LOCAL NEWS

Steamship Manchester Trader is due to arrive today from Manchester via Halifax.

D. Boyanor, graduate optician, has opened his new optical parlors, 38 Dock street.

Registrar Jones reports seven marriages during the past week; also twenty births, thirteen girls and nine boys.

The new steamer Governor Cobb, being built for the Eastern Steamship Co., will be put on the International division and will run between Boston and St. John.

Brussels street church—The Rev. F. S. Bamford will preach in the morning and the pastor, Rev. A. B. Cohoe, in the evening. Evening subject, "The Failure."

The rush of bargain buyers still continues at Jas. A. Tufts & Son's going-out-of-business-sale. On lots of articles Messrs. Tufts have cut their wholesale prices in two.

Rev. W. A. Taylor, who was to begin a series of evangelistic meetings Monday evening, was called away from the city this morning by the very serious illness of his wife.

St. Philip's A. M. E. church, Rev. T. W. Johnson, pastor. Service 11 a. m.; Sunday school 2.30 p. m. A sacred concert will be rendered at the evening service, 7. p. m. Subject: "What armour should the Christian wear."

Belyea's going-out-of-business-sale affords an opportunity to purchase thoroughly up-to-date goods and save money. Great crowds are being attracted and it would pay to just step in when you are passing tonight. Attention is called to the items in the ad on page three.

Remember that the great sale at James Anderson's of furs, hats, caps, gloves, umbrellas, raincoats, etc., ends tonight. This has been a great sale. The store has been crowded every day. The extremely low prices have proved a great saving to many people. Open tonight until 11 o'clock.

Increasing business has made it necessary for the north end branch of Oak Hall to remove to larger quarters, and it is now located at 695 Main street, two doors above the old stand. This branch of the business will remain in charge of William Murray, who has made many friends in the north end.

A very pleasant surprise was tendered Miss Agatha Maxwell last evening at her home on Main street, when about 30 or 40 of her friends called upon her and presented her with a handsome bracelet in token of the anniversary of her birthday. The evening was pleasantly spent with whist and music, and the gathering broke up in the "wee sma hours."

One of the most successful special sales that has ever taken place in the city is that which is now being held in F. A. Dykeman & Co.'s store, of the goods which were saved from the Brock & Paterson fire. The ladies of St. John are certainly profiting from the "ill wind" that passed over Brock & Paterson's place, and again the old saying comes true. The quantity of these goods is so large that Messrs. Dykeman will be compelled to continue the sale for a few days until they are all cleared out.

That an Indiantown merchant should clean his stove-pipe on the Court block is a source of considerable disturbance to a resident of the North End. The party referred to informed the Times that the gentleman to whom he has reference took down one of the self-feeders in his establishment and, removing the piping to the Court block, which was put in shape during the past season, cleaned out the soot and dirt, much to the annoyance of his fellow citizen.

The attention of the Times has been called to the need of better lighting in the west side ferry toll houses. At the present time there are no lights in the closets of the ladies' and men's waiting rooms and at night it is almost impossible to use them owing to the darkness. In public buildings such as the ferry toll houses the very best possible sanitary arrangements should be provided and good lighting is a necessity. This matter should receive the attention of the ferry committee.

Preparations are already in progress for the approaching summer, and at least three residents of the north end are looking forward to a series of pleasant outings. A summer camp is being erected at Telegraph Lake, near Bayswater, by Alexander B. Holly, Wm. Rivers and G. W. Hoben. It is stated on good authority that the lake, which seems to have been pretty well fished out, will be supplied with trout, and in time will doubtless become an excellent resort for rod and fly. The fishing rights of the lake have been secured by the gentlemen already referred to.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

About thirty friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Clawson surprised them last evening by calling at their house on Stanley street and presenting them with a handsome Morris chair as a token of their continued good wishes for them in their married life. Yesterday was the twentieth anniversary of their wedding and many gifts were received from friends all over the city. The presentation last evening was made by Rev. Dr. Fotheringham, who tied the nuptial knot twenty years ago that made Mr. and Mrs. Clawson man and wife.

The evening was very pleasantly spent with music and games.

THINK THEY PAY ENOUGH

Market Butchers are up in Arms Against Proposed Increase in Rentals.

The Star on Wednesday published alleged interviews with different North End butchers, who, it is stated, claim that the stall holders in the country market have practically every convenience for a comparatively small fee. On this question the butchers in the market differ from the North End dealers. Incidentally in the matter, many of the butchers gave the Times information about the selling of diseased cattle in the market, which, if true, will unquestionably tend to make the citizens careful in the selection of their meats. The information also manifests that the law on diseased cattle is of the kind that a horse and carriage can readily be driven through it.

A prominent butcher in the country market stated to the Times that when the market was erected the stalls were to be had at $100 each upset price. At that time there was nothing for the butchers but four bare walls. The latter not being suitable for the conducting of a retail meat business, the butchers set to work and, at their own personal expense made the stalls what they are today, not one cent being expended by the city. "Now," said the butcher in question, "an alderman will walk up the aisle of the market and knowing that we have made at our own expense the stalls what they are today, say that we should pay more rent, for the stalls are much better than they used to be. Is that what any reasonable man, particularly any sane city father should say?" asked the butcher.

In addition, the butchers say their rents were raised to $160 per head some seven years ago, and a delegation from the market at that time requested that at least $40 be deducted from that amount. They succeeded in getting only $10 off that amount, and now the rent is $150 per stall. A system was brought about some time ago whereby the stalls were auctioned off yearly to the highest bidder. That was unfair, the butchers claim, as, for instance, during one year, if a certain butcher had expended about $400 in improvements on his stall, the following year someone having a personal spite against him could make him pay very dearly for it.

The butchers also claim that during the spring and summer seasons it is difficult for them to make both ends meet, and assert that their rent during the whole year runs very close to $200; as for the use of the stands opposite the stalls, they have to pay at the minimum average, fifty cents per week each. The wholesale butchers also state that they have only the use of the hooks in their stands, and if they place a lamb or pig on the floor of their stand they have to pay for it in addition to their yearly rental.

On the question of the jobbers it was learned that the latter's fees are very small, compared with the fees paid by the stall holders. For instance, for a pair of chickens a toll of 2 cents only is charged. Canadian butter is also sold in the country market, which is contrary to the law.

A very important question is that of diseased meat coming into the market, and it is alleged that what are termed as "lump jaw" cattle come in and are sold daily in the market.

It is learned that the stall holders bring their cattle to the city and they are killed at the slaughter-houses. Dr. Simon examines all the cattle to see that they are free of every disease. On the other hand, however, a countryman can kill a diseased cow or steer in the country, bring it to the market and can afford to sell it at two cents per pound less than the stall butchers, who are obliged to have their cattle examined by Dr. Simon.

The Times representative inquired how the sales of the stall holders were affected by the jobbers at the head of the market. An old butcher offered an example. "Supposing," he said, "a citizen owes me $50 for meats, it being more convenient for him at the time he got the meat from me to get it on credit, and on a Saturday he has money. He enters the market and there he is grabbed by the jobbers and he expends all the money he can on meat with them. I do not know that he has been in the market at all, and hence I lose the sale and am deprived of my money. In a word," he said, "if the rent is to be raised the stall holders want the protection which we sincerely believe we are entitled to. We are given four bare walls to start on. No repairs are made at the expense of the city. We pay for our own lighting. If we were to rent shops outside, the landlord would have to make, at his own expense, the necessary improvements for the shop. All things considered, I think we pay pretty high rents."

WINTER PORT NOTES

Furness steamship St. John City, Captain Bovey, arrived this morning from London via Halifax, with a large cargo.

The Allan line steamship Tunisian, Captain Braes, sailed today for Liverpool via Halifax.

West India line steamship Orinoco, Captain Bethel, sails tonight for the West Indies via Halifax. Captain Bale, her regular commander, is ill.

The Donaldson line steamship Concordia, Captain Black, will go to sea tonight at 9 o'clock, bound for Glasgow direct, with a large general cargo.

The C. P. R. steamship Lake Erie, is now due from Liverpool with over 1,000 passengers, including the Rothschild's contingent.

A FIERCE REFORMER

A correspondent who does not sign his letter writes to the Times protesting against giving the street railway company a ten year contract or paying more than $70 per light. He suggests some 32 candle-power lights, and a cutting of expenses. The "whole civic machine," he says, needs looking into—"the street department, ferry, water, and do-as-you-like police force."

This reformer is not satisfied with Mr. Murdoch, Mr. Peters, Mr. Cushing, Mr. Wisely, Mr. Winchester or Mr. Alexander, and wants their official heads taken off. He says there are a lot of horses in the city stables eating their heads off, and condemns the policy of one-man power of appointment or dismissal in the various departments.

NO ICE TRUST

The Star last evening stated that there was a feeling about town that the St. John Ice Company would absorb the Union Ice Co., and that ice would therefore be high in price. W. E. Scully, of the Union Ice Co., informed the Times this morning that his company have no intention whatever of amalgamating with the St. John Ice Co. On the contrary, they will have lots of good ice and will carry on business as usual.

POLICE COURT

Several Interesting Cases Held the Magistrate's Attention This Morning.

The first case considered in the police court this morning was one of mal-treatment. Walter Preston and Roy Cameron charged "Mr. Guess" with ill-treating them. The defendant had no regular place to hang his hat, and has been wandering about the streets for some time. Yesterday he was arrested by Sergeant Kilpatrick. Young Cameron said he had a bite on his hand, the result of Mr. Guess's antics. The dog was ordered destroyed.

Officer Chas. Rankine reported Otty Stockford and Emery Ward for throwing snowballs. The boys pleaded guilty and were sent to the guard room for a while.

Henry Burchill, a young man, was given in charge of Officer Rankine yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Wm. Calder (Jessie Strong) for breaking in her shop door on Brussels street, and he was also charged by Mrs. Martha Strong with assault. The defendant this morning pleaded guilty to breaking the door, but denied the assault.

Mrs. Calder took the stand and stated that she had been living here for three years, and at present her husband is not residing with her. She informed the court that she did not wish to press the charge against the prisoner. She stated that she was in her beer shop yesterday afternoon and seeing Burchill, who was drinking, coming along, she went into her bedroom to avoid trouble. She was going to change her costume, and he demanded admission. She refused, and barricaded her door with a trunk, and other weighty obstacles. He, however, landed on the panel of the door and it gave under the force of the blow. She impressed upon the court the fact that it was an old door, and when asked the amount required to repay the damage done by the prisoner she retorted, "I don't know, I ain't a carpenter." "Aren't you a carpenter?" enquired the magistrate, and the witness said, "No." The magistrate made a few remarks about the commissioners giving the witness a beer license, and then requested that Mrs. Martha Strong be summoned to court. A spectator was instructed by Mrs. Calder to bring her mother to court, and in a short time the wanted witness arrived. She stated that seeing Burchill and another man coming towards the store, and knowing them to be slightly intoxicated, she went to bolt the door. The bolt, however, was not working right, and Burchill managed to force the door and accidentally came in contact with her countenance, which was thereby slightly cut. The witness admitted that she had informed Officer Rankine that she had been struck on the face by the prisoner, but said that she was confused yesterday, and after considering the matter, she concluded that he had not assaulted her. Judge Ritchie, "You have been considering it since. That will do."

Burchill was remanded to jail, and his mother was unsuccessful in obtaining his release.

D. Mullin asked if the magistrate was prepared to deliver judgment in the case of M. McCann v. J. Flood for assault in the "Floodgate" bar, and his honor informed him that he was not.

Mr. Mullin informed the court that he would like for judgment to be given as soon as possible because, as the matter stands it might tend to prejudice his client in obtaining his license. Judge Ritchie stated that he would notify Mr. Mullin when he was prepared to deliver his judgment.

Robert Owens and Charles Armstead (a colored man) were charged with drunkenness. Owens pleaded guilty, and was fined $4. Armstead pleaded not guilty and Officer Lucas said that the prisoner was ejected from the Opera House last night, and at the time he ordered him home. Later on he found him on Germain street very drunk. Armstead, who is a cook on a steamer, was fined $4.

TORONTO AND ARIZONA

Interested in the Times Issue on St. John's Famous Oarsmen.

The Times has receivevd enquiries from all parts of the country for copies of the issue of last Saturday, with articles and illustrations on old time oarsmep. Having mislaid part of his copy, the sporting editor of the Toronto Globe, Francis Nelson, writes or another, and says;—"It is all exceedingly interesting, and I shall be sorry to miss any part of it."

From far-away Tucson, Arizona, comes the following from P. MacPherson, architect:—

TUCSON, Arizona,
March 3, '06.

To the Editor of The Times, St. John, N. B.:

Sir,—The story told of the famous "Paris Crew," in a recent issue of your valued paper made very interesting reading, especially to St. John men far removed from their native city. It would be interesting to me as well as many others to read what became of the famous old lap-streak boat, "The James A. Harding." I remember she was placed on exhibition in the provincial show held in Victoria Rink in the autumn of 1867, after the race at Paris.

Resp. Yours,
J. MACPHERSON.

The Paris crew's race-boat James A. Harding, was built by Christopher Doyle, at Sand Cove. She was loaned to the Gilpin crew, of Digby, some years ago, and was accidentally destroyed by fire in an old barn at that place.

HUBBARD FOR SUNBURY AND HAZEN FOR ST. JOHN?

The Sentinel was the first paper to announce W. W. Hubbard's engagement with the opposition party as provincial organizer. Shortly after he entered upon his present duties we also made a forecast that he was likely to run for Sunbury in the next local elections. Our prediction is now admitted to be true. Mr. Hazen thinks he can carry the city of St. John, and with that in view will desert Sunbury, in order to give his organizer a chance to get a seat. There is also a gentle rumor that the faithful in York would like to have the Tory leader to head their next ticket.—Carleton Sentinel.

STAR COURSE MONDAY

The last entertainment in the Star Course will be given in the York Theatre, Monday evening, when the great harpist and mandolinist, Valentine Abt, will be heard for the first time in St. John, assisted by Miss Grace Leard, Soprano, and Minnie Sheldon Pearce, pianist. Reserved seats are still to be had by subscribers.

A QUICK RECOVERY

Brock & Paterson in Their Own Building Again Ready for Millinery Openings.

A more rapid recovery from the effects of a serious fire has seldom been accomplished by a business house than is shown in the case of the wholesale millinery firm of Brock & Paterson, in King street.

Not only did the firm at once secure rooms for small wares and for copy and work rooms in the Sears building across the street, but their damaged premises, in their own main building, are already in order for use.

When the wholesale millinery openings occur on March 21 and 22, the firm will have in this building the finest display that they have ever had, giving up the whole four floors, each with 3,400 feet of space, for the purposes of the opening.

They put a temporary roof on the building, put steel ceilings on two of the rooms, put down a new floor on the upper one, had the rooms all painted in white, and are now fitting them up for the display of goods.

On the ground floor are hosiery and underwear; on the second, ribbons, silks, laces and ladies' wear; on the third, millinery trimmings; and the fourth will be devoted entirely to the display of hats.

The whole interior of the building will be more attractive than ever before, while fine quarters for the copy and work rooms are provided in the Sears building. It is the intention of the firm to build two more stories on their own building, making six floors in all. The work of repairing has been done by James Myles, with a rapidity that reflects great credit on him as a workman.

Fortunately for the firm, none of their opening goods were destroyed in the fire. They are busy filling orders as if no fire had occurred.
