Concrete Roads Exceed Farmer's Expectations

THIS LETTER FROM MR. GEO. W. BURT, of Redford, Wayne County, Michigan, shows how well satisfied the farmers of that section are with concrete roads. Nearly one hundred miles have been built in Wayne County.

"Mr. Edward N. Hines,
Board of County Road Commissioners,
Wayne County, Detroit, Mich.

Dear Sir:—

Our concrete roads are far ahead of the expectations of the majority of us farmers. Where we used to be two days marketing fifty bushels of produce, we now market twice as much in one day, and can go to the city anytime we want to. We do not have to wait till the roads are good so we can go. Also, our horses and waggons will last twice as long.

Hoping you will keep right on building these roads, and that the county will stand back of this movement, I remain,

Yours truly,
(Sgd.) Geo. W. Burt
Redford, Wayne County, Mich.

Concrete Roads

are the best, cheapest and most satisfactory roads that can be built. Best, because they permit bigger loads, increase land values and improve conditions generally. Cheapest, because they are permanent and require practically no repairs, which permits road taxes to be spent in building more good roads. Most satisfactory, because they are open to traffic every day in the year, lower cost of marketing and cost of living and increase the farmer's profits.

Good Roads literature telling all about concrete roads will be sent, free, to everyone interested. Write to

GARDEN PARTY ON ST. AGNES GROUNDS

Successful Affair Given by Quinte Chapter I.O.D.E. for Shelter.

From Saturday's Daily

The spacious and shaded lawn of St. Agnes school was even more beautiful than usual on Friday afternoon and evening, when the members of Quinte Chapter Imperial Order of Daughters of the Empire gave a garden party and afternoon tea from 4 until 8 o'clock. Numerous booths and been erected in places of vantage and the school grounds had been decorated under the direction of Miss Clarke. The Oddfellows' orchestra stationed in a pavilion rendered music. The event had as its object, sweet charity in behalf of the Children's Shelter

Yesterday's function was a very successful affair, financially and socially. The gate receipts alone reached seventy dollars. Here were stationed Miss Clara Yeomans and Miss Fraleck. The tea room was located beneath the shade of the trees on the east side. Here Mrs. C. M. Stork and Mrs. H. Corby poured tea. The refreshments were in charge of Mrs. Dolan and Mrs. Henry Sneyd, assisted by Mrs. Marshall, Mrs. Jenkins, Mrs. Kinncar, Mrs. Walter Lingham, Mrs. Earle, Mrs. McKeown, Mrs. Lockwood and Mrs. Coughlin. The seventeen young ladies who served were Miss Georgie Springer, Miss Jean Clinton, Miss Jessie McGie, the Misses Phippen, Miss LaVoie, Miss Hambly, Miss M. Stork, Miss Kate Lazier, Miss Panter, the Misses Anderson, Miss Kathleen Milburn, Miss Carlaw, Miss Dot Farrow, Miss Jones, and Miss Monica Livingstone. The refreshments included ices, lemonades, orangeades, sandwiches and everything of a cooling nature

The candy counter decorated in pink and white was presided over by Mrs. Fred B. Smith assisted by Miss Marjorie Johnson, Miss Helen Masson, Miss Helen Rathbun, and Miss Marjorie Warren

Mrs. S. Robertson and Miss Hurley were in charge of the homemade cooking department. The sales included bread and jams

The fancy work booth was copiously decorated with flags. The delicate fabrics and articles of beauty were in charge of Mrs. D. M. Waters, Mrs E. G. Porter and Mrs. A. Gillen

Fortune telling was one of the features of the affair. The three ladies who held the hands of the curious were Mrs. Gingras, who saw destiny in the turn of the cards; Miss Waters, in gypsy garb who looked at the palm and saw lines and therein reasons for hopes and fears of future days and Miss Campbell who in a cup of dregs could read the riddle of fate and the innermost secrets of nature's heart. Many patronized these innocent amusements and paid toll to the expert local palmists and seers.

Mrs. P. J. M. Anderson, regent of the Quinte Chapter, received the visitors to the grounds.

The Rev. David Wren, of Brussels, Ontario is visiting Mrs. Wren's parents, Mr and Mrs. B. Mallory.

The Band Concert that was to have taken place on West Belleville Playgrounds last night, is postponed until Friday night.

Mr. Geo. A. Kingston, publisher of The Campbellford Herald, was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs F. O. Herity yesterday

AUTO SMASHED INTO BUGGY

Two Men Thrown Out on Kingston Road Last Evening.

An automobile smash occurred on the Kingston road last evening at 7.40. Two men, Alexander Bales and William Rawlinson, were driving in a buggy towards the city, when, they say, without a moment's warning, an automobile owned by a man in Kingston ran into them, smashing their buggy and throwing them both out of the vehicle. The men were considerably injured

The police were notified at 7.50 and an officer went to Hotel Quinte where the Kingston man was putting up and interviewed him as to the accident. He satisfied the policeman as to his name and address and later accompanied Sergt. Harman to the police station. He came to a settlement with the men for $20, which he paid them.

WHY 12TH JULY IS CELEBRATED

The question has been asked why the Battle of the Boyne is celebrated on the 12th of July, when English history says the battle was fought on July 1st. On the first of July, 1690, a decisive victory was won by King William over the Irish and French who led by King James, Tyrconnel and Lauzen, made a stand behind the River Boyne. William's army forced the passage after a sharp struggle. William himself leading his cavalry through the river, and, with his sword in his left hand—for his other arm was crippled by a wound—showing himself wherever a fight was hottest His best general, Marshall Schomberg, a German Protestant, who had once been in French service, was killed while rallying the Huguenots in William's army.

King James, when he saw the day going against him, galloped off, and reproaching his troops with cowardice made his way to the coast, whence he sailed for France.

The reduction of Ireland to England was effected the next year by the Dutch general, Ginkell, afterwards created Earl of Athlone, who gained, July 12th, 1691, the battle of Aghrim, over the Irish and their new French General, St. Ruth, who fell in the fight.

In 1751 was passed the statute for the reform of the kalendar, The Julian Kalendar(so called because it owed its origin to Julius Caesar) made the year too long at the rate of nearly three days in four hundred years. In the 16th century the error had been corrected under a regulation of Pope Gregory XIII., and the alteration of new style, had been in course of time accepted by most Christian countries But in the British Dominions people still went on with the old style, until at length the day they called the first of the month was in other lands the twelfth,—in short, they were eleven days wrong in their reckoning. By the statute of 1751, these nominal days were dropped out of the month of September, 1752, and the new style was adopted. By the same statute the legal year, instead of beginning as formerly, on the 25th March is reckoned from the 1st of January. In Russia to-day the old style is still in vogue, and there are now twelve days difference.

Some forty odd years after the change in kalendar, the Loyal Orange Association was formed and the leaders of the Association having been young men when the change in the kalendar was made, decided to celebrate the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne, on the day of the month it was fought according to the new style, which would be really the 12th of July, in fact, French histories and German histories give it as being fought on the 12th, as those countries had accepted the new style before the Battle of the Boyne was fought.

The first regular Orange Lodges were founded in 1795, but the system existed earlier. The orange flowers of the Lilium bulbiferum are worn on July 1st and on July 12th the anniversaries of the Boyne and of Aghrim but by celebrating the anniversary of Boyne by the new style and Aghrim by the old style kalendar both would fall on July 12th and so it has come to be almost universal among Orangemen to keep the one day as the anniversary of both events although still at the present day the orange flowers are worn in Ireland by Orangemen both the 1st and the 12th of July
