THE PRICE OF EGGS.

(Toronto Globe.)

Eggs were again slightly lower at Chicago, and the local market was easy in sympathy, although prices were unchanged. Dealers were bidding twenty-eight to twenty-nine cents per dozen delivered Toronto, with an odd firm still quoting thirty cents. Selling prices to the retail trade was steady at thirty-four cents for new laids, loose, with cartons two to four cents higher. In some quarters here was a feeling that the market might steady down a little now, but in others there was a good deal of bearish sentiment prevailing.

Receipts of Ontario eggs were heavy, and wholesalers are looking for deliveries of domestic stock to increase from now on. In fact, the optimistic ones expect to be independent of the United States article very shortly.

FIELDING'S GOOD BARGAIN IS SURPRISE TO NEW YORK

(Special Despatch to Toronto Globe.)

New York, March 7—The price which the Government of Canada will net for the $11,000,000 worth of Canadian National Railway 5 per cent. three-year notes disposed of in this market by Hon. W. S. Fielding, minister of finance, for the Dominion, is 99.08. Considerable surprise was expressed here among brokers accustomed to handling such issues when the margin which these notes net to the purchaser of the entire $11,000,000, Messrs. Dillion, Read & Company, became known. The company is offering of the issue to the public at 99 5-8, a price which shows that Mr. Fielding consummated an exceptionally shrewd bargain when he marketed his issue, and that he secured a remarkably good price from the brokers for his $11,000,000 worth of notes, which have been floated to meet maturing obligation of the Canadian Northern Railway, and guaranteed by the Government of Canada. Mr. Fielding's plan of calling for tenders for the notes marked a departure from the method formerly adopted by the Canadian Government in the handling railway financing.

CANADA'S FOREIGN TRADE.

(Bank of Commerce Circular)

The foreign trade of Canada during the ten months ending January, 1922, amounted to $1,260,206,398, as compared with $2,150,232,774 in the previous year, a decrease of $890,026,381. For the month of January the figures were, $98,573,937 in 1922, and $154,186,081 in 1921. Of these figures, exports of domestic produce accounted for $46,198,080 in 1922, and $80,912,816 in 1921; imports, for $52,375,857 in 1922 and $72,252,223 in 1921.

After making allowance for the decline in prices, it is quite evident that the foreign trade of Canada continues to contract, and there is as yet no sign of a reversal of this process in the near future. The most hopeful indications of a possible increase in purchases of Canadian goods are found in the figures of our trade with the United Kingdom. During the nine months ending December last, exports to that country decreased only 1.5 per cent. in value, although our total exports decreased 40 per cent. In the case of the United States, which took 38 per cent. of all our exports during the same period of 1921, and 45 per cent. in 1920, the decline in value was 49 per cent. This marked change was due to the operation of the Fordney emergency tariff.

If, as is indicated by the figures giving their value, the volume of Canadian exports to the United Kingdom was more than maintained under conditions which existed in 1921, there would not appear to be any insuperable obstacles to an increase in the near future. Favorable factors in the situation are the increase in value of the pound sterling in New York, the drastic lowering of wages and prices, the prospective reduction in the national expenditure, and the knowledge that the government has disposed of almost all its vast stores of every kind, which have so long hung over the market. The imports from Canada of such food-stuffs as can be most readily produced here are as yet only a small proportion of the total amount required by the United Kingdom.

Proved Vacuum Cleaner Makes Good Street Sweeper.

A method of sidewalk cleaning that is also a first-class advertising stunt was recently tried out by the Lakewood Electric Company of Clevelend, and found highly successful. An electric vacuum cleaner which operates on bare floor surfaces as well as on rugs was attached to a socket just within the entrance to the store, and was used to take up all the overnight accumulation of dust, scraps of paper and other trash from the front sidewalk. Scores of curious passers-by watched the proceedings, and the favorable comments convinced the store management that there is worthwhile publicity in the idea.

"It's not so much the fact that the electric cleaner makes a good job of removing the sidewalk dust and trash—as it certainly does—but it's the favorable attention which it attracts from the public which appeals to us," said the general manager. It gives a desirable touch of smartness to the establishment.

"The sanitary value of this kind of cleaning is immediately apparent. Instead of merely pushing the dust into the gutter, to be blown back on the walk in a few moments, the electric suction removes it completely. Of course, the idea must be adopted by a group of stores on any one street before any marked effect will be noticeable.

"It's an idea which should net some newspaper stories for the retailer who adopts it. Most people know that dust is a germ carrier, but few realize that a single cubic inch of air in large cities often contains as many as a million and a half minute dust particles, each of which carries bacteria. The boy sweeping the sidewalk with a broom merely stirs up clouds of this germ-laden dust to be inhaled by passers-by, but electric suction removes the dust and bacteria altogether. The store which is in the vanguard of such a movement for the benefit of the public health cannot help but profit by it."

Music Boosts Hat Sales 25 Per Cent

That music hath charms to soothe the savage breast of the more deadly sex in its search through the store for $50 millinery at $1.98 is attested by J. R. Bolton, business manager of the Retail Millinery Association of America.

Music in the millinery department, provided it is of the proper soothing variety, takes the raw edges off the nerves of both the shopper and the shopgirl and lulls them into the spirit of mutual esteem and consideration, he says. Bolton tells a little story in one of the recent bulletins of the association which runs like this:

"Was raining. All day it had been either misting or raining, and by 8 o'clock it was about as gloomy a day as one could imagine.

"One of our members dropped in to see me from one of the biggest and liveliest of the New England cities. He said 'How are you?' I said, 'As well as possible under the circumstances.' He said. 'What circumstances?' I said," The weather.'

"Then he said: 'Where's your phonograph?' and I said it was home, where it belongs. 'No' said he. I mean the phonograph for your office?' I thought he was joking, but he was dead in earnest, and he told me something so interesting and so fraught with real value that I ask his permission to pass it along to our other members.

"He said that since he had installed a phonograph in his millinery salesrooms his sales had gone up 25 per cent, and he attributed it to the music that it provided—not so much for his customers, but to his customers before they became such.

"In other words, it is like a balance-wheel, in that it not only caters pleasantly to the senses, but it also absorbs the natural but very insidious deterrents to the completion of a sale.

"Is this deep stuff? It may be, but I declare if I had a millinery shop I would install a phonograph tomorrow morning and try it out."

Men Buy Pink Silk Nighties!

The average man doesn't mind smashing the Hindenburg line, but when it comes to crashing through a line of women in a ready-to-wear shop that is entirely different.

Frequently a brave soul will venture across the threshold, break out in a rash, stutter violently, blush to the heels and then say half-heartedly. "You know the kind she wants; give me that."

Angrist-Sameth Company, of Bluefield, W. Va., realized that it was this shy nature in man that caused the loss of hundreds of dollars in business every Christmas. All during the season men shoppers would stand in front of the window admiring the hosiery and silk underwear, wishing that they could somehow get some of this finery for their wife or sister. "What a surprise it would be on the women folks," they would frequently murmur.

This enterprising store decided to make it possible for the male shoppers to come in without the fear of being greeted by a battery of giggling clerks. A series of educational advertisements, together with the notice that a salesman would be on hand to administer to their wants, accomplished the trick. It wasn't long before every man in the city knew about the special service, and as a result the store did the biggest Christmas business in its history.

GIRLS PRESENT COMEDY WELL

Pleasing Carmarthen Street Entertainment in the Seamen's Institute.

The girls of Carmarthen street Methodist church last evening presented a pleasing comedy, "Cupid's Partner," in the Seamen's Institute, and a crowded house greeted them and applauded their good work. The principal characters were taken by Miss Gladys Brindle, Miss Nina R. Browne and Miss Estella I. Fox, and the young ladies won praise for their excellent interpretation, while the supporting cast came in for a good share of the nice things said. Candy was sold, and in all about $125 was realized for church purposes. The programme was as follows:—

Cast of Characters:

Sybil Harlow—Forced to leave Hereford College and parted from her sweetheart, Prince Jardine, by his mother ..... Gladys Brindle
Mrs. Marion Jardine — Rich and proud, who wanted Sybil after all ..... Mrs. H. Flewelling
Helen Freeland—Adopted by Mrs. Jardine, her aunt.....Nina R. Browne
Mrs. Nancy Freeland—Who gave her daughter Helen to Mrs. Jardine and promised never to see her again. A mother to everyone. Mrs. E. Johnston
Mrs. Mulcahy—Irish widow who keeps a boarding house. Her dear departed husband was a "handsome man and full of sintiment" Edith Piers
Eva Mulcahy—Her wayward daughter, planning to run away with Augustus, who decides to stay and marry Mr. Donnelly, the floorwalker ..... Ethel Brindle
Ethel Richards, Hereford College, and Beatrice Montford, Knapp House, girls planning to help Sybil Hazel McBeth, Margaret Marshall
Muriel Austin — Making her own way through college by acting as waitress at Dent's...Olive Estabrooks
Miss Hill—Of "Courier's Monthly" Florence Roberts
Dandelion Mugg—Adopted by Mrs. Mulcahy ..... Katherine Williams
Pansy Harlow—Sybil's little sister—Cupid's partner ..... Estella I. Fox
Waitress at Dent's tea rooms, Clara Vey
Cashier at Dent's tea rooms..... Florence Roberts

Act I.—Mrs. Freeland's rooms at Mulcahy boarding house.

Act II.—Dent's Japanese tea room on Valentine's Day.
