Chicago Gossip.

Marshall, Spader & Co. wired J. G. Beaty (King Edward Hotel) at the close of the market to-day:

Wheat—Renewed liquidation and short selling again caused a slump in wheat today, which carried prices down to the lowest point yet reached. On the break, however, some very good buying developed and prices reacted a cent.

We will get reactions, but they will be only temporary and shorts who cover on the bulges will have to put their lines out again at lower prices. The market will be a sale on all hard spots for the next couple of weeks.

Corn—The big holders of corn let go today and the result was a slump that carried prices down a cent and a half from the low point.

On the break there was considerable short covering and the market rallied half a cent; May corn will be a sale on all bulges from now on. Think May and July will decline the most.

Oats—A new record to-day and altho there was considerable short covering on the break the offerings continued to press on the market. The conditions are perfect for planting the new crop and with a continuance of this weather prices will decline materially.

Ennis & Stoppani wired to J. L. Mitchell, McKinnon Building:

Wheat—Bearish sentiment was made more emphatic in wheat by the break in corn and fine crop reports from all directions. There was a temporary period of strength at one time on colder weather in Manitoba and report from there that farm operations would be delayed a fortnight. Weather this side of the boundary, however, was of the sort favorable for wheat, not too cold or wet to delay seeding operations in Northwest and plenty of rainfall yesterday in the southwest. Cash wheat demand was only fair. Northwest reported buyers selecting out only the best of the various grades. Support was given May future, thus preventing its decline and caused some sympathy in July, which recovered before the close nearly all the break of the day. New York and Northwest interests were principal early sellers, but later the Northwest turned a prominent buyer under 88c for July. We advise purchase of July and September wheat around to-day's closing figures.

Corn—Liquidation was the principal feature of to-day's corn market, with two prominent owners of corn, speculatively selling to-day on a large scale. This dislodged a large number of smaller holdings, making a big volume of trade and more corn than the market could take care of, causing a break of over one cent. Nevertheless the important demand developing from shorts who took their profits caused some rally near the close. There were reports of corn sold for export, but nothing like what should have followed such a break. Foreign demand is unquestionably poor and level of prices too high for the foreign consumer.

Oats—Liquidation of the severe sort in which all sorts of commission houses took a hand, carried oats to another low level for the crop.

Provisions—Packers again supported provisions and in view of the weakness in grain the market held well.

Montreal Live Stock.

Montreal, March 29.—(Special.)—The receipts of live stock to-day were 400 cattle, 50 milch cows, 25 sheep and lambs, 2000 calves and 400 hogs. A feature of the market was the strong feeling in good to choice cattle, and prices advanced ¼c per lb., which was due to the limited supply of such. The attendance of buyers was large and the demand was good. Choice beeves sold at 5½c; good at 5c to 5¼c; fairly good at 4¾c to 4⅞c; fair at 3½c to 4c; common at 2⅝c to 3¼c, and inferior at 2c to 2½c. An active trade was done in calves, but the bulk of the offerings consisted of poor stock, which sold at $4.50 to $2.50, while good to choice calves brought from $5 to $10 each. The demand for sheep and lambs was good. Sheep sold at $5.50 to $7, and spring lambs at $3 to $7 each. The trade in milch cows was fair at prices ranging from $25 to $40 each. The supply of hogs was small, for which the demand from packers was not so keen as on Monday, as they state at the present high prices the consumption was falling off. The market was easier and prices 15c to 20c lower, at $7 weighed off cars, for selects, and at $6.75 for mixed lots.

WHO IS BUYING C.P.R.

Way Price Keeps Up is Making Talk on "the Street."

The tenacity with which the price of C.P.R. stock holds is a matter of wonderment to local market traders. Yesterday's price of 148 7-8 was less than two points below the highest record the stock has ever reached, and this in the face of a general reactionary market, and after an almost straight advance from 110. One story accounting for the buoyancy of the stock is the present small supply of local scrip, due partially to the banks of the company being closed to stock transfers and to the amount of shares taken off the market. Very heavy buying of the shares for some time is credited to a Hebrew millionaire of New York named Levy. The New York financier is said to have made a big clean-up in Hudson Bay shares, which he bought around £36 a share and which are now selling at £75. The large land holdings of the C.P.R. Company and the prospect of increasing immigration are thought to have influenced the views of farseeing financiers, who apparently still think C.P.R. is low in price compared with its ultimate destiny. Toronto speculators have for some reason lost confidence in the issue, owing perhaps to its former decline and to the many losses sustained thereby, and have made but little money in the present advance, which has been going on for about a year.

Cotton Gossip.

Marshall, Spader & Co. wired J. G. Beaty, King Edward Hotel, at the close of the market to-day:

New York, March 29.—The action of the Liverpool market this morning, following the easy tone and depression of our trading yesterday afternoon, was indicative of confident feeling which exists in trade circles abroad regarding present values of cotton, even tho a crop of thirteen and a half million bales be positively assured.

Our market to-day responded to the cables by a smart advance, which was well sustained thruout the session, tho without much activity in the trading.

Southern spot markets were easier yesterday, and, tho somewhat better to-day, there is as yet no reflection of the steadiness in the option list in this direction.

The local market is somewhat oversold, particularly in the summer options, and a certain stringency still exists in the May option.

Other influences to-day were in some degree less favorable, cooler weather and rains in southwest being of influence on values.

Weather reports indicate considerable rain over the cotton belt, which is favorable for the coming crop.

Will Likely Get Better.

Lily Mulvaney, the young woman who was struck by a street car on Thursday last, has a fair chance of recovering. She is conscious now and her doctors say that the fracture of the skull is not as serious as they at first thought. It is found that the frontal bone has not been depressed enough to touch the brain.

Brockton Death List Grows.

Brockton, Mass., March 29.—An inquest began in the police court to-day into the cause of the fatal explosion of March 20 at the shoe factory of the R. B. Grover Company. Andrew G. Lundell, one of the injured employes, is dead. His death makes the 58th known to have been caused by the disaster.
