The French Mathematical Prodigy.

Young Vernier, the mathematical prodigy from the provinces, of whose success in obtaining admission to the higher normal school without undergoing an examination you were informed a few days ago, has arrived here, and is the object of much curiosity. This youth of 18 has a great opinion of his genius, for, when complimented on his wonderful proficiency, he calmly remarked that mathematics were so badly taught in France that he had no trouble in convincing the real savants of the "insanity" of the prevailing methods. He says that during his stay at the Lyons Lycee his master treated him as a "visionary"; but, he adds generously, "I forgive the poor man." Vernier attracted notice by entering into correspondence with several mathematicians of note, who imagined that they were replying to an elderly savant like themselves, and were astounded when they ascertained that he was a schoolboy. The Minister of Public Instruction was informed of the existence of this "infant phenomenon," and promptly admitted him to the higher normal school on his own responsibility. Young Vernier does not intend to repose on his laurels. On the contrary, he is writing for the Academy of Science a work which will be ready by the summer, and which, as he confidently puts it, will bring about "a revolution like that accomplished by Laplace and Newton." He attributes every mathematical discovery to "intuition," of which he evidently believes that he has a considerable stock at his command. It remains to be seen whether young Vernier will succeed in carrying out his threat of demolishing the existing system, and if it is quite possible that he overrates his powers. There is no doubt, however, that he possesses exceptional talents, and his career will be watched with interest.—Paris Correspondence London Telegraph.

Ornithology.

"Father," said the inquisitive small boy, "is it true that you can catch a bird by putting salt on its tail?"

"I'm not sure," replied the man who abuses the Senate. "You might do it that way in some cases, but if it's the American eagle you're after you want to use sugar."

A Distinguished Mission Worker.

The gospel temperance meeting of the Canadian Temperance League in the Pavilion to-morrow afternoon will be addressed by Col. H. Hadley, superintendent of St. Bartholomew's Rescue Mission, New York city, probably the largest mission of the kind on the continent. Mr. B. E. Bull, barrister, superintendent of the Fred Victor Mission, will occupy the chair.

The Humidity of Muskoka Region.

Arrangements have just been completed between Dr. E. H. Adams and the Meteorological Department for another voluntary weather station in Muskoka, the reports from which will be devoted principally to giving an authentic account of the weather of Muskoka, as compared with that of the leading health resorts of the continent. This will be the first station in this region to make records of the humidity of the atmosphere.

So rapidly does lung irritation spread and deepen that often in a few weeks a simple cough culminates in tubercular consumption. Give heed to a cough, there is always danger in delay, get a bottle of Hickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and cure yourself. It is a medicine unsurpassed for all throat and lung troubles. It is compounded from several herbs, each one of which stands at the head of the list as exerting a wonderful influence in curing consumption and all lung diseases.

Tips From Wall-street.

The market closed steady.

Insiders are said to have marketed some L. and N.

It is said that the Jersey Central dividend will be at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum.

The most active stocks to-day were: Sugar 20,700 shares, C. Gas 15,500, Jersey Central 35,600, St. Paul 11,900, B. and Q. 9800, N. W. 3400, R. I. 3800, Reading 1200, Mo. Pa 2900, L. and N. 5200, Distillers 3100, Manhattan, 300, G. E. 2000.

Henry A. King & Co.'s special wire from Ladenburg, Thalman & Co., New York: The traders made to-day's market what there was of it, and throughout the day there was nothing approaching a genuine speculative movement. The most important item of news was the engagement of $2,300,000 gold for shipment to Europe to-morrow, which, with the reduction of the Treasury gold balance to somewhere about $81,000,000, caused further manifestations of bearishness on the part of room traders. Later in the day unfavorable reports from Washington as to the prospects of the Pooling bill in the U. S. Senate had some effect on prices. The market, however, had been too narrow for the large bear traders, and disposition seems to be for quick turns either way and limited profits. The object of a good deal of attention was the adjournment of the directors' meeting on action of the dividend on Chicago Gas, leaving that important question still in doubt. The lack of rallying power, which has become chronic of late, was the feature of the late trading. A bear raid on Cordage was the feature, but the market showed a slight rallying at the close.

Schwartz, Dupee & Co., Chicago, wired McIntyre & Wardell: Wheat opened slow, was affected for a while by the very small flour output, and by the weakness in corn, but closed rather steady, only 1-4c under Thursday. The increasing stocks at Minneapolis were explained by the small total of the grinding for the week, only 55,000 bbls. There was the same falling off at all the milling points. Liverpool lower, but the Liverpool influence was about offset by continental firmness. Exports for the day were light, 243,000 bushels. Primary receipts, by a queer coincidence, were about the same as the total clearances. Temperatures west were lower and the winter wheat belt showed little new. Wheat was affected by the declines in the coarse grains. The trade was light; the market part of the day was under pats, but closed just about at the put price. There was no cash demand here for shipment, very little export business done at New York. Speculation does not increase any, and no one expects much of an advance without a considerably larger volume of speculation. The west continued to sell corn, liquidating long lines. The seaboard and local shorts did considerable covering. Receipts 315 cars overrun a little; the estimate for to-morrow was 350. Cables were lower. There was no demand for cash corn for shipment. The strength of the nearby deliveries at New York was without influence here, because it was assumed the seaboard strength was the result of the January and February manipulation. There was unusual activity in oats, a single concern selling about 400,000 bushels. Houses with western connections were sellers. There was talk that the country men were finally beginning to hedge their holdings. There came from a good many directions predictions of a large movement. Receipts of hogs liberal, but all good lots sold at a shade higher prices. The market is nervous and will respond quickly either to buying or selling orders, and while we look for no permanent advance we are quite liable to have some flurries before any material decline.

Henry A. King & Co. special wire from F. G. Logan & Co., Chicago: No new features in this market. We need more than present exports and shipments to keep it up above all other markets relatively. Local dealers are, and have been, loyal to the buying side, are ready and anxious to help it in that direction, but the support it gets on the advances from millers and the foreign contingent is too light. Unless we have a more hearty outside support lower prices will follow, and this is not far off. Corn—Moderately active with free offerings at opening. There was good buying against sales previously made, which firmed the market temporarily. Sample corn in good demand, mainly however by elevator interests, and prices a shade better. Receipts continue fair. Provisions opened weak on more hogs than expected. Offerings, however, were small, and taken mostly by outside packers, under which market soon became strong. Offerings still being light, prices advanced sharply with very little product changing hands.
