NEW ART MUSEUM FINALLY OPENED AT THE GRANGE

Sir Edmund Walker Orders Admittance of Public to Exhibition.

NEW ERA IS BEGUN

Royal Canadian Academy of Arts and Ontario Society of Artists Are Interested.

A new era in the art world of Toronto opened yesterday afternoon when, at 14 minutes to four o'clock, Sir Edmund Walker declared the new Art Museum open to the public. The occasion was the opening of the joint exhibition of the Royal Canadian Academy of Arts and of the Ontario Society of Artists, and this happy conjunction of the leading art bodies of the Dominion formed an appropriate opportunity for the inauguration of the new building which has been in contemplation, as Sir Edmund Walker explained, for 17 years past. The site at first selected was on Bloor street, next to the Ontario Royal Museum, but when Dr. Goldwin Smith and Mrs. Smith signified their intention of presenting the City of Toronto with the Grange homestead property, a charter was obtained from the government for the Art Museum giving the trustees authority to expropriate property, and the 16 houses north of the Grange were taken over with the intention of affording room for expansion in the future. The war having come on it was decided to do nothing until it was over, and the art societies continued to meet in the public library rooms which were not intended for this purpose and were, in fact, unsuitable. Notice having been given that these rooms could no longer be obtained, it was decided that a portion of the plan agreed upon be carried out, and the southern portion of the design has been erected with the funds gathered many years ago. The whole property is held in trust for the citizens, and what is not built on is available for park purposes. There is room for future expansion up to any limit that the city is ever likely to require, and as an art centre, when complete, it will be worthy of the nation.

Citizens Must Support it.

Sir Edmund outlined these facts in an interesting address in which he paid tribute to the generosity of Dr and Mrs. Goldwin Smith. The citizens, he said, must now do something towards the support of the enterprise.

E. Wyly Grier expressed the gratification of the artists in finding themselves in a place in the sun, altho until the new shades had been installed it might be too sunny. The galleries were ideal in the view of the artists, as their pictures were given a setting which made them look better than in their inner consciousness they knew they really were. Mr. Grier felt that it was to Sir Edmund Walker himself that they owed the successful realization of their hopes.

There was a large attendance and after the two addresses those present dispersed to view the pictures and sculpture. The rooms are lofty and lighted from the top, leaving the wall space entirely free. Experiments have been made with the flooring, one room being floored with linoleum of a special kind, one with teak, one with marquetry and one with marble.

Chocolate Cream Complexions

One of the good things the war has done is to increase the price of candy. For the higher confectionery goes the less people are apt to eat it—and the more benefit to their complexions.

You've heard of peaches and cream complexions, haven't you? But have you ever heard of a chocolate cream one? You'd be surprised at the number of them, especially on young girls and young men. I know so many who feel that nature has slighted them by giving them a muddy skin, or who write that they think their liver is at fault; but tonics don't seem to affect it—when the only trouble is that they've been overloading their stomachs with chocolate and sugar.

Now, there is no better concentrated food than sweet chocolate, or chocolate creams. Both sugar and chocolate are foods in highly concentrated form. If you want to win the everlasting love of your soldier boy, just send him a lot of sweet chocolate; he's exercising vigorously and the sweet won't hurt him. But for the average young girl, chocolate creams and such come as surplus nourishment, keeping the stomach at work at all sorts of irregular intervals. They load the system with material which, because of her more sedentary life, it is hard to throw off. And this means pimples and a muddy tinge to the skin that is anything but becoming.

A little candy is quite all right, and if the digestion and the complexion are both healthy it can be eaten between meals. But for the average girl or lad, candy should be taken around meal times only, and then sparingly.

Questions and Answers.

Fay—If you are using a tonic or a soap on your hair now, it may be that some chemical action in these is turning your hair reddish. Your hair should be washed with warm water and a soap jelly made by dissolving a cake of cocoanut oil soap in enough hot water to form a syrup or a thin jelly. Use nothing but soap and water for the shampoo.

An oil tonic will tend to darken the hair. You can try one. But if you use no chemical or bleach on the hair I don't think it will redden. A certain tinge of auburn will make the hair rich looking. Have you recently moved to Great Falls? Sometimes climate affects the color of the hair.

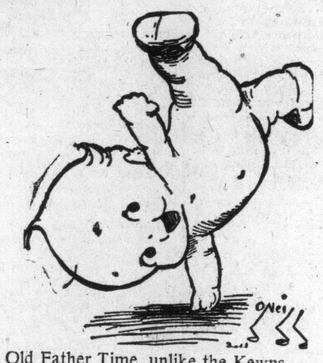
The Kewpie Korner by Kewpiegram—Rose O'Neill



Old Father Time, unlike the Kewps
Brings wrinkles, rheumatiz and droops
And when you say you're growing old
He rubs his hands and grows more bold.
So Kewps advise: "Don't say a thing,
But rise and turn a brisk handspring."

SOCIETY

CONDUCTED BY MRS. EDMUND PHILLIPS

At a recent investiture by His Majesty the King at Buckingham Palace, the C. M. G. was conferred on Brig.-Gen. J. MacBrien.

The formal opening of the Art Museum at The Grange took place yesterday afternoon when nearly three hundred people were present. Sir Edmund Walker gave a very interesting sketch of the late Mrs. Goldwyn Smith's legacy of the Grange. The old house is in its one hundredth year of existence, having belonged to her first husband, the late Mr. William Boulton. The entrance to the beautiful new galleries is at present thru the drawing-room of The Grange. Mr. Wyly Grier also spoke at some length on the advantage of the galleries to the artistic world of Toronto. The marble-panelled hall leading to the picture gallery was arranged in very effective fashion with oriental rugs, and at the sculpture end in the distance, palms, ferns and flowers made a vista, the teak and inlaid floors also were much admired. All the beauties in a great measure are owing to Sir Edmund's clever and artistic assistant, Mr. Edward Greig, whom it is a pleasure to meet with his unfailing courtesy to everyone going to The Grange, no matter what their business. Among those present were Lady Walker, Mrs. Carl Hunter, Mr. Chinn, (Mrs. Goldwin Smith's butler), Mrs. E. F. B. Johnston, Mrs. A. E. DISCUSS MOTHERS' PENSIONS.

Definite Steps Taken at Toronto Graduate Nurses' Club.

Concrete form has been given to the movement for mothers' pensions thru the conference held at the Toronto Graduate Nurses' Club at which Mrs. A. H. Huestis presided and many societies were represented. Mrs. Huestis pointed out what had been done experimentally by the Local Council of Women by providing a small income for mothers who had been deprived of their means of support and who had thus been enabled to stay at home with their children. She had been informed that in Ontario 1000 children were removed from their homes annually owing to poverty alone.

The following were appointed a committee to draft a bill and to make a presentation of the subject to the Ontario Government in the near future: Rev. Peter Bryce (convenor), Mrs. Huestis, Brother Rogation, Father Bench, Miss Foster, R. E. Mills, Miss Barclay, Dr. Brittain, Judge Boyd, Dr. Hastings, J. J. Kelso, Dr. Helen MacMurchy, Rabbi Jacobs, Inspector McKinney, Miss Dyke, Dr. Margaret Patterson, Mrs. L. A. Hamilton, Mrs. Wilkins, A. H. Burnett, J. M. Wyatt.

The name of the bill may take some such form as mothers' allowances, provincial grants to children or child aid.

ART EXHIBIT POSTPONED.
