THE CAMPBELLTON GRAPHIC

ESTABLISHED: Events 1898. Graphic 1907. CAMPBELLTON, NEW BRUNSWICK, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 1ST, 1909. PRICE: Single Copy 2 Cents One Dollar Per Year.

COW MOOSE WAS KILLED

Hunter Reports That He Found Remains of One During Trip at Headwaters.

REPORTS OF OTHER KILLINGS

It is too bad that sterner measures are not taken to suppress the illegal killing of our big game animals. The moose of New Brunswick are worth hundreds of dollars each to the province and the people, and that some persons will kill a cow moose for the few pounds of meat is a regrettable fact clearly demonstrated. We believe that the Restigouche waters are the best feeding grounds for these an and rigid enforcement of the game laws would make it the best big game country in New Brunswick.

Mr. M. Mowat returned a few days ago from a trip up river. While on the upper waters of the river he met Mr. Wm. P. Clyde of New York with his guides and camp help. Mr. Clyde informed him that he found part of the carcass of a cow moose, the two hind quarters having been taken.

Mr. Mowat went up as far as Gaumatez river about twenty miles above the mouth of Kedgwick, and reports moose and deer very plentiful.

The cow moose above mentioned was in the province of New Brunswick and we have not a doubt that, according to reports, which from time to time come to us, it is by no manner of means the only illegal killing that has been done in this northern county.

GERMAN WOMEN WORK

So Do the Girls Who Have no Time for Americans' Frivolous Sports

One of the things in which the German woman differs from her English sister is that every German girl when she reaches the age of 17 or 18 is sent away from home to some family a long way off, who sends one of their own daughters in exchange. According to a German woman this exchange lasts for about three years.

The girl is treated as one of the family, is styled Frauleln, but in every other respect is a mere servant. She has to do all the work of the house, scrubbing, washing, cooking, mending—in fact, everything that a domestic servant is required to perform.

This does not leave her with much leisure for play, and the outdoor sport of an English girl are quite unknown to her. A German lady on being told that English girls played tennis and hockey, expressed her contempt for such foolery and asked who did the housework. On being informed that no English girl or matron would ever dream of turning to and doing the cooking, etc. she gasped out: 'Oh, Lord, What a lot of lazy hussies.'

Every German woman has all the work of her home on her shoulders, and by this is not meant the lower class woman. No German lady thinks of having more than one servant, who gets about $25 a year, and does the rough work, her mistress doing all the cooking and mending.

It is a sight to see the lady in a German town going to market. She knows what to buy and what to pay and every Wednesday and Saturday you may see her trotting off to market with her servant behind her carrying a huge baskets and examining the commodities with a critical air.

About the only ray of sunshine she has apart from the Kaffeeklatsch, is the visit on Sunday of some Kaffeegarten (Anglice tea garden), where she and her lord and master, surrounded by their olive branches, sit under the shade of a leafy tree and drink coffee and munch cakes or sour milk to their hearts' delight.

LUMBER CUT WILL BE LARGE

Internotional Railway Will Haul Large Quantity of Logs This Winter.

BOOM IMPROVEMENTS

Present indications point to a busy season in lumber operations and probably the largest cut yet made will be the result. The Shives Lumber Co. are planning to get out about 35 million, the Wm. Richards Co. about 28 million, Chateur Bay Mills about 12 million and the Dalhousie Lumber Co. about 15 million. This, with the small er operations of Bearinger & Chapin, W. H. Miller and B. A. Mowat, will mean considerably over 100 million to come through the Restigouche boom next season, the largest in its history. The cut this season was about 90 million, which was greatly in advance of all previous years. In order to handle the large output of next year the Boom Company intend spending about $10,000 for increased facilities and boomage capacity.

A new feature in the lumbering operations this winter will be the hauling of logs over the International railway. This railway runs through some of the best lumber lands in Restigouche. Contracts have been made with the railway to haul logs for Wm. Richards & Co. Dalhousie Lumber Co. and Bearinger & Chapin, in all about four or five million feet. This will mean that the railway will be kept open all winter which will be a great advantage to the lumbermen in the carrying of supplies to their camps.

Young girls frequently require a good invigorating and blood making tonic. For this purpose nothing equals Ferrovim, which is prepared from fresh lean beef, Citrate of Iron and pure old Spanish Sherry Wine It soon brings color to the cheeks and strengthens the whole system. $1 a bottle.

Coun. McDonald moved the following resolution:—

'Whereas at a meeting of this Council held on the twenty-first day of September, A. D. 1909, a resolution was passed with a small membership present in the words following:

'Moved by Coun. McLennan, seconded by Coun. Andrew, that Officer Yerxa be dismissed for neglect of duty and drunkenness and that he be paid amount due him.'

'And whereas in the opinion of this Council the above resolution was ill considered and unjustified and was passed without regard to fair and proper treatment, inasmuch as having no evidence whatever of any description and without even a charge before the Board relating to drunkenness or neglect of duty or an opportunity on the part of the officer to be heard or notice given him, the resolution above recited was inconsiderately passed and the said officer summarily dismissed, contrary to the rules of fair play and the practice of this Council.

'And whereas it is therefore the opinion of this Council that the said resolution above quoted should be cancelled and struck from the records

'Be it therefore resolved that the said resolution above referred to and quoted be declared wholly void and that the same be expunged from the minutes of the meeting at which it was unwarrantably passed, and

'Be it further resolved that the fullest publicity be given to this resolution in the public press by the Clerk in a sufficiently ample manner to correct the erroneous impression created by the publication of the unjustifiable statements contained in said quoted resolution and that the Clerk be directed also to furnish Officer Yerxa with a duly certified copy of this resolution.'

MOTOR BOAT SAVED DR. COOK

Comes to Rescue Twice at Critical Point--30 Foot Launch Tows Schooner.

SAVED LIVES

Experiences from Dr. Cook returning from his polar expedition disclose the remarkable performance of a motor boat in his trip to the far north. This boat not only saved the lives of Dr. Cook and the members of the expedition but also towed the boats of an entire Esquimo village to safety and pulled the yacht 'Bradley' out of danger when her engines were disabled. The motor boat 'Farthest North' was taken with the 'Bradley' for scouting expeditions and hunting and fishing trips. It was the first motor boat ever taken into the far north, and was used in the ice fields and in shallow water where the yacht could not go.

The first rescue work was performed near Oomanool. The engines of the 'Bradley' became disabled in very bad weather. The 30-foot motor boat with a 17 H. P. Ferro motor succeeded in towing her to a safe anchorage. The 'Bradley' is a 100-foot schooner of 112 gress tons and this was a very able demonstration of marine engine efficiency. While the repairs were made the motor boat was the only means of communication with the shore and was kept busy taking Dr. Cook and other members of the party back and forth.

When Etah, the then most northern point, was reached, Dr. Cook and a small party in the 'Farthest North' went on a scouting expedition in search of suitable winter quarters. Annotook, a town of 28 miles farther north, was decided upon by reason of the abundance of furs and food there. Upon returning to Etaah, the entire population of that village in the 'Bradley' started for Bearinger.

A strong wind had raised mountainous seas and on account of the unknown rocks, shallow water and drifting ice, a safe anchorage could not be found for the yacht. The arctic storm threatened to engulf the entire expedition. The motor boat was pressed into service and with the greatest speed carried to shore the members of Dr. Cook's party, and a large amount of supplies and camp equipment. The boats belonging to the Esquimos were towed to shore as the sea was too rough for them to attempt it alone. Dr. Cook says: 'The splendid efficiency of the launch proved equal to the emergency, and in the course of about three hours all were safely put to shore in spite of threatening winds and forbidding seas.'

TRIED TO KILL WIFE AND SELF

Revolting Crime of an Halifax Ex-Soldier Who Married a Gloucester County Girl.

MADE HIS WILL

HALIFAX, Sept. 24—Hovering between life and death as the Victoria General Hospital with the odds terribly in favor of the grave, Mrs. Rose Kayle wife of Samuel Kayle, an ex-soldier in the R. C. R. lies in agony.

In the men's ward lies her husband twice over an attempted destroyer of human life. First endeavoring to dispatch his wife with a vegetable masher, he afterwards drank poison and stabbed himself in the lungs.

About 5 o'clock this morning the fellow tenants of the house 116 Maitland street were awakened by horrible sounds from the upstairs apartments. Investigating, they found Mrs. Kayle dying on the sidewalk, her leg broken and her skull fractured, blood flowing from wounds on her face. She was not dressed, having sprung from bed to avoid a horrible death.

To questions put to her she replied that she had fallen out of the third storey window to the pavement. To a police officer, she made an almost incoherent statement to the effect that her husband had been trying to kill her and in endeavoring to escape she had fallen from the window. Further investigations were made by the police. Upstairs lying in the bed with only his shirt on him lay the husband of the woman. He had drunk poison and stabbed himself.

In the breast of the unconscious man was a self-inflicted wound made by a pocket knife. The knife, with the blade opened and the blood stains on it, was lying nearby. On the same table was a bottle, labelled 'poison,' the contents of which had been swallowed by the would-be murderer. Under the bedtick was found a wooden vegetable masher, the hardwood handle broken by the brutal blows dealt by the infuriated man on his wife's head.

All these evidences of foul play were gathered together by the police officers and kept for use in the future.

The police found one other article which was more eloquent than spoken words. It was a letter written before the tragedy by the ex-soldier to the mother of the woman he was about to kill. It lay on the table, unsent. In it the apparent reason for the awful deed was explained. Crudely written in lead, on scribbling paper, it was almost unintelligible in places.

Public Works Dep't
Dec 97

'Darling Dear Mother By the time you get this letter me and Rose will have passed away and in the next world. She's all the cause of this going away.'

The letter went on to say that for some nights the wife had been out and she had said she had been shopping with friends. Every night he stated, something like this happened.

'They don't think it a very big thing,' the letter says 'for a married woman to be away of nights from her home.'

Then follows some facts given to identify the woman, the husband evidently believing that he would, when the letter was found, have completed the contemplated double destruction.

Her maiden name was Rose Henry and her married name is Rose Kayle, from Bathurst, N. B.

On the other side was another lately written message. It reads 'I leave my wearing cloths and bank book all the furnishings to Mrs. David Henry.'

Thus did the would-be murderer dispose of his material belongings. In a still remarkable display of bravery and consciousness he left his belongings to the mother of a murdered wife.

One other message, which was, and the man, if he is guilty, will never forget it:

'Dear Morash—You must blame me for this, for I was driven to it. I remain, S KAYLE.'

Tonight both woman and man were in very serious condition. It is almost certain that one will die.

BATHURST, Sept. 24—Rose Kayle is a daughter of the late David Henry and was born on the Miramichi road, nine miles from here. She has two brothers, Felix and Thomas, still living at the homestead. Her mother is still living there. Two or three years ago Rose came home, having left her husband somewhere in Nova Scotia. She left him, it was then said, because of ill treatment. She hired here as a servant girl but in a short time she returned to her husband. Rose was well known here as an industrious girl before her unfortunate marriage. Her husband is reported here as a hard drinker. His wife separated from him twice. The last time he tried to steal the children, but failing, succeeded in inducing his wife to go back with him.

Few and Can't Have Their Chairs in the Middle of the Line

'Of course left-handed persons are scarce anyway,' said the man who carries his habits of observation even into the barber's chair, 'but they are mighty scarce among barbers, in fact, I have seen but two or three in my experience.

'But you are sure to notice it when you find one. He does just as efficient work, but it is the way he does it that attracts your notice.

'The barber as a rule stands at the right of a customer while shaving him making little trips to the back and to the left only when necessary. Naturally, I suppose, the left-handed barber does just the opposite; he stands most of the time at the left.

'For that reason you won't find a left-handed barber in the middle of a line of barbers. His chair has to stand at one side or the other, so that he won't bump into the right handed one next to him.

'Like most left handed persons, his right hand is more dexterous than the left hand of right handed persons usually is. He shaves you with either hand, but prefers the left. He strops a razor just as a right handed one does, however, and that is about the only point of similarity.'
