GETTING MARRIED.

The New Responsibilities and Their Relation to Art.

Getting married has many advantages. Sometimes, as Liszt realized, it stops the career of some young woman who threatens to be a musician without a soul. On one occasion in the master's studio a tall young woman played Mendelssohn's Rondo Capriccioso. It was not a great performance technically or temperamentally. Liszt grasped her by the hand when she had finished, and said: "My dear, get married." There are thousands of young people who love the famous Rondo, but whose attempts to play it are, to say the least, unhappy. Their fingers have not the facility of the Gourlay Angelus. This marvellous instrument provides a finished technique for every one. The operator has at his command every possible gradation in tempo and in dynamics. By the pressure of one finger he can accomplish wonders. If the Player is operated by a person of sensitive musical temperament, the result is fully as good from an artistic viewpoint as the performance of a Hoffman or a Paderewski. This is a large claim, but it is supported by Fritz Kreisler, the eminent violinist, whose musical sense no one will question. Mr. Kreisler, speaking of the Angelus, says: "It offers the possibility of obtaining every expression and accentuation in playing, and to produce the finest shading of tone and dynamic." A combination of the Angelus as the part of such a sterling piano as the Gourlay is worthy of the attention of every musician. The firm of Gourlay, Winter & Leeming has accomplished a great thing in the production of the Gourlay Angelus. See it at the warerooms, 66 King street west.

SECRET BALLOT.

France Practically Adopts Australian Ballot.

Paris, June 13.—The Chamber of Deputies to-day adopted an amendment to the existing voting law, which practically puts into effect the secret Australian ballot system. Although universal suffrage was instituted in France in 1846, there always has been much complaint of the system of the marking of ballots in public. This enabled the big land owners and manufacturers and political manipulators to exercise duress on the voters.

WAS TOO LATE.

Telegram Came Offering Man Job After Suiciding.

Buffalo, June 13.—David J. Herrick committed suicide at a hotel here to-day by shooting himself through the head. He leaves a wife and several children in Coxsackie, N. Y. Herrick left a letter addressed to a brother at Coxsackie, in which he said he had been wandering around looking for work. He had written a Mr. Cole in Chicago, by whom he had been employed at one time, asking for employment, and not receiving a reply had become despondent. Very soon after shooting himself a telegram was received at the hotel from Cole, offering him a position.

BURNED TO DEATH.

Prisoner Set Fire to Cell So He Could Get to Circus.

Rouse's Point, N. Y., June 13.—A desire to see the circus which came to town yesterday cost Fred Sanschogan his life. He had started out early in the morning, intending to see the parade, and afterwards attend the show, but his plans were disarranged by a policeman, who arrested him during the forenoon on a charge of intoxication and placed him in the town lock-up, a small frame building. Sanschogan made several vain attempts to bring about his release in time to see the circus, and as a last resort set fire to the door of the prison, apparently believing he would be liberated as soon as the flames were seen. The fire spread so quickly, however, that the whole building was enveloped before assistance came, and it was too late to rescue the prisoner, and he was burned to death.

OLDEST CHURCH ORGAN

Found on Island of Gothland and in Excellent State of Preservation.

In the Baltic Sea, forty miles from the mainland, lies the Swedish Island Gothland, a Mecca for students of early Gothic architecture. In Wisby alone, the chief town of the island, with its population of 8,000 souls, may be studied what remains of no less than ten churches, some of which date from the eleventh and twelfth centuries. The oldest of them is the Church of the Holy Ghost, completed about 1046.

Prof. Hennerberg, director in a German music school, and especially interested in the study of medieval organs, visited fifty-nine church in Gothland, and in a little village named Sundre came upon the remnant of what is unquestionably the oldest known organ in existence. The case alone has survived the fret of seven centuries, the holes for pedals and manuals are placed as in modern instruments, and inside one can see the chamber for the bellows and judge of their action; the exterior is adorned with paintings dating from about 1240.

When this ancient instrument could no longer serve its original purpose it was used as a sacristy, and for the safeguard of holy vessels and vestments was kept in careful repair, hence its excellent preservation to our day.—Youths' Companion.

P. CHRISTOPHER'S

FLOWERS FOR THE YOUNG LADIES.

To the Editor of the Times:

Sir,—Allow me the privilege of bringing before the generous hearted ladies of Hamilton a little matter in connection with the Y. W. C. A., whereby I think they could make glad the young ladies who reside in that institution, or who may go there for their meals.

Nice, fresh cut flowers every day on the dining room table, and bouquets scattered throughout the different rooms in the building, would add a brightness and a welcome, which would be very acceptable. God has given an abundance of the beauties of nature in the way of flowers to many of our citizens. Why not share them with those who are not so well blessed in that respect?

I hope the good ladies will respond, and that for the remainder of the summer there will be plenty of flowers freely provided for this noble Young Women's Christian Association on Main street. Yours sincerely, Frederick W. Watkins, member Advisory Board, Y. W. C. A.

Wisdom and wit are about evenly balanced in an utterance of Britain's new Prime Minister, which lately went the rounds in England.

Mr. Asquith was recently speaking in a Welsh town, when he was somewhat rudely interrupted by a voice in the audience, which demanded to know his position as to woman suffrage.

"That," Mr. Asquith replied, blandly, "is a subject I prefer to discuss when ladies are not present."
