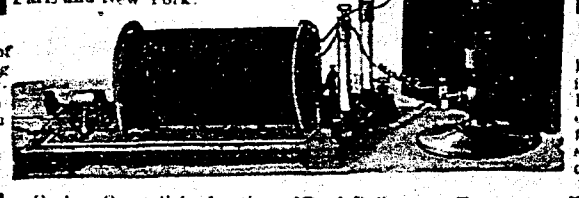
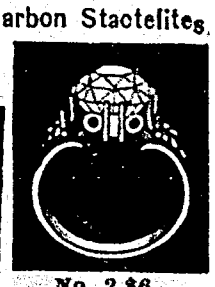
DIAMONDS OF SCIENCE.
Ballantyne Hannay, F.C.S. Lon., Eng., Crystalization of Carbon Stactelites.

No. 1 $4.
Exact fac-simile of pure 18-karat gold ring plain Paladin mounting, with select 2-karat diamond of great beauty, price $4.

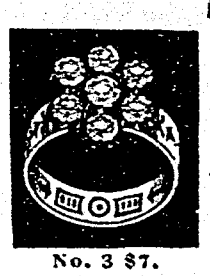
These dazzling stones are so hard and brilliant as to deceive such eminent experts of chemistry as Professors Tyndall and Smith of the Glasgow Academy of Science, who declared for a time that these were the real Diamonds. The leading newspapers, such as the London Times, New York Herald and Chicago Tribune contained in their columns, December, 1879, the news that the real gem was discovered, and that a perfect panic existed among the great Diamond merchants of London, Paris and New York.



Carbon Crystalizing section of Prof. Ballantyne Hannay's wonderful Electric machine for producing the Diamond.



No. 2 $6.
This cut shows 18-karat gold ring, heavier than No. 1, artistic Parisian Royale design of mounting, with perfectly dazzling 3-karat stone, a veritable star of brilliancy, price $6



No. 3 $7.
This shows 15 karat gold cluster ring for ladies—masterpiece of jewellers' art in design and finish, and contains 7 1-3 karat Diamonds, price $7.

These rings are each put into a morocco leather covered and satin lined ring box, and sent to any address on receipt of price. They are perfectly dazzling in brilliancy both night and day, and mounted in mint coin gold with exquisite art in workmanship, in fact every one who sees these beautiful ornaments say that they equal any $500 rings they ever saw.

The often cleaned the brighter they become—a drop of hartshorn dry in saw-dust—same as natural stone. References furnished to leading banks and manufacturers. Goods sent by registered mail on receipt of price, or on approval by express C.O.D., on receipt of $1. to cover charges. Address,
