SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson IX.—Fourth Quarter, For Nov. 26, 1916.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Rom. xii, 1-8. Memory Verses, 6-8—Golden Text, Rom. xii, 1—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

This is our last study in the epistles for some time to come, but the believer who desires to grow in grace and walk with the Lord will study them constantly. In our lesson of two weeks ago we gave some attention to the whole of this epistle, but a little repetition will be helpful, with some additional thoughts. The epistles, as a rule, are for believers or saints or saved sinners to build them up and fit them for service, that God may be glorified in them and other sinners saved to help complete the church and bring the time of the kingdom. The first eight chapters of this letter teach most fully and clearly that all, without exception, Jews and gentiles, are sinners and guilty before God and that salvation is wholly of grace, apart from any works of ours, and that, being justified freely by His grace, we are made children of God, joint heirs with Jesus Christ, in the love from which nothing can separate us; that, while we wait for our redemption bodies and the deliverance of the whole creation from its bondage and groaning, we have all things freely given us in Christ and all things are working together for our highest good.

Chapters ix, x, xi, may well be called an epistle within an epistle concerning Israel and her future. Then in our lesson chapter and onward we are told how we ought to live here to the glory of God because of all that He has done for us through grace. "I beseech you, therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God," because of His great grace, His great love, His great salvation, the great glory of the kingdom to which He has called you, all that He has done for you, is doing now and will yet do. Let Him have your body to live in, to make a mansion of, while He is preparing your mansion in glory. In Rom. viii, 26, 31, 34, we learn that the Father, Son and Holy Spirit are all for us, and in John xiv, 17, 23, we learn that they will make their home in us if we are willing, making each of us a mansion for the indwelling Trinity while our mansion in heaven is being prepared. The words "mansion" and "abode" in John xiv, 23, are the same word in the Greek, a little noun of only four letters, and used nowhere else.

The same truth is stated a little differently in Eph. iii, 17, "that Christ may dwell or make His home in your heart by faith." The living sacrifice consists of our being willing to die to all that is of self for His sake. It cannot be self and Christ. It must be "Not I, but Christ" (Gal. ii, 20). "We who live are always delivered unto death for Jesus' sake that the life also of Jesus might be made manifest in our mortal flesh" (II Cor. iv, 10, 11). As it is written in Rom. viii, 36; Ps. xliv, 22, "For Thy sake we are killed all the day long." Being made accepted in the Beloved at such infinite cost, so great a sacrifice on His part, it is a reasonable service that we should be willing to be a sacrifice for Him, both in word and deed, that He may be seen in us and known through us (Phil. iv, 18; Heb. xiii, 15, 16). We have been called out of the world to continue in it, but not be of it. The whole world lieth in the wicked one. It is an evil world, and its ways and customs are all opposed to God, and the only correct attitude for the believer is crucified to it and it to us (Gal. i, 4; vi, 14; John v, 19).

The works of God are beautiful, but men at enmity with God are under the control of the devil, and the condition of things in Europe (June, 1915) gives us some idea of what he can do. He is a deceiver, a liar, a destroyer, a murderer, and all who are not in Christ and on his side are on the side of the devil. How can a child of God be willing to be conformed to such a world? The word that is translated "transformed," is used only four times and twice in the account of our Lord's transfiguration (Matt. xvii and Mark ix). The other place besides here is II Cor. iii, 18, where the translation is "are changed." Our lesson verse says that the change must be inward, the renewing of our mind. It begins when we receive the Lord Jesus and thus become new creatures in Christ; then as we continue beholding Him we are changed by the Spirit day by day, proving more and more fully how good and acceptable and perfect the will of God is.

All that follows in our lesson chapter is the varied manifestation of the fruit of the Spirit, which He will work in us if we are yielded to Him. Verses 3-16 tell of a lowly mind and a lowly aim, not thinking anything of ourselves nor seeking great things for ourselves. There is a place and a ministry for each member of the body, as the Spirit may decide, and no room for envy or jealousy (verses 4-8). In the service of the Lord there must be diligence, with joy and patience and prayer and love; a readiness to forgive and to esteem others better than ourselves (verses 9-15). Verse 18 hints that it may not be possible to live peaceably with some people, and such circumstances will need special grace and wisdom and guidance, which God will not fail to give.
