ELECTION SPEECHES GALORE

WILL BE DELIVERED AT OTTAWA NEXT WEEK.

With the Tariff as a Nominal Test—Guessing the Date of the Elections—Charlton Desires the Age of Consent Raised—Neelock After the Members Charging Mildage After Using Passes:

OTTAWA, March 30.—The tariff debate has reached a lull, and it will be from this time on until D'Alton McCarthy chooses to speak and place himself on record on the question. Speeches that are now being made are essentially stump speeches and in no way based upon the actual facts of the tariff and how the various industries are affected by it. Another week will likely be wasted in this deluge of words and no practical good come of it, because none of the speakers seem to be concerned with the discussion of the tariff on its merits in regard to individual articles. All are striving to show that one side or the other side has been guilty of inconsistencies of some kind, has been corrupt and has stolen a policy, one from the other.

As was said before, the real events of the tariff will be discussed in committee, when each article is passed on, and where the views of the various industries affected will be presented by friends of these industries and attacked by those who oppose them. This will bring out the real issues concerned.

Speculating as to the Date of the Elections.

Considerable speculation has taken place as to the time of holding the next general election. Quite a number of Conservatives are of the opinion that the tariff is practically a campaign document and that the Cabinet will make it a pretext of going to the country at the earliest possible date. As far as The World can see the election cannot very well take place until the lists have been revised and there is no likelihood of the revision being completed in all the counties before the end of the present year. While it is possible to hold an election any time this summer on the old lists, it is not at all likely that the election will be held until after the revision, and if the revision cannot take place until December another session, probably a short one, early next year would be held before an appeal to the country.

But there are a great many Conservatives who hold that there is no need for an appeal to the country, that the revision ought to be proceeded with deliberately, and a full session of Parliament held in 1895, and some even go so far as to say that a short session should be held in 1896, and then the appeal to the country. It would be quite constitutional to hold a session in 1896, but all this is mere speculation, and the public can choose whichever of the above suggestions seem to suit them best. In the meantime they may be prepared for another week of stump speaking on the tariff by members on both sides of the House who wish to air their views and who have no desire to discuss the tariff in detail.

Vinegar Men Sour on the Changed Tariff.

Representations continue to be made to the Government by various industries in regard to the working of the new measure, which most of them hold is either too sweeping or in some other way prejudicial to their welfare.

The vinegar men were here to-day in force to protest against the doubling of the excise duty on vinegar, and it is likely that Mr. Wood, the Controller of Inland Revenue, will recommend a modification of the proposed advance. What the vinager men say in effect is, that if the excise duty is increased, and they take it that the object of the increase is to enlarge the revenue of the country, that it will not have that effect, but a contrary one, and simply bring about decreased consumption of the article in question. One of the difficulties of the situation is the fact that the Government must, if they cut down the taxation, look for other sources of revenue, and they find that they have a very limited field in which to search for it.

Demand for Reduced Postage.

There is a pressing demand for reduced postage and for the establishing of rates in regard to books and the like in Canada, the same as they have in the United States, and, while the Postmaster-General is very anxious to make these concessions and to increase the postal facilities, he is blocked by the fact that the Finance Minister is unable to provide the funds necessary to carry out these improvements.

A lot of the members leave to-night for their homes, and will no doubt be waited on to-morrow by the manufacturers affected by the proposed tariff changes.

To Amend the Criminal Code.

In the House this afternoon Mr. Charlton introduced his bill to amend the clauses of the Criminal Code relating to seduction and abduction so as to raise the age of consent from 16 to 18 and reducing the age of persons liable to prosecution for seduction under promise of marriage from 21 to 18.

A number of questions were answered, amongst them one by the Hon. Mr. Foster in reply to Mr. Fairbairn to the effect that the Government had no official information as to the removal of the embargo against the importation of Canadian cattle into Great Britain.

By consent the order paper was run through and a number of unopposed motions for returns carried.

Three Speeches on the Budget.

Mr. Hazen resumed the debate on the Budget and spoke until a few minutes to six approving of the tariff changes from a New Brunswick standpoint and expressing pleusure that the new tariff wrs introduced by a gentleman from that province (Hon. Mr. Foster).

Mr. Landerkin spoke up to recess and for nearly an hour after, talkikg about almost everything except the tariff changes. The doctor is the low comedian—very low—of the Opposition and managed to amuse the members of his party and and a few boys in the gallery.

Mr. Hasslam, the new member from British Columbia, followed.

Mr. Perry spoke until 11 and the adjournment of the debate was moved by Mr. Davin.

Notes.

To-morrow's Canada Gazette will contain notices of application for letters patent to incorporate the following companies: Colling Meat Company, headquarters Collingwood, capital $200,000; Packard Electric Company, headquarters Montreal, capital $300,000; Dominion Publishing Company, Montreal, capital $10,000; Canadian Press News Association, Montreal, capital $1000.

In the Senate to-day only routine business was transacted.

Mr. Scott Barlow, chief draughtsman of the Geological Survey and one of the oldest members of the staff, died last evening from blood poisoning caused by an ulcerated tooth.

The bills introduced in the Senate and Commons relating to those houses prohibits members of Parliament accepting passes from railway companies and then charging mileage for coming to Ottawa and returning home.

TENDERS FOR SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

The Committee Adopt a Decision Which the Contractors May Possibly Not Approve.

The reconsideration of the tenders for school supplies formed the business for the School Board Supply Committee yesterday afternoon. Trustees McDonell, Baird, Kerr, Hambly, Whiteside and Chairman Clarke were present. The contracts will be awarded to those firms quoting the lowest figures for each separate item, and where two or more firms are equal in any certain item the contract for said item will be divided among such firms. This means that Gage & Co. will receive the lion's share, as their tenders were lowest in the greatest number of items. Some trouble may arise from this mode of division, as the interested firms have offered some articles below cost, doing so under the impression that the tenders were to be given en bloc for the goods under which head these articles fall. A communication was received from Gage & Co. calling the attention of the committee to this fact and intimating that it would be unjust to ask a firm to supply certain goods below cost provided they were not awarded the tenders for those items on which they would have a margin. What the result will be remains to be seen.

Fugitive Sutherland of Gravesend Read The World and Left.

A few days ago The World announced that Kenneth F. Sutherland, the fugitive Justice of the Peace of Gravesend, N.Y., was in Toronto. He read The World next morning and left on the first train for Montreal, where he told a reporter yesterday he intended to take up his residence permanently.

When Sutherland left Brooklyn he went directly to Buffalo. There he disguised himself somewhat and remained for two days. From Buffalo he went to Hamilton and from Hamilton to Toronto. He stayed in Toronto for a week and then went to Montreal.

Sutherland is taking no pains to conceal his identity. He is posing as a martyr and giving everybody to understand that he is more sinned against than sinning. He admits that he was a protege of McKane, but says that he did no more than any other person would have done in similar circumstances. He intimated that it was a case of bread and butter with him.

THE FIRST SHOT

In the Local Campaign in East York Fired Last Night.

The first shot in the provincial campaign in East York was fired at a public meeting held in Elliott's Hall, Highland Creek, last evening. Mr. R. Humphrey took the chair and the attendance was good. Addresses were delivered by Mr. E. B. Ryckmann, the Conservative candidate, Dr. Willoughby, M.L.A., and J. W. Whitney, M.L.A.

The speakers were loudly applauded as they scored point after point against the maladministration of provincial affairs by Sir Oliver Mowat, and the meeting broke up with enthusiastic cheers for the Queen and Mr. Ryckman. The Reformers had been invited, but abstained from sending any platform representatives.

SAGE MULCT IN $25,000

For Using Mr. Laidlaw As a Shield Against the Dynamitard.

NEW YORK, March 30.—The Laidlaw-Sage suit, in which Laidlaw sued Sage for injuries received in Sage's office at the time when a crank attempted to blow up the millionaire, was ended to-day. Laidlaw contended that Sage thrust him forward in the way of Norcross, the man with the dynamite, and thus escaped injury himself, while Laidlaw was laid up for several weeks.

The jury returned a verdict of $25,000 for Laidlaw.

Mr. Sage's lawyers will appeal.

Kossuth's Visit to America.

The visit of Kossuth to America in 1851 had an important influence on the masculine fashions of the time. Full beards, with mustaches such as he wore, soon came into vogue, and his favorite necktie became almost as popular for a while as quinn's new English Buckingham ties are now. Medals bearing his likeness were then sold in the streets.

Academy of Music.

Only two more chances to laugh yourself to death will be given by Rice & Barton's comedians at the Academy this week—this afternoon and evening—and if you miss seeing "Razzle-Dazzle" on one of these two occasions you will regret it to the end of your days. THE Y.M.C.A. IS IN A HOLE

AND THE SECRETARY IS FORCED TO RESIGN HIS OFFICE.

President McLaren Says the Whole Trouble Was Due to Unwise Investment in Property and the Establishment of Branches, Which Had to Be Closed Owing to Lack of Funds.

The Young Men's Christian Association of Toronto is in financial straits. For the past month President J. J. Maclaren has been hustling round with a subscription book and endeavoring to secure enough money to put the Association on its feet.

Nearly $8,000 has been secured, but as a result of some of these subscriptions, it is said, William McCullough, for nine years secretary of the Association, has handed in his resignation. The resignation was accepted and already his successor has been decided upon.

For some time past there has been great dissatisfaction among the members of the association. A year ago a petition signed by 200 young men was presented to the directors asking for the removal of the secretary. The proposal was voted down and since then the affairs of the association have been becoming very much muddled. The Spadina and branch and the Little York branches were compelled to close up because of lack of funds.

Mr. Elias Rogers, for many years a friend of the association, had a bill for coal which ran into the thousands. Put off for a time by promises he finally brought suit. He has a judgment, but would be pleased to exchange it for cash.

What the President Says.

President MacLaren, when seen by a World reporter, admitted that the association was in a very bad way. He hoped that with the help of all its friends it would be pulled out of the hole. He had been working for some time endeavoring to secure subscriptions from men interested in the work and with fair success.

"What is the reason of the financial embarassment?"

"The association, like many private individuals; was over confident during the boom times and invested largely in property. Real estate was purchased in the West End and expensive branches started. For a time all went well but latterly the branches have not been paying. The money received at the central branch was diverted to pay the claims of the outside branches. This course could not be kept up and it was decided to close the Western and Little York Associations. I hope now that the danger is over and that everything will come out all right."

"Has Mr. Culloch's resignation had anything to do with the trouble?"

"I cannot say. I think Mr. McCulloch's resignation has been handed in because of other reasons. It is not a matter that I care to discuss. It is certain, however, that the greatest harmony now prevails among the directors.

The Resignation Asked For.

A gentleman who is well acquainted with the work of the Y.M.C.A. and who has donated much money to the cause said:

"The reason that Mr. McCulloch has resigned is that under his rule the association has not prospered. While there are no specific charges made against the secretary, it is claimed that his management has not been a success. Members have been dropping out, influential friends have cut loose and things generally have gone wrong. Mr. McCulloch is not popular, especially among the young men, and there has been much dissatisfaction. His resignation was handed in, but that was only a graceful way of allowing Mr. McCulloch to get out."

Here is the Document.

Mr. McCulloch's resignation handed in some time ago read:

Feb. 20, 1894.

J. J. McLaren, Esq., President Y.M.C.A.,

In view of the financial condition of the association I feel that it will not be to our advantage to remain much longer as general secretary, and I, therefore, tender to the board of directors my resignation to take effect June 1. This will give ample time to close the business of this year and to secure another executive officer, so that the association may not suffer. Yours very truly,

(Sgd) WM. MCCULLOCH.

Mr. McCulloch's Version.

Mr. McCulloch said last night that he left because of financial reasons. "I had something better in view," he said, "and in that case when a proposition is made to reduce a man's salary he is likely to resign. That was my case."

No Conspiracy, Says Mr. Rogers.

Mr. Elias Rogers denied that there had been any friction among the members of the Board of Trustees, to which he belongs, and said that he knew nothing of any conspiracy to oust Mr. McCulloch.

"I was not present when Mr. McCulloch's recognition was received, but understood that the board was unanimous in accepting it," said Mr. Rogers to a World reporter yesterday. "His successor has been discussed by the direcoors atd they have agreed upon a man, who, if he can be obtained, will do good work for the association. I do not care to say who the gentleman is."

A TORONTONIAN KILLED.

The 22-year-old son of George Wormington, 119 Wickson-avenue, this city, left last fall to work in the lumber camps in the Sudbury district, and as nothing has been heard of him by his parents for several months it is feared he is among those who were killed in the recent railway accident on the C.P.R. near Sudbury. He was employed during the early part of the season in McIntosh's camp, but left there about three months ago for another camp, since which time nothing has been heard of him.

BURLINGTON'S POSTMASTER SKIPS.

W. G. Nelles, P.M. and Town Clerk, Leaves Suddenly—Rumored Shortage In His Accounts.

BURLINGTON, March 30.—The talk of the village this morning is the disappearance of W. G. Nelles, the postmaster and town clerk. He left the village mysteriously on Monday morning, but the fact was not generally known till yesterday. His wife and family are still in the village. Although his books have not yet been audited, it is believed that there is a deficiency of about $2000. A special meeting of the council was held last night to discuss the situation, but adjourned till the books are audited. His sureties are naturally in a state of uneasiness.

On March 21 the Postoffice Inspector visited the office here to investigate the cause of the delay in remitting the funds. Nelles paid all dues up to that date. He has held the position of postmaster for about eight years. He did all the banking business of the village through the Bank of Hamilton. Mr. Turnbull, the cashier, refused to say whether Nelles had the township account in his own name or not. It is said that Nelles' account with the bank is overdrawn to the extent of $500.

CONFEDERATES IN TORONTO.

An Opium Smuggler Arrested With 40 Cans of the Drug.

Samuel Tilford Rowe, who occupied a room at 141 East Fifteenth-street until yesterday, was locked up in Ludley-street Jail last night under a suspicion held by the United States authorities that he was in some way implicated in opium smuggling.

Policeman Peter Devlin was walking through Mott-street, when he met Rowe, who was carrying a rather heavy bundle.

The package was found to contain 40 cans of smoking opium. There were no Government stamps on the boxes.

Several postal orders were found in one of Rowe's pockets. These were addressed to persons in Toronto, Canada, who, it is thought, were in collusion with Rowe.

Vienna Gas Workers on Strike.

VIENNA, March 30.—This city was in partial darkness last night. All the workers in the gas houses, except 300, have gone on strike. One of the workmen was discharged and his cause was taken up by the other men. The strikers threaten to kill the men at work. The works are occupied by troops.

GREAT FINANCIAL LEADERS.

Views of Canadian Literature in the Current Issue of The Week.

In Sir John Lubbock the English metropolis has an eminent banker, scientist, man of letters and parliamentarian. Nor is Toronto without her happy intellectual combinations. Perhaps the foremost banker in Canada to-day is Mr. Byron E. Walker, general manager of the Bank of Commerce. An ardent geologist, a student of educational problems and a wide reader, Mr. Walker's brilliant paper in the current issue of The Week, on "Early Italian Painters," for sale by John P. McKenna, 30 Yonge-street, Toronto, shows a thorough knowledge of his subject. Nicholas Flood Davin's clever serial story, "Down the Gulf and By the Sea," and more "Views of Canadian Literature," also appear in this excellent number of The Week.

Do You Want to Make Money?

Quitting the retail shoe business. We have no further use for it. No money in it for us. The people want trash; we won't keep it and have decided on a new enterprise. We will close up both stores at the earliest possible convenience unless we get a cash purchaser to succeed us. In order to clear out the entire stocks we will offer you big inducements to assist in a speedy termination of a weary business. We will offer you a first choice of two complete stocks of the newest spring styles at such low prices that you will be forced to buy, also an extra 10 per cent. to purchasers of six or more pair. We will sell one or both stocks en bloc. A good lease attached to west store. Howell's cut rate shoe emporiums, 542 Queen-street west and 112 Queen-street east. English Opinion.

A writer in Herapath's London, England, Railway and Commercial Journal of February 6, 1892, in an article on American Railroads, says:

"The railway system of America is vast. It extends to 171,000 miles, which, compared with our 20,000 miles, is big."

After commenting at considerable length on the comparative merits of various American railroads he closes with this remarkable sentence:

"The New York Central is no doubt the best line in America, and a very excellent line it is, equal probably to the best English line."

THE MACWHERRELL APPEAL

THE CONVICTED MURDERER BLOSSOMS OUT AS A POET.

Mr. Robinette Serves Notice of Appeal on the Attorney-General—MacWherrell Bids His Friends Good-Bye Through The World—Many Subscriptions Sent to His Counsel.

For the first time in the history of a convicted murderer in Canada an appeal is to be taken against the finding of the jury. The new criminal code provides that notice of appeal must be served within 14 days of conviction. Yesterday Mr. T. C. Robinette, counsel for MacWherrell, convicted of the murder of James Williams and his wife in the Middle-road, Township of Toronto, served notice on the Attorney-General that he intended to carry the case to the Court of Appeal.

The court is now in session. Mr. Nelson Butcher, the stenographer at the trial, expects to have his notes transcribed by Thursday next. When this work is completed the full court will, upon motion, read over the evidence and the judge's charge and render their decision. The grounds of appeal have not as yet been made public.

MacWherrell as a Poet.

MacWherrell is spending his leisure time in Brampton Jail in writing poetry. Yesterday he sent the following for publication in The World under a heading which would indicate that he knows the French for "God and My Right."

Dieu Et Mon Droit,

Kind friends, give your attention,
I won't detain you long;
Just a word or two I'll mention
That's in my little song.

The one I'll mention in this song
Is the world-renowned MacWherrell,
Who has strayed into the path of wrong,
Or he might have been an earl.

Confined within the prison walls,
A life so young, alas! not yet in prime,
Held by the grip of earthly laws,
Charged with another's crime.

Murder, cruel, ah! God forbid
That any man should hold
The key to such a secret hid
Within a heart so cold.

Mac never was the coward, boys,
To strike the aged or blind;
He never played with coward's toys,
Or struck a blow behind.

Now this I can and will deny
What others think is true,
And to the world, I will reply,
This deed to him's not due.

Why should I fear this fierce, cruel law,
Or shun the eyes of man;
With innocence, I fear no charge,
Which says I ought to hang.

Many a man has lost his life
And died for another's crime,
While some cowardly wretch in the silent night
Murmurs: he lost his life for mine.

Where are the men, who with truth can say,
Mac really is the man,
And for that cruel and cowardly deed
We say he ought to hang!

Vile is the wretch who lays his plan,
To slay the old and feeble;
He dare not face an innocent man,
His heart is full of evil.

Some claim MacWherrell done this deed,
Ah! God forgive their lies;
He'll bravely stand and face the creed,
While the cowardly murderer flies.

Then, if at last the worst may come,
He'll hail it with a cheer;
Innocence is the sweetest boon,
It drives away all fear.

Good-bye, my friends, a fond adieu,
May God be ever with thee,
And Heaven grant that none of you
Be mixed up in this mystery.

IS THIS SANDY MACDUFF?

The Murderer of Old Man Holton of Tilbury Alleged to Have Been Arrested in Michigan.

For several years past Government Detective Rogers has been looking for Sandy MacDuff, who is wanted for the murder of Wilson Holton, a hermit who lived on a farm near Tilbury Centre, and for complicity in which Martin McMahon is now serving a life sentence in Kingston Penitentiary.

A despatch was received from Gladwin, Mich., last evening stating that Andrew Glenn, alias Andrew Keag, who was yesterday convicted of murder in the second degree for killing James Finn of Estey, had been positively identified by a spectator in court as MacDuff.

Glenn and Finn went on a drunken spree together and while in the latter's cabin Glenn shot his companion dead.

It Surprises Us

when we see how easy business is done when it's done right. Some firms can get customers and hold them as easy as falling off a log. Others can't hold trade any more than a sieve can hold water. Some are timid and afraid to lay in a liberal stock and afraid to sell at close prices, others are shiftless and too lazy to keep up with the times, and too tired to work for their patrons' interests. Then there's your greedy firm that piles on the profit with the idea that people will willingly submit to being bled. All dead wrong, you say. Of course they are. These things are all fatal to success in business. Now, every firm don't make these mistakes, and some of them seem to have a faculty for doing things just right, and we venture to make the assertion that at the head of the list of those firms who have this faculty of doing things just right stand the Army and Navy stores. To buy from them once is always to buy there again. They're a busling, progressive, aggressive sort of stores, always working for their customers, always abreast of the times and cutting profits down to a mere shadow of a fraction. You cannot do better than pay them a visit when fitting yourself out this spring. You'll find an immense variety of spring overcoats and suits, which for lowness of prices cannot be equalled in the Dominion. Put them to the test and see if what we say is not absolutely true. You'll find them at 133-135 King-street east, opposite St. James' Cathedral, and 136-138 Yonge-street, corner Temperance-street.

NO REDUCTION OF THE ARMY

CAN BE CONSIDERED BY BRITAIN AT PRESENT,

Contents of Sir Charles Russell's Behring Sea Bill—The Government to Appoint a Committee to Devise a Plan for the Destruction of Derelicts—31,000 Seamen Petition to This End.

LONDON, March 30.—In the House of Commons to-day Sir James Whitehead called attention to the statement alleged to have been made by the King of Denmark, that he knew that Russia, Austria and Italy were willing to considerably reduce their military establishments and asked if the Government would co-operate in such a step.

Sir William Harcourt said the Government would take advantage of every opportunity to encourage the reduction of the armaments of the powers, including Great Britain, but it would be impossible to take any action in the matter at the present time.

Destruction of Derelicts.

Mr. John C. Macdona asked what were the intentions of the Government in regard to the petition of 900 shipmasters, representing 31,000 seamen, which had been presented to Lord Rosebery on March 16, praying for immediate concerted action on the part of the United States and Great Britain to the end of destroying derelicts in the Atlantic.

Mr. A. J. Mundella, President of the Board of Trade, said it had been decided to appoint a committee upon which the Admiralty and the Board of Trade are to be represented and to this body the matter would be presented for consideration. The contents of the petition and the correspondence on the subject between the Foreign Office and the United States Government would form the principal part of the matter upon which the committee would be charged to report.

Clauses of the Behring Sea Bill.

Sir Charles Russell's bill for the ratification of the decision of the Behring Sea tribunal provides that any violation of the terms of the award is punishable, and authorizes British warships to seize British vessels engaged in violation of the award. The bill also empowers Her Majesty the Queen-in-council to authorize certain named officers in the United States navy equally to seize British ships found violating the award.

In the American bill a similar provision will be included, empowering British officers to seize American vessels. The bill also fixes the time of closing the fisheries, specifies the protective area, prescribes the authorized modes of capture and gives the rule by which the system of licenses is to be worked.

PROTECTING THE FUR SEALS.

Active Measures for the Apprehension of of Poachers Taken by the U.S.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Behring Sea affairs absorbed the attention of the Cabinet to-day almost to the exclusion of everything else and at the end of the meeting active steps had been commenced looking to the protection of fur seals and the apprehension of poachers, regardless of the flag the fly.

The whole subject was discussed to-day, Mr. Gresham laying before the Cabinet a new bill incorporating certain regulations in line with the award, the passage of which he said would indicate to England that the United States desired the cooperation she had prior to the meeting of the court arbitration pledged herself to give. The imperative need of prompt action was shown and the instructions issued to the Secretary of the Navy indicates that such action will be taken. Secretary Herbert was directed by the President to assemble all the fleet he possibly could in Pacific waters, and immediately after the Cabinet meeting secret orders were issued to the proper officers for the gathering of a fleet to escort the fur seal herd through the Northern Pacific into Behring Sea, beginning with May 1, when the open season closes. The Secretary already has 12 vessels at his disposal for this work, and it is said that one or two more, possibly an armed cruiser, may be assigned to this work.

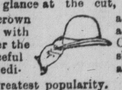
HATTERS "SCOOPED."

An Innovation in Headgear—See the Cut Below.

The newspaper word "scoop" is the only one that fitly applies to Dineens' introduction of the "Ormonde" hat.

This derby is of a most striking and original design. No description can give any idea of its shapely proportions. As will be seen by a glance at the cut, the hat has a tapering crown and wide, rolling brim, with a heavy curl. Altogether the Ormonde is a most graceful shape, and it will immediately spring into the greatest popularity.



It is the hat of the year.

The price is popular—Three Dollars.

The Ormonde is especially designed for young men, and those who know "what's what" will soon be seen wearing the latest and best hat.

This shape is introduced in New York, Chicago and Boston simultaneously with Dineens' production of the style.

To-day the Ormonde is to be seen at Dineens', corner of King and Yonge-streets, and 254 Yonge-street.
