII. John Cabot, in the employ and under the flag of England, after discovering Newfoundland and St. John's Islands, landed on the shores of this Province, between Richibucto and Miramichi, two years before Columbus reached the mainland of America; and thus New-Brunswick was the first portion of this great continent on which the feet of Christians ever stept. The Lecture was illustrated, by the display of a great variety of ancient Indian implements and utensils; and afforded the greatest satisfaction to the audience. The subject will be concluded on Monday next, when we doubt not the Hall will be crowded; and we consider that the whole province is greatly indebted to Mr. Perley, for this most useful and interesting product of his talents and research; which, indeed should be committed to the press, and thus preserved from oblivion.

MR. RUSSELL'S CONCERT.—On Saturday evening last, this eminent vocalist astonished and delighted a large number of our most respectable citizens, by the exercise of his splendid vocal powers and musical skill. Although Mr. Russell's fame had, in a great measure, preceded his arrival, yet many of our citizens were evidently unprepared for the rich treat they enjoyed; and consequently experienced a far higher degree of gratification than they expected. The evening, being Saturday, was inconvenient in many respects, yet a large number of the most respectable heads of families in the city attended, and testified their unqualified delight by frequent and rapturous applauses. Mr. Russell's brilliant and exquisitely delicate performance on the Piano-forte, of that most difficult composition, the overture to Weber's "Oberon," prepared the audience for rich things to come, and they were not disappointed. The magnificent, deep bass voice, the skilful modulation, the clear, harmonious quality of the upper tones, and the remarkably perfect articulation of the singer, afforded the highest gratification to all who were present, and called forth, at the close of the concert, general expressions of desire for more than one repetition of such an opportunity of musical enjoyment. Mr. Russell is decidedly the finest singer we ever heard in this country, and those who admire genuine harmony should avail themselves of this opportunity of hearing him. The length and evenness of his deep-toned sostenuto notes were really astonishing, and sufficiently tested the quality and strength of his vocal organs. Many of his songs were encored, and in every such instance, he generously gave an unexpected comic song, thus adding considerably to his own exertions and the entertainment of the company. Although all were exquisitely sung, yet we cannot refrain from noticing the "Mariner," and "Wind of the Winter Night," as two of the most powerful and magnificent efforts of song we ever had the pleasure of hearing. Mr. Russell will give another Concert To-morrow evening, which we hope will be fully attended.

A fine toned Bell was last week put up in the steeple of the Wesleyan Methodist Centenary Chapel in St. George's street, which rung joyful peals on Christmas Eve and Morning. The Bell is from the foundry of Thomas Mears, London, its weight 13 cwt. 2 qrs. 14 lbs,—its tone is a deep, rich tenor, and it is the heaviest bell in the city.

The steamer New-Brunswick was, on Saturday last, towed safely through the Falls by the steamer Nova-Scotia, and she now lies at the Ferry Wharf, Carleton. We learn that she is not so much injured as was feared, but vast quantities of mud have accumulated in the cabins, &c.—The expense of raising and repairing the Boat will be very heavy upon the Company; but we trust that her future success will more than repay the enterprising proprietors.

There was a heavy fall of snow on Sunday, with an easterly wind. The weather since has been clear and pleasant.

The following gentlemen left town yesterday morning in the steamer Maid of the Mist for Digby, on their way to Halifax, to take passage in the steam ship Caledonia, to sail for Liverpool on Monday next:—Hon. John Robertson, James Kink, Esq., Messrs. E. Kaye, T. S. Estey, John Wallace, T. Gilchrist, J. Fotherby, and N. Milby, all of this city, and three gentlemen from Canada.

SAND POINT SABBATH SCHOOL.—The indefatigable conductors of this excellent Institution, (Mr. and Mrs. BOND,) have been pursuing their labours of love in the department of Juvenile Religious Instruction during the passing year. If general good attendance, serious deportment, and manifested interest on the part of the Scholars can give expression of success and encouragement, then have Mr. and Mrs. Bond reason to prosecute their work of mercy from the effects already shown by their interesting charge. It being customary to observe an annual examination of the children's progress, this delightful scene took place on the 24th instant, in the presence of several friends, who assembled expressly to witness it. The proficiency of the scholars in scripture history, &c. gave great satisfaction; doubtless, by such knowledge impressions are made favourable to holiness and virtue, which will abide upon them through life's uneven way.

Previous to the intellectual exercises the whole party sat down to a plentiful tea table, provided by the founders and conductors of the School. Joy beamed on every youthful countenance, nor were the more advanced in years destitute of holy pleasure in gazing at such a novel sight.

Individual exertions to spread the light of Divine truth must be attended with beneficial results to the moral tone of society. We cannot avoid expressing our hearty good wishes for the health and prosperity of the parties concerned in the management of this Sabbath School.

Before dismissal Mr. Bond made a distribution of Tracts which had been presented by John Kinnear, Esq. Secretary of the Religious Tract Society, and numbers of the Missionary Magazine, Tract Magazine, and Child's Companion, sent across the Western Ocean by Peter Clarke, Esq. of Newton Abbot, Devon, (England,) for that purpose.

☞ The annual examination will in future be held at midsummer, instead of Christmas, as heretofore.—Communicated.

We are pleased to find that the liberality of our citizens has, as usual, been generously displayed by the Collections in places of Public Worship yesterday for the benefit of the Poor; but as the extent of poverty and distress amongst the laboring classes in the City at the present time, even in this early period of the winter, is so great that the Overseers of Poor, after crowding into the Parish houses betwixt two hundred and three hundred individuals, have yet, besides, to give weekly assistance, outside, to more than one hundred and fifty sick and distressed families comprising upwards of five hundred souls in private houses in various parts of the city, and as there doubtless remain many to whom assistance cannot at present be afforded, we trust that something on an extensive scale will be established by our citizens for the purpose of relieving the wants of the numerous poor at this inclement season.—Courier.

The semi-annual public examination of the CENTRAL MADRAS SCHOOLS, containing upwards of two hundred children, in charge of Mr. MacDougall and Mrs. Starkie, took place on Wednesday morning, in presence of the Hon. the Chief Justice, His Honor Judge Parker, the Honorable Mr. Johnston, the Reverend the Rector, and George D. Robinson, and James William Boyd, Esquires,—at the close of which the Chief Justice kindly addressed the children, expressing to them the high satisfaction of the Examiners with the performances of the day, and particularly with the great improvement since the preceding examination, evinced generally in both Schools.

The Schools (to which admittance is freely granted upon application,) will be re-opened on Monday, the 11th proximo.—Courier.

The French frigate Belle Poule, with the remains of Napoleon Bonaparte, is stated to have arrived at Cherbourg on the 30th November, from St. Helena.

It is stated that the Acadia brought 20,000 letters, which is supposed to be the largest mail ever brought by any vessel from Europe.—[Boston Adv.

We have inserted a paragraph from the Acadian Recorder, with reference to the appointment of Sir JOHN HARVEY to a command in Syria. The only ground for supposing such a report to be correct, would be found in His Excellency's acquaintance with that part of the world, having served for some time with the army in Egypt, and we believe marched overland with it from India.

As the report however would naturally excite much anxiety in the Province, where his liberal and equitable government is duly appreciated, and its loss would be felt as a great calamity; we have made the necessary enquiries, and are happy to state that His Excellency has not heard one syllable on the subject of a command in Syria. We observe it is since contradicted in the Military Gazette. —Fredericton Sentinel.

A Boston Courier of the 4th instant was handed us last week, by a gentleman to whom it was sent, for the purpose of procuring the insertion, in our journal, of some severe animadversions, which it contained, upon the reputation of Doctor Gesner. We perceive, however, that the Doctor has already met the paper in question, and confuted his defamer in the St. John, N. B. papers. Our columns are too crowded at present to give both pieces, but we shall not throw them aside. Nova Scotia may well be proud of Dr. Gesner: his name stands deservedly high on the roll of scientific men in England, and as a Nova Scotian we regard him too dearly to look upon the efforts of anonymous scribblers to undermine his hard earned fame with unconcern.—Halifax Recorder.

☞ We also have received a copy of the Boston Courier, (post paid,) containing the article alluded to above, and cannot but regret that such an unfair attempt should have been made to injure one of our most useful and respectable Citizens.

SIR COLIN CAMPBELL.—Letters from this distinguished officer have been received per steamship Acadia, by a gentleman in town, who has obliged us with an extract, which we are sure will be read with interest and pleasure:—"The good feeling displayed by the inhabitants of Halifax upon my departure, I can never forget; and no language of mine can express the just sense of it I entertain;—it can never be obliterated from my recollection. I shall ever feel anxious regarding the welfare and prosperity of my old government, of every individual belonging to Nova Scotia. I trust that all political jars will soon subside, as I am fully persuaded that Viscount Falkland and his amiable Lady will do all in their power to render the Province prosperous and happy."

Sir Colin had gone on a visit to Scotland, and would embark for Ceylon the latter part of January. Miss Campbell was still at Leamington, and her health perfectly established. She will accompany her veteran and distinguished father to Ceylon.—Halifax Morning Post.

That the first offspring of the royal marriage should be a female no one will regret; the constitution of this country has so provided for the transmission of the royal dignity, that it becomes a matter of slight importance, indeed, to the nation. The young Princess becomes the heir presumptive, and in default of male issue succeeds to the Crown, as did her mother. From the moment of her birth she takes the style and title of Princess Royal; and as next in succession to the Throne, she enjoys, as a matter of right, all the immunities and privileges of that exalted station, In the event of male issue, however, her claim is at once superseded: and she then subsides into the station of the first female of the royal family, still retaining the title of Princess Royal, of which nothing can deprive her.—London Paper.

The Queen and the Princess Royal continue to go on in the most satisfactory manner, both enjoying excellent health and spirits. Her Majesty is able to move from room to room, but, of course, is not yet considered to be what is ordinarily understood by "down stairs."—[Globe, Dec. 4.

THE AUSTRALIAN PRESS.—The state of the Newspaper press in Australia may serve to give some idea of the condition of the Islands. There are altogether no less than 21 journals. The Colonist, the Australian, the Sydney Herald, the Australian Chronicle, and the Sydney Gazette, come out three times a week; the Sydney Monitor comes out six times a week, the Commercial Journal twice, the Government Gazette once a week. Of the rest, three are published at Port Philip, six at Hobart Town, two at Launcestown, and two at New Zealand.

ANOTHER PROVIDENTIAL RESCUE.—The packet ship Sheridan, which arrived yesterday, fell in on the morning of the 30th November, with the British bark Zephyr, of Newcastle, from Quebec, bound to London, which, on the 27th of the same month, shipped a sea, which swept her decks and otherwise injured her so much that in a few hours she filled with water; the crew, seventeen in number, in order to save their lives, took shelter in her tops.
