The body of the infant found in Walker's slip on February, the 24th, was buried yesterday afternoon by the Alms House authorities. This is the third body found within a few weeks, and although public opinion is running rather high over the matter, Coroner Berryman as not yet signified his intention of holding an inquest. The police are still working on the case but it is one which presents many difficult features.

A. B. Hamilton has secured the contract of remodelling and enlarging the store 595 Main street for G. H. Maxwell. Mr. Hamilton has taken out the old front which will be enlarged and replaced with one more up to date. The shop is to be extended back about 14 feet. The entire floor will be lowered about 12 inches, making it on a level with the street. Steel ceilings will be put in and other minor work performed, after which all will be painted.

Calvin Austin, President of the Eastern Steamship Company, arrived in the city yesterday on a tour of inspection. Mr. Austin says that for the coming summer there will be five trips a week, as last summer, and it is probable that arrangements will be made for the steamers which are due here in the mornings to leave Boston an hour earlier so as to reach St. John in time to connect with the steamer for Digby and also the early I. C. R. train for Halifax. He thought if this were arranged an increased tourist traffic would result. The only difficulty in the way of carrying this scheme into effect was the lack of wharf accommodation as one of their steamers would be at the wharf when the direct boat arrived, but he thought arrangements could be made for a tugboat to hold the steamer against the 100 feet of the wharf in the rear of the boat lying there, until the passengers were landed, when she could move into her regular berth on the departure of the other boat. Mr. Austin said the Eastern Steamship Company carries about 400,000 passengers during the summer season and he thought the coming season would be up to the average.

LONDON, Mar. 3.—It was reported at yesterday's meeting of the Hampstead Guardians that Benjamin Gascoigne, who made the first pair of shoes worn by the German emperor, had died in the infirmary.

In the list of I. C. R. veterans who received the imperial service medal yesterday, George Collard was credited with only 35 years instead of forty-five years of active service.

Before Judge Lawrence, at Halifax, yesterday the injunction asked by the F. B. McCurdy and Co. to prevent the shareholders of the Nova Scotia Fire Company from electing directors or doing any other usiness, was continued. He decided that the action must e tried in the ordinary course. This will be towards the end of April. Meanwhile the old directors will remain in control, but without power to do much. The issue is the refusal of the directors to approve of the transfer of shares purchased by the brokers, who had bought a controlling interest in the stock. The act of incorporation provides that transfers are subject to approval by the directors. Their refusal prevents the new controlling interests from electing representatives on the board.

INTERESTING REVIEW OF WORK OF COUNCIL

Judge Forbes Tells What Took Place at Philadelphia Conference.

Before a large audience at the midweek service in St. Andrew's school room last evening Hon. J. G. Forbes, who was present at the Pan-Anglican council in Philadelphia, gave a special address, in which he reviewed the important matters taken up at the meeting.

Judge Forbes first dealt with the matter of education, referring to the importance given the matter by the council. He spoke of the question of having religious instruction in the schools and pointed ou the consensus of opinion expressed at the council meetings.

The problem of missionary work was also one of the questions considered at the council. He explained the great work that is being carried on by the Presbyterian church, especially in China and India.

Great work was also being carried on in South Africa. In Brazil, Argentine Republic and Chili much success was being met with, while in Mexico there were 200 Presbyterians. The growth had been most rapid.

In his remarks, Judge Forbes spoke interestingly of the progress being made regarding the proposed church union. This was a matter of vital importance and was before the council at the recent meeting.

While in session the Presbyterian council discussed the problem of the Jews, which is increasing greatly. Jews now control the New York Sun and World and the Philadelphia Ledger. They were also the proprietors of the theatres and show dives. In such ways they were a menace. They had even endeavored to drive the church carols out of the schools.

Judge Forbes also referred to various matters of importance, including the efforts being made by the church to reach the colored population.

Besides Judge Forbes, the representatives from Canada were Rev. Dr. Sutherland and Hamilton Cassell.

The great Presbyterian council, at which representatives will be present from all pars of the globe, will be held in New York on June 15. Judge Forbes will attend and a strong delegation, composed of fifteen ministers and fifteen laymen, will represent Canada. Those attending will include Principals McGill, Scrimgeour, Patrick, Dr. C. W. Gordon, Dr. Summerville, Hamilton Cassell, Dr. Fletcher, James McDonald, Walter Paul, David Morris and Hon. Colin Campbell.

PATHETIC RELICS OF EARTHQUAKE

Articles Unearthed From Messina Exceed $1,000,000 in Value.

Rings, Brooches, Bracelets and Trinkets Belonging to Those Buried in the Trenches.

LONDON, March 3.—In a steel-lined chamber on board the Italian battleship Dandola, anchored off Messina, a pathetic collection is being sorted out and classified, says Luigi Barzini, in the Corriere della Sera. Here wrapped in rags that may assist in their identification are all the objects of value unearthed by soldiers and sailors from the ruins of the doomed city.

Their owners are for the most part unknown and will probably remain so, for it may be safely assumed that they are all buried in the great trenches at the back of the quay. The value of the objects stored in that chamber exceeds $1,250,000. In specie alone there is more than $200,000, mostly in ancient gold coin, which in Sicilian families passes from generation to generation.

There are heaps of rings, brooches, bracelets, lockets, miniatures and other trinkets. A small brooch bears the inscription: "To my beloved Concettina, Dec. 12, 1908." It was a wedding gift, but the young bride and her husband are now laid side by side in the common grave. Near by is an ordinary envelope; it contains a baby's first tooth.

A large jewel casket is filled with a magnificent set of ornaments, but not a trace of the owner can be found. Next is a complete table service of gold plate for thirty-six persons, and another in silver with traces of food still alhering. It was probably used, according to Italian custom, at a family celebration on the Sunday which was to be the last day of Messina.

SEND LETTER TO COAL CO.

Steel Company Directors in Session Yesterday Frame Communication

MONTREAL, Mar. 3.—The directors of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company were in session here for several hours today, considering the proposals made by the Dominion Coal Company to continue the old contract with the Steel Company, or to make a new contract. J. H. Plummer presided and the only directors not in attendance were Senator Cox and Wm. MacMaster. After the meeting President Plummer stated that a communication would be sent to the Coal Company, but he declined to say of what nature it was until the Coal Company had received it. The Steel directors' answer was mailed tonight and will not be received by the Coal Company until tomorrow. It was learned tonight that no definite action had been taken by the Steel directors today in regard to the Coal Company's offer and that the communication to the Coal Company is in general terms and simply opens the way for further negotiations towards a basis of settlement.

SENATE SENDS BILL TO THE RAILWAY COM.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 3.—There was today a discussion in the senate of the Lancaster bill for the guarding of level railway crossings by the companies or the limiting of the speed of trains through towns to ten miles an hour. Senator Ellis, who was in charge of the bill, moved the second reading. He stated that this bill had passed the house of commons for the fourth time. It had not become law because the senate had practically killed it one three previous occasions. It should this year be passed without amendment.

Senator Ellis moved the reference of the bill to committee of the whole. Sir Richard moved that it be referred to the railway committee and this carried by forty to fifteen.

POLICE COURT.

In the police court yesterday afternoon Michael Harney was fined $25 for having two entrances to his bar on the corner of Prince William and Duke streets. The information was laid by Night Detective Lucas and Inspector Jones.

The Sheffield street case was also taken up. Lizzie Johnson, wife of the defendant, said that the plaintiff Hickerson came into her house with two bottles of liquor and asked for a glass, but was told by defendant to go out, and he did as he was told. Lottie Harned was then called, and her evidence was much the same as that of the preceding witness. The magistrate roundly scored Johnson for his manner of living and told him that he better get off Sheffield street. He then imposed a fine of $100 or two months in jail.

The Electrics and S. Hayward Co. will meet tonight.

Manager Fred L. Tufts stated yesterday that the Moncton Victorias would not play here this week. He, however, expected to see them meet the local septette after they played their matches with the Crescents in Halifax. The game here will probably be pulled off on Friday of next week. It is probable that tomorrow evening the Sussex intermediates and Tigers, champions of the local league, will meet. A fast contest is expected.

PERILS OF CANADA'S NORTH WILDERNESS

Description of Death of Sergeant Donaldson Reaches Ottawa.

Was Drowned When Walrus Attacked Police Sail Boat Off Marble Island.

OTTAWA, Mar. 3.—The perils of the northern wilderness of Canada is given in a description of the death of Sergeant Donaldson, of the Northwest Mounted Police, which was announced a day or two ago without particulars.

The information comes from Major Moodie, who is in charge of the Canadian North and whose command includes Churchill, at the foot of the Hudson Bay and Fullerton, at the top of that Bay.

In his report he says:—"I understand that a number of walrus were sighted from the boat and Ford killed several of them. Donaldson, Reeve and Ford went ashore in the dinghy to collect them. They had towed some of them in their sail boat, but on one of their trips a walrus attacked them and put his tusk through the bottom of the dinghy. They stopped the hole as well as possible with a jacket and pulled for the shore. When nearing it Donaldson said that he would swim the rest of the way as the boat was filling. In jumping out he upset the boat. Reeves held to the boat and got to the shore. Donaldson was never seen again, and it is thought that he was attacked and pulled under by a walrus."

Donaldson had been on the Hudson Bay frontier since the first post was established at Fullerton in 1903. He was a good sailor and had many times made the trip of four hundred miles by water in the open sail boat of the police. Last year he made the trip up in eight days, but in returning he met heavy weather, and his boat was cast ashore near Churchill. He walked into that post. While he has been in the North his father and his mother have died.

SOUTHERN MURDER TRIAL DEVELOPS NEW FEATURES

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Mar. 3—After a strenuous recess day for counsel on both sides in the trial of Colonel Duncan B. Cooper, Robin J. Cooper and John D. Sharpe for the murder of former United States Senator E. W. Carmack, only two facts developed. One was that S. J. Bennings, the witness for the defense, who said that he saw Carmack revolving the cylinder of a revolver, which will not revolve, will be recalled for further cross-examination by the state. The other was the feverish activity of the special police employed by the prosecution. It was declared that this activity was due to Attorney General McCarn's belief that he had discovered a clue to the identity of one of one of three mysterious men who would make valuable witnesses for the prosecution.

Early in the day of Carmack's death, three men visited the office of the Nashville Tennesseean, of which Carmack was editor. Each of the men asked at the business office, if the clerk could give him Carmack's address and if he knew about what time Carmack went home each afternoon. Two of the men called in the morning. The clerks in the counting room did not know where Carmack lived. But after the second inquiry they procured the information and when the third man appeared after one p. m., they gave him the address.
