In the High Court of Justice,

Common Pleas Division.

DEARLOVE V. GRANT.

To WILLIAM EDWARD EVANS:
Pursuant to the order made in above action, dated 12th June, 1890, you are made a party defendant thereto and are required to appear before me the undersigned Official Referee, at my Chambers at Osgoode Hall in the City of Toronto, on SATURDAY, THE 28TH DAY OF JUNE, 1890, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, personally or by Solicitor, and prove any claim or interest you may have to be paid for at a fair valuation. This means the rolling stock, buildings, live stock, rails and such like.
But Senator Smith takes a different view. He holds that the right of the city was to step in and take the "going" concern as such. This means that not only is the city to pay for the actual property but also for the good will and franchise as well. Should this contention be approved in the courts it means millions where now the proposed expenditure will be counted by hundreds of thousands. The city will combat this view of the case in every court of the Dominion and in the Privy Council if necessary.
The special committee has already considered what course it will follow, or rather advise the council to follow, when the franchise becomes the property of the City. So far as The World can glean from opinions expressed by the members, they are all with few exceptions, opposed to the city running the road as a corporation concern. This policy, however, will not be given out as a resolution either of committees or council in order that it can be held as a lever to burst up any combine among intending purchasers of the franchise. It seems to be pretty generally understood around the City Hall that any attempt to add the street railway system to the civic machine would only result in disastrous failure and exasperation to the people.
The present idea is that, as soon as the franchise becomes the property of Toronto, it should be offered for a period of time not exceeding 10 or 15 years to the highest bidder. The old franchise would be thoroughly revised, and include in its amended form regulations for transfer tickets at one fare for passengers traveling in any general direction, extra cars and lower rates for working men at certain hours of the day, improved regulations in the matter of overcrowding, heating, etc. The committee has had all these points under consideration, and will astonish the council shortly with a big report.

The Agreement of 1861.

It may not be generally known that the city and the company are working under an agreement other than the one made in 1861. Of course many of the old regulations stand and in fact the new arrangement was made simply to settle many points which had been at issue between the two corporations for years. It was signed, sealed and delivered in the early part of 1889, the second year of Mayor Clarke's incumbency. In December 1886, the city sued the company to recover some $4800 for cost of certain repairs to portions of streets which the company was bound to keep in proper repair, and for certain sums paid as damages to persons who had sustained injuries through the faulty condition of these streets. The company raised the defence that it was not liable to pay these damages or to repair these pavements, or even to contribute anything towards their construction, as the pavements in question were not "permanent pavements," had been improperly selected and constructed, taking into account the existence of the car tracks on these streets. Judge Rose decided in favor of the company and recommended a reference to Judge Senkler of the dispute.
The city did not seek Judge Senkler, but
