BLAZE AFFORDS SPECTACLE

the west the contents of this yard would undoubtedly have gone up in smoke. As it was, a frame house, in which an employe lived, situated between the mill and the yard, acted as a good fire wall to prevent the heat and sparks igniting the lumber, tho it was badly scorched itself. Two cars of lumber were also saved. A row of half a dozen roughcast houses on Bridgeman-avenue, across the road to the north, were saved only by the liberal washing down they got from the firemen. A few scattered dwellings were near-by to the south, but the distance was great enough to cause the occupants little uneasiness.

General Alarm Sounded.

Half an hour after the first alarm was sent in a general call was sounded, more as a precautionary measure, in view of what might happen should the wind veer around a bit. This brought out all the hose sections west of Yonge-street, and one (Rose-avenue) to the east, with four engines. Chief Thompson and Deputy Chief Noble also responded. The chief, when he sized things up, ordered two engines home, and many of the hose wagons, but the hose was kept, as in some cases to get water it was necessary to stretch a distance of over 1500 feet. The pressure given was good, considering the location.

The light construction of the building caused it to fall in rapidly, and soon there was only a big blazing bonfire to subdue.

The Boake Manufacturing Company was started some ten years ago by G. Wilfrid Boake, but about a year ago was turned into a stock concern. About twenty-five men were employed in the mill and about fifteen in the yard. Most of the mill employes own their own tools, and some of them stand to lose as much as $40 each as a result of the fire. The machinery is worth about $8000. The store-room was full of valuable finished goods, in the way of mouldings, window sashes and general builders' supplies. It is customary for the firm to close down for two weeks at the commencement of each year to overhaul the machinery.

Cause a Mystery.

The cause of the fire is a mystery. It apparently originated in the gluing room, above the boiler-room, where steam alone is used for heating.

In the firm are William Boake, father of the manager; Rev. R. U. DePencier and others, who are also identified with the Skeleton Lake and Muskoka Lumber Companies.

The factory is on Howland-avenue, just above the railway tracks, and its elevation caused the reflection to spread itself to the view of the down-town citizens, and the street cars going north were crowded.

The insurance on buildings, stock and machinery was placed by T. S. Minton, agent of the Economical Company, 58 East King-street. It amounts to $9000, divided among the Economical, Queen, Ottawa and one or two other companies.

Want Mr. McKendry.

A requisition has been presented to J. N. McKendry of the firm of McKendry & Co., asking him to enter the contest for Mayor. He has not yet announced his intention.

Not So Serious.

The doctors at the General Hospital reported last night that Andrew Ferguson, who was injured at the fire at S. Price & Son's on Christmas night, was doing well. His injuries are not as serious as at first anticipated, the doctors say.

The Best Value.

What you pay for dental service is no sure indication of what it is worth, unless you pay too little to secure the best.

The best work does not necessarily mean the highest prices—but the lowest prices certainly cannot mean the best work. Quality alone measures the value of the service you secure—and none is worthy but the best.

The best work is our aim—and our record; the fairest charges—our idea.

HAMILTON NEWS

LISTENED TO SIR. WM. MULOCK

Postmaster-General Did Not Believe in Blaming the Government for All the Good

AND PROVIDENCE FOR ALL THE ILL

But He Was Not Bashful in Attributing Canada's Good Fortune to Liberal Party.

Hamilton, Dec. 26.—The Liberal Club room was well filled to-night by those who turned out to hear the address delivered by Sir William Mulock. After a short musical program the chairman, William McClemont, made an introductory address in which he described the work of the club and the party at large. He then introduced the speaker of the evening.

Sir Wm. Mulock said that Canada was reaping the benefit of having good government. While he did not believe in praising the government for all the good and blaming Providence for all the ill which befell the country, he said it was only fair to attribute much of Canada's good fortune to the Liberal party. In the matter of transportation he gave credit to the Conservative party for the construction of the C.P.R., but censured it for neglecting to improve the St. Lawrence water route. Eighteen years were wasted, he claimed in delays, tho the Conservative party knew that it was the will of the people that the work should go on, and all the show was expenditure. Had that state of affairs continued the work would not have been brought to its present degree of completion in a quarter of a century. From the moment the present government came into power the work has gone on, and now all parts of the route are improved, and as a result trade is kept in Canada, giving employment to Canada labor instead of driving men and money from the country, and thus Canada is made independent of any power in North America. Sir William next dwelt on the tariff. He said the tariff question is being presented in many ways. Some people ask a high tariff, and they call a strong Canadian tariff. This we had for eighteen years under the National Policy. The first relief was known when the Fielding tariff was submitted. The effect was electrical. Farm produce was exported to Britain in greatly increased quantities. And now the Tories propose to cut off British preference. The country does not want it. Altho the Fielding tariff may not be perfect it is better than any tariff that has ever been in force. The government will discourage any policy likely to alienate Canada from Britain.

Broke His Ankle.

Albert Catchpole fell down on King-street to-night and broke his right leg. He was removed to the city hospital.

Prosperous Industry.

It seems probable that the rumors current here that the International Harvester Co., Deering division, have purchased 35 acres of land adjacent to their works, is correct. It is said the company will pay $38,200 for the land, and the extension of the works will be begun as soon as possible.

Police Board of Control.

The elections for representatives on the Police Board of Control took place on Wednesday afternoon. After a close contest the following were declared elected: Sergeant Mackenzie, Detective Coulter, Constables Hawkins, Timson, Moore and Gibbs. Detective Coulter is being warmly congratulated on heading the poll.

Game as in Toronto.

Coal is very scarce in this city, and many have been forced to pay $9 and $10 a ton. Alfred Rodgers, who has lately returned from the mining districts, says that the mines will not be able to catch up on the demand all winter. In spite of this fact Mr. Rogers thinks the general price will not exceed $8.

Christmas Wedding.

A pretty Christmas wedding took place yesterday at the residence of William Denison, 215 South Locke-street, when his daughter Margaret was wedded to R. B. Sheridan. Rev. William Sheridan, uncle of the groom, performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. W. B. Caswell. Miss Maud B. Sheridan was bridesmaid, and the groom was supported by Charles B. Davison.

Nearly Asphyxiated.

T. A. Wooley and family of Little William-street, were nearly asphyxiated last night by gas escaping from a coal stove. Mr. Wooley managed with difficulty to get up and open a door and thus saved the lives of the family. Mrs. Wooley is still under medical treatment, but is doing well.

At Ferneleigh, Ancaster, yesterday, the day was marked by the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wood, and also the marriage of their daughter Lizzie to John Bend of Hamilton.

John L. Price, Little William-street, has taken action in the County Court to recover $200 from T. Wilson, hotelkeeper, for injuries sustained by his son from a dog owned by Wilson.

At the Y.M.C.A. building on Christmas afternoon J. M. Barton, medical instructor, was presented with a handsome dining set, consisting of 102 pieces.

ALD. LAMB'S PLATFORM

Ald. Lamb and myself," observed C. C. Robinson amid cheers at Sheridan Hall last night. The attendance was not large, but the enthusiasm was very much in evidence. Mr. Robinson said he had nothing but the best of words for Ald. Lamb, whose municipal record had been that of a business man.

"Mayor Howland slurringly remarks that he cannot imagine Ald. Lamb a candidate," he continued, "but I want to say right here that it is much easier in my estimation to imagine Ald. Lamb a candidate than Mr. Howland."

The speaker arraigned the Mayor for his impotency at the time the city was threatened with serious trouble from street car strikers. He thought the Mayor should have been the first to proffer his services as mediator between the company and its employes during such a critical period and thus avoid the ten thousand dollar expense incident to calling out the troops and narrowly avoiding bloodshed. But Mr. Howland had preferred to take the part involving the least labor on his part, even tho it meant dire disaster to the best interests of Toronto. To his mind this argued the impotency of Mr. Howland more clearly than anything the Mayor could have done. Because of his contemptible inertness when confronted by so grave a crisis he was satisfied Mr. Howland had thoroly demonstrated his unfitness for the office. It was because of this weakness that every business man and every member of a trades union in Toronto, Mr. Robinson thought, would cast their vote to retire Mr. Howland from public office.

HOWLAND INAUGURATES CAMPAIGN

Defends His Record in Speech at Y.M.C.A. Hall.

Mayor Howland inaugurated his campaign in the Y.M.C.A. Hall on Friday night. An organization meeting was held which was attended by about fifty persons. The chair was occupied by James L. Watts and letters of regret were read by T. L. Church from W. R. Brock, M.P., Dr. G. S. Ryerson, R. S. Burrows, ex-Ald. Score, T. M. Humble, James Allison, Edmund Bristol, R. G. Smyth, Col. James Mason, F. A. Kirk, J. Lawlor Wood, T. P. Gault, E. S. Piper, R. Dissette, Harry A. Collins, John A. McGillivray, Prof. Robert Martin, D. T. Symons, J. M. McCutcheon, J. R. Lee, W. Haggarty, W. J. Sykes and E. M. Trowern.

Thinks He Can Be Elected.

Then followed a series of speeches congratulating His Worship on the way he had discharged his duties during the two years he had been Mayor. Harry Lovelock started the ball a-rolling. He was thoroly satisfied, he said, that Mayor Howland's election was assured, and added that during his two terms he had transacted the city's business with marked ability.

C. E. Macdonald had no hesitation in endorsing Mayor Howland's candidature, and he defied anyone to point to a single improper act that he (the Mayor) had ever committed.

Frank Arnoldi, K.C., could not understand the object of the opposition to Mayor Howland. That was a point worthy of consideration, and he would observe, in passing, that there had been a radical change in the method of awarding contracts during Mayor Howland's regime—did that have anything to do with the opposition? Continuing, Mr. Arnoldi declared that no good reason had been advanced, even by the other Mayoralty candidates, why there should be a change—no complaints had been made against His Worship, or against his administration. C. C. Robinson had been hurling abuse at him, but that was too low to be considered, and the best way to deal with those methods was to ignore them completely. Mr. Arnoldi concluded by maintaining that no one could improperly influence or bend Mayor Howland.

Clergyman Speaks.

Rev. John Gillespie hoped that the citizens of Toronto who had found in the person of Mayor Howland a gentleman of leisure and ability who was desirous of sending them, would again elect him. He had discharged his duties well and it was worth noting that since he became chief magistrate there were no more unseemly squabbles at the meeting of Council and committees.

Arthur VanKoughnet and W. E. Lincoln Hunter predicted Mayor Howland's election and pledged him their support. The latter regretted, he said, to see C. C. Robinson indulge in mud-throwing.

H. Schumer, W. H. Bleasdale, Prof. Sacco, L. Catore, James Stanbury, Frederick Napolitano, J. B. Tremaine, A. H. Birmingham, J. C. Hopkins, Frank Maclean, J. B. O'Brien and others spoke.

Mayor Howland's Address.

The Mayor said he was overwhelmed after hearing all the complimentary things about himself. He explained that there were a number of important things to be attended to at the City Hall just now, and he regretted that he could not give them his undivided attention, on account of the campaign. Proceeding, His Worship said that he felt a sense of pride that, after two terms as Mayor, those most ambitious to find a reason against his re-election had had to resort to inventions, silly inventions, pure and simple, which were circulated thruout the year, from month to month, and he might also say, from column to column.

Calling Out Militia.

A considerable part of His Worship's speech was devoted to a defence of the charge that he had acted unwisely in calling out the militia on the occasion of the recent street car strike. The peace and order of the city was threatened at the time, he said, and what had been done was justified. It was not the workingmen who violated the law, but the purlieus of the city, and when his opponent, C. C. Robinson, took, as the principal hope of success, the line that the speaker should not have called out the militia, he was not only betraying the name of an old family, but he threatened to betray the city, and heaped the greatest insult on the men whom he thought he had with him. The Board of Control, the Mayor went on, had been waited upon by a deputation of street car men, who said they did not want to have any trouble or disorder. So that it was not the workingmen of the city who were to blame for the trouble, but that useless class, which, he regretted to say, live in Toronto, as well as in all large cities, and they should not be allowed to get the upper hand. The people here did not want the United States system of mobs defying the laws; they were in favor of calling out a force and putting an end to lawlessness, and that's what was done.

Results Justified Action.

As for the results of calling out the militia, they were good, the Mayor held. Not a bullet had been fired; not a bayonet or sword had been unsheathed, and not only was order maintained, but the mob was educated and made to realize that there was a power around society. In the militia, there were representatives of every class of society, and none more than the working class, so that when C. C. Robinson said that a Mayor of Toronto, when he called out the militia, was not fit for another term, it might be asked to whom was he appealing? Did he appeal to the union men—the men who, said they did not want disorder? He has placed those men in a false light, and the speaker left it to them to vindicate themselves by declaring that they stood for peace and order.

Fears Another Opponent.

"And I might say," observed the Mayor, "that I do not now consider C. C. Robinson my principal opponent, nor has the principal opponent raised his head yet; that will not be until nomination day.

Speaking of the suit against the Gas Company, the Mayor said that every step taken had been under the advice of that eminent man, Christopher Robinson, K. C., and, "when C. C. Robinson, Solicitor for York County, says he will settle all litigation, he says he will do what the eminent K. C., who is his uncle, cannot do, and I prefer to take the advice of Christopher Robinson, K. C., to the advice of the Solicitor of York County."

The rest of the evening was taken up with the work of organization.

YORK COUNTY AND SUBURBS

Shamrock Hockey Team Reorganized for the Season With W. A. Baird Its President.

OLD LADY FALLS DOWN STAIRS

Mrs. Uppleby of Lambton Mills Broke Arm and Two Ribs—Court of Revision Held.

Toronto Junction, Dec. 26.—The Shamrock Hockey Club re-organized for the season to-night with officers as follows: President, W. A. Baird; manager, D. L. Rowntree; secretary, T. Armstrong, and a committee of three. The club will enter the junior series of the Toronto Lacrosse Hockey League, and will play their first match in Annette-street rink with the T. Eaton Co.'s team on Jan. 5.

Mayor Armstrong has opened a committee room in the Kilburn block, East Dundas-street.

Mrs. Upperley of Lambton Mills, a lady of 84 years, fell down stairs on Christmas Day and broke an arm and two ribs. Dr. Tremayne was called in and attended her injuries and expects her to recover.

Judge Morgan held a Court of Revision upon the Stock Yard Co.'s assessment this afternoon. The matter was not fully decided, and was adjourned until to-morrow night in order that furtner particulars may be obtained.

William Horner, leader of the Knights of St. Paul, was presented with a silver mounted ebony hair brush and an address on Christmas Eve.

Much sympathy is felt for Thomas Godwin, general merchant, 77 West-Dundas-street, in the loss of his wife on Christmas Day. Deceased was in her 34th year and leaves two sisters besides her husband to mourn her loss. The funeral takes place on Saturday to Prospect Cemetery.

Weston.

At the annual meeting of Weston Lodge, A.O.U.W., these officers were elected: M. W., T. Noble; foreman, H. Pearson; overseer, I. Beasley; guide, R. Wade; recorder, Rev. W. Reid; financier, H. J. Wardlaw; treasurer, W. Ellerby, I. W., F. Weeks; O. W., A. Snider; trustees, E. C. Pearson, H. Wardlaw, W. W. Ellerby; representative to Grand Lodge, J. R. Dixon.

J. R. Moore, son of Rev. H. Moore, has returned from South Africa, where he spent a year and a half as staff sergeant in the South African constabulary.

On Wednesday afternoon Annie Laurie, daughter of Garvin Laurie, was united in marriage by Rev. R. M. Hamilton to John Myers. The newly married couple will reside in Weston.

Ex-Reeve Bull will not be a candidate for the reeveship. He would not accept the position if accorded him by acclamation. There is likely to be a death of candidates for both reeveship and Council.

Newtonbrook.

Rev. Robert Cade, in the absence of Rev. Mr. Stevenson, will conduct anniversary services at Newtonbrook on Sunday morning. Rev. Mr. Cade will also conduct the regular afternoon and evening services at East York and Downsview appointments.

York Township Elections.

Many of the York Township ratepayers, and most of the members of the present Council believe that next year will see a complete Council elected by acclamation. This opinion is liable to receive a rude jolt on Monday next, when it is altogether probable that opposition will be offered to every seat. Ex-Deputy Reeve, F. C. Miller, is by no means satisfied. He has received deputations recently from many portions of the township, asking his assistance in a general clean-up. Mr. Miller says little or nothing has been spent on the roads this year, and reforms, which he advocated six years ago, have never been put into effect. Wallace Maclean, according to Mr. Miller, is generally well thought of, and his attempts at improvement in township matters are thought to have been hurked by the other members of the Council. The names of the expected opposition were not accessible today, and Mr. Miller refused to state whether he would be one of the field.

Markham.

Among the passengers on the Midland train for Toronto a day or two ago was Joseph Eade of Mongolia, one of the oldest and best-known pioneers in Markham Township. Mr. Eade is in his 94th year, but his step is firm and his eye bright. A life-long Conservative, Mr. Eade expects to assist in the cause of good government in East York for many years to come.

Scarboro.

The death of Mrs. Patton, widow of the late James Patton, at the home of her son-in-law, W. J. Ramsay, removes a well-known and highly respected pioneer of this township. Mr. and Mrs. Patton settled in Scarboro when the township was comparatively new, removing subsequently to the farm now occupied by Adam Hood, near Milliken, afterwards removing to Scarboro, where Mr. Patton died. Mrs. Patton is survived by a large family. The funeral will take place to-day to St. Andrew's Cemetery, Scarboro.

Unionville.

Anniversary services will be held in the Methodist Church to-morrow morning and evening.

St. Philip's Church will hold a Christmas tree and magic lantern exhibition in connection with the Sabbath School on Tuesday evening.
