UNDER THE BRITISH FLAG

Acquisition of More Territory For Canada.

Expedition to the Arctic Regions Conducted by Geological Survey.

New York, Oct. 19. — A letter has been received here from S. W. Bartlett, captain of the ship Neptune, which is conveying the expedition sent out under the auspices of the Canadian geological survey to undertake the exploration and acquisition of Arctic territory. Besides scientists on board, the party includes a squad of Canadian police, and part of the purpose of the exhibition is said to be the checking of poaching in the whale lands north of the British territory, and to take formal possession as far north as possible, raising the British flag over lands heretofore looked upon as neutral. The letter, which brings the first news of the expedition since its departure from Halifax, Aug. 23, follows:

"Port Burwell, North Labrador, Sept. 1, 1903. — We are now at the extreme end of Labrador, and in the morning will leave for Cape Haven and Black Lead, in the Cumberland Gulf. We left Halifax on the 23rd, and I hope to be in winter quarters by the 20th. Expect to connect with a Newfoundland steamer here about July 25, 1904, with coal and supplies, after which we will proceed north along the Greenland coast, cross over to Ellesmere Land, following the coast up Lancaster Sound, returning by way of Cumberland Gulf up Hudson Bay to winter quarters; land the governor and his party, and lay in a harbor at the mouth of Hudson Strait, as late as possible, returning home via St. Johns. We are very comfortable. We have to build a house, the material for which we have on deck. On leaving we had 600 tons Welsh and 20 tons anthracite coal, so we shall be able to keep ourselves warm."

BATTLE WITH BLACKS

An Affray at Glassport, Pa., Results in Two Deaths.

McKeesport, Penn., Oct. 19.—In an attempt by three officers to arrest negroes at Glassport, William Shields, a constable of Glassport, was shot through the heart and instantly killed, and Peter Melvin, one of the negroes, was shot dead by Patrick Kelley.

For some time several negroes have been creating trouble. They attempted to shoot Wm. Davidson, a railway workman, who escaped and notified Officers Shields and Jos. Morris, who swore in Patrick Kelley as a special officer. The three men then started for the scene of the trouble. They found one man in company with another negro named Melvin. The officers started forward, calling on the negroes to surrender. Morris caught Melvin by the arm, and upon Melvin attempting resistance Constable Shields started forward to help Morris. Melvin pulled a revolver from his pocket and fired. Shields fell to the ground with a bullet in his heart, and Melvin, wrenching himself loose, escaped. Kelley later encountered Melvin. Both men opened fire, each man emptying his revolver, and Melvin fell. He died in a few minutes.

Drowning at Toronto.

Toronto, Oct. 19.—Hatless and apparently intoxicated, an unknown man fell of the R. & O. Company's wharf at the foot of Yonge street Saturday night and was drowned. Five minutes after his fall Mate C. Ross, of the steamer Corsican, hauled the man to the surface with a grappling iron. In the fall he had struck his nose and the top of his head on one of the Corsican's guard. He bled profusely. Efforts to bring him back to life were unavailing. The unknown man was dressed in a gray suit, stand-up collar, with a black tie, white shirt and gray socks. He was about 5 feet 8 inches in height, and rather slight; large brown eyes, dark eyebrows, black hair, black moustache.

Orange Presentation.

Toronto, Oct. 19.—At a meeting of McKinley L. O. L. Friday night, Bro. R. Burns, member of the lodge and first vice-president of Triennial Council of the Orange Order, was presented with a beautifully-engrossed address, congratulating him on his election at the Dublin meeting to the vice-presidency. The presentation was made by Bro. J. S. Williams, on behalf of the lodge. In responding Bro. Burns read a message received from the officers of the Triennial Council, announcing that in future the password and ritual would be so arranged that members all over the world could enter any lodge room they desired without the delay and formality now necessary.

SOMETHING MORE THAN A PURGATIVE.—To purge is the only effect of many pills now on the market. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are more than a purgative. They strengthen the stomach, where other pills weaken it. They cleanse the blood by regulating the liver and kidneys, and they stimulate where other pill compounds depress. Nothing of an injurious nature, used for merly purgative powers, enters into their composition.

DOWIE DRAWS THE CROWD

Elijah II. Roasts People Who Leave His Meeting.

A Characteristic Harangue to an Audience of 14,000.

New York, Oct. 18. — Five thousand persons were turned away from Madison Square Garden this afternoon after all the seats in the building had been filled with a great crowd curious to see John Alexander Dowie on his first appearance before a New York audience. Fully 14,000 persons were in the garden when the services began with the processional, in which the Zion white robed choir, numbering 600, and the ordained officers of the Christian Catholic Church in Zion took part. After the processional, Dr. Dowie ascended the platform accompanied by overseers. During the prayer, singing and recital of the Creed hundreds of persons left the hall, causing much confusion, many of the vacant seats being filled from the awaiting crowd outside. After order had been somewhat restored, Dr. Dowie said: "If this is New York and this is a typical New York congregation, I am in the face of a new experience. I think that some of the people who come in, must have thought that this was a Buffalo Bill show."

After he had announced his text, Dr. Dowie proceeded punctuating his opening remarks with warnings to the newspaper men to keep quiet, and with admonitions to certain people in the audience to keep their seats. With his arms above his head in a shrill voice that reached the farthest parts of the garden he cried, "Thundering at the door of the world is the King of Kings. And in His name I stand before you today and say, 'Open that door and let the Spirit of God in.'"

After a reference to Christ and the woman of Samaria he continued: "They began to ask who Christ was? Isn't He the son of old Joe, the carpenter, we all know? This is Jesus, the son of old Joe. And they talked with each other. And they told Him to get out there, but He stood still. And if you say to me in New York, 'Get out of here,' I won't get. They said to me in Chicago they would drive me out of the city, but I told them the only way they could drive me out would be by killing me and driving me out in a hearse. Bless your life, I am the only minister forty-two miles from Chicago that the newspapers hunger to get even a word from," he went on with a sudden laugh. "At the last mayoralty election both candidates came to get me to back them up in the fight. And perhaps I might be a help to one side or other in New York yet. I haven't made up my mind to take a hand in it, you'll know what I mean before I'm through. I have a message for the press tomorrow, and I'll give it a lick they will never forget."

Continuing, he said, some will go away, and say: "I don't like Dowie. He puts his wife on the platform with him. Why should not I put my wife on the platform? She can talk better than I can, particularly when we are alone together. Oh, what fools the churches have been. They have let the devil get the women. They have let them go upon the stage and dance and sing. Isn't it time we had the women singing for Jesus?" "Yes," responded his followers in one voice. Holding both hands above his head he cried in an impassioned voice: "Woman, woman, down-trodden woman. Woman, now perhaps all your beauty gone, if you were the devil's castaway, come let Him in. Above all in New York it is you I want. You who are beyond help, as you think. If you will let Jesus in I will be repaid for this visitation." In conclusion Dr. Dowie delivered a prayer that began with a cry, 'Help, help, help. That the Doors Be Opened.' In conclusion, beloved, abstain from all appearance of evil. Peace be to thee." His followers responded together. "Peace to thee, be multiplied." An early morning, "sacrifice of praise and prayer" was held in the garden, when three thousand persons were in attendance. Dr. Dowie filled the garden tonight with an audience which equaled the great throng at the afternoon service.

DOCTORS DIFFERED

And Nicholas Ecker Suffered From Kidney Disease for 29 Years—Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Him.

St. Catharines, Ont., Oct. 19.—(Special).—Bordering on the miraculous is the cure of Nicholas Ecker, a well-known farmer living near St. Johns P. O. on the dividing line of Pelham and Thorold townships. For twenty-nine years he suffered from kidney disease.

Doctors differed as to his trouble. One called it gravel, another Bright's Disease, and a third simply said he was in a dangerous condition. None of them cured him. In his statement he says:

"At this stage I gave up other treatment and started using Dodd's Kidney Pills. After taking two boxes I found they were helping me. I kept on till I had taken sixteen boxes when I was again enjoying the splendid vigor of early manhood.

IT RETAINS OLD AND MAKES NEW FRIENDS.—Time was when Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil had but a small field of distribution, but now its territory is widespread. Those who first recognized its curative qualities still value it as a specific, and while it retains its old friends it is ever making new. It is certain that whoever once uses it will not be without it.

WILL COST $40,000,000

Big Canal Between Worcester and Providence—Steel Trust Interested.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 19.—Officials of the American Steel and Wire Company, part of the United States Steel Corporation, have plans drawn for the construction of a canal between this city and Providence. The estimated cost is $40,000,000. For the new water route a greater part of the fifty miles, the old Blackstone Valley canal will be dredged and utilized. Sixty years ago the canal was abandoned, and a railroad built to take its place. The plans also call for the construction of a watershed outside the city, to supply water for the canal, thus making the use of the locks unnecessary. Several big mills in the various towns will lose their power under the new plan, and several million dollars will be used to pay land damages. The officials of the Steel Trust will visit Worcester next Tuesday, when the plan will be considered in detail. If the canal plans are carried out the big Worcester plant will be greatly enlarged, otherwise there will be an extensive curtailment.

Wireless Telegraphy.

New York, Oct. 19.—Wireless telegraphy was successfully used in tracing lost baggage on the last outward trip of the Red Star liner, Finland, on Oct. 10. A passenger who discovered some time after the steamer departed that he left baggage behind on the dock communicated with the officers at the pier with the Marconi station at Babylon, and in twenty minutes received a reply that the baggage had been found and would be forwarded by the next steamer.

Deceiving British Miners.

Indianapolis, Oct. 19.—The following cablegram was sent by Wm. B. Wilson, secretary of the United Mine Workers of America, to Secretary Pickard, of the British Federation of Miners; Secretary Wilson, of the Durham Miners' Association, and President Abrahams, of the Welsh Miners' Association: "British miners being deceived by advertisements for miners at Ellsworth, Pa.; statement in advertisements false; Government officials investigating. Possibility that miners who have come may be deported. Warn miners. (Signed) W. B. Wilson, secretary of United Mine Workers of America." A number of miners, it is stated, have been induced to leave England by advertisements, signed contracts with the operators, and come to this country to work in the Ellsworth mines. The attention of the United States immigration bureau has been called to these miners having been brought to this country under contract.

Merit Backed by Enterprise.

One of the surest signs of approaching winter has come to hand in the shape of "Dodd's Almanac," published by The Dodds Medicine Company, of Toronto. For thirteen years this useful little book has made an annual appearance, and there are few more familiar or welcome visitors to the homes of Canada. Its data and statistics are carefully prepared by the best known authorities and have been found uniformly correct.

In addition to this, Dodd's Almanac contains much that is of interest to the Canadian reader. It gives in condensed form the record for the year of the well-known Dodd's Remedies that, first prepared in Canada, have come to be a household word in the homes of the civilized world.

It shows the growth of an industry founded on merit and cultivated by enterprise. It shows the appreciation of the public for a remedy that they have tried themselves and not found wanting. It shows the health hundreds of sufferers have found in Dodd's Kidney Pills when in their misery they thought death was their only relief.

And Dodd's Almanac has become one of Canada's national advertisements. Published in many countries and languages, it has made Canada a familiar word in those lands where the great Dominion has heretofore stood for a dreary waste of forest and snow. And wherever it has gone it has been followed by Dodd's Kidney Pills and Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. No one in Canada needs to be told of their work. It is familiar to every household. Suffice it to say it has done honor to The Dodds Medicine Company and the proud name of Canada.

STODDART PLAY POPULAR

Large Audience Greets "The Bonnie Brier Bush."

Leading Lady Injured—The Venerable Actor Makes a Speech.

It appears as though Ian Maclaren's story of "The Bonnie Brier Bush," as dramatized by James McArthur, and with the venerable James H. Stoddart as the portrayer of the principal character, will never grow old, at least, not in London. Saturday night, when the doors of the Grand were thrown open for the performance there was scarcely a seat in the house that had not been sold, and when the curtain was rung up every seat was filled and many people stood at the back of the house during the three hours or more of the play.

The success of "The Bonnie Brier Bush" has been and is now phenomenal, but it nevertheless is not a success which cannot be easily accounted for. Of all the good plays that have graced the stage, "The Bonnie Brier Bush" is one of the best and the purest. Its story is a story of human interest, unfolding a life's chapter in the simple Scottish glen, so true to nature and to life as to appeal with irresistible force to the audience. It is a comedy-drama which, like good wine, appears to improve with age. It is fragrant with the heather of bonnie Scotland, is enlivened with pointed, yet harmless, Scottish wit, and is softened and tempered by the rendering of "Annie Laurie" and the "Bonnie, Bonnie Banks o' Loch Lomond," by an excellent quartet.

As usual, Mr. James H. Stoddart, as Lachlan Campbell, the stern, old shepherd, whose belief in all things in the Bible was inflexible, and who turned his daughter out when he did her the injustice to believe she had disgraced the home of her dead mother, played the part in an incomparable manner. The aged actor is now in his 80th year, and the time-whitened head needs no stagecraft to add age, Mr. Stoddart looking the part, as well as speaking it, which is equivalent to saying it could not be improved upon. After the pathetic scene in the shepherd's cot when Flora is cast adrift by the old man, in what he calls his "bitter, bitter shame," Mr. Stoddart was compelled to make a speech. It was very short, but appeared to please the audience very much. He said:

"As you all know, I never was much at making an extemporaneous speech. All I can say is that we all appreciate very much your treatment of our efforts, and I hope that the Lord will permit me to live and appear before you again in 'The Bonnie Brier Bush.'"

Mr. Stoddart's leading support is Mr. Reuben Fax, a former Londoner, as Archibald McKittrick. Although Mr. Fax's work has always been of a high order, he appears to be improving with each season, and his role being admirably suited to him, he is a success from all points of view. As the ready-witted, good-hearted Posty, he is a great favorite with the audience, his repartee keeping the house in laughter every minute he spends on the stage.

Miss Mabel Brownell, as Flora, old Lachlan Campbell's daughter, was not alone clever, but really brilliant, in her impersonation, the strong emotional scene of the second act, where she leaves her father's home, being exceptionally well carried out.

Mr. Jules McVicker, who, by the way, is a Sarnia boy, and who takes the part of Lord John Hay, made a pleasing impression on the audience. He has a fine presence and in a couple of emotional love scenes, acquits himself in a finished manner.

The remainder of the company, with one exception, are well up to the mark. The exception is Mr. Lawrence as Tammas Mitchell. His portliness as Annie's lover, renders him ridiculous, his appearance being away out of keeping with his part.

Mr. Robert Ireland, well known around London as a piper, is the Sandy McPherson of "The Bonnie Brier Bush," and though he has not much to do, he does what he has to do well.

The scenery was the same as seen here upon previous visits.

Miss Brownell met with an accident, just after she acquitted herself so well as the close of the second act. Just as she stepped out of view of the audience, she tripped and fell heavily into the wings, injuring her head and necessitating the attendance of a physician. She soon recovered, however, and pluckily continued in her part to the end, not many in the audience being aware of the accident.

FATALLY SHOT

Accident at Sodam, Near Exeter, On Thanksgiving Day.

Exeter, Oct. 19. — A sad shooting fatality occurred on Thanksgiving Day near Sodam, about four miles from Exeter. It appears while Silas Stanlake, jun., and others were out rabbit hunting, Mr. Stanlake had shot a rabbit and was going to start for home. He cocked both barrels to open the gun to take out the remaining cartridge. One of the locks being defective, the hammer went down and the gun was discharged. The contents went into the abdomen of John H. Smith, son of John Smith, of Sodam, who said, "I am shot," and died almost instantly. Mr. Stanlake did not see the boy, he having come through a thicket unobserved. Mr. Stanlake is nearly heart-broken over the accident.

Football Barred.

Waukesha, Wis., Oct. 19. — Because of the frequent accidents during football practice, which are said to have resulted in five students being injured in the last ten days, one so seriously that he was sent home, the faculty of Carroll College has forbidden the game. This action was taken after putting the question to a vote, first of the football team, and then of the students of the college. Failing to secure their approval the faculty peremptorily ordered the football eleven to disband for the season.
