Waite Mountain Hot Springs.

What a museum of curiosities one could make for himself by spending a little time among these wonderful springs, for any object left in the water for a few days becomes coated over with the calcareous substance and finally hardens into stone.

Beautiful baskets are made by weaving reed and twigs into the desired shape, and then suspending them in the magic waters.

The margins of many of the reservoirs are lined with little snow-white stone grottoes, which have petrified in the clear water. They had become coated over with a shell of the calcareous substance before decomposition took place; afterwards the mineral has taken the place of the grasshopper inside the shell, and if you break it open carefully, there is the little stone image as perfect as ever, except the legs will come off when handled.

On account of the frail nature of this formation, which crumbles easily, it is difficult to preserve these beautiful specimens.

On one of the terraces in a large, quiet spring. It is very calm and peaceful, and its clear waters reflect all the prismatic colors as the sunlight trembles through its limpid depth. It has a raised circular rim, most beautifully scalloped, and its inside walls are festooned with many fantastic designs worked in alabaster.

Standing on its margin, we gaze enraptured deep down into its crystal bosom. A poor old dog, that had reached at the end of his days, died, and his body was cast into this spring by some sacrilegious hand. But the fairy forces that dwell in these mysterious waters gathered about, and wrapped him in a coat of pure white. They made him immortal like themselves, and it would appear that they set him to watch by the gateway that leads to the enchanted realms below, for there he is to this day. You can see him plainly when the surface of the pool is not ripled by the passing breeze.—Wide Awake, for June.

On the 24th, in London, two men began a dispute on the premises of C. W. Kent, a wealthy citizen. Kent interfered and a serious fight ensued, when a farmer named Howie, of Lucan, attempted to quiet the combatants and was struck on the head with a spade in the hands of Kent. All the parties were considerably hurt. Howie receiving a fatal injury. The three broilers were arrested.

WAR AND COMMERCE.—It is urged by some that English trade has gained largely by the Franco-German war, and that she has been serving both belligerents to the great advantage of her commercial interest; but official statements prove that such has not been the case. But it is true that the sales of the "Canadian Pain Destroyer" are rapidly increasing, and gaining the confidence of the public, for curing coughs, colds, rheumatism, neuralgia, summer complaints, &c. Odds and Ends.

[illegible]

A mild form of chorea—the dancing fever.

A bull-frog is never entirely broke financially. He always has a green-back [illegible]

[illegible] replied, "I want for want; I had plenty of that at home."

Pawnbrokers have never been described as the pioneers of progress, although it must be admitted that they are always ready to advance an idea.

A Western genius has invented a machine for making artificial fellows. He might call it "a patent love-on."

What George Elliot calls "sober, plain wise" is identical with the face of a merry face who struggled wildly on the edge of an orange peel, and is too plump to swear.

A celebrated poet advertised that he would supply "lines for any occasion." A fisherman sought him soon after, and wanted "a line strong enough to catch a porpoise."

A single crooked crow has recently been killed and eaten by the cannibals in Australia. It is shocking to think that there still live savages who can nibble their own kind.

The other day a Black Hills stage-driver undertook to horsewhip his passengers into getting out and pushing up hill, but the gold-seekers held a coroner's inquest and found that he died of pneumonia.

A Milwaukee man made three unsuccessful attempts to blow his brains out, and then his wife told him: "Don't try it again, John; you haven't got any." He goes about saying he owes his life to that woman.

When a brisk breeze is blowing about the coat-tails of pedestrians, it is rarely a man has sufficient nerve to preserve an unconcerned air under the circumstances that a new half sole has lately been put on the seat of his pantaloons.

A bad spell.—"Thomas, spell weather," said a school-master to one of his pupils. "W-i-a-l-h-i-o-r, weather." "Well, Thomas, you may sit down," said the teacher. "I think this is the worst spell of weather we have had since Christmas."

THE "HOUSEKEEPER" OF OUR HEALTH.—The liver is the great depurating or blood cleansing organ or the system—the great housekeeper of our health at work, and the foul corruptions which gender in the blood and rot out, as it were, the machinery of life, are gradually expelled from the system. For the purpose Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, with small daily doses of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets are pre-eminently the articles needed. They cure every kind of humor from the worst scrofula to the common pimple, blotch or eruption. Great eating ulcers kindly heal under their mighty curative influence. Virulent blood poisons that lurk in the system are by them robbed of their terrors, and by their persevering and somewhat protracted use the most tainted system may be completely renovated and built up anew. Enlarged glands, tumors and swellings dwindle away and disappear under the influence of their great resolvents. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

"Claude, a child about three years old, was greatly afflicted with sores on his legs and feet, so that he could not wear his shoes and stockings. Had a great deal of trouble with him. Had tried many remedies ineffectually. At last we tried the Golden Medical Discovery, and in about three weeks he was entirely cured, his sores were all healed, and health much improved.

Respectfully yours,
J. W. BOYER.
Vermillion, Edgar Co. Ill., Jan. 20, 1875."

WHAT THEY SAY OF IT! A FEW FACTS FOR THE PEOPLE.—There are but few preparations of medicine which have withstood the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these is Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Read the following and be convinced.—Thos. Stokes, of Farnham Centre, P. Q., writes, "I have been afflicted with rheumatism for the last ten years, and have tried many remedies without any relief, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and since then have had no attack of it. I would recommend it to all."—J. H. Earl, West Keene, West Shefford, writes, "I have been troubled with liver complaint for several years, and have tried different medicines with little or no benefit, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which gave me immediate relief, and I have not had it since with the best effect. No one should be without it. I have tried it on my horses in cases of cuts, wounds, etc., and think it is equally as good for horses as for man."—A. Mayhew, Merchant, Warkworth, writes, "I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Eclectric Oil, and do not recommend it to the public, one of the best medicines they have ever used; it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throats, etc., and is worthy of the greatest confidence."—Jas. Brown, Tyrone's Percy, writes, "I was persuaded by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for a lame knee which troubled me for three or four years, and I never found anything like it for curing lameness. It is a great valuable remedy."—A. M. Hamilton, Warkworth, writes, "For weeks I was troubled with a swelled ankle, which annoyed me very much. Mr Mayhew of this place induced me to try Eclectric Oil, and before one bottle was used I was cured. It is a most remarkable medicine.

DR WHEELER'S COMPOUND ELIXIR OF Phosphates and Calisaya contains elements absolutely essential to cell-growth and the formation of the brain. Dr. Dusart, a celebrated Physiologist, of Paris, says that "Phosphate of Lime is eminently a working agent of the functions of nutrition; in other words, a nutritive tonic—that it produces the albuminoid matter to assume the cellular shape, and that it controls the formation of tissues. When taken into the system, the blood has become perfect, and the weight of the body rapidly increases, owing to the transformation of albuminoid matter into muscular fibre." Sufferers from nervous prostration, skin scrofulous and tuberculoid diseases, will derive immediate benefit from its use. For sale by all druggists.

Fashion Notes.

Parisian dresses are more elaborate than ever. With [illegible] women in a drawing-room look like serpents winding their way over the carpet with visible effort.

Among the prettiest new travelling dresses is a gray [illegible] trimmed with black [illegible] of this garment, its very simple over-skirt, and its portfolio pocket are much admired.

Ladies begin to [illegible] ous colored stripes on hosiery, but select instead plain unbleached Balbriggans, or else those with fine stripes of color, either around the leg, or else in perpendicular rows.

The gloves for travelling are of undressed kid, long-waisted and of darker brown or gray shades than those chosen for more dressy wear. The lingerie is a plain linen collar and cuffs, or else ornamental with simple hem-stitching or perhaps a bias border of colored percale.

Low-cut shoes of black kid have ties on the instep that prevent them from being called slippers. They are ornamented with plain steel buckles, or else they have small bows of gros grain ribbon or velvet.

Rough satin faced straw bonnets will be worn for travelling by elderly ladies while young ladies will confine themselves to the comfortable round hats with projecting loque brims, or else English walking hats, turned up on one side only, or upon both. The veil trimmings adopted last year will be revived, with changes. The veil will be wound around the crown, and two veils will hang behind, to be again brought to the front around the neck, and knotted there.

Family Matters.

A handful of brown sugar thrown upon the hot oven bottom while the meat is cooking, will relieve it of any bad odor caused by saint.

TO CLEAN CARPETS.—To take grease out of carpets, if ingrain, spread buckwheat batter on it. Will scrape off when dry and grease is absorbed.

ICE CREAM CAKE.—1 cup butter; 4 cups of powdered sugar; 2 cups of sweet milk; 2 cups of corn-starch, sifted in with 4½ cups of flour, also sifted; whites of 8 eggs; 6 teaspoons baking powder (Harris'), a trifle flavor to taste. This will make two large loaves three layers each.

ICING TO PUT BETWEEN.—Whites of 4 eggs; 4 cups powdered sugar; pour half a pint of boiling water in the sugar and boil hard till cool. Pour the boiling sugar on the eggs, after they have been thoroughly beaten, stirring till they form a stiff cream. Then add 1 teaspoon citric acid; also one teaspoon vanilla. Spread icing between when cold. The icing should be ½ inch thick when spread. Seeing a request in your paper for a recipe for Orange Cake, I send one which I use:

ORANGE CAKE.—2 cups of powdered sugar; 2 cups flour; ½ cup of water; 1 teaspoonful cream-tartar; ½ cup of saleratus; whites of four eggs; yolks of five eggs; the grated rind and juice of one orange. Bake in three tins as for any jelly cake.

FOR A CREAM TO PUT BETWEEN.—The whites of 2 eggs; juice of 1 orange and rind also; sugar enough to make a stiff frosting.

Two Mules.

"Bill" Green, a [illegible] on the New York Central Railroad, is probably one of the best-natured men on the American Continent, and that very good nature has recently led him into trouble, which it is the purpose of our truthful reporter to chronicle. It occurred to a relative of Mr. Green, who lives in Syracuse, that he needed, to complete his earthly happiness, a good mule team. He asked Green to find a nice pair of mules for him, and Green consented. A little inquiry developed the fact that a man living in Little Falls had a pair of angelic mules to sell, and Green went to look at them.

The mules, in fact, constituted a pair which would easily beat four men and a king, but Green did not notice that. He only saw the air of holy calm upon their faces; the expression of celestial calm which characterized every limb and movement. He looked upon them, and in their serene presence, blushed to think how often, as a boy, he had run away from Sunday school. He bought the mules, and went his way resolved to lead a better life. This is a solemn resolve for a railroad conductor, but Green meant it. He resolved to be worthy of these mules. He followed directions the mules were shipped by Syracuse in a box car.

No sooner was the train under way than the mules became possessed of ideas of something. They certainly became possessed. One reached out his foot and put a fan light over the door. They opened several ventilators. They constructed lay windows all around.

By the time they had reached Syracuse, they had made a platform out of it, and were looking for new worlds to conquer. The man said nothing to Mr Green about this, and as the mules never lifted they allowed themselves to be led into the stables of the man for whom they were purchased, and they devoted a day or two to meditation and laying in hay. Then as the stable boy was cleaning them off, one of them reached out his foot, and tickled the boy in the ribs, playfully, and the boy immediately put his angel plumage on.

The young man has not been back since. A day or two after, a medium brought around a brush, curry comb and half-bushel measure, which left earth when the hostler did. The medium said he had advices from the hereafter to the effect that the boy had passed rapidly through the seventh sphere, and was probably still progressing. Since then the coroner sits around the premises and looks up to the sky and sighs and sighs. A report reached Green that the mules had some peculiarities, and he went to see about it. He explained to the owner that the mules were all right. The boy, he said, was probably careless. Thus reassured, the owner went into the stable to harness those mules. He went in leisurely through the door. He came out hurriedly through the side of the barn. Green cried "tickets," but the other man seemed to be travelling on a pass. "By George!" said Green, "this yer dead-head-in' has got to be stopped!" He stopped it to get the opinion of the mules. There was a crash of boards, a bursting of roof timber, and Green sailed.

He said there was an explosion of nitro-glycerine in the barn and the mules smiled on. They are now back at Little Falls; the coroner waits for the hostler; they have brought the Syracuse man back from Saline, where he lies, and Green is making half-hourly applications of arnica and liniment alternately. In answer to the natural inquiry of the public, it may be said that "Gil" Green does not want to buy any more mules.

A young lady, in a class studying physiology, made answer to a question put, that in seven years a human body became entirely changed, so that not a particle which was in it at the commencement of the period would remain at the close of it. "Then, Miss L——," said the young tutor, "in seven years you will cease to be Miss L——." "Why, yes sir, I suppose so," said she, very modestly, looking at the floor.
