An Overturned Coal Stove.

An overturned coal stove caused a blaze at the residence of James Wyles, of the waterworks department, corner William street and Princess avenue, about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The only one home at the time was Mrs. Wyles, and how the stove upset is not known. Mr. B. W. Burton, collector for R. S. Williams & Son, was driving past at the time and noticed smoke issuing from the building. He broke open the door and found that the hot coals had set fire to Mrs. Wyles' dress. He extinguished it with a bucket of water before the wearer was burned, and tried to put out the blaze on the floor. The firemen were called out and turned a stream on, which soon had the desired effect. With the exception of a hole burned through the floor and incidental injury by water, the damage is not material.

Local Legal.

Ontario Investment Association vs. F. B. Leys.—Action brought to recover $500 and interest since September, 1881, at 6 per cent. on calls on stock in the Ontario Investment Association. The defense was that the circumstances under which the acceptance was signed prevented the plaintiffs from being entitled to recover. The defense was that it had only been signed to accommodate the association through their president, Mr. Murray, and that as soon as the meeting to alter the bylaws was over that a power to retransfer was given to the president—that in effect the defendant never was a stockholder, and if a stockholder only a trustee for the plaintiffs. The defense further claimed that the association at that time was weak and involved, and even if the acceptance had been made with the intention of becoming a stockholder it was the duty of the president to have disclosed the condition of its affairs. The judge held that Mr. Murray did not intend to transfer and Mr. Leys did not intend to accept the shares, and that the defendant never incurred any liability with reference thereto; that the company being embarrassed it was Mr. Murray's duty to have disclosed to Mr. Leys its condition if he intended to fasten on him a liability, but that it was clear he did not because they had not sent the defendant any notices or ever treated him as a stockholder. He therefore dismissed the action with costs. W. R. Meredith, Q.C., and T. G. Meredith for the plaintiffs, and T. H. Purdom for defendant.

What Bank Managers Say.

An ADVERTISER reporter made a circuit of the banks this morning, and where possible asked the opinion of the managers as to the validity of the much-discussed certificate in the hands of the city treasurer, anent the London and Port Stanley Railway lease, of which the following is a copy:

LONDON, Jan. 9, 1893.

To the Treasurer of the Corporation of the City of London.

I hereby certify that the Molsons Bank here hold a deposite certificate for twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000), with instructions to pay that amount to yourself on delivery, on or before the 25th day of January instant, 1893, to the Molsons Bank of an indenture of lease of the London and Port Stanley Railway, executed to F. S. Miller and others, as approved by the City Council at its meeting held this 9th day of January, 1893, and the Molsons Bank hereby agree to pay the said sum over to you accordingly. Your obedient servant,

P. W. D. BRODERICK, Manager.

All who were spoken to did not hesitate to say it was as good as cash, and that the cash must be handed over to the city when the latter ratified the lease.

"This is how it stands," said one, after perusing the above: "Messrs. Miller and others have deposited $25,000 with the Molsons Bank here in trust, with instructions to the manager to pay it to the city treasurer when the city delivers to him the duly executed lease. This the manager pledges the city, over his signature, to do. The city has not completed the agreement yet, and is not, therefore, entitled to the money. It is a regular way of doing business."

"If my name were under that certificate," said another manager, "I would consider myself bound to pay to the city treasurer $25,000 upon the latter handing me the lease referred to, properly executed and agreed to by both parties. It seems plain enough. The word of the manager to that effect ought to be sufficient. But there is more; there is the written guarantee."

THE OPEN FORUM.

A School Trustee Motion.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

In regard to Dr. Wilson's motion at the Board of Education that $500 be given to the engineer's department, why should such a grant be made? It seems a prevailing notion that as soon as a city employe shows some work for his comfortable salary he must be granted an "extra" or two. The taxpayer suffereth long, but he getteth no extras unless it be extra taxation.

Growth and Prosperity.

The wonderful growth of Galveston, and especially that portion known as North Galveston, during the past few years, has been due not only to local improvements and the natural result of rapid settlement and capital liberally invested, but also to the rapid growth of manufacturing industries which here find an unusually profitable field. Thus we find a combination of conditions for continual growth that is unsurpassed in any other portion of the country, namely: A genial and healthful climate, an industrial growth capable of supporting a large population, and agricultural attractions that cannot be excelled. The opportunities are just as good at the present time for making money, either in city property or small fruit farms. The latter class of farming always results in large profits to those who have been fortunate enough to invest.

The property of the North Galveston Association cannot be otherwise regarded than as offering splendid inducements alike to home-seeker and investor. The fullest investigation of this property is cordially invited. The association is represented by W. D. Buckle, London, Ont., who will be happy to furnish all information desired. The address of the General Office is: The North Galveston Association, Box 963, Minneapolis, Minn.
