The Polymorphians' Plans.

The Polymorphian Club met last evening in the office of R. J. Armstrong, Charlotte street, to further discuss the plans for the Coronation Day parade. The meeting was large and enthusiastic. The plans have begun to assume more definite character. There will be several features in the parade, which promises to be interesting. At the meeting last evening a general committee was appointed to work the details of the parade. The supervisory committee will meet on Monday evening next in the office of R. J. Armstrong.

It was reported at the meeting that a number of sailor suits had been received to be used on the model ship which will appear in the parade. The opinion was expressed that the militia should parade in the morning and also fire a salute at noon. It was also felt that it would be preferable if the general procession could be held in the afternoon and that all the organizations take part, than to have a number of disjointed turnouts.

Train Delayed By Wreck.

The Boston Express was two hours late arriving this morning at 1.30 o'clock, having been delayed by a wreck on the Maine Central about three miles east of Winthrop, Me. The passengers for points along the I. C. R. were compelled to wait in the depot until the 7 o'clock train which leaves this morning. The passengers stated early this morning that the wreck was a bad one and it is a wonder that all of the passengers were not killed. Six cars left the rails and toppled over on both sides of the track, ploughing up the roadbed for a considerable distance. Fortunately only one person was injured, and that was one of the train crew, who had his back severely injured.

M. J. Butler, general manager of the Dominion Steel and Coal Company accompanied by his wife arrived in the city last evening and registered at the Royal hotel.

PEACE SUPREME WITH THE FIRE FIGHTERS

Difficulty Between Chief Kerr and Members of the North End Salvage Corps has been Amicably Arranged.

Peace reigns once more in the North End Salvage Corps. The hatchet has been buried and the war clouds which loomed on the horizon are obliterated by the smoke of the pipe of peace.

The trouble between the corps and the chief of the fire department which arose at the Spar Cove fire, came to a head in the police court, and culminated in the appeal to the safety board has been smoothed over and friendly relations once more established.

This happy result was achieved chiefly through the intervention of a gentleman interested in the Salvage Corps who arranged a meeting of the parties to the affair. By the time they got together the warmth of their feelings had abated and they discovered that they were not really so much vexed with each other after all. Mutual expressions of respect and regret were exchanged and after a handshake all around it was decided to drop the matter.

It has been so long since there has been any conflict of authority, that the salvage corps men had overlooked the fact that there is and must be, someone with supreme authority at a fire. They agreed to bear this in mind in the future, and the chief agreed that in future any requests for assistance by the Salvage Corps would be made through the captain of the latter body.

The civic committee appointed to deal with the matter, will find little with which to deal.

LOOKING FOR SITE FOR INCINERATOR

Joint Committee on Disposal of City Garbage Inspected Property on the Mispec Road Yesterday.

The joint committee on the disposal of garbage started on its work of investigation yesterday and paid a visit of inspection to Red Head. The party consisted of Thomas Gorman, chairman of the Board of Health; Ald. McGoldrick, of the civic committee, and City Engineer Murdoch. Their trip was for the purpose of looking over the plant of the Provincial Chemical Fertilizer Company on the Mispec Road, which was offered as an incinerator. The committee spent a couple of hours on their investigation and came to the conclusion that it would be suitable for the purpose though it might have to be enlarged to handle all the waste material of the city.

Aldermen Jones and Smith of the civic committee will probably visit the place within a day or two and next week the committee will look over some of the other propositions.

A Bad Headache

Is frequently a result of straining the eyes, and the cause is often not suspected because the vision is so good. But the strange thing to the sufferer is that there should be any eyestrain when he sees so well. If Eye Strain were poor vision or defective sight, then he could readily understand the headache because he would know that he did not see so well as he should. Eye Strain is due invariably to the eyes doing more work than they should, and almost always the vision is as good as normal and oftentimes better. In such cases glasses are worn not to make the wearer see better but that the glasses shall do the extra work which the eyes have been strained to do. If you suffer with headaches come and let us tell you if Eye Strain is the cause.
