POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

When abusing a man in fun don't go too far.

Advice is like medicine—a little goes a long way.

The good things of life grow slow, but it is different with bills and scandal.

Time flies so fast as a man grows older that it seems to him he has his Sunday clothes on all the time.

People do things in broad daylight to make themselves ridiculous and then blame a paper for mentioning it.

You hear "He was one of the best men that ever lived" oftener than "He is one of the best men that ever lived."

Why is it that people who say disagreeable things to one's face are called honest and people who say pleasant things are called flatterers?

Roses in the Snow.

It seems almost impossible that there should be a plant that flowers naturally outdoors in the depth of winter. But it is a fact. The Christmas rose answers this description. From the end of October until February its white flowers (about three inches across) may be gathered at almost any time, and even when the ground is covered with snow the Christmas rose is producing its flowers. We don't often see them in December and January because we never think of brushing off the snow to look at the plant that is growing underneath. The flowers are of a dazzling whiteness when young, but become faintly tinged with pink after about a week.—Country Life In America.

The Taking Cold Habit

The old cold goes; a new one quickly comes. It's the story of a weak throat, weak lungs, a tendency to consumption. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral breaks up the taking-cold habit. It strengthens, soothes, heals. Ask your doctor about it.

"I had a terrible cold, and nothing relieved me. I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and it promptly broke up my cold, stopped my cough, and eased every part of my body. It did wonderful work for me."—MR. J. P. LUTZ, Toledo, Ohio.

Railways In Western Nova Scotia.

The past few years and the present witness an era in railroad building in Nova Scotia. When we take into account what has just been completed, or in course of construction along with projected lines we feel that we are in the midst of enterprise.

In view of this we deem it an opportune moment to moot the idea of a railway line for Yarmouth and Digby counties, a shore line from Yarmouth to Digby following the coast along the Bay of Fundy and St. Mary's Bay.

This section of Nova Scotia has not only need for a railway, but offers inducements for such an enterprise. In respect to the necessity we may say that it is a part of the coast singularly devoid of harbors, which circumstances limits or makes coastwise traffic almost nil.

Along this distance of seventy miles there are continuous villages engaged in lucrative industries of farming, fishing and lumbering. That a railroad along our coast is not only desirable but in harmony with present day effort we may cite the Halifax and Southwestern Railway which practically hugs the coast at different sections along its route.

On the principle of the greatest good the route we have mentioned would of the greatest number a road along be supplying a long-felt want.

While pleading for privileges and conveniences we are assured that we are inviting attention to a feasible project.

There is no part of Nova Scotia where railway construction could be attempted easier and with as little expenditure.

Again, in view of the near completion of the road from Halifax to Yarmouth this road would supply the missing link for the shore route to Digby.

It would command large shipments of freight and local passenger traffic. All tourists would take this line, for nothing could be more inviting than the open country with the blue of the Bay of Fundy and the bracing sea breeze.

When we consider the country which the road will traverse represents so many resources and so large a proportion of the population of the two countries the urgency of such an undertaking is evident.

We consider that if proper representations were made to MacKenzie & Mann they might willingly avail themselves of any desirable information. At the present they are so closely in touch with railway development in western Nova Scotia that a road along the proposed route would appeal to them in more than a ordinary sense.

From Bridgewater to Victoria Beach their line is continuous, and again from Bridgewater to Yarmouth. Our proposed line would complete the circuit.—Exchange.

1100 Miners Entombed in French Colliery

Paris, March 10.—A mining catastrophe of incalculable horror and magnitude has stricken the great coal centre of northern France. An explosion of fire damp at 7 o'clock this morning carried death and destruction throughout the work of coal mine centres at Courrieres and fire followed the explosion, making rescues difficult and almost impossible. The intense excitement and confusion in the vicinity prevented early estimates of the exact loss of life, but a despatch received here from Lens at 4.35 p. m., gave 1,045 miners entombed and probably lost. At 8.45 o'clock this evening a brief despatch from Lille announced the awful total of 1,133 dead. All France is profoundly shocked by the magnitude of the disaster, which is said to be the greatest in the history of continental mining.

The Bright Side.

"I don't see how I could possibly be any worse off than I am, sir."

"Then cheer up. You've got nothing further to worry about."

There never was any party, faction, sect or cabal whatsoever in which the most ignorant were not the most violent, for a bee is not a busier animal than a blockhead.—Pope.

Asphaltine.

A substance called asphaltine and composed of a mixture of tar and iron slag is being successfully used on the streets of London and Stuttgart and is said to be superior to any now in use in the construction of pavements. It is described as being so elastic, tough and durable as to resist almost completely both grinding and crushing. Although the best tar is used, the cost is comparatively low. Bad weather during the construction of asphaltine streets is said to have no effect on their durability. Some forty streets have thus far been paved with this new material in London. In spite of the very heavy traffic on these streets they do not show the least wear. The paving also looks well, presenting the appearance of mosaic marble.

Vacant Lot Crops Valuable.

Philadelphia's public school gardens which were conducted last season on the vacant lots of the city, flourished under the patient cultivation of more than 2,000 boys and girls, so that not only were numerous unsightly lots made attractive, but at least 850 poor families were aided in the struggle for existence, says the Maryland Educational Journal. It is now estimated that the value of the vegetables raised on these 242 acres of school garden land will exceed $50,000. All this is aside from the educational value of the work itself to the little gardeners.
