Ottawa, Oct. 24.—Particulars of the death of Captain Leon Curry, of the 42nd Highlanders of Montreal, and son of Senator N. Curry have been received by General Sir Sam Hughes. His death took place on the night of October 20th. The regiment had just entered the front trench, relieving another Canadian battalion for the first time, when a shell from a trench mortar landed amongst the men, killing Captain Curry almost immediately. He was buried with military honors the following day at Armentieres.

The 42nd Battalion belonged to the Corps troops commanded by General Mercer, so that the two Canadian divisions as well as the corps troops are apparently all in action. The daily toll of casualties shows that the fighting is very heavy all along the front held by the Canadians.

Fredericton, Oct. 24.—Private Leonard Craig, of the Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry who was twice wounded several months ago and after treatment in an English hospital returned to the front, has been wounded again, recovered and is back at the front for another go at the Germans.

It was only today that word that Private Craig had been wounded again was received by his relatives at Zionville, York Co. According to information they have received he was wounded with shrapnel on the head and after being cared for in an hospital for some time, returned once more to the firing line.

He left here in August, 1914, with one of the drafts of volunteers from the 71st Regiment, and after training with the 12th Battalion in England, was sent to the front with reinforcements for the Princess Pats.

Private Craig will not be 18 years of age until April 22nd next.

NO PARALLEL FOE SHOODING OF MISS CAVELL

Sir John explained that, in addition to the privileges for an adequate defense already mentioned, an opportunity was always given for reconsidering sentence. In the case of a ccurt martial, reconsideration always took place in a civil court. In such a case as that mentioned, the condemned person had the privilege of appealing to a court of criminal appeal, and for consideration by the home secretary, who would advise as to the prerogative of mercy. In the particular case referred to the woman did not appeal.

The secretary was asked what cognizance was taken by the British government of inquiries by neutral diplomats in this country in connection with trials for espionage or similar offenses. To this he replied:

"In any case, when the accused claimed to have connection with a neutral country we have not waited for application to be made to us. We have thought it right to give the neutral embassy information of the arrest. It has happened that in several cases the accused was carrying what he alleged to be a United States passport. In such cases, as in others, the American embassy has been consulted and solicitors, as counsel for the defense, have been retained, with the embassy's approval."

In answer to a question as to whether execution could, in Great Britain, follow sentence as quickly as in the recent case in Belgium, the home secretary said:

"Execution never follows sentence here without a proper interval. Indeed, there was a case not long ago when on the eve of execution, postponement was requested in order that some further representations could be considered. Sentence was postponed for a week, and the whole case was reviewed in the light of the new material.

"In a case now pending the accused says he wishes to call evidence from the other side of the world.

We do not know whether the evidence will be helpful, but we have postponed final trial from August to December.

"Mind you, I am not claiming any credit for the British government for our procedure. There is nothing unusual, to my mind, in taking care that accused persons have the fullest opportunity for their defense.

"The thing which strikes Englishmen, familiar with our procedure, as most incredible in the Cavell case is the calculated indifference with which the enquiries of the American and Spanish ministers were treated. If the excuse is suggested that in war time severe or harsh measures have to be taken, our own experience is enough to show that it is possible to combine regard for the rights of the accused and respect for humane considerations with effective punishment of hostile offenses of the most serious kind.

"It would have seemed impossible for the Germans to have done anything to increase the horror they have produced by their behavior in Belgium; it would have seemed impossible also for them to have done anything which could cement more closely the bond of sympathy between England and the Belgian population. But they have accomplished both seeming impossibilities by one horrible act of brutality."

GERMAN MENACE IN BALTIC HAS BEEN CHECKED

"On the Oginski Canal, south of Lake Vygonoff, after a desperate bayonet engagement, our troops captured the village of Voulka.

"The remainder of the front, to the Pripet river, and in the region of the left bank of the Styr, is without change.

"In the region of Novo Alexaniec the enemy made several furious counter-attacks, all of which were stopped by our fire.

"On the Galician front, south of Novo Alexaniec there has been no change.

"In the Caucasus, on the night of October 22, on the coast front near the mouth of the Arkhave, the Turks, taking advantage of the fog, attempted to throw back our advance guards. The attempt was discovered in time and frustrated by our fire.

"In the region north of Lake Tortum, and also in the region west of Melazghert, there have been advance guard skirmishes. The remainder of the front is stationary."

German Official Report

Berlin, Oct. 24, via London, Oct. 25—Successes for the German troops in the region of Dvinsk, with the capture of eighteen officers and 2,940 men, and further gains for the Teutonic allies in Serbia are chronicled in the official communication made public today. The communication says:

"Northeast of Souchez (France) enemy advances were repulsed. Detachments which penetrated our positions were immediatley driven back.

"Enemy aviators bombed Ostend and the Noyon railroad station, but without result.

"In an aerial battle south of St. Quentin an English double decked machine was brought down, and the pilot and observation officers were killed. German aviators attacked, apparently with successful results, the English camp at Abbeville (northwest of Amiens). Bombs also were dropped on Verdun. Hits were observed.

"Eastern theatre, army of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg:

"On the advance of the German troops the Russian forces which had been landed at Somestu returned to their ships.

"Northwest of Dvinsk our troops ejected the enemy, with great losses, from his positions at Schlossberg and took Illoukst by storm. The Russians left eighteen officers and 2,940 men and ten machine guns and one mine thrower in our hands.

"Army of Prince Leopold:

"There is nothing to report.

"Army of Gen. Von Linsingen:

"Repeated attacks on our canal positions south of Wygonowskoie Lake were repulsed. In a counter thrust two officers and 300 men were taken prisoners. West Czartorysk enemy positions were taken. Near Komaovo many Russian counter-attacks were repulsed and three officers and 458 men were left on our hands.

"Balkan theatre:

"East of Lucavica the army of Gen. Von Koevess, of Field Marshal Von Mackensen's group, drove the Serbians back in a westerly direction. The army of Gen. Von Gallwitz has taken the southern bank of the Jasenica river, near Palanka. Further east it has reached the Rakinac line, north of Pearovac-Ranowac, in spite of very violent resistance, on the part of the Serbians. The number of Serbians buried by our troops testifies to the heaviness of the losses.

"The Danube has been crossed near Orsova and Slava Bozija hill won. Three officers and 70 men were taken prisoners.

"The army of Gen. Bowadjeff has captured a Russian munitions store near Prahovo, on the Danube, northwest of Negotin, and has occupied the western bank of the Timok river. Of the other sections of the Bulgarian army there is nothing to report."

"Available maps do not show a place named Prahovo, on the Danube, in this region, but there is a Pravo and a Kladovo on the Danube to the north of Negotin. Heretofore there has been no suggestion that the Russians were operating against Bulgaria, except by bombardment on the Black Sea and Aegean Sea coasts.

PLUCKY RESCUE SAVES LIFE OF SYDNEY FIREMAN

Chemical Operator Trapped in Burning Building Saved by Daring Feat of Another Fireman.

Sydney, N. S., Oct. 24.—What proved to be a stubborn fire broke out in the MacDonald block on Charlotte street at midnight tonight and two hours later the building was a mass of ruins. The flames through the hard work of the firemen were prevented from reaching the adjoining buildings.

The loss is estimated at from $15,000 to $20,000 with $7,000 insurance on the building, $3,000 on Ross' tailoring stock, $2,500 on D. F. Nolan's gents' furnishings and $500 on another small shop.

An incident of more interest than the fire itself was the very remarkable rescue of chemical operator Elvey by Fireman Dan McDonald. Elvey had entered the building to locate the fire. He was next seen at a three story window in a highly dangerous predicament. Smoke and flames were issuing from behind him and he was shouting for a ladder. Through some mischance there was a delay in erecting the ladder and when it was got up it was found to be about five feet too short of the window out of which Elvey was now seen to be hanging with his clothes on fire and the building behind him a roaring furnace.

MacDonald reached up and gradually pulled Elvey out of the window. Though nobody in the crowd expected the feat could be done, McDonald managed to land his comrade on his shoulder and finally got down to the street, the clothing of both men in flames as they landed. McDonald was severely burned.

Elvey, who was fearfully injured, was taken to the hospital where he lies in a precarious condition.

30,000 WOMEN IN LINE IN NEW YORK SUFFRAGE PARADE

Five Thousand Men Join Votes for Woman Demonstration in Procession Three Miles Long.

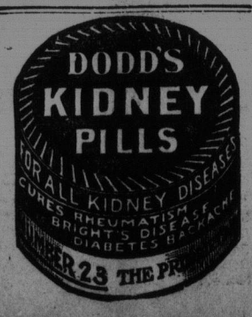
New York, Oct. 24—Fifth Avenue for four hours Saturday was given over to the largest woman's suffrage parade ever witnessed anywhere. It was the women's appeal to place New York, at the election on Nov. 2, among the states which have given women the right to vote.

Participated in by women from every state in the union, and from many foreign countries, and by women in every phase of business, professional, educational, artistic and official life, the parade extended from Washington Square to Central Park, a distance of three miles, and although it began shortly before three o'clock, it was long after dark when the last marchers had finished.

Suffrage leaders estimated that 30,000 women were in line. In addition, there were five thousand men, representing, the leaders said, only about half of the men who had signed pledges that they would participate.

Throughout the line of march, the sidewalks, hotel balconies, and windows of clubs, stores and apartment houses were filled with spectators. On both sides of Fifth Avenue, with the yellow bannered women marchers moving between, were banked throngs of people, estimated by the police to exceed 200,000. All the side streets off the avenue were choked with automobiles, wagons and improvised reviewing stands. There were thirty bands and, it was said, 15,000 yellow banners. It required four hours and twenty minutes for the parade to pass any one of the reviewing stands.

Of the various features of the parade none attracted more attention than several babies which were pushed in baby carriages by their mothers and heralded by banners "Votes for women." One baby, wheeled by its mother, occupied an open space half a block long. It was wildly cheered.



REFORM WHOLE FISCAL POLICY IN RUSSIA

Based on Income Tax—Foreign Loan of Nearly Three Billion Dollars Authorized.

Petrograd, via London, Oct. 24.—An Imperial ukase issued today authorizes the Russian minister of finance to transact on foreign markets credit operations amounting to 5,500,000,000 rubles ($2,750,000,000) and also to issue abroad the necessary treasury bonds in pounds, francs and dollars.

Explaining his plans to a representative of the press, Pierre Bark, the finance minister, said the whole fiscal system of Russia would be reformed on the basis of the income tax, which already had been approved by the Duma, and now was under consideration by the council of the empire.

All textiles, he said, also will be taxed, which will bring into the treasury $75,000,000 annually.

Schemes for creating tea, sugar and match monopolies are being worked out. The question of a six per cent. internal loan shortly will be determined, as the Russian money market is rich in resources, the proof of which, said the minister, will be found in the recent official statement that current deposits in private banks had reached the marvellous total of $2,000,000,000 and that the increase in deposits for the year ending Sept. 1 amounted to $350,000,000, while the savings bank deposit monthly increase was $25,000,000.

MAJORITY OF NEW CARDINALS ITALIANS

Pope to Make Important Announcement Regarding Peace Views on Occasion of Coming Consistory.

Rome, Oct. 24, via Paris—Although Pope Benedict did not wish to hold a consistory during the war, he has now changed his original intention, as the Italian members in the sacred college are in fewer number than the foreign cardinals. There is mention of the creation of French, German and perhaps Austrian cardinals, but otherwise all will be of Italian nationality. It is asserted the Pontiff will on the occasion make most important exposition of his views on peace that he has yet made.

FIVE PRIESTS FROM OTTAWA DIOCESE HAVE DIED ON BATTLEFIELD

The Earl of Derby added, according to the speaker, that this was something to be proud of, and that he confidently anticipated that by the end of November he would have sufficient recruits to meet all requisitions.

HOUSEWIVES RIOT IN BERLIN

Damage to Property Causes Authorities to Placard the Streets with Warnings.

Berlin, Oct. 23, via London, Oct. 25.—Because of the recent housewives' riots, during which the women, in their struggles to purchase butter and other similar commodities, broke store windows and doors, the authorities have placarded the east side, the poorer section of Berlin, with scarlet colored warnings, pointing out the penalties for the violation of the imperial statutes regarding mobs and rioting and the regulations of martial law, under which Berlin is still governed.

The riot law, the posters point out, provides a minimum imprisonment of three months when a mob openly assembles and acts in violence against persons and property. The leaders and instigators are liable to imprisonment in the penitentiary for ten years when found guilty of acts of violence against persons or of plundering, destroying or damaging property in violation of the rules of martial law.
