COMMERCIAL.

Local Market.

Reported by A. M. Hamilton & Son.
LONDON, Tuesday, Nov. 13.

The market was fairly well attended today and prices well supported. Wheat, oats and peas were the only grains offered. Prices quiet and strong but no higher. Butter and eggs steady and unchanged; pound rolls in demand and sold at about 22c by the basket; crocks, 20c to 22c. Eggs were active; new laid, 20c to 22c; packed, 16c to 18c. Poultry quiet, offerings large; general price for young fowls, 35c to 50c per pair; turkeys, 8c per lb. The only change in meats was in dressed hogs, which took a big drop; at the opening $5 25 was bid for choice, and by 10 o'clock the market had lost 25c and the close was $5. Apples and potatoes steady and unchanged. Hay opened strong at $9, and a good many sales were made at that price, but receipts kept up all morning, and by noon $8 50 and $8 75 would have been accepted for ordinary. Quotations:

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.

Wheat was strong today on higher cables and decrease in visible supply, closing ½c to ¾c over Saturday's prices. Corn was dull and firm, closing ½c higher. Oats were strong for the same reasons which influenced wheat, the close being 1-2c higher. Provisions were higher.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 82 cars; corn, 235 cars; oats, 160 cars; hogs, 35,000 head.

The stormy weather caused agents to ask 1 1-2 for grain to Buffalo.

Voice—We l on Nov. 20. (Cheers.)

Mayor Essethen took up the waterworks question and denied there had been a secret meetin waterworks questions in the last two ars.

Voice—W about the Foresters? (Cheers a later.)

The Mayor—ou'll get enough of that later on.

The mayor a alleged he was the only one in the coil who voted to let the people vote on e issue of waterworks debentures. Admiral Cowan had seconded a mn to issue $125,000 worth of debenturest he (the speaker) pointed out that he w wrong.

Chorus—O ive us some politics.

Mr. Esseryd he had been attacked on his municipa cord and he had the right to defend hif. If Mr. Campbell would withdraw hi arges he (the speaker) would subside. W was the Mowat Government's recor

Voice—W we've known it for twenty years. (Cha)

Mr. Esserave Mr. Meredith credit for manhood suge in Ontario. He said he (Mr. Esser vould let every woman vote. Turning to the prohibition question, he asked Dr. mott, John Cameron and others, if th were still for God and home and country unfurl their banner; but the party hrs wouldn't do this because the prohibi candidate didn't suit them.

Voice—Wt about the Mowat Government?

Mr. Esse—You are one of those who get asylun pplies from the Mowat Government. a speaker then went on to discuss the lum supply business and repeated the kneyed charges of favoritism made by hat the Opera House meeting. Mr. John Hom, a brother of Mr. Thos. Purdom, of Mr. Hobbs' workers, secured $90 of asylum money. There was no si protection for the men who supplied tjails and hospitals.

SPEAKER TRIPPED.

A dram scene ensued.

Mr. T. Purdom rose and said: "Mr. Essery, al me to state what you said about my ther securing asylum money under 'pection' is untrue. It was in open comition." (Terrific cheers.)

Mr. Ess—Did you hear what I said?

Mr. Pum—Yes; you led the people to believe th it was without competition. (Cheers a cries of "That's so!")

Mr. Ery—I did not. (Uproar and loud cries "You did!")

Mr. Pum—I say you did put it that way. (Crs.)

Mr. Esy—I did not say that Mr. Purdom's brer secured $4,000 without competition. Uproar.)

Mr. Pum—You said that we were not "protectists" in Dominion politics, but had protion in asylum work. (Cheers.) If you ta back what you said about my brother ave done. (Cheers.)

Mr. Ery—I am not going to take anything ba because Mr. Purdom is not sharp eigh to make me do it. (Cries of "Oh! O") I only said his brother obtained contract that amount. This equivocon was received with derisive laughte Contid Mr. Purdom: "My brother got that conact as he got the public library; as he pthe roof on this hall—in fair and open coetition. (Terrific cheers.) John Purdom a builder is a credit to London." (Cheers

Mr. Jery—I admit that he is a credit to Lond—(cheers)—but I won't allow his brothep make me take back what I did not say Applause and hisses.)

The airman interfered here and the tumul subsided. Mr. Essery dwelt at length n the exploded Grundy case, and cdemned the rebuilding of Upper Canad College.

He n took up his expulsion from the Ancie Order of Foresters, into which he canno again be admitted a member ywhere in the world, and replie to Mr. John Fordham's letter accus him of dragging the Foresters into a wsuit and then refusing to pay the costs hen he was condemned to do so by ndewer than two courts. He confessed that the brethren expelled him from ourt Pride of the Dominion. The high courts of Forestry ordered that he be trl in another way, but he refused to submi to that, and took the matter into the cl courts. The Chancellor threw the case it of court. He confessed that the high court was also against him. He compined that the rules of the Foresers did not suit him. Mr. Esse proceeded to advertise himself as agood lawyer, though the audience exhited signs of impatience by crying "Tit," and "Hobbs!" Turning to persona matters, he claimed he was a pducer, and asked if it was wro to carry out Scriptural advice, and crease and multiply on the face of the eart (Cries of "Oh, oh!") Then the silv-tongued orator, Mr. Ross, said there wer three Esserys.

A voice—So there are.

M Essery—And so you always will hav You have Essery, the Liberal, he sai—

A voice—Yes, we are ashamed of you. (Laghter.)

M Essery then told his little story of Me n' Blake, and said that he was not ashamed of the platform that nominated hin.

twas 2:30 by the time and there was a stong interruption, and cries of "Hobbs, Hbbs." Mr. Essery signified his intnton of remaining on the platform for a wek if necessary. He attacked Mr. Hobbs as a man who could not talk long enogh to suit his (Mr. Essery's) views of propriety. Then he attacked Mr. Hobbs because he said his firm had not lived up to the agreement with the city, but he did not answer the question, "Is not the Hobbs firm employing over 40 hands in their new factory when they only promised to employ 25?" He denied amid laughter that he ever raised the religious cry. Proceeding, he said there should be no separate schools, as guaranteed to the Protestants in Quebec and the Roman Catholics of Ontario by the Confederation Act, which cannot be changed by the Ontario Legislature. He claimed that the school books in the public schools of Ontario, which took first prize in competition with the whole world at the Chicago Exhibition last year, were compiled to suit the Roman Catholics.

Mr. Essery, despite repeated exhibitions of impatience on the part of the audience and cries for "Hobbs," continued to talk in a dogged way for over two hours and was still defending his record when the ADVERTISER went to press. A candid friend of his was busy telling his neighbors that the Opposition candidate desired to tire the audience out so that they would go away before Mr. Hobbs had opportunity to be heard.

CELESTIALS DESPAIR

In View of the Powers' Refusal to Intervene.

"Then China is Lost," Exclaims an Official—The Flight from Pekin Increasing.

A Shanghai special says: After a fruitless effort on the part of China to induce England, France, the United States, Russia and Germany to intervene, Prince Kung, the recently-appointed President of the Foreign Office, and of the Admiralty, exclaimed: "Then China is lost."

Major Von Hannekin, who formerly was chief advisor of Li Hung Chang and who was recently summoned to Pekin, has counseled

PEACE AT ANY PRICE.

He has left Pekin.

The flight from Pekin is increasing every day. Hundreds of the ladies of the imperial harem, Ministers of State and wealthy people have already left the capital. Ministers of foreign countries dreading a rising of the populace when they learn the true state of affairs, are leaving Pekin and will take up their residence in Shanghai.

The British fleet will occupy the Island of Chusan as a basis of operations against all comers. English troops will probably occupy Shanghai.

The Chinese people are demanding the overthrow of the corrupt mandarins and the dynasty and are in favor of any power bold enough to seize the opportunity.

—The Free Press says it is "abuse" to quote Mr. Essery's own words to show what he thinks of his fellow-citizens. This is an argument! What will our contemporary say next?

Another Steamer Sunk.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 13.—It is learned that the Rodondo, a coasting steamer plying between Albany and Adelaide, was wrecked on the coast of Western Australia on Oct. 6. As near as could be ascertained there were about 130 passengers on board. With the exception of four that are missing all made landing in boats and on rafts in safety, but in a terrible plight as regards clothing.

New Bond Issue of $50,000,000.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 13.—The Ledger is authorized to state that probably within the next three days the Government will issue $50,000,000 5 per cent bonds, the premium on which it is confidently anticipated will make them equal to a 3 per cent bond. The Government has decided upon this measure in order to maintain a gold reserve, sufficient to keep unimpaired, not only at home but abroad, the national credit.
