Wallace Ross is getting the reputation of being a wag. The stereotyped form of question put to scullers, when they appear on a boating course for the first time, is: "Well, how do you like the course?" And the stereotyped answer is: It's the best course I ever saw. I like it first-class." Ross rung a change on the usual answer recently at Hulton when he and Plaisted were asked the question "It's the finest in the world," said Ross; "and one thing about it no other course has, d'ye see. If you tumble out of your boat you can walk ashore without danger of getting drowned Take my tip—it's the finest course in the world."

—A. D Noyes, Newark, Mich., writes: "I have inquired at the drug stores for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, but have failed to find it. Princess Louise as a Housewife.

A Montreal correspondent of the Scranton Republican thus gossips about the Princess Louise: Her royal highness is extremely fond of sun, and the early morning visitor is welcomed by flinging back the curtains "the first thing of the day." Every morning before breakfast the princess takes a walk of three miles over the estate of the government house and the road beyond, walking briskly over the snow in winter, aided by a cane and accompanied by a favorite dog. She is more fond of sketching and painting than other accomplishments, but she is what the Germans call a notable housewife, and goes into the kitchen every morning to give orders for the day. The Canadian servants did not all like this, and rebelled, so her ladyship got our servants from "home" who were more used to the expression of supreme wills Like many energetic people the princess is hot tempered and the servants were disposed to think her as peremptory as the queen in the story of "Alice in Wonderland," who ordered heads off at any moment. She sets an example of industry and certainly considers life quite worth living, as she sets apart for her work or recreation specified regular hours She has music playing in some part of the house nearly all the time, though the early morning strains are those most grateful to her husband's Scotch ear—the bagpipe. Lord Lorne has his own favorite piper with him. The princess is a good cook, and takes pride in this accomplishment. At the dinners en famille some one pretty, delicious dish is sure to have been cooked under her own supervision or prepared by her own hands. Some time ago a young mother and her babe, who were visiting the princess, were taken ill with scarlet fever caused by defective drainage, they say. None of the servants would go to the sick woman's room, being afraid of the infection The princess herself cooked all the food and carried it with her own hands to the sick visitor. She made the bed, smoothed the pillows, read and talked to her patient, and nursed the mother back to life, though the little one died and was buried in the cemetery near the hall.

TORONTO, CAN.

What the Rev. E. B. Stephenson, B. A., a clergyman of the London Conference of the Methodist Church of Canada, has to say in regard to A. H. Dixon & Son's new treatment for Catarrh:

OAKLAND, Ont., Canada. March 17, 1883.

Messrs. A. H. Dixon & Son: Dear Sirs—Yours of the 8th inst. to hand. It seems almost too good to be true that I am cured of catarrh, but I know that I am. I have had no return of the disease and never felt better in my life. I have tried so many things for catarrh, suffered so much and for so many years, that it is hard for me to realize that I am really better.

I consider that mine was a very bad case; it was aggravated and chronic, involving the throat as well as the nasal passages, and I though I would require the three treatments, but feel fully cured by the two sent me, and I am thankful that I was ever induced to send to you.

You are at liberty to use this letter, stating that I have been cured at two treatments, and I shall cheerfully recommend your remedy to some of my friends who are sufferers.

Yours with many thanks,

REV. E B. STEPHENSON.
