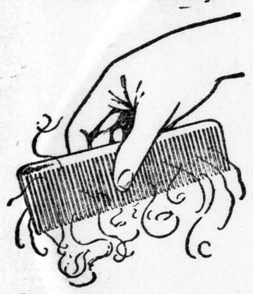
"DANDERINE"

Stops Hair Coming Out—Doubles Its Beauty.



A few cents buys "Danderine." After an application of "Danderine" you can not find a fallen hair or any dandruff, besides every hair shows new life, vigor, brightness, more color and thickness.

BEWARE OF TENDER GUMS

Unhealthy soil kills the best of wheat. Unhealthy gums kill the best of teeth. To keep the teeth sound keep the gums well. Watch for tender and bleeding gums. This is a symptom of Pyorrhea, which afflicts four out of five people over forty.

Pyorrhea menaces the body as well as the teeth. Not only do the gums recede and cause the teeth to decay, loosen and fall out, but the infecting Pyorrhea germs lower the body's vitality and cause many serious ills.

To avoid Pyorrhea, visit your dentist frequently for tooth and gum inspection. And use Forhan's For the Gums.

Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea—or check its progress, if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's will keep the gums firm and healthy, the teeth white and clean. Start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has set in, use Forhan's according to directions, and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

Touch Tender Spots With Cuticura After Shaving

After shaving with Cutícura Soap the Cuticura way, without mug, gently rub tender spots on face or dandruff on scalp with a bit of Cuticura Ointment. Then wash all off with Cuticura Soap and hot water. Rinse with tepid water.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Sold throughout the Dominion. Canadian Depot: Lymans, Limited, St. Paul St., Montreal. Cuticura Soap shaves without mug.

Use Cocoanut Oil For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is cheap, and a few ounces is enough for everyone in the family for months.—Advt.

SPORT PROGRAM FOR WESTERN UNIVERSITY BIG SUMMER SCHOOL

Publicity Agent Writes Interesting "Advance Notices."

The latest edition of the Western University Summer School Bulletin is filled with attractive news of promised sports, social entertainments, and a class theatre party, not to speak of interesting lectures. Economics and Spanish are announced as part of the course this year, and many students are looking forward to taking advantage of this. Tennis and picnics and even a dance are on the prospective program of events. Several letters written to the Bulletin ask that the social side of the summer school be developed more than ever this year.

Miss Annie McInnis, the publicity agent, writes about the school as follows:

"The opening day is to be a regular 'get-together-and-get-acquainted' affair, and all students, returning and first-timers, are requested to brush up on a very important —ology and that is Fun-ology. Bring your most brilliant ideas on entertaining, picnicking, etc., and they will be assured a most hospitable welcome.

"Arrangements are to be made for a number of tennis tournaments and even though you have never before played this fascinating game, do not think of omitting a tennis racquet from your outfit, and be sure and leave room in your trunk for tennis togs, for you are going to need them. Just as soon as old King Winter takes a definite, though seemingly reluctant, leave, the courts are to be given their annual spring tonic, and when you arrive you will find them a challenge to your best efforts.

"One feature which we hope to make very interesting is a series of popular lectures given fortnightly, in the evening; these lectures to be followed by a dance or any other inside sport which the students may elect, and to these functions we are permitted to invite our friends.

"A favorite slogan is to be 'See London First,' as we have many beauty spots which were just made for picnics, some of them will be within 'hiking' distance, while remoter, though equally inspiring bits of background for picnickers will be available through the laggard but fairly dependable services of the London Street Railway Company.

"And what would you think of a day at Port Stanley? Are you intrigued by thoughts of well-filled lunch baskets that would be a great solace to the biggest appetite you ever acquired? For this, you see, is to be a regular old-time picnic, where 'the end of a perfect day' of fun and frolic would mean a big spread under the biggest tree we could find and right in full view of a glorious sunset. Dr. Tamblyn could tell us all the things his friend, Williams, used to say about good digestion attending upon summer school students' appetites."

REV. J. R. LAVERIE RECEIVES CALL TO CALGARY CHURCH

Grace Presbyterian Church Is Anxious For Services of the Popular London Minister.

Rev. J. R. Laverie of the Hamilton Road Presbyterian Church has received a call from the Grace Presbyterian Church, Calgary, as assistant minister. This is the largest Presbyterian church west of Winnipeg and the largest in Alberta. Particularly thriving is the young people's department of this church, and Rev. Mr. Laverie has specialized in young people's work in this city.

Rev. Mr. Laverie is considering this call, and as the opportunity is such a fine one it is the opinion of his Presbyterian brethren that he cannot consider it otherwise than favorably. This same church extended a call to Rev. James McKay last year, but the congregation of New St. James' Church were loath to accept his resignation.

The presbytery will consider the matter in May, if Rev. Mr. Laverie accepts the call. One of the ministers of the London Presbytery in speaking of the offer, said that he had no doubt but that Mr. Laverie would accept the call, but that the presbytery will regret very much his departure, as he has been so active in every phase of work connected with young people. Rev. Mr. Laverie took the pastorate of the Hamilton Road Presbyterian Church on the resignation of Rev. Dr. D. L. McCrae.

LONDON BILL MISSING; GOVERNMENT PRINTER BANS REVISED VERSION

Changes Must Be Advertised For Six Weeks—Overseas Veterans Exempt From Taxation On Property Assessed At Less Than $3,000.

That the London bill is not enjoying a perfectly peaceful voyage on its way through governmental channels was indicated at a meeting of No. 1 committee of the city council Wednesday afternoon. In fact, so far as could be learned, the bill has been lost. It was handed over to Dr. H. A. Stevenson, member for London, and since then very little has been heard of it. That little was not of a very encouraging nature. It was to the effect that the government printer had refused to print the revised version of the bill. The law requires all items of the bill to be advertised six weeks. After including a clause to give power to the council to make certain agreements with the street railway company, it was decided to eliminate this clause. The clause relating to commission form of government was altered. While it is permissible to eliminate a clause, it is not permissible to alter it without advertising the change for six weeks.

Ald. Cameron Wilson inquired regarding the exemption of soldiers from taxation. Chairman Cunningham said that this had not been agreed to by the council earlier in the year. Soldiers who wished it should make application to the city. If they had been overseas and were now living on their own property, which was assessed for less than $3,000, their taxes would be remitted.

Sanatorium Raises Rate.

Queen Alexandra Sanatorium gave notice that it would have to increase its per diem charge for city patients from $1 to $1.25. It claimed that the daily upkeep of a civilian patient was $2.52, and that there was a deficit of $21,901 in this department last year. The provincial health act provides for the increased rate, and the committee could do nothing but assent to it. Some complaint was made because notice of the change had not been given until the tax rate had been struck.

The committee recommended that London join with Hamilton in protesting against changes in existing legislation by which the city must bear all the cost of printing provincial voters' lists.

A reduction from $500 to $300 in the license fee of a circus bringing more than 50 cars to the city was recommended. A representative of Ringling Bros.' circus came before the committee to ask the change. He claimed that the $500 fee was out of proportion with other Ontario cities, which charged only $100, or at most $200. The fee for a 50-car circus is only $200. The committee decided to charge Ringling Bros. on the same basis, which would make their fee about $300.

HELENE'S MARRIED LIFE

BY MAY CHRISTIE

Copyright, 1920, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate

LIII.—A Resolve.

I struggled up into a sitting position and freed myself from Alice's embrace.

"Jim—how is he?" I asked.

Alice gave a dainty shudder.

"He is coming out of the opiate or anaesthetic or whatever you call it," she said. "Listen, you can hear him."

Strange moaning noises were coming from the room at the end of the passage. They were not reassuring sounds. Indeed, had I been entirely ignorant of nursing, they would have struck a cold chill to my heart.

But I understood that the situation was merely normal. I managed to stagger to my feet, and made as though I would leave the room.

"Come back, Helene. You are not fit to walk," cried Alice.

On the threshold of the apartment I collided with the doctor.

"Lie down, Miss Helene," he said kindly. "Your work is done, and well done. I feel fairly confident that our patient will recover."

"May I sit up with him, doctor?" I cried stupidly.

The doctor shook his head. "The nurse and I will watch over him tonight," he said. "You must try to get a little sleep—otherwise, we shall have another invalid on our hands."

"If there is any turn for the worse, you will call me, won't you, doctor?" I asked pleadingly.

My lips were trembling and tears stood in my eyes.

I had forgotten Alice; no longer did I care what she thought of my speech.

"Of course, I will call you, my dear," said the doctor kindly, "but I think there will be no necessity for it."

Alice and I were left alone.

"Helene, I am quite convinced you are in love with our patient," Alice remarked with her usual lack of tact.

I did not answer. I was staring moodily out of the darkened window to the night outside.

In the hall I could hear the doctor telephoning to some New York specialist, urging him to come down in the morning at his earliest possible convenience.

Then I turned to Alice.

"Jim's mother ought to be telephoned for at once " I said.

To my astonishment she shook her head.

"I think we ought to leave the poor lady alone for a day or two. There is no immediate danger now," she objected.

I said no word of remonstrance, but inwardly I resolved that I would myself take the first train to town and tell Jim's mother of her son's condition.

The sun was shining cheerily through my window when I awoke the following morning. Country sounds and scents were in the air. Immediately on waking, I sprang out of bed, flung on a kimono, and hurried down the hall towards Jim's room.

No sound came from within. Very gently I tapped and entered. The nurse was over at the fireplace, and the doctor stood beside Jim's bed, his fingers on the patient's pulse.

On catching sight of me, he put a warning finger to his lips. He was beaming.

Then he let go Jim's hand, and came toward me.

"Doing excellently," he whispered. "Sound asleep."

My heart beat a glad tattoo; this was welcome news indeed. Jim would pull through.

As I joined Alice at the breakfast table I could not keep the jubilation out of my face. Alice's husband also noticed it.

"No need to ask how the patient is, Helene," he rallied me. "The good news is written on your face."

But I was silent during breakfast. I had made the resolution that I would go to town today and nothing could prevent me.

I hurried to my room as soon as possible, donned a quiet unobtrusive little suit, caught up my furs, glove and purse, and prepared to make a speedy exit.

Tomorrow—Home and a Man.

THE PLAGUE OF PIMPLES

Body Covered With Them.

The primary cause of pimples arises from the blood not being in a good condition. When the blood becomes impure you will find that pimples will break out all over the body, but more particularly on the forehead, nose and chin, and although they are not a dangerous trouble they are very unsightly. What you need when pimples or boils break out is a real good blood purifying medicine such as Burdock Blood Bitters.

This preparation has been on the market for over 40 years and is the most reliable remedy for all troubles arising from a bad condition of the blood. It removes all the impurities from the system, and will leave a clear, healthy skin.

Mr. Emerson G. Goodwin, Cambridge, N. B., writes: "For nearly two years I suffered from boils and pimples on my face and neck, and nearly all of my body was covered with the pimples. I tried most everything, but got no relief. One day a friend advised me to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and after using three bottles the pimples and boils had all left me and there is no sign of them returning. I can strongly recommend B. B. B. to anyone who is troubled with skin disease."

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

MISUNDERSTOOD.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

My attention has been called to an inaccurate press report which appeared in your newspaper recently, concerning an address given by me at the Ontario Educational Association. The report credits me with having said that the education department is asleep at the switch, and that the Ontario system of education is a failure. Now, I never made such a statement, nor did I criticize the education department in any way. On the contrary, I complimented the Government on its general attitude toward education, so far as this had been indicated.

In the course of my address I quoted the remarks of a prominent citizen of one of our cities, who, after an absence of thirty years, recently paid a visit to a country section in which he had lived and attended school, when a boy. He noted with pride the wonderful improvements in the farms and farm homes, but was surprised to find that there had been absolutely no improvements in the school or school premises during the last quarter of a century. He therefore concluded the people of that community were asleep at the switch so far as education is concerned.

In referring to the educational system of Ontario, I quoted the remarks of certain critics who pronounced it a failure, but I stated that I entirely disagreed with much of this destructive criticism. I further added that while some more or less radical changes may be necessary to meet the needs of changed conditions, I believed few countries in the world had had a better system of education than that of Ontario during the last 50 years.

From this statement you will readily see that the distorted press report entirely misrepresented what I said. I would be very much pleased, therefore, if you would publish this letter and have the wrong impression corrected as far as possible. Yours truly,

N. McDOUGALL, I. P. S.

Petrolea, April 13, 1920.

"The One and Only Face Cream Which I Use"

—Kitty Gordon.

HAVE you admired the exquisite loveliness of Kitty Gordon? Then you will be interested in her praise of the only Face Cream, which she uses—the Cream which Dr. Partin made at her request, especially for her.

Dr. Partin's Kitty Gordon Face Cream

penetrates to the deeper layers of the skin where the coloring is located. It stimulates these tissues and removes all sallowness. It builds up sagging muscles. It makes the outer skin velvety, soft and fine in texture, through which glows once more the delicate tint of youth.

Try it!—See how, every day, your skin improves. Per jar,

Dr. Partin's Invisible Face Powder

The powder that is conspicuous defeats its own purpose. The wrong shade of powder is more detrimental to woman's appearance than an unbecoming gown.

Is your skin dry or oily? Is it coarse or smooth? Is it pale or dark in tone? Does it flush easily? Is it lifeless and muddy looking? Select the powder which will suit the texture and color of your skin.

Dr. Partin's Face and Healing Powder—is prepared in six shades—white, flesh, light orange, dark orange, rose (pink), and mauve. Ask our demonstrator in Department Store to advise you in the selection of a correct shade.

Dr. Partin's Face and Healing Powder is fine, soft, clinging. It gives the skin a soft cool, velvety appearance—while the powder itself remain invisible. Price, 50c, 75c and $1.00.
