THE WAR NEWS

Relations more severely strained between Italy and Austria, further successes by the Russians on the eastern front, a Zeppelin raid on Paris which proved to be a failure, and a further list of casualties among Canadians in the trenches in France are features of last night's cables from the war zone.

The death of Colonel Farquhar, commander of the Princess Patricia's, is deeply regrettted. As military secretary to H. R. H., the Duke of Connaught, Colonel Farquhar had made himself very popular in Ottawa, and he was also a distinguished soldier. The Princess Patrica's have suffered severely since they went into the trenches. Last night's cables announced that Lieutenant Mason of that regiment is dead, besides three more killed and twenty wounded. The casualty list reports also the death of Lieutenant F. L. E. Wilmot of the Patricia's, and gives the names of five others of the wounded. We must prepare ourselves for news of serious casualties in other Canadian regiments from day to day, and indeed today's list contains the names of four Ontario and one Quebec man killed, and a number of other Ontario men wounded. No less than three corporals in the 2nd Battalion from Ontario are reported killed.

An interesting sidelight on the state of feeling in Germany is obtained from a report of a scene in the Reichstag on Saturday. A Socialist deputy protested against attempts to Germanize portions of French territory, and said also that he was horrified to learn that for every German village burned by the Russians three Russian villages would be burned. This he described as barbarism, and declared that the German policy must be such that the people of the invaded territory would see in Germany a shield and safeguard of their freedom The speaker was frequently interrupted. A member of the government declared that the criticism was unconstitutional and insulting in form, and it was made perfectly clear that with very few exceptions the deputies of all parties endorsed the government policy. It is nevertheless significant that such a protest should have been made, and that there should have been some to applaud and encourage the speaker. As the war progresses and more of the fighting takes place on German soil these voices of protest in the Reichstag will become more numerous and more insistent. For the present, however, the Prussian militarist party still dominates the house.

The number of casualties among British officers since the war began is stated to be 5,081, made up of 1548 killed, 2858 wounded and 705 missing. In one week, from March 10th to 17th, 265 officers were killed and 427 wounded. wounded. While the statement pays the most eloquent tribute to the gallantry of the officers, the loss sustained is terribly severe, and the places of so many trained men cannot easily be filled with other men of equal capacity, however courageous.

Not only have the Russians captured Memel in East Prussia, but they are gaining continued success in Eastern Galacia. There is reason to believe that the long beleagured fortress of Przemysl will soon fall into their hands. The Russian Red Cross Society has decided to protest to the Red Cross Societies of the whole world against atrocities committed by the Germans, and the German threat to destroy Russian towns and villages not only reveals the savage character of German militarism, but must further alienate the sympathy of neutral nations. The Germans are very short-sighted. Sooner or later the fighting will be transferred to German soil, and the neighborhood of German towns and villages. Their own people will then suffer the more because of the atrocities of which they have been and are now guilty and which are committed in utter disregard of the usages of civilized warfare.

News comes from Greece that the new government may after all adopt the policy of its predecessor, and enter the war on the side of the Allies. A member of the cabinet is said to have intimated on Saturday that the country was "Gravitating toward a more active attitude," which if it means anything means war.

Lord Kitchener has found it necessary to tell some of the dock laborers at Liverpool that a refusal on their part to work overtime and relcive the congestion on the docks, at a time when every British man is expected to do all in his power to aid in carrying the war to a successful conclusion, would not only be unpartiotic, but would result in action by the government to see that the necessary work is done and done without delay. It is hardly conceivable that the men will hold out any longer under the circumstances. If they do, so much the worse for themselves and the cause they misrepresent.

THE GOOD FAIRY

The picture which The Standard draws of Hon J. D. Hazen as the great and only friend of St. John is one to move the populace almost to tears. We infer from The Standard that at least two or three times each day Mr. Hazen withdraws himself for a brief season from the cares and toil of office to take his head in his hands and try to think out some new thing for the enrichment and the greater glory of the city of St. John. His latest brilliant achievement was to make St. John the point of mobilization of the 55th Battalion. It might have been mobilized at Otnabog or Saddleback, Rusiagornish or Pokemouche; but great as are the advantages of these and other centres in New Brunswick, with their splendid armories and all the facilities for the mobilization and accommodation of eleven hundred men, Mr. Hazen nobly fought and nobly won the battle for St. John. We are reminded too that Mr. Hazen secured the establishment of a marine depot at St. John. That it is not yet established, but appears to have a wandering foot and is sliding out into the harbor, making necessary an enormous increased expenditure, does not matter. Who cares, so long as the money is spent, whether the contractors get it right the first time or not? This marine depot might have been taken to Quaco or L'Etang or Grand Lake; but Mr. Hazen once more leaped into the arena and beat down all opposition to its establishment at St. John. All that now remains to be done is to anchor it properly, and it will stay right here.

Then there were contracts for war material. It is true that every factory capable of turning out such materials in a satisfactory manner anywhere in Canada has had its chance, and Lord Kitchener and Chancellor Lloyd George are yelling for more, but the militia department and the British, French and Russian government would never have known that St.Johnwas onthemap but for the pointing finger of Mr. Hazen. When we think seriously of all the marvellous things Mr. Hazen has done for St. John, and the sleepless hours he has devoted to the development of great plans for our good, one wonders how he ever allowed himself to be tempted to hand back that $100,000 to Cammell Laird & Company and how it is that so many of his own supporters in this city are sharpening the axe against the day of retribution.

Chancellor Lloyd George very strongly emphasises the statement of Lord Kitchener that the great need of Britain at present is an increase in the output of munitions of war. Here is an opportunity for Mr. Hazen to direct attention to the factories in St. John.

A New York lawyer told the Canadian Bar Association in Montreal on Saturday night that nine-tenths of the people of the United States were working, giving and praying for British success. He declared further that the United States would make almost any accommodation to prevent such a calamity as war with Great Britain, and that rather than suffer England to perish in a righteous cause the United States would fight with her.

If there is any truth in the report that the Turks have attacked an American mission in Persia the American government may be expected to demand prompt redress.

Mr. Watson Griffin, who spent some months in the West Indies last year, sees great possibilities there for Canadian trade. The views of a practical business man familiar with West India trade would be much more valuable.

When the Borden government abandoned the proposed duty on feritlizers it also abandoned those of its supporters who, without any regard whatever for the farmers or the Patriotism and Production campaign, gave a purely partisan support to the proposed measure. They must now explain that a duty should be imposed, but that it should not be imposed.

Every man who wears the king's uniform should give serious attention to two sentences in the address of Rev. W. G. Lane to a detachment of St. John soldiers yesterday. He said:—"Any man who has any self-respect will try to keep his record clean. It is important as a matter of efficiency."

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

When the blood becomes impure the first symptoms which manifest themselves are a breaking out of the various forms of skin trouble such as boils, pimples, abscesses, ulcers, etc., and the only treatment you can use is some sort of a good blood cleansing remedy which will put the blood into a perfect condition, and thus eliminate all the different poisons from the system which cause these different eruptions to occur.

The best blood cleansing remedy on the market to-day is Burdock Blood Bitters. All we ask you is to try it and be convinced. Thousands have used it during the past forty years, and have nothing but praise for its curative powers.

Mrs. John Fitzgerald, Plantagenet, Ont., writes: "I am one woman who cannot speak too highly of Burdock Blood Bitters. I was covered with boils, and could not get rid of them. I was advised by a friend to try B.B.B. which I did, and I can truthfully say that it completely cured me. I have never had a sign of a boil since."

See that our name appears on both the label and wrapper as there are many imitations placed on the market which are said to be "just as good."

GRANDMA NEVER LET HER HAIR GET GRAY

Kept Her Locks Dark, Thick, Glossy, With Sage Tea and Sulphur

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use tonic called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant. You will also discover dandruff is gone and hair has stopped falling.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and look years younger.

Miss Keen—Oh, I'm sure he didn't mean to offend you, dear. He probably didn't know what a bad memory you have.

Diamond's Peculiar Position

The South African Diamond Mines are closed. The cutting and polishing industry of Antwerp is ruined. The only other centre of the kind, Amsterdam, is little better off.

At present there are no Diamonds being put on the market. The controlling syndicate is holding their surplus stock.

The Canadian government has recently levied a war tax of 7½ per cent.

Diamonds must just naturally go much higher. The American continent, which is being helped by the war, buys about 70 per cent. of the world's output.

We have a beautifully selected stock of this king of gems. Our prices have not been changed. They are the lowest in the land.

WAR PRODUCES NEW COMMUNITY SPIRIT

Interesting Activities of Ladies of City on Behalf of Soldiers' Families—Where Friendship Counts—Aiding in Provision For Future

The development of a community spirit, in a way somewhat new to this city, is one of the results of the war which may be of permanent benefit. With so many men away to fight for the empire many families are left in a position which makes them value expressions of friendship more than in ordinary times and this need is being largely met by the various organizations which have sprung into existence since the outbreak of war.

In this work the ladies' auxiliary of the patriotic fund and the Soldiers' Wives League are taking a leading part. The work of the first body was undertaken largely as a business measure to assist in the proper administration of the fund and to see that only those who were entitled to grants received them. From this start it developed into a friendly campaign for the assistance of the soldiers' families with whom the ladies were brought in contact.

There are few of the families who are looking for charity or whose self respect would permit anything approaching patronage but it was soon found that the ladies of the visiting committee, through tactful and friendly advances, were able to be of considerable assistance to those on whom they called. By taking an intelligent interest in the family affairs it was found that advice and suggestions were welcomed and that the soldiers' wives were willing to benefit by the greater store of experience of those who were calling on them. Helpful hints about household management and similar matters frequently have assisted in putting the family affairs on a better basis and adding to their comfort and in special cases the help of a friendly hand has proved of great value to the women who are left alone at home.

One of the features of their work which has been receiving more attention lately is the preparation for the future. The war relief will not last forever and the committee is trying to help the families to prepare for what may come later. For this purpose the beginning of savings accounts is encouraged and the visitors are helping those unacquainted with even the simplest banking operations to open accounts and are encouraging them to put by each month what money they can spare.

The work of the patriotic committee is limited by the rules which govern the fund and, frequently, where that committee must stop the Soldiers' Wives League can step in and provide for emergences. Their object is purely friendly and, while ordinary circumstances are already provided for there are many occasions, such as when an addition to the family is expected, that the wives of the officers and their friends can be of very substantial assistance to the wives of the soldiers who stand in special need of friends at such a time.

The breaking down of barriers between the various sections of the community has resulted in much good being accomplished already and it is believed that the sympathetic relations established at this time may lead to more permanent and more intelligent efforts on the part of those who are in unfortunate circumstances to help others who may need the friendly aid of those who understand their problems as much as more material assistance.

Gained 30 Lbs. in Few Weeks Never Felt So Well

Was Pale, Weak and Thin, and Had Nervous Headaches Before Using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It is truly wonderful what Dr. Chase's Nerve Food does for women who are weak, weary and run down in health. New, rich blood is what is needed in nearly all such cases, and because Dr. Chase's Nerve Food forms new blood it brings cure — not mere relief, but actual cure—in the great majority of such ailments.

MRS. H. LAICH.

With an abundance of rich, red blood coursing through the veins the nerves are strengthened and vigor and vitality are carried to every organ of the human body.

With the nerves properly nourished headaches and neuralgic pains disappear, appetite improves, digestion is good, you sleep and rest well, and gain in strength and weight.

Mrs. H. Laich, Cannington Manor, Sask., writes:—"You will remember me writing you last spring. Well, I gave up my doctor and began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This treatment cured me rapidly and I was soon myself again. I was pale, thin and weak, suffered from stomach troubles and liver complaint, and frequently had sick, nervous headaches.

"I was surprised to find that in a few weeks' time I had gained 30 pounds in weight. I never felt so strong and well in all my life. Headaches never bother me any more, and I am grateful for the cure. If people would only give this medicine a fair trial they would certainly be cured."

Everywhere people are talking about this great food cure, which cures in Nature's way, by supplying the ingredients to form new blood, and so overcome weakness and disease by an abundance of vitality. UNFORTUNATELY HE LIVES

Man Refuses to Commit Suicide and Thereby Kills Good Story

Two small town correspondents of metropolitan dailies were swapping experiences on the train coming into Indianapolis.

"I had a peculiar thing happen to me," said one. A man in one of the large cities got into trouble and disappeared. The police search was unavailing. He had threatened to commit suicide. It was just by luck that I discovered this man hiding in my town. He thought no one knew him. I made up my mind that he was liable to commit suicide at any moment. It was a big case, and I knew that there would be good money in it for me if I could sell a story to my paper. So I quietly wired the editor that I had found the man, and asked him if he would keep his special men off and let me handle the story in case the man committed suicide.

The editor wired acceptance, and then I dug into the man's past history and doped up the most beautiful human interest story any one ever read. I made several pages of it, for I figured the paper would spread it big. I spent two weeks' time and $50 in getting all the facts. Then I put my story in a pigeonhole of my desk and sat down to wait for the man to commit suicide.

I waited two or three months, and the melancholy that sat on the man began to wear off. And the longer I waited the further he got from suicide. He wound up, in fact, by marrying a girl in the town and taking her back to his home town, where, I understand, they are living happily to this day. It made me rather "sore" to think that I had wasted so much time on it, concluded the first country correspondent, but I guess he's better off.—Indianapolis News.
