COMMUNICATION.

[TO THE EDITOR OF THE CHRONICLE.]

Sir,—While each weekly issue of your paper arrives replete with the sayings and doings of our present liberal government, it demonstrates that the day of retribution is near at hand. When the men who would sell our liberties, and enslave our country, shall have to return to that obscurity to which the Protestant electors of New Brunswick have just cause to consign them. That intelligent and honest men can and will be found to direct the affairs of our Province cannot be doubted;—Men who will not sacrifice principle to the motto of our present government, (viz: "to the victors belong the spoils,") but who love our liberties, our country, her laws, and the Protestant religion; and who would oppose every act of legislation that would compel a Protestant to teach from a version of the Bible which he believes to be false, or else deny himself the remuneration with which our Province aids our common schools. But while I take into consideration some of the acts of our government, methinks that the spirit which actuated a Sunderland, and a Rochester, possesses them; with a host of officials lately appointed by themselves from that grade of society which supplies kindred spirits. That many men whose character for honesty and uprightness stand high in society, have been found supporting the present government; but who are not now ashamed to acknowledge that they have been deceived by the loud professions of liberality which are now coupled with acts of despotism. That the party now in power are determined to leave no means untried to sustain themselves in the position they now occupy, is clearly perceived; but that they would have carried their principles of politics into our Courts of Equity, where men are sworn to distribute justice fearlessly, faithfully and impartially, I never dreamed of: but to prove this, I have only to refer you to the suit of Hill vs. Hogg.

That there are men who now occupy seats in the halls of our Legislature who act from honest principles, the journals of the Assembly fully prove; whilst of others it may be said, that on almost every division of the House, their names follow with the members of the government. And now to add another outrageous act to their already very long list, the moving spirit of the party has brought in a bill, through Mr. M'Leod, member for King's, for the removal of the Seat of Government. What the Hon. Mr. Tilley's motive in this can be, I do not pretend to solve; but for the government to agree in this is scarcely possible, as the Hon. Mr. Fisher too well understands his position in the County of York to give a bill of such a nature his sanction. And this, in conjunction with many other circumstances, go far to prove that unity of action is not a principle of their organization; and the bursting of the bubble of the great liberal confederation is only a matter of time.

AN ELECTOR.

Queen's County, March 27, 1858.

ARRIVAL OF THE INDIAN at PORTLAND

The steamship Indian, which left Liverpool on the 24th of March, arrived at Portland on the 5th instant.

The frigate Niagara arrived at Plymouth on the 23d, with machinery slightly damaged, having encountered a succession of southerly gales.

The British frigate Agamemnon had commenced taking in the Atlantic Cable: 50 miles were on board.

GREAT BRITAIN.

In the House of Lords on the 22d, Earl Carnarvon, in reply to Lord Brougham, said that the Vagrant Act recently passed by the Assembly of Jamaica had been received at the Colonial Office, and was under consideration. He believed there would be no objection to lay the bill on the table before it received the Royal assent. One of the allegations against this bill is that it partially revives slavery.

No change had taken place in the prevailing rates in the money market, but the London Times of the 19th reports a more active demand for discount on the day preceding than for some time past. The funds had been subject to but slight fluctuations and consols closed steadily on the 19th at 95 3-4 for money, and 95 3-4 to 7-8 for account. One cause of the depression was a rumour that the East India Company intended in the ensuing week to raise the whole of their eight millions loan. The half-yearly court of the proprietors of the Bank of England was held on the 19th. The profits for the past six months were stated at £808,201, and a dividend at the rate of 5 1-2 per cent. for the half year was declared.

In the House of Commons on the 17th, notice was given of a bill to limit the duration of Parliament to three years.

Lord John Russell's Oaths Bill was considered in committee. The various clauses were agreed to, and the report was ordered to be brought up on the 22d.

On Friday the 19th, in the House of Lords, Earl Derby stated in reply to an enquiry, that the government would not be parties to any measure which would impair the efficiency of the system of education established for the space of half a century in Ireland.

A public meeting was held on the afternoon of the 19th, at Drury-Lane Theatre, for the purpose of promoting a memorial to the late General Havelock. The theatre was quite crowded. His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge took the chair at two o'clock, and amongst those present were the Marquis of Lansdowne, the Earl of Cardigan, Lord John Russell, Mr. Vernon Smith, M. P., Sir W. Fenwick Williams, General Shirley, and many others who completely occupied the stage. The Duke of Cambridge, in opening the business of the meeting, reviewed at length the military career of the late Sir Henry Havelock, and said that it was proposed to erect a statue of that distinguished man in Trafalgar square. The Marquis of Lansdowne then proposed the first resolution—"That the eminent services rendered by the late General Sir Henry Havelock, have called for a suitable testimonial from a grateful country."—This was adopted, together with a series of resolutions concerning the manner of raising and of managing the funds required, &c.

INDIA.

The details of Indian news via Bombay to the 24th February, add nothing of importance to the telegraphic advices, but gave rise to the hope that decisive intelligence would be received by the next mail.

It was rumoured that Nena Sahib was wandering about the country with a few followers in the last extremity of terror and despair.

The cannonade was expected to open on Lucknow on the 22d February. Sir Colin Campbell had 160 first class guns.

A fresh attack on General Outram at Alumbagh on the 21st of February, is reported. No details yet received.

CHINA.

Advices from China, via Bombay, describe trade as almost paralyzed.

The Times' Canton correspondent reports the entire re-establishment of order.

Yeh, a prisoner on board the Inflexible, was at Hong Kong, on his way to Calcutta.

The blockade of Canton was raised on the 10th of February.

The Americans and Russians had joined the English and French in the demand on the Chinese government. The letters of the four Plenipotentiaries had gone up to Shanghai, and by the middle of March it would be known what tone China takes. Trade had opened at Canton.

To Clean and Restore Black Lace.—Wind the lace round a rolling pin, and fasten it with some black thread. Make a good lather of white soap and water, and then wash the lace with great care and a gentle hand; rinse away the soapy water with clean, milk-warm water; then let it gently dry. Next day make some good strong tea—black tea is best—and dissolve in it a little gum arabic. Now rinse the lace in this gum tea several times. The tea, or rather the tannin principle contained therein, will restore the color of the lace, while the gum will impart the requisite degree of stiffness. Before the lace is quite dry, it must be folded backwards and forwards between the alternate leaves of a book, and then pressed. When quite dry, it will be as fit as ever to trim a bonnet or a cap.

The Wheat Crop.—We are informed by a gentleman who has travelled in the counties of Illinois lying on the Chicago, St. Louis, Great Western, Illinois Central, and Ohio and Mississippi Railroads, that the wheat crop looked more promising than in any spring for the last ten years.

A Turkish Admiral in New York.—Rear Admiral Mahommed Pasha, who comes to New York to contract for the building of a large steamer, destined to be the flag ship of the Ottoman Navy, arrived with his suite by the Europa. The Admiral is a stoutly made man, broad shouldered, about five feet ten inches in height, with a rather plump and intelligent countenance. He is about thirty-two years of age. The only national peculiarity in his dress is a red and blue turban. He is dignified, but yet graceful and agreeable in his manners. He commanded a division of the Turkish fleet during the Crimean war, and was present at the first grand attack on Sebastapol by the armies of the allies. He is accompanied by three officers—Major Said Soliman, C. E.; Capt. Thessan, and Lieut. Sadick, of the Ottoman Navy—all gentlemen of a very intelligent appearance. The Admiral will probably remain several weeks in the city. The Common Council have appropriated $1000 to give him a suitable greeting.

Horrible Treatment of a Wife.—A case of unusual interest was tried in Walton Superior Court last week, consuming four days. A man named Thomas Kelly, of O'Kelly, was arraigned for the murder of his wife, who was found dead, (frozen, it is said) in her place of confinement during the extraordinary cold weather of 1856. The deceased, it is alleged, was at least partially deranged, and had been confined a number of years, 11 or 12, we believe. It was proven that her place of confinement consisted of a pen, constructed of poles, notched at the corners, and covered with clapboards. In this was a hole ten by four inches, some four or five feet from the ground, with a shelf inside, upon which was placed her food in an old iron frying pan. Her food, some of the witnesses testified, was promiscuously mixed together in this pan—boiled bacon, "collards" and milk being frequently mixed together.

Many of the witnesses testified that the chinks or cracks between the poles of this den were open,—there never was any fire in it—no bed or bedding, and the poor creature was sometimes quite naked, and always nearly so! In this den she languished seven years, until relieved by death from her horrible suffering. One cold morning that winter she was found upon her hands and knees at the door, naked, or nearly so, and frozen stiff. Many persons think there is reason to believe that starvation as well as cold had something to do in bringing about her death. We understand the deceased, before her mind became impaired, was a sensible and respectably-educated woman.

Since the above was written we learn that Kelly has been sentenced to three years in the penitentiary.—Athens, Ga. Watchman.

Determined Suicide.—A singular suicide was committed on Monday by a German, in the village of Carlisle. He had been wandering about the country for some time, and was suspected of having committed a theft in Galt, but finally landed in the village of Carlisle, where he made no secret of his intention of putting an end to his life. The people around him having no suspicion of the reality of such intention, told him jokingly he had better take a drink first, which he did, and then taking a loaded gun from a corner, he placed the muzzle beneath his chin, and firing it off, scattered his scull all over the roof of the room. Death was of course instantaneous. Dr. Ker held an inquest on the body, and the jury charitably returned a verdict of insanity.

Counterfeits.—Some thousands of dollars of United States counterfeit bills have been circulated in this city and its vicinity during the last few days. The bills are chiefly of the Lyndon Bank, ones altered to tens; the alteration has been effected by discharging the first figures and lettering, and reprinting the new denomination, and has been so perfectly effected as to defy scrutiny. The perfection may be judged by the fact that over a thousand dollars were put upon two of our exchange brokers. The parties were followed to the States, and arrested there; but the operators who alter the bills are yet at large and unknown. They are said to reside in the city of New York, and to be driving an immense business in altering genuine bills of low denominations to a higher one, charging the circulators who employ them, one dollar and a half each for changing One Dollar bills to Tens. It has been hitherto held to be impossible to discharge black printing ink, having a carbonaceous basis, so as to substitute new printing; but what legitimate science has failed to accomplish, the counterfeiter's chemist has effected.—Most banks have different plates for the various denominations of bills, and a knowledge of these will protect the public from altered bills. But the safest course is to refuse American bills altogether, particularly as it is known that parties are going through the country places purchasing cattle, horses, and produce, with these counterfeits. The currency question is likely to meet with a practical solution from this discovery, for bank bills will become of such uncertain value that no one will care to have them.—Montreal Commercial Advertiser.
