ACROSTIC.

1. An early English King.
2. A constellation.
3. A great reformer.
4. A celebrated Roman emperor.
5. A celebrated astronomer.

The initials form the name of one of the seven wise men of Greece.

ENIGMA.

A word I am of letters six,
A word familiar name;
If forward I am read, or hence,
The word is still the same.
Curtail me by my head and fall,
And, wondrous to relate,
I'm still a name, and, stranger still,
Forward or backward, which you will,
I alter not my state;
Again remove my tail, you'll see
Another name presented by me.

2. I am composed of sixty 5 letters, and express: 1. What all wish to do. 2. Transport, and I am what all should avoid. 3. Transport, and I am an article of lady's dress. 4. Transpose, and I am a noted Scripture character. 5. Transpose, and I am valuable & sweet.

ANAGRAMS.

1. Hard case. 4. Guess a fearful rain
2. Nine thumps. 5. Tim in a pet.
3. Inner cell. 6. I mean to send it.
7. Daniel R.

ARITHMETICAL CONUNDRUM.

1. There are two numbers such that if ten times the difference of the powers be divided by the difference of their squares, the quotient will be equal to their sum, the product; and the sixth part of the sum of their fifth powers is equal to 6314. Find them.

2. What number is that, which being multiplied by 3, the product increased by 4, and that sum divided by 8, shall give a quotient 33?

ANSWERS TO SPHINX.

Household Matters.

CORN STARCH COCOANUT.—Two cups of sugar; 1 cup of butter; 1 cup of sweet milk; 3 eggs; 1 cup of corn starch; 2 teaspoonfuls cream of tartar; 4 teaspoonfuls soda. Season to suit the taste, mix very soft, roll thin and bake quick.

COCOAN CAKE.—Three eggs or the whites of five; 2 cups white sugar; three cups of flour; 1 cup of sweet milk, 1 cup of butter, 2 teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar, 1 teaspoonful of soda, 1 of lemon.

FRUIT CAKE.—Two pounds of raisins, one pound of currants, three-fourths of a pound of white sugar; half a pound of butter, one-fourth of citron, five eggs, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder; flavor with lemon.

If brooms are wet in boiling suds once a week they will become very tough, will not cut a carpet but last much longer and always sweep like a new broom.

To whiten flannel made yellow by age, dissolve 1½ pounds of white soap in 50 pounds of soft water, and also 1 oz of camphor spirits of turpentine. Immerse the flannel, stir well about for a short time and wash in pure water.

English Leather Belting.

The largest leather belt ever made in England has recently been supplied to a large cotton-spinning mill in Bolton.—This extraordinary belt is stated to have been manufactured from the best descriptions of English leather, and is 38 inches wide and 90 feet long; double, or two thicknesses, without a single cross joint from end to end, and of equal thickness throughout. The belt is for driving direct from the fly-wheel of engine and to transmit three hundred and fifty indicated horse-power. At the same establishment where this prodigious belt was manufactured two others, double belts, have been produced, each 29 inches wide, driving direct from the flywheel of engine. The driving-pulley is 28 feet in diameter and 5 feet on the face, crowned or turned up, and the two belts, one of the latter travel through 4500 feet per minute, transmitting 500 full-rated horse-power, and it is in contemplation such belts are particularly adapted for main driving, and has the advantage of running perfectly straight.—St. Louis Republican.

This belt is really no larger than the large one laid in Ontario & Buffalo R. R. mill, which is 36 inches wide and 110 feet in length.

☞ The AWFUL SUFFERINGS of consumption are so fearful that thousands remain unconscious of its presence until it has brought them to the verge of the grave. The immediate use of "Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers" upon the first appearance of the cough, pain or soreness of the throat or chest, would generally preclude a fatal result therefore, when you take a cold use "Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers," and thus prevent the necessity of taking them in more dangerous complaints. To be obtained of all Druggists and country dealers. Price 25 cents per box.

WAR AND COMMERCE.—It is urged by some that English trade has gained largely by the Franco-German war, and that she has been serving both belligerents to the great advantage of her commercial interest; but official statements prove that such has not been the case. But it is true that the sales of the "Canadian Pain Destroyer" are rapidly increasing, and gaining the confidence of the public, for curing coughs, colds, rheumatism, neuralgia, summer complaints, the pain. For sale by all Druggists and country dealers. Price 25 cents per bottle.

CODS AND HEAD.

"Behaves—behaves—behaves—"

"See, here! You go and stand in the corner."

And now comes a Boston woman who, [illegible]

"I wish I might die," sighed a middle-aged maiden, as she hung like a limp bolster out of the third story front window on a Sunday afternoon and watched a man about the hot sidewalk [illegible] chubbed phiddly propelling an 8 hoop by a cart.

Smith and Brown [illegible] ways around a corner, street [illegible] "Jos, dear! how do you make my [illegible] ring?" said Smith. "That's a sign it's cracked," replied his friend.

The whirligig of fashion may bring round the most sudden and dazzling changes, and the duties of the toilet may be [illegible] to a Palmyrene, but there is nothing that will enable a man to stand before her looking-glass so long as a sunburnt nose.

The "Belle Americaine."—Suitor—"Well, I may hope then, dear, that at some future time I may have the happiness of making you my wife." American charmer—"Yes, Thompson, I'm sure, for I'm getting real tired of being followed for breach of promise of marriage."

An intelligent foreigner, passing through the streets of Philadelphia, cut his nose off at the end of a long walk, and made a little memorandum to the effect that "eighty-nine per centum of the population of Philadelphia are members of the powerful family Roomstolet."

In replying to a toast to the ladies, on a recent occasion, Lord Shaftesbury told a good story of the man, who, when his lordship was present, was riding a donkey by the costermongers in Golden lane: "Somebody or other, I shall never again see a donkey without thinking of your lordship."

The idea of utilizing the exhaust steam of locomotives, not by condensation as in some steam propellers, but by carrying a portion of it along a duct direct from the blast pipe to the injector, and so forcing it into the boiler again, has been successfully carried out by a Manchester, England, mechanic at one of the principal engineering establishments in that city, and in which the inventor is employed.

In accomplishing this results entirely new were made with an engine fitted with the apparatus devised for the purpose, the two parts of the engine brought into requisition being the blast pipe, whence the exhausted steam now escapes after it has done its work, and the injector which, by the aid of steam, forces cold water into the boiler. A duct inserted at the base of the blast pipe catches a portion of the steam and conveys it to the injector, where it is introduced below the point at which the steam at pressure enters the cold water.

The water and the exhaust steam are forced together [illegible] at the same time. When the boiler is filled, the exhaust steam is conveyed through an extended overflow pipe into a tank water-tank, and thence it is reconveyed at boiling point through [illegible] back into the boiler [illegible] exhaust steam and cold water. A saving of some $600 per annum of fuel by this engine is claimed for the ingenious device.

WHAT THEY SAY OF IT! A few facts for THE PEOPLE. There are but few cases of medicine which have withstood the test of time. Of these is the "Oxygenated Bitters." Read the following and be convinced. [illegible] Fonham Centre, P. Q., writes, "I have been afflicted with Rheumatism in my limbs for ten years, and have tried many celebrated remedies, but I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and since then have had no return of the rheumatism." [illegible] writes, "I have been troubled with liver complaint for several years, and have tried many remedies with little or no benefit. Your Oxygenated Bitters and Eclectric Oil, which gave me immediate relief, and I have used it since with the best effect. No one suspecting it would be thus benefited, I was induced to place it in place of bitters, wondering what it would do, and it proved to be equally as good for horses as for man."—A. Mayhew, Brechin, Ontario, writes, "I have used some hundreds of bottles of Eclectric Oil, and it is proved out by the public, one of the best medicines they have ever used; it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throats, colds, and is worthy of the encomiums and fame."—Jos. Harper, Perth, Ontario, writes, "I have used Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for a lame back with distress and for three or four years, and I never found anything like it for curing immediately. It is a most valuable remedy."—A. H. Hamilton, Vankleek Hill, writes, "For years I was afflicted with Chronic Diarrhœa, and was very much reduced. Mr. Mayhew of this place induced me to try Eclectric Oil, and before my bottle was used I was cured. It is a most remarkable medicine."

Clothes for the Heathen.

(From the Philadelphia Bulletin.)

About a year ago [illegible] tain Dorcas Society made up a large quantity of clothing, [illegible] and sent them to a missionary station on the west coast of Africa. [illegible] with the [illegible] several months. When he returned the Dorcas Society, [illegible] to hear how its clothing had [illegible] and Ridley, one evening, met the members and told them [illegible] a little speech. He [illegible] "Well, you know, we put the clothes out there all right, and after a while we distributed them among some of the natives in the 'neighbourhood.' [illegible] thought maybe it would interest them to the mission, but it didn't. And after some time had elapsed, and not a native came to church with the clothes on, I went out on an exploring expedition to find out about it. It seems that to the first day after the goods were distributed one of the chiefs attempted to mount a shirt. He didn't exactly understand it, and he pushed his legs through the arms, and gathered the shirt up around his waist. He couldn't make it stay out, however, and so [illegible] inquiring in his native tongue what kind of an idiot it was that had [illegible] government that wouldn't hang on, and cursed some of the most awful heathen oaths. At last he got [illegible] and that night he got his legs tangled in the [illegible] and fell over a precipice and was killed.

"Another chief [illegible] perly went paddling around in the dark, and the people, imagining that he was a ghost, sacrificed four babies to keep off the evil spirit.

"And then, you know, those trousers you sent out? Well they fitted one pair on, all right, and then they started a craze of the rest with frenzy and [illegible] up as a kind of new religious dance and began to worship them. They say that the services were very impressive. Some of the women split a few pairs in half, and after sewing up the legs, used them to carry jars in, and I have seen a chief with a corduroy leg on his head as a kind of helmet.

"I think though the socks were most popular. All the fighting men went for them the first thing. They filled them with sand and used them as boomerangs and war clubs. I learned that they were so much pleased with the efficacy of those socks that they made a raid on a neighboring tribe on purpose to get them, and they say they knocked about eighty women and children on the head before they came home. They asked me if I wouldn't speak to you and get you to send out a few barrels more, and to make them a little more [illegible] they'd last longer, and I said I would.

"This society is doing a powerful good to those heathen, and I'd no doubt if you keep right along with the work you will inaugurate a general war all over the continent of Africa, and give every body an idol of his own. All they want is enough socks and trousers. They like them when I go out again."

Then the Dorcas passed a resolution declaring that it would, perhaps, be better to let the heathen go naked and give the clothes to the poor at home. Maybe that is the better way.

MANHOOD.
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

Just published, a new edition of DR. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical cure (without medicine) of Spermatorrhœa or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., also Consumption, Epilepsy and Fits, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance, &c.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Sent under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, post-paid, on receipt of six cents or two postamps. Address the publishers.

Chip Basket.

THE Sandwich Islands made their debut at the Centennial this year with a basket of the bread tree fruit. There is also a basket very elaborately made of feathers.

Among the pottery exhibited in the Chinese department of the Centennial is a shallow soup-bowl, made of bronze gilt and enamelled, which is 4,000 years old. There are also pieces of chinaware dating back 1,000 years.

Two large cheeses made in Buffalo, N. Y., are on exhibition at Philadelphia. One of them weighs 12, the other 14. They are [illegible] on twelve feet high, and bound with [illegible] hoops [illegible]
