SCRAPS OF SPORT.

A Few Odd Notes Picked Up Here and There.

A new race track is to be established in the vicinity of New York.

Cycling is growing very fast in Germany, and the national union now numbers nearly 2000 members.

Tom Allen, jr., and Pete Conners had a set-to of three rounds at New York recently, resulting in a draw.

Baseball is creeping into Mexico. There are a dozen clubs in the vicinity of Matamoras, on the Texan border.

The name of the Gentlemen's driving association has been changed to the New York driving club. David Bonner is president.

The smallest pony in the world is the pet of the Baroness Burdette-Coutts-Bartlett. He is 5 years of age and stands thirteen inchs high.

A Philadelphia man with a six-foot wife says that the difference between him and a baseball club is that he has a tall bosser and the club has a ball tosser.

J. E. Alden, a member of the Massachusetts bicycle club, 52 years of age, has wheeled 10,000 miles in the last two years. He began to ride for his health.

Ex-members of the Liverpool, Rochdale and Southdale football clubs, now resident in New York, have formed themselves into the Excelsior football club and will play in the spring under Rugby Union rules.

There is going to be a boom in matrimony. They are making bicycles now with two seats. A man who can't elope with his girl in a swift vehicle that makes no noise deserves to be a wretch of a bachelor all his life.

Solitaire has been made the favorite for the Derby in England next year. Solitaire is by Hermit, out of Adelaide, and won the Dewhurst plate by beating Busybody and Fritz. It is a pity Busybody is not entered for the Derby.

The crowd returned from Woodstock yesterday. They are delighted with their experiences. John Forbes did the honors in great style. Between Kentucky and Oxford county, two members of the visiting party were so full of horse yesterday that they hadn't room for the Christmas gobbler.

The Philadelphia Record says: "A 100-yard foot race for $1000 has been arranged between Fred. Hurst of Mount Pleasant, Luzerne county, Pa., and H. Wetley of Canada. The race is to be run at Mahanoy City, Pa., Jan. 24." What The World desires to know is, who is H. Wetley of Canada? Possibly he comes from Labrador.

An inquirer asked what he should do with a horse that was troubled with periodical dizziness, and the editor answered in these words: "Our advice, based on a perusal of the valuable book, Every Man his Own Horse Doctor, would be to take the horse some day when he is not dizzy, and sell him to a stranger."

James Hurst, who was said to have a match on with bare knuckles with a New Yorker, is in town and is anxious for a set-to with Harry Gilmore. It appears he is the pupil of whom Geo. Fulljames was recently talking. He weighs about 130 lbs. and is somewhat shorter than Gilmore. The latter, who fears no foe, will probably accommodate him.

The English make great capital out of the British versus National Guard of America rifle match which Britain won. It is more than probable that the arrangements for a return match on the celebrated Creedmore ranges will be concluded shortly. It is hoped that the shooting date of this match will not interfere with next year's Wimbledon meeting, which will open as usual on the second Monday in July.

At an early hour on Sunday morning, in the city hall of Lawrence, Mass., George Hosmer and John Meagher finished their walking race. The last-named athlete conceded 300 yards' start to his antagonist, and in his endeavors to overtake him used himself up so badly that he broke down before seven miles were reeled off. In the seventh mile both men were at a tremendous pace, and the timekeepers got so excited that they forgot to take the time, but it was inside of 7 mins. to the mile. Geo. Hosmer walked seven miles in 54 mins., which is very fast for a small track.

The National rifle association of England has sent 21 Wimbledon bars to the National rifle association of America for presentation to the members of the rifle team which visited England in the summer. Two of the bars are for ladies who accompanied the team. The "bars" are in the form of a small epaulette, two and a half inches long by one and a quarter inches wide; the outer edge is of blue cloth about one-eighth inch wide, on which is set a red cloth raised pad, about one inch in width, surrounded by a border of gold cord; inside of the border, in gold letters and figures, are the words "Wimbledon, 1883." This highly prized souvenir is constructed so as to be sewed on the sleeve of the soldier's dress coat.

The Queen's Plate and Dominion Handicap.

The following circular, which has just been issued, speaks for itself:—

Winning Horses in the States.

The Brooklyn Eagle chronicles the winnings of 1250 horses in the States during 1883. The prizes aggregate the enormous sum of $1,075,695 in purses, stakes and money added to stakes. Of this the two year olds won $211,604, the three year olds $386,490, and the four year olds $163,547. The analysis shows some singular results. Miss Woodford, the queen of fillies, heads the list not only in the Dwyers' stable but throughout the country, with $48,605, George Kenney coming in for $41,310, and Barnes third, with $17,145. Old Monitor holds his own among the aged, Dan K. second, and old Parole fourth. Drake Carter won twelve races out of nineteen starts, and won $19,605; Eole captured the first place eight times in fifteen, and won $19,447—a singularly even division, though Carter was two years his junior. The heads of the list by age are: General Harding, 2 yrs., $15,850; Miss Woodford, 3 yrs., $48,605; Mediator, 4 yrs., $10,315; Eole, 5 yrs., $19,447; Col. Sprague, 6 yrs., $3765; Monitor, aged, $11,240. Two-year-olds won $211,604, three-year-olds $386,490, four-year-olds $163,547, five-year-olds $198,550, six-year-olds $37,945, and aged horses $77,559.

How a Man Runs Down a Deer.

THE APACHE PENALTY FOR MISSING THE GAME AT THE FIRST FIRE.

"They prohibit hunting deer with hounds, I see, in the hunting regions of the east," said an old timer who had returned home after a twenty years' absence in the far west. "I suppose that is because the persistence of dogs in following the game to the death tends to the more rapid depleting of our woods. But suppose a pack of Apache Indians should be turned loose in any of your hunting fields! A dozen of them would hound more deer to destruction in one month than all the dogs in the state could in five years.

"When an Apache hunter goes out for a hunt he dispenses with even the scant attire he assumes in his ordinary daily walk in life. He needs no dog, for his quick eye detects the trail of a deer as readily as the hound's does, no matter how keen its scent. On the trail, he follows it as silently as a shadow, for he knows that he will soon come in sight of the game, either feeding or lying at rest among the bushes. When he sights the deer he steals to within safe gunshot. If the deer's head is turned away from the hunter, the latter, first taking aim, shuffles his foot on the ground. If the deer is lying down it springs to its feet at the sound, and wheels around facing the direction from which the sound came. If it is standing it turns around quickly. The Apache hunter is always desirous of killing a deer by shooting it as nearly in the centre of the forehead as he can. So when the deer turns toward him, he fires at that spot. His aim is rarely at fault, but sometimes the deer is quicker to discover the cause of its alarm than the hunter is to fire, and turns for safety in flight. An Apache's gun, also, not infrequently misses fire, and the deer flees on the wing of the wind. To permit a deer to escape after it it is once discovered is something that no Apache hunter is expected to do, and it is against their code to fire the second time. The hunter, failing to kill his game at the first attempt, must run it down, and it is very rare that he fails in this chase. As the deer starts away in its flight, leaping from twenty to thirty feet at a time, the Indian drops his gun, and, with hideous yells, starts in pursuit. The deer at first leaves the hunter far behind, putting forth its greatest efforts to that end. But its trail is as plain to the Indian as a turnpike road is to a white man, and he follows it. As is its nature, as soon as the deer is out of sight and sound of threatening danger, it stops and waits for developments. The sight of the pursuing hunter starts it on its way again. Every halt of this kind tells against the deer, for it is not of sufficient length to give it any beneficial rest, and at every new start it is stiffer and less active. The Indian never halts. There are runners among the Apaches who can run for twenty-four hours without a stop, and can make their five miles every hour of the time. After the deer has run for two or three hours, its thirst prompts it to make for the nearest water. This the relentless hunter knows to be inevitable, and when the deer reaches that stage of the chase the Indian considers the victory won. There is no hope for the deer after it stops to drink, for it takes into its parched stomach all it can. Having laden itself with this weight of water the deer is unable to take long leaps, and cannot extend its run between halts more than half the former distance. The Indian's tongue may hang swollen and white from his mouth, and his mouth be as dry as dust, and his stomach burning up with heat, but he never stops to drink. He scoops a handful of water from the stream as he dashes across it, and carries it to his mouth, where he holds it a moment and ejects it without taking a swallow. If he is obliged to swim, he lets the water run in his mouth, but keeps it from his stomach.

After running an hour or so, after the deer has quenched its thirst, the Indian knows it is time to find some evidence of the animal's weakening. These he is sure to find along the trail, in the shape of blood spots on some rock where the deer has tumbled on its knees, or a patch of hair clinging to some sharp projection, showing that the deer's strength has failed so that it cannot turn quickly out of the way of obstacles. Now the Indian increases his speed. He knows that the deer's race is run. In time he overtakes the deer, which is now loping feebly along. A yell startles it into a momentary burst of speed. Then, as if appreciating the fact that it were useless to prolong the race, it stops and turns with all the defiance its exhausted nature can assume, and awaits the approach of the hunter. Sometimes, however, the deer runs until it drops dead or dying in its tracks. If it turns upon the Indian the latter keeps right on at full speed. He knows the deer can do him no harm, its inclination to the contrary notwithstanding. He seizes it boldly, throws it to the ground with ease, and cuts its throat. Without a moment's delay, whether the deer is dead or dying, the Indian cuts from behind the fore shoulder a large piece of meat. He sucks the warm blood from it and devours the morsel, keeping constantly on the move. If the carcass of the deer is not too heavy, he throws it across his shoulders and starts immediately for home. He does not rest a moment, for fear of becoming too stiff to make the return trip. If the deer is too heavy for him to carry, he cuts out the choicest parts, hides the remainder in a secure place and brings in the former. In this case another member of the tribe is selected to take his back track on the arrival of the hunter in camp, and bring in the venison left behind.

"If a deer is young an Apache hunter will run it down within a distance of sixty miles, but they have been known to prolong a chase for 100 miles. The course taken is always devious and circuitous, and may end within a mile or so of the starting place."

—Most excruciating are the twinges which rack the muscles and joints of the rheumatic. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, by promoting increased action of the kidneys, by which the blood is more effectually depurated, removes through the natural channels certain acrid elements in the circulation which produce rheumatism and gout. The medicine is also a fine laxative antibilious medicine and general corrective.

Wide bracelets, heavily chased, and bangles, lace-pins and dog-collars of various patterns, all of solid silver, are again the height of fashion.

—Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" is a most powerful restorative tonic, also combining the most valuable nervine properties, especially adapted to the wants of debilitated ladies suffering from weak back, inward fever, congestion, inflammation or ulceration, or from nervousness or neuralgic pains. By druggists.

Tailor-made dresses seen recently have no pocket welts and no cuffs. They are buttoned down the front with small buttons covered with cloth.

Salt Rheum Cured.

—Are you troubled with Salt Rheum, Rough Skin, Pimples or Canker Sores; if so go at once to F. T. Burges's Drug Store, 364 King street east, and get a package of McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. Price twenty-five cents. It was never known to fail.

—M. A. St. Mars, St. Boniface, Manitoba, writes: Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is a public benefit. It has done wonders here, and has cured myself of a bad cold in one day. Can be relied upon to remove pain, heal sores of various kinds, and bene fit any inflamed portion of the body to which it is applied.

Ladies' cloth of darkest cardinal, made with the skirts laid in wide panels, with kilts intersecting, the panels covered with Russian embroidery in colors of cardinal, green and gold, compose one of the most stylish and elegant of walking costumes of the season. The long apron overskirt is caught up with colored silk cords, and the cardinal velvet shoulder-cape is lined with plaided surah in colors matching the shades of the embroidery.

Fluid Lightning.

—WIFE—What's the matter now John.

HUSBAND—Oh, that neuralgia and toothache near kills me.

WIFE—Why don't you go to F. T. Burgess' Drug Store, 364 King street east, and get a bottle of Fluid Lightning, you know it cures all such things as toothache, neuralgia, headache, lumbago, earache, sore throat etc. It gives instant relief.

—"Words fail to express my gratitude," says Mr. Selby Carter of Nashville, Tenn., "for the benefits derived from Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Having been afflicted all my life with scrofula, my system seemed saturated with it. It came out in blotches, ulcers, and mattery sores, all over my body." Mr. Carter states that he was entirely cured by Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and since discontinuing its use, eight months ago, has had no return of the scrofulous symptoms.

New York milliners started out with the idea that there would be an extended employment of the narrow ribbons for bonnet ties, but, if the French models are to be followed, the ribbons that meet under the ladies' chins this winter will be considerably wider than those worn during the summer.

So it Goes.

—Over 25,000 bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters were sold during the past three months without one single complaint of dissatisfaction; but, on the contrary, testimonials are pouring in of its efficacy in various lingering diseases of the blood and liver.

—George Kelcy of Dunchurch, Parry Sound, suffered from dyspepsia for about seven years and was cured by Burdock Blood Bitters. He says half-a-dozen others of his acquaintance have derived great benefit from the medicine, which he now recommends to all suffering from similar complaints.

The skirts of stylish new carriage dresses are made of heavy nuns' gray Thibet cloth, with broad side-pannels, pannier drapery and pelerine of dark green or dark ruby velvet. The directoire coat of the cloth is open wide to show a Suisse or beadle vest of the velvet, with deep flap-pockets adorned with handsome buttons, large and bright, in regular old continental fashion.

—The untidy, dirty appearance of a grizzly beard should never be allowed. Buckingham's Dye for the whiskers will readily change their color to a brown or black, at discretion, and thus keep up your reputation for neatness and good looks.

A Household Necessity.

—She would not keep house without it, so says Mrs. McArthur of Hopeville regarding Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. This medicine is pleasant to take, and speedily cures coughs, bronchitis, asthma, weak lungs and all pectoral complaints.

—Mental depression, headache and nervous debility, are speedily remedied by that excellent blood purifying tonic, Burdock Blood Bitters. The editor of the Mitchell Recorder states that he was cured of billiousness, liver derangement, and sick headache, by the use of this medicine.

Basques and sleeves are made of two materials, such as silk and velvet, of the same color, oddly arranged or with utility in view, as, for instance, a corsage will have a velvet yoke with silk below it, or the side pieces of the basque and the lower part of the sleeves will be silk and the rest velvet; thus the parts that wear quickly are made of the less expensive and more lasting fabric.

Conquered at Last.

—D. McCrimmon of Lancaster was afflicted with inflammatory rheumatism from youth; all remedies failed, until he tried Burdock Blood Bitters, which was one year ago, since which time he has had no attack of the complaint.

The Best Policy.

—Regarding insurance policies against accidents, it is a good policy to have at hand a bottle of that invaluable medicine for internal and external use—Hagyard's Yellow Oil—worth more than gold in relieving pain and suffering, for lameness, sprains, bruises, burns, stiff joints and all wounds.

—Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is pleasant to take; sure and effectual in destroying worms. See that you take no other and you will be satisfied.

Embossed and gilded leather painted in oils, and with designs in relief, is used for hand-bags, portfolios, belts, fans, albums and fanciful boxes.

What It Has Done.

—Mrs. George Simpson, Toronto, says: I have suffered severely with corns, and was unable to get any relief from treatment of any kind until I was recommended to try Holloway's Corn Cure. After applying for a few days I was enabled to remove the corn, root and branch—no pain whatever, and no inconvenience in using it. I can heartily recommend it to all suffering from corns.

A HOME DRUGGIST TESTIFIES.

Popularity at home is not always the best test of merit, but we point proudly to the fact that no other medicine has won for itself such universal approbation in its own city, state, and country, and among all people, as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The following letter from one of our best-known Massachusetts Druggists should be of interest to every sufferer:—

RHEUMATISM. "Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism, so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public. E. F. HARRIS."

River St., Buckland, Mass., May 13, 1882.

SALT RHEUM. GEORGE ANDREWS overseer in the Lowell Carpet Corporation, was for over twenty years before his removal to Lowell afflicted with Salt Rheum in its worst form. Its ulcerations actually covered more than half the surface of his body and limbs. He was entirely cured by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. See certificate in Ayer's Almanac for 1883.

—The Star dyes are unexcelled for cheapness and fast colors.

The new Spanish mantle, which is to take the place of the hackneyed fur-lined circular with those who seek for novelty in attire, is very becoming to tall, slender ladies. This wrap is uncommonly elegant and graceful, and is made of black brocaded velvet, and trimmed around the entire garment with black Russian fox. Around the neck is a very deep collar of the same fur, which covers the shoulders like a cape.

—Give Holloway's Corn Cure a trial. It removed ten corns from one pair of feet without any pain.

Mantles are made of colored velvet, and are especially elegant in dark-red or brown broche velvet, combined with repped terry velvet of the same color, and trimmed with a great abundance of black escurial lace. The small bonnet is chosen of a color to match the mantle, and these together may be worn with a dress of almost any color, as contrasts are quite as stylish as matching in the toilets of to-day.

—Himalaya (the abode of snow from the Sanscrit "hima," snow, and "alaya," abode) is the most elevated and stupendous system on the globe. The tea plant can be cultivated along the entire southern face of the Himalaya to an elevation of 5000 feet, but the best is produced at from 2000 to 3000 feet above the sea, and the best only is sold by the Li-Quor Tea company at 39 cents per lb.
