DOMINION LAW-MAKERS.

MR. MULOCK'S MOTION GOES OVER BY REQUEST.

The Premier Wishes to Confer With the Mover—Hon. John Carling's Measures to Relieve His Department From Patent Disputes—Cattle Quarantine.

OTTAWA, Jan. 27.—Three Government bills were introduced to-day by Hon. John Carling. They deal respectively with patents, trademarks and copyrights, and provide that for the future disputes in relation to these may be heard in the Exchequer Court in place of by the Minister of Agriculture who is also Commissioner of Patents.

The private bills relating to the Alberta Railway and Coal Company, the Port Arthur, Duluth and Western Railway Company and the Saskatchewan Colonization Railway Company were read a second time.

Petitions asking for labor legislation were presented by Mr. Denison from the Toronto Typographical Union, Assembly No. 2305 Knights of Labor, Union No. 27 of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America.

Mr. Small presented a petition from Toronto against Mr. Brown's bird bill and also from the Home Benefit Society asking confirmation of their incorporation.

Mr. Brien had a series of questions on the paper respecting Rufus Stephenson's connection with the public service since June 30 last. They were all answered by Hon. Edgar Dewdney's statement that Mr. Stephenson had not been employed during that time.

Mr. Pope asked if it was the intention to establish a cattle quarantine station on the frontier at some inland port in Ontario or Quebec, and in reply Hon. John Carling said it was not, as this would be impossible without imperilling the advantage at present possessed by Canada in the markets of Great Britain. It might become necessary in consequence of an intimation recently received, to prohibit the importation of any animals from countries where pleuro-pneumonia was shown to exist.

Col. O'Brien moved for copies of the opinions expressed by the law officers of the Crown on the Jesuits' Estates Act and of the case submitted to them, together with the correspondence on the subject. His motion was seconded by Clarke Wallace. In explanation Col. O'Brien made a brief address which was listened to with great attention. He said the value of this opinion must depend on the case presented and the correspondence accompanying the bill. The opinion was so worded that it might be confined to a most narrow and technical sense, or interpreted in the widest sense. He thought that it was due to the public that the very fullest information should be presented. It was unfortunate that the Government had not submitted the case to some tribunal where it could have been manfully fought out with both sides represented. This would have tended to allay public excitement in the place of fostering the discontent that so widely obtained.

When the Speaker put the motion the whole House was eloquently silent. "Carried!" said Sir John, and carried it was.

Mr. Mulock's motion expressive of the loyalty of the Canadian people to the Queen and the Empire was next in order, but as Mr. Mulock was about to rise Sir John Macdonald sprang to his feet:

"I would ask the mover," he said, "to let it stand over until I have an opportunity of conversation with him." Mr. Mulock agreed.

Correspondence relative to the Anderson mail contract was asked for by Mr. Laurier, but Sir John requested that this motion should stand over, as negotiations for a fast Atlantic service are now in progress with another line.

Dr. Roome will move: That in the opinion of this House, the time has come when the Federal Government should establish a health department with a responsible head, presided over by a minister, or deputy minister, for the purpose of preventing the spread of disease, collecting mortuary statistics and educating the people as far as possible in all health and sanitary matters.

Mr. Bain will enquire whether it is within the Government's knowledge that, as shown by U.S. official returns, for eleven months ending Nov. 30 last 534,146 pounds of oleomargarine were exported to British North America, and has the Minister of Customs any reason to believe that it is being brought into the Dominion under assumed names.

Dr. Platt has given notice of a resolution that machinery designed for use in mining operations should not be subject to customs duty when imported into canals for mining purposes.

Mr. Small has given notice of an enquiry whether it is the intention to take action on the petitions presented to the Post-master General by the railway mail clerks and letter carriers throughout the Dominion. It is his intention to endeavor to have the grievances of these employes ventilated and redressed.

Dr. Ferguson of Welland will again ask the attention of the House to the matter of erecting a monument at Lundy's Lane.

A deputation, consisting of District Organizer Keefer of the International Typographical Union, President Farrell of the Ottawa Union, and foreman Boudreault of The Citizen waited on Hon. J. A. Chapleau this afternoon. They represented the local union and asked for a definite answer in connection with the printing bureau trouble. Mr. Chapleau took notes of whatever was said and stated that he was the workingman's friend, but could not give the required raise from $11 to $13 without consulting his colleagues. He asked the deputation to wait until Monday for an answer. A meeting of the union will be held to-morrow night, at which the deputation will report.

Indendiarism at Guelph.

GUELPH, Jan. 27.—Between three and four o'clock this morning a stable in Waterloo-avenue owned by James Boyle and occupied by Joseph Kirby was discovered in flames. Four of Kirby's horses were cremated and harness, etc., destroyed. Loss on stable about $300, insured in the London and Lancashire. No insurance on contents. Incendiarism is suspected.

A G.T.R. Brakeman Killed.

STRATFORD, Jan. 27.—While G.T.R. Brakeman Christopher O. Farmer was adjusting a coupling in the yard here Saturday night he was struck on the head by a projecting timber and falling beneath the wheels was instantly killed. Deceased had been married only five months. The remains were taken to Sarnia this afternoon. An inquest will be held.

Three of the Crew Drowned.

HALIFAX, Jan. 27.—The schooner G. C. Kelly, from Boston, went ashore at Tusket this morning and three of the crew were drowned.

HOW TO DRESS CHILDREN.

Make them Comfortable as well as Picturesque—Gowns for Girls.

The tendency of modern English mothers is to strive for hygenic as well as picturesque effects in children's dress. Kilts for small boys are made of self-colored serge or cashmere rather than the tartans. A gray suit of this kind is stylish fastened with oblong silver buttons engraved with a Scotch thistle.

Sailor suits are all universally popular, and were worn by the little sons of the German Emperor at a recent royal wedding. They were in white serge, with light blue silk trimmings, relieved with rows of narrow white braid. The jackets were of silk, and had broad serge collars trimmed with silk and braid. A recent addition to the wardrobe of the baby King of Spain was of heavy cream white corded silk, deeply trimmed with guipure lace and closed with carved pearl buttons.

A novelty for small boys just leaving the ignominy of petticoats, and not quite old enough for the dignity of knickerbockers, is the so-called transition suit of white silk and braid, or of dark blue serge with scarlet decorations.

Boy's overcoats should measure about two feet in length, and are made of the softest fluffy cloth, with buttons of more appalling dimensions than men ever wear, and which are almost as great a source of delight as the numerous pockets which must be supplied in a boy's coat.

For fancy dress parties there are tiny pages' suits of plush and velvet, with a miniature waistcoat of the last century in satin or brocade, and quaint costumes in white cloth, with trousers and short jacket braided hussar fashion in white cord.

Little girls have coats of the fluffy white cloth, trimmed with rabbit skin or white feathers, and accompanied with felt hats and muffs to match, or of silver gray plush, very light and bright in its shadings, warm brilliant linings and trimmings of gray silk cord, soft vicuna, or natural undyed astrachan, with hat and muff to match. A favorite coat for the playground is of dark green cloth, modelled after a man's riding coat of the past century, has a short triple cape protecting the shoulders and chest, but not restraining the freedom of the arms, which are covered with long close sleeves.

Greenaway bonnets have given place, except for very young children, to large soft felt hats, with enormous poke brims in front and none on the back, heavy with plumes.

Rough beaver hats are worn with the camel's hair coats so much used. A biscuit colored coat of this description with no other trimming than large smoked pearl buttons is worn with a rough beaver hat tied round with a silken scarf passed through a buckle of smoked pearl.

Accordion plaited dressed are very becoming to slim little maidens who have the blouse and sleeves as well as the skirt made of the plaiting.

Evening dresses for little girls are made high in the neck, and with long sleeves. China silk is the favorite material, in pale pink and green, or white honeycombed with yellow. They are made with several tucks, edged with a narrow, gathered flounce, and with short bodices and full sleeves. A broad, soft sash of China silk accompanies each little frock. The new Empire dresses for little girls are in embroidered muslin or white silk, and have the skirt gathered into a yoke from which it hangs in perfect simplicity.

Nutmegs as a Medicine.

The medicinal qualities of nutmegs are worthy of a great deal of attention. They are fragrant in odor, warm and grateful to the taste, and possess decided sedative, astringent and soporific properties. In the following affections they will be found highly serviceable: Gastralgia (neuralgia of the stomach), cholera morbus, flatulent colic, dysentery, cholera infantum and infantile colic.

*In all cases nutmegs may be prepared for administration in the following manner: Grate one or more nutmegs into a very fine powder. For children, give one-sixth to one-third of a teaspoonful, according to the age, of this powder, mixed with a small quantity of milk. For adults, from a half to two teaspoonfuls may be given in the same way, according to the severity of the case. Every two hours is generally the best time to administer this remedy.

Insomnia (sleeplessness) is very often effectually relieved by one or two doses of nutmeg, when much stronger remedies have signally failed. — Louisville Courier-Journal.

A Police Inspector's "Dont's."

FOR WOMEN.

Don't carry a pocket-book in your hand.

Don't carry a pocket-book in a very loose pocket which hangs away from the person.

Don't wear a watch in a pocket on outside of dress.

Don't wear chatelaine watchs.

Don't judge strangers by their dress.

Don't stand long in the same spot in a crowd.

FOR MEN.

Don't go into a crowd with your outer coat unbuttoned.

Don't carry valuables in your outer coat.

Don't make too great a display of your jewelry.

Don't forget that you are just as likely as anybody else to be a victim of pickpockets.—Boston Transcript.

A Milwaukee clergyman who is acquainted with Rev Dr Milburn, the blind chaplain of the United States House of Representatives, states that the chaplain has no idea of time. He is liable to preach for three straight hours, and he is so confused in regard to day and night that he is likely to start out at midnight for the purpose of making a social call.
