PLAGUE FOLLOWING MASSACRE MAKES ADANA FESTERING SORE

Thousands Stricken With the Smallpox Lying Uncared for in the Fields About the City While Almost Entire Population Faces Starvation.

Adana, May 2.—Adana is now experiencing all the horrors of a smallpox epidemic. There are always cases of the dread disease in the city, as well as other virulent diseases, because of the poor sanitary conditions, but during the past two weeks the spread of the plague has been frightful because of the disorders and the homeless element roaming about the city.

The stricken are lying uncared for in the city and in the fields in the outskirts. It is impossible to estimate the number of cases, as there is no system of medical reports. One medical man declares that the city is one "festering sore."

Governor Arrested.

The people, too, are facing starvation and the immediate need is food. The mills are burned.

The new governor-general of the Province of Adana has arrived here. Three thousand soldiers are now patrolling the city. The former governor-general, who failed to make any efforts to quell the disorders, has been placed under arrest.

The conviction is held by the Armenians that the Moslem attacks against them had their origin in Constantinople. The massacres began simultaneously in the districts covering 100 miles around the Gulf of Alexandretta, and therefore they maintain that they could not have started from a local row in Adana, in which two Turks were shot by an Armenian as he was leaving a church with his bride, whom the Turks were trying to capture.

Reports from Deurtyul say that the populace is holding out against the Moslems, but the suffering there from lack of food is also acute. The same is the case at Larsus, Antioch, Latakia and Alexandretta.

200 Perished in Southern Gale

Atlanta, Ga., May 2.—The storm which for three days swept with destructive effect eastward across the Southern States Saturday passed out into the Atlantic Ocean. The havoc wrought in its path included, according to returns tonight, probably 200 killed, twice as many injured, and property worth several millions of dollars destroyed, and business and communication well nigh demoralized.

In its passing off to sea, it apparently had lost none of its vicious energy. Wires flashed the news of 34 more deaths in Georgia, lives taken by a storm, the coming of which some of the victims had been reading for two days in the newspapers.

The Georgia death list by towns as received by the Constitution tonight is: Buchanan, 18; Albany, 6; Meigs, 1; Cedartown, 12; Bowden, 1; Gainesville, 1.

At Savannah the tornado had lost part of its fury, but destroyed much property. From Norfolk came news of some damage, while towns in North Carolina and Florida contributed their quota.

GREAT LAKES GALE TAKES TOLL OF THREE

Tug Nester and Freighter Russia Go to Bottom—All of Former's Crew Perish.

Detroit, May 1. — Three vessels lost, one of them with her crew of seven men, and a fourth craft found floating deserted on Lake Michigan, with the fate of her crew unknown, is the day's summary of disaster from storm and ice on the Great Lakes.

On the bleak and rocky shores of Huron Island last night the schooner George Nester of Detroit was torn to pieces by the furious gale that swept over Lake Superior, and all of her crew of seven were lost.

On Lake Huron, lashed by the same gale, the package freighter Russia of Port Huron succumbed to the waves after her cargo had shifted and went to the bottom. The Russia's crew of 22 men, however, succeeded in safely putting over their small boats and escaping in them.

On Lake Michigan, the Ann Arbor Railway car ferry No. 1 picked up, nineteen miles south of Fox Island, the big steel lighter Batavia, deserted by her crew, and with no positive evidence as to whether they perished or were taken off the lighter by the steamer, which is believed to have been towing her.

Days of Disaster.

To these three stories of marine disasters was added from Sault Ste. Marie, with the arrival of three of the crew of the steamer Aurania, the first story of how she was crushed by the ice and sank, and how the members of the crew made a perilous way over nearly four miles of ice floe to the steamer J. H. Barlow.

Few days in the history of navigation on the inland lakes have brought such tales of death and disaster.

Bound up Lake Superior for cargo behind the steamer Schoolcraft, the schooner George Nester met the full force of the terrific gale. Off Huron Island the towline was broken, and the schooner went on the rocks. The furious waves made it impossible to launch small boats from either the Schoolcraft or the lighthouse tender Marigold, which was close behind, to go to the rescue of the seven men aboard the schooner. The Nester went to pieces rapidly, and every member of the crew was lost. The Marigold made efforts to take the imperilled men off the wreck with life lines, but unsuccessfully.

The Russia was bound for Duluth on her first trip of the season with a full cargo of freight. When twelve miles off Detour the Russia's cargo shifted. The steamer began to fill. Capt. John McLean, of Port Huron, and his crew of 22, launched their small boats into the raging sea, and succeeded in saving their lives. They arrived at Detour today.

The Russia was built in 1872 and was owned by C. O. Duncan, of Port Huron. For many years she sailed in the Anchor Line fleet of passenger boats, and was one of the best-known craft on the lakes.

The Batavia Deserted.

It is a strange story of marine mystery which the big Ann Arbor car ferry brought into port with her today when she arrived, towing behind her the big steel lighter Batavia, which was built in 1904 for the Lehigh Valley Transportation Company.

The car ferry found the lighter tossing on the waves south of Fox Islands with no crew aboard.

In the dining-room was evidence that there had been a crew. The dining-room table was set as for dinner. But nothing except the severed hawser indicated a possible solution of the crew's whereabouts. Marine men think that the evidence which the hawser bore of being cut may mean that the tug or steamer which had the lighter in tow found it necessary in the gale to cast her loose, and if so, probably took off the crew before leaving the steel hulk at the mercy of the storm.

Lighters of this style usually carry, marine men say, crews of four to ten men.

Safe and sound after the loss of their ship in the ice, the crew of the Corrigan steamer Aurania came into the Soo abroad the J. H. Barlow and told a thrilling story of their experiences.

Caught fast in a great floe in Whitefish Bay they could only watch the relentless force bear harder and harder against the sides of the ship, until they were crushed, and the water poured in. When it was evident that the ship was doomed to sink, they left the Aurania and took to the ice. Carrying with them one small yawl boat with which to ferry themselves over the patches of open water in the floe, the men, headed by Capt. Robert C. Pringle, made a perilous way over to the steamer Barlow, also held so fast in the ice four miles away, that she could not go to the Aurania's assistance.

All arrived uninjured and were cared for aboard the Barlow.

They left Sault Ste. Marie today for Cleveland.

HAMID'S MARINES IN SHORT MUTINY

Object To Being Exiled From Constantinople, But Are Brought to Terms.

Constantinople, May 2.—The marines in the Cassirm barracks, which are situated behind the United States embassy, mutined last night. They refused to embark for distribution to the various ports.

The marines belong to the old dissatisfied garrison, and although they had nominally surrendered were in an ugly mood. They were easily persuaded by agitators to make an armed protest against
