SAILOR HAS TERRIFIC FALL OF 80 FEET TO DECK OF SHIP IN ST. JOHN HARBOR

Tony Silva's Leg Broken, Arm Fractured; Perhaps Internal Injuries.

Tony Silva, a deckhand on the oil tanker Wico, which arrived in port this morning and is lying in the stream, fell from the mainmast to the deck, a drop of about 80 feet and suffered such severe injuries that his left leg has been amputated and it is not known yet whether serious internal injuries have resulted.

The accident occurred about 11.30 while Silva was working among the rigging. According to the second mate of the Wico, L. W. Nilsen, Silva was an excellent seaman. He thought the man must have taken a weak turn and lost his hold on the rigging. He said he was on deck at the time of the accident and he rushed over to the unfortunate Silva. His leg was curled up under him and he was also suffering from a wound on the head. After attending to him as well as he was able, Mr. Nilson signalled to the pilot boat which was in the harbor and Silva was taken ashore in this and rushed to the General Public Hospital.

At noon Silva was still in the operating room of the hospital, where his injuries were being ascertained. The doctors have amputated his left leg below the knee and they intend making a more thorough examination to see if internal injuries had resulted. He also sustained a compound fracture of the right arm.

The master of the Wico is Captain B. H. Larson and the vessel arrived here from Fall River with a cargo of crude oil for the McAvity oil tanks at Courtenay Bay.

2 MISSIONARY SOCIETIES MEET

Christian Church Organizations Unite and Enjoy Delightful Program.

A delightful meeting of the two missionary societies of the Christian churches in this city, was held last night at the home of Mrs. Allison Armstrong, 16 Main street. A programme was given by the Douglas Avenue Society. The president, Miss Margaret Roberts, presided, Miss Josephine Armstrong was the leader for the evening. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Stanwood Hines, followed by the rendition of a beautiful solo, "The Evening Prayer," by Miss Alice Van Horne, with Mrs. George Armstrong at the piano.

Mrs. George Armstrong then read an interesting paper on the "Planting of the Church," a history of the work of the pioneers, in the establishment of the church on the Western Frontier of America. Mrs. Margaret C. Phillips gave a resume of the work that is being carried on among the Orientals on the Pacific Coast of America by the missionary society of the Christian Church.

Miss Josephine Armstrong gave a delightful talk on "The Red Man," in which she related quite a bit of history of the Indian in New Brunswick, and of the work that is being done among them by the British Government and the various religious bodies. Miss Armstrong's talk showed much study and thought in its preparation and was well received by all present.

This was followed by an appropriate reading by Miss Verta Roberts, entitled, "One Little Injun," an Indians soliloquy of the British Government. Mrs. George Gaynor read "Echoes From Everywhere," a collection of interesting notes of happenings upon the mission fields. The meeting closed closed with the missionary benediction,

Mrs. Geo. A. Horton, president of the Coburg Street Society, expressed in a delightful way their appreciation of the programme and entertainment of the evening. There were present nine members from Douglas Avenue Society and ten members of Coburg Street besides several visiting friends, making about thirty in all. A social hour which followed the programme was delightfully spent and delicious refreshments were served. The Douglas Avenue Society extended to Mrs. Armstrong their appreciation of the hospitality of her home for the meeting.

any real signs of distress was in England. In Norway, Denmark, Switzerland and other countries where he visited there was no evidence of lack of work and the inhabitants seemed to be prospering. Professor Simpson attributed the conditions in England due to free trade. In the other countries, he said, they all had protection. Trade in England from nearly every standpoint has apparently diminished. He said he had heard many claim that a betterment would not be affected until more drastic changes were made in trade policies.

Among the passengers were two little boys, William C. Easingwood and Wilfred Laurier Easingwood, who are destined to Ladner, B. C. Upon their arrival here they were taken in charge by the Canadian Pacific officials and after their transportation had been arranged for they were turned over to the Immigration Conductress, who was to take care of them on their second part of the journey to the coast.

There was also a Dutch family on board, consisting of seven members who are en route to Western Canada.

The Montcalm is in command of A. Rennie, C.B.E., who was warmly welcomed back to this port by many friends. His staff consists of P. A. Lancaster, chief officer; H. Teare, chief engineer; W. I. Paddock, purser; C. F. Hassard, surgeon; A. W. Gaade, chief stewart, and Miss Phenix, conductress.

Leading Bankers Review Developments of Year

At Annual Meeting of Bank of Montreal Sir Vincent Meredith, Bart., the President, Reviews Business and Agricultural Conditions in Canada and Deals With Principal Features of Revision of Bank Act

Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, General Manager, Emphasizes Necessity in Canada for Reduction in Cost of Living and Taxation

An opportunity of obtaining a thorough knowledge of present conditions, as well as to gauge the outlook for the next year in Canada was afforded at the annual meeting of the Bank of Montreal.

Sir Vincent Meredith, Bart, the president, and Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, the General Manager, in their addresses to the shareholders of the Bank, referred in most interesting manner to the important developments that had occurred during the past year and the way in which the country had been able to meet them. Sir Vincent dealt more particularly with the outstanding features of the country itself, touching on such important questions as business in Canada, agricultural conditions, immigration, the burden of taxation and reviewing the situation both in Great Britain and the United States.

Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor reviewed the progress made by the Bank during the past year and also touched on other important questions, the solution of which would tend to improve the general situation in Canada. Sir Frederick took the view that Canada's economic positon will not be satisfactory until the country succeeds in balancing public revenue and expenditure, including railways.

Sir Frederick also expresed the opinion that Canada cannot progress as she should until the cost of living in this country and taxation are less than across the line in the United States. The remedy, however, he pointed out, is in our hands and is practicable. He stated that Canada has priceless advantages as a place to live in, work in and play in. These should be obvious to all, as indeed they are to our friends in the United States, who now have $850,000,000 or more commercially invested in Canada.

The President's Address.

Sir Vincent Meredith, Bart., President, in his address to shareholders, said, in part:—

"Our banking year has been one of many perplexities. Our profits, in common with banks at home and abroad, are not so large as during war and succeeding years, but I feel sure it has been a gratification for you to know we have been able to pay our usual dividend as well as a two per cent. bonus.

"The lessened profits are due partly to the fact that our customers have chiefly because we felt that in view of the possibility of untoward developments in the banking world, our cash reserves should be kept exceptionally strong to enable us to lend aid if and when called upon to do so.

"There is also the incidence of much heavier taxation to be considered in connection with the balance sheet. Our resources, however, are so large and our earning power so constant that I have no misgivings as to the maintenance of substantial profits.

The Bank Act Revision.

"The revised Bank Act embodies no novel principles. The powers and privileges of the banks remain very much as before, neither enlarged nor contracted; but provision has been made in the way of wider authority of auditors, by which means it is hoped to strengthen the safeguards for depositors and shareholders. It is true to say that however rigid the law, the solvency of banks—as for that matter, of all business—depends upon the integrity, diligence and perspicacity of the management.

"The amended Act continues to the banks scope for wide and helpful operation in finance and commerce restrained by considerations of safety, but not so hampered as to prevent fair profits under prudent direction. In this connection it may be observed that, despite the notion held in some quarters respecting the profitable nature of banking, capital has not greatly sought this source of investment. In the quarter century from 1876 to 1901, the capital of Canadian banks remained stationary, and in the subsequent twenty years of rapid commercial development, less than $60,000,000 was added. Banking resources, apart from deposits, have been derived for many years past more from accumulated reserve of profits than from the investment of new capital, a condition which it may become desirable to correct when trade expands, in order to maintain an adequate note circulation.

The Burden of Taxation.

"I make no apology for stressing again the desirability, one might even say the imperativeness, of moderating public taxation, federal, provincial and municipal, in order to lighten the load pressing upon business and deterring development of resources. The margin of profit in all business is seriously curtailed by the accumulation of taxation, a condition that retards enterprise and discourages thrift. In making this remark, I am not unmindful of some recent signs of improvement. The rising of revenue of the Dominion Government promises a balanced budget at the close of the fiscal year, and if out of this, with further reduction in expenditure, comes some remission of direct taxation upon trade, it will undoubtedly operate to the general advantage.

"The outlook in Canada as I see is, is for a continuance of reasonably satisfactory condition with possibly some further revival in trade, but we cannot hope for substantial and permanent betterment until worldwide conditions show a marked improvement and this is likely to take time.

General Manager's Address.

Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, General Manager, in his review of the affairs of the Bank during the year, said in part:—

"Canada's economic position will not be satisfactory until we succeed in balancing our public revenue and expenditure, including railways.

"I venture to suggest to the Government that a healthy and more widespread interest in the finances of our Dominion would be stimulated by the publication regularly in the press of simple standardized figures giving the essence of the whole position, including the result of our National Railway operations.

"For the time being we are handicapped in three distinct respects, two of which are common to all countries engaged in the war from the beginning and at present endeavoring to balance their budget, viz.: High cost of living and high taxation. Further, Canada is suffering from lack of adequate population.

"As the first two handicaps diminish we shall doubtless attract a greater volume of immigration and, what is still more important, we shall retain the people who come, as well as our natural increase. Therein lies economic salvation for the Dominion. The remedy is in our hands and is practicable. We have only to conduct our personal and public affairs more economically than do our neighbors in that most wealthy and free-spending of all countries, the United States.

"Adversity is a severe teacher, but out of our trials of the last two years surely good will come.

Priceless Advantages.

"Meanwhile we must not lower our Flag, nor is there any occasion for doing so. Canada has priceless advantages as a place to live in, to work in and to play in. These should be obvious to all—as, indeed, they are to our friends in the United States, who now have $850,000,000 or more commercially invested in Canada—and they will without question attract to us in the fulness of time the people we need.

"Prosperity in full measure cannot, however, return to the country, becomes agriculture, our chief industry, becomes again more profitable. The lot of the farmer in the last few years has been hard, owing to low prices for products and high cost of requirements. This unfortunate state of affairs still persists. It is the result of worldwide, not local, conditions, and is by no means confined to Canada. Agriculture, however, cannot be permanently depressed. In the nature of things an improvement is bound to ensue, but the burden in the meantime bears heavily upon this vital industry. For your information, of this Bank's current loans in Canada, upwards of $88,000,000 are to the agricultural community.

F. A. DYKEMAN IS NEW PRESIDENT

Chosen by Directors of St. John Exhibition Association Last Evening.
