DANDIES IN PETTICOATS.

Greek Youths Who Wear Inverted Balloons for Breeches.

One of the biggest surprises in nether garments the whole world round is worn by the Grecian dudes one sees on the streets of Constantinople. Imagine, says The Pittsburg Commercial, a sky blue silk balloon, bottom side up and fastened round the wearer's waist, two neat-fitting leg-holes made in the bulge, and the whole bulb collapsed and swaddled about the legs when walking, and you can imagine the lower story of a Greek dude.

His trunk is enveloped in a tight-fitting jacket of some other shade of blue, with loose flowing sleeves and white furbelows showing underneath. His head is adorned with a Greek fez, from which an enormous black or blue tassel hangs down his back. This ornamental appendage looks as if ever on the eve of pulling the fez off the wearer's head by its great weight. He wears the ordinary brogans and socks and sometimes leaves the calves of the legs bare.

Sometimes the Greek dude carries a cane, but he carries it for use quite as much as for ornament, or, at all events, walks with it in a business-like manner. He walks with a gait awkward and ungraceful, but even were he a naturally graceful walker his ungainly nether garment imparts to him a decidedly grotesque appearance.

The chief delight of the Greek dude is to sit in front of a kahvay shop, smoke nargilehs and watch the ladies pass by. Those of his own nationality are wearing garments but slightly different from his own, the footholes in the inverted balloon being nearer the bottom, but this is about all.

Give Them a Chance!

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air-passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, croup, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of em. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain. 135

Photography.

—Everyone nowadays possesses a photo, if not of themselves, of their friends. The art has reached almost perfection, and specially may this be said of the first-class productions of Mr. Lemaitre, 324 Yonge-street. A visit to his studio will repay the exertion, even during the dog days. All who desire a photograph in really high class style and finish should patronize Mr. Lemaitre, whose reputation is so well known. 36

The Housewife Sings OF WALKER.

Through the house I gaily sing,
My heart with joy is bounding,
From the basement to the roof
WALKER'S praises sounding.

Like the snow-flake on the branch
WALKER'S curtains hanging,
See my youngest daughter Blanche
WALKER'S Piano banging.

WALKER'S bed and WALKER'S chairs,
WALKER'S plates and dishes,
WALKER'S cornucopia fills
All a housewife's wishes.

Who is WALKER? What is he?
I can hear you saying.
WALKER shows the multitude
An easy way of paying.

Paying for the goods they need,
Just as they are able.
These are really solemn facts,
And no foolish fable.

Just a year ago to-day,
WALKER'S store I made for.
WALKER furnished all my house,
Now it's nearly paid for.

Nothing gives a housewife a greater sense of pleasure than having her home nicely furnished, and nothing is easier than to secure on easy instalments household furniture, bedding, carpets, oilcloths, linoleums, dinner sets, cutlery, oil stoves, etc., from

THE PERMANENT EXHIBITION OF MANUFACTURES AND Commercial Exchange,
63, 65, 67, 69 Front-st. west,
Opposite Queen's Hotel.
Nicholls & Howland,
TORONTO.

We invite attention to the following particulars:

Under the pressure of keen competition, economy in the manufacture of goods has been a constant source of study, and in most establishments every avenue of waste has been closed and every perfected method of production has been adopted.

It is far different with the distribution of goods, and it is the very necessary economy in this direction that we have in view, as it matters not how cheaply goods may be manufactured if the expense of selling them is so great as to swallow up most of the margin of estimated profit.

A number of outside firms now have and many more are finding out the necessity of having a branch office in this city. In many cases such offices are located on a side street, and are visited only by those who go there purposely on business bent. In maintaining such offices expense has to be incurred for salaries, rent, light, heat, caretaking, telephone, etc., etc., and no matter how the expense of each item is curtailed, the annual cost is bound to be a large one.

It is our object to afford a practical arrangement whereby this unavoidable expenditure may be largely reduced, while at the same time the benefits sought to be attained will be very much greater. For a moderate rental we offer every advantage of a private branch office, with the additional advantage of being represented in a trade centre or "commercial exchange," where an exhibitor's goods will be seen by thousands of businessmen throughout the year. To an appreciable extent our Exhibition will change the existing order of things, as in many instances the customer will visit the agent instead of the agent having to hunt up the customer.

The Permanent Exhibition will be open free to the public, every week day.

Extensive advertising will keep the Exhibition and its advantages fresh in the minds of the people.

Power and shafting is provided for exhibitors who may wish to show machinery in operation.

Instructed attendants will be in charge for the purpose of explaining the merits of each exhibit to interested visitors.

It is designed to supply the long-felt want of a central exchange, wherein goods can be kept on show for the inspection of the thousands who come up month after month to this commercial metropolis.

It is also in contemplation to provide, for the convenience of outside manufacturers and for city merchants and brokers, suitable accommodation for meeting and transacting business, and which may be designated as a "CHAMBER OF COMMERCE," or "TRADE EXCHANGE." For example, a manufacturer whose works are located in an outside town, but who makes periodical business trips to Toronto, can advertise on his office stationery that either himself or representative may always be found, between stated hours on certain days, at the Permanent Exhibition. Other particulars, such as accommodation for trade sales, etc., will be made public at a later date.

DIRECTORY OF EXHIBITORS.

The following firms are already represented in the Permanent Exhibition. Their manufactures have a deservedly high reputation, and are recommended to the notice of intending purchasers of any of the respective lines in the following list.
