FAMILY MEDICINES.

EVANS CAMPHORATED OIL AND APERIENT PILLS. These valuable Medicines are prepared under the direction of the Proprietor of the "Restoration of Health" in London, and have been for a long period generally by numerous well authenticated cases of cure, have proved superior to all other compounds of the same nature. Public confidence has led many to imitate this excellent Medicine, but the genuine effects will stand the test of the most strict investigation.

It should be remembered that these medicines are not recommended to the public, solely on the strength of testimonials, there are cases which could not be given in justice to the sufferers and to prevent the imposition of counterfeits. And when a medicine comes recommended with the great names that have adorned the annals of medical profession, and warranted by testimonials signed by persons of long and uniform success, the proprietors have an unquestionable demand upon the confidence, when she claims for it a superior consideration.

The Camphorated Preparation of Dr. W. Evans is unanimously entitled to this enviable distinction; for without no medical authority in extensive confidence, every medicine always which stand a test, and every medical practitioner, and is acquainted with its merits, acknowledges its pre-eminent virtues, and that the others should do so in opposition to their own interest, they must be attributed only to a desire and love of truth, or to their ignorance to follow the laws of observation, and the testimony of experience.

As a vile and great imposition is constantly practised on the public, from a supply of deleterious drugs, it is necessary to remark that it should be known that there are a genuine Medicine, and that they are regularly recommended and prescribed by the most eminent physicians in New York, and other cities of the United States. That the Wholesale and retail of professional proprietors and interested agents, and the agency of the most eminent and best known physicians in the Country, certifies their utility to all classes, can only be fairly ascribed to their undeniable and preeminently virtues.

Experience, however, as this distinction is, it can easily be accounted for from the unusual and peculiar circumstances the medicine is used. It does not prevent from other medicines, and it is only when the medicine Dr. W. EVANS does not question be used, either for a cure or a preventive, in the speedy and safe manner, and in the shortest time, and in the two days, necessary only, and in the shortest time, and in the shortest time, and in the shortest time
