ROBT. J. BURDETTE.

A Grand Audience Greets the Famous Humorist in the Shaftesbury Hall.

It is doubtful if a more appreciative, a larger, or a more intelligent audience ever assembled in Shaftesbury hall than gathered there last night to hear the first lecture ever delivered in Ontario by Robt. J. Burdette, the world-famed humorist, known more especially in connection with the Burlington Hawkeye. Mr. Burdette is not a man of what is known as commanding presence, but his delivery is so free, so easy, so entertaining that the audience forgets the man in the lecturer. He has, moreover, an inexhaustible fund of anecdote, in the telling of which he shows himself more human than humorist. That is to say it is plain to see his whimsicums, his bye-plays, are not intended to pass as mere fantasies of the moment, light and pleasing but fleeting, but are intended while they make the listener laugh to also furnish food for thought. His whole lecture last night, "Advice to Young Men," was replete with good, sound, practical common sense, and yet was bubbling over with fun. At times it was even pathetic, and then when the hearer had almost wound himself up to fall in with the apparent humor of the lecturer he would find himself bursting his sides with laughter at some sparkling point or apt yet comical illustration. Mr. Burdette from the first gained the sympathies of his audience, and held them so well that it was with regret that every man, woman and child saw him quietly and unexpectedly walk from the platform. His peroration was one to be remembered. Every boy, he said, was wiser than his father. If, he asked, as a parting shot, "Christopher Columbus had not known more than his father, where would we all be at this present moment?" And the applause that rang forth simultaneously from all parts of the hall was the only answer to the pointed question.

Even the platform, it might be mentioned, was crowded, among the most prominent being Mr. Justice Burton and Dr. Cassels. His honor the lieutenant-governor was also present and expressed himself as highly entertained. Mr. John Ross Robertson, as president of the Toronto press club, under whose auspices Mr. Burdette visited Toronto, introduced the lecturer and after the audience had dispersed entertained him and the members of the press at the National club. To-day from 12.30 to 2 o'clock a reception will be held at the National, Mr. Robertson again being the host, all members of the Press club being invited, and later on Mr. Burdette will address the students of the British American college. To-morrow evening Mr. Burdette will give at Brantford his famous lecture, "The Rise and Fall of the Moustache."

Runaway.

—A gentleman and his lady were out driving the other day. A large black Newfoundland dog ran out and scared the horse, which ran away, upsetting the occupants out of the cutter in the ditch, bruising the gentleman very badly. The lady escaped without a scratch. She then assisted her more unfortunate companion to his feet, brushed the snow off, and said to him: Let the horse go to grass, and just step into some first-class house and buy some of Our Brave Boys or General Middleton brands of cigars and we will go right home, and you will be as right as a fiddle in half an hour, or less time. Manufactured only by W. E. Dobson, 159 King street east. 246x

Ticklers for Tailors.

A medical journal declares that rheumatism is caused by wearing overcoats. Show this to your tailor.

The style of a man's coat varies with the occasion. For an elopement the cutaway is the proper thing.

A New York tailor says every man should have five overcoats. Not a bad idea—from the tailor's standpoint.

"Trousers are getting wider," says a fashion note, but that's nothing new, for they always did get wider—at the knees.

All tailors are not expert card players, by any means, but there is one thing that they always do according to Hoyle. Whatever else a tailor may do he never fails to follow suit.

Large fortunes are often made off very trifling inventions. The tailor who first produces a bustle that will add a graceful carriage to a round-shouldered man will soon become a millionaire.

The chief charm of buying a ready-made all-wool, two dollar pair of pants is that you can never tell until you have begun to wear them whether the tailor has placed the sitting down curves in front or in their ordinary position.

Mr. Howland Means Business.

This notice will be placarded at the city hall:

No officer to leave the building without permission from the head of the department during office hours.

Anyone desiring to obtain any information in any of the departments will please apply to the heads of the departments.

W. H. HOWLAND, Mayor.

Timid Capitalists.

From the Wall Street News.

A few days ago an old chap from Northern Michigan paid a visit to Boston for the purpose of organizing a company to dig a ship canal from the head of Saginaw Bay to Pentwater, straight across the state of Michigan. He came over to New York in deep disgust, and when asked how his project got along, he replied:

"I'm going home. You eastern folks are no good any more. That 'ere canal could be dug for $27,000,000. I'd agree to act as president of the company for $5000 a year. We could raise $150,000 worth of celery along the banks every season. I've got five sons who'd act as bosses for $3000 apiece a year. We could cut $50,000 worth of ice every winter, and we could raise $75,000 worth of geese and ducks every summer. But nobody'll take hold. Don't seem to be any backbone down this way."

Chance for Ladies.

—The whole of the dry goods stock of McKendry & Co., Waterloo House, is being disposed of at nominal prices, those who wish to buy seasonable goods for ridiculously low prices should visit The Waterloo House. The ordinary price of dry goods is at this popular store lower than the lowest, but with the reductions that have been made in order to clear out the stock, a veritable picnic is offered to purchasers of dry goods. 278 Yonge street, south corner Alice, is the place. 246x

Of Interest to the Ladies.

Miss E. Chubb, 179 King street west, claims to be the only authorized agent for the genuine "Magic Scale" for dressmaking, and is offering it for this month at the reduced price of $1.50, which the ladies will no doubt take advantage of.

Something to Fill a Long-Felt Want.

"This engraving is worth the price of the book alone, sir."

"Oh, it is, eh? What does it represent?"

"It shows how a boiler looks after it has exploded."

"Nonsense, man! What is there practical about that? Get up a picture showing how a boiler looks an hour and a half before it is going to explode, and you can sell a copy to every engineer in the country."

—Mr. R. N. Gooch, one of the oldest and best known residents of Parkdale is about giving up housekeeping, and has instructed Messrs. Coulton & Co., auctioneers, to dispose of his elegant mansion and grounds known as "Springhurst," together with the valuable furniture and effects at an early day. The property is beautifully situated, overlooking the Humber bay, and is acknowledged to be one of the finest estates in or around Toronto. An excellent opportunity is thus offered to some of our business men to secure a first class home combining the comforts of city and country life, it being situated only a quarter of a mile from the city limits. The house contains 21 rooms, furnished with Hay & Co's best and most artistic designs, all of which will go under the hammer. x

Our linens and cottons come from first hands, and we make shirts at any of the following prices to order: $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00, $2.25, $2.50. Wheaton & Co., 17 King street west, cor. Jordan. 136x

A Mighty Effort.

—When so many of our city merchants are advertising their stock-taking sales it is well to notice which one in his particular line of business does it best. As an instance take J. Pittman & Co., 218 Yonge street, they are giving 25 per cent. off new goods. But they must reduce their stock before February 1st, so those looking for bargains should give a look through their large assortment of Manties and Mourning Goods and they will be surprised. 135x

Worth Knowing.

—What makes you pay more for harness than is necessary? We can give you a better article and later styles than any other house in the dominion. A $45 harness for $22; a $35 for $18; a $20 for $11.50; a $15 for $9. All hand-stitched. All work guaranteed. 200 sets to choose from. Salesmen take a pleasure in showing goods.
