GALA DAY IN TORONTO.

recognize her virtues. A very considerable percentage of Toronto's noblest and best was to be found in the parade. But, of course, all could not be there. Those whose misfortune or fortune it was to not be associated with any of the marching bodies had to be contented with the inconspicuous but hearty hand-clap or cheer or the waving of a flag. The zest with which they did it showed that enthusiasm had been aroused to the highest pitch.

By the time the vast column had formed in line one hundred and fifty thousand people thronged the route. From that time until an hour past noon street railway traffic was blocked, many of the business streets were rendered impassable and many of the cherished liberties of the British subject were ignominiously removed by the ruthless hands of the blue-coated guardians of the peace. But, of course, these little inconveniences are incidental to such occasions, and everybody knew it. They were "jubilant" anyway, and did not care.

The Inevitable Crush.

At last the largest organized body of men which ever evoked the enthusiasm of the Toronto public had began to move. No sooner had the squad of mounted policemen advanced at its head than ten thousand pairs of eyes along College-street were strained to catch every movement and ten thousand voices whispered in breathless suspense, "They come."

It was soon clear that the excited multitude would engage the most vigorous attention of the police. No sooner had word been passed along the crowds congregated at University and College-streets than the inevitable crush had begun, for those behind cried, "forward," and those in front cried, "back." Personal recriminations between the officers and some of the more pompous, self-magnified citizens and bantering between them and those who were inclined to be better-natured was the rule here as well as along the route. The police and the various military corps marched past and on to Jarvis-street amid cheers from admirers.

The Popular Kilties.

The Highlanders were perhaps most generously received. It was not so much because of their accoutrements or even their marching, although both were even better than their wont. But still green in the memories of the military-enthusiastic Torontonians was the cablegram which had flashed the joyful news across the Atlantic that Private Stewart of the 48th Highlanders, Toronto, in winning undying glory to himself, had made the name of his city and native land revered throughout the Empire and respected throughout the world. They paid this tribute to the organization which had sent forth such a worthy a representative.

The Fire Laddies.

Then again the Fire Brigade came in for a tremendous burst of plaudits from along the line. The gallant fire-fighters were much admired for their splendid appearance, and occasionally as they would pass the scene of late warfare with the consuming element, such, for instance, as the half-preserved ruins of Simpson's old planing mill on Queen-street, a cheer would go up to show that the efforts of the boys had been appreciated. In fact, they were applauded all along the route.

The creditable representation of the various societies passed by, but the crowd as a whole looked stolidly on. Frequently the banner of Britain would wave from an upper storey window, as at King and Yonge or along Queen-street, as a favorite fraternal brotherhood would pass by.

And so the story runs for the miles of the crowded route.

THE OFFICIAL LUNCHEON.

Speeches Were Confined to Eulogies of "The Queen" and of "Canada."

On arriving at the Exhibition grounds the aldermanic party were at once driven to the main dining hall, where they were joined by the guests invited to the official luncheon. The dining hall was tastefully decorated, and the menu provided by The Harry Webb Company was attacked by nearly 200 vigorous appetites and thoroughly enjoyed. Ald. Hallam presided, and what a picture of happiness he was! His countenance was wreathed in smiles, and he was undoubtedly the happiest man in Toronto. On his right sat Mayor Fleming, Hon. George W. Allan, J. Enoch Thompson, Spanish Vice-Consul; M. F. Angelo Gianelli, Italian Consul; Dr. Parkin, J. S. Willison, Controller Lamb, Controller Graham. On the chairman's left were Rev. Dr. Potts, Samuel Nordheimer, German Consul; Lieut.-Col. Shaw, Hawaiian Vice-Consul; A. L. Hertzberg, Vice-Consul of Norway and Sweden; G. N. Morang, Consul for Guatemala; B. Lawrence, Venezuelan Consul; George Musson, Brazilian Vice-Consul.

Seated around the well-laden tables were the members of the City Council, the Public and Separate School trustees, the members of the Technical and High School Boards, the officers of the regiments participating in the celebration, presidents, masters and officers of the societies and organizations that marched in the parade, civic officials, ex-mayors, ex-aldermen and other prominent citizens and officials, among whom were: E. F. Clarke, M. P., Thomas Crawford, M. L. A., O. A. Howland, M. L. A., and Rev. Father Ryan.

The Toasts.

The toasts were limited to two: "The Queen" and "Canada." Chairman Hallam proposed the toast of "The Queen" in his usual eloquent style. It was drunk most enthusiastically, the guests giving three hearty cheers for Her Majesty and singing the National Anthem with a vigor befitting the occasion. The following appropriate selection from Tennyson was added to this toast:

Her court was pure; her life serene,
God gave her peace; her land reposed,
A thousand claims to reverence closed,
In her as Mother, Wife and Queen.

The toast to Canada was responded to by Dr. Parkin, Rev. Dr. Potts and E. F. Clarke, M. P., after the singing of "The Maple Leaf" and three rousing cheers.

We envy not our neighbor's land,
We'll guard our own with sword in hand;
And by our attitude command
Respect from other nations.

Dr. Parkin's Remarks.

Dr. Parkin said that if ever there was a moment when the hearts of Canadians should overflow with feelings of joy it was now. Canadians saw their country for the first time thrust into the very front of Imperial politics. [Cheers.] They saw their Premier loaded down with courtesies and honors in the Mother Land. [Cheers.] Nothing could be more striking than the fact that when Victoria ascended the throne in 1837 the French were in open rebellion. It required 30 years to get confederation, and now that another 30 years had passed a Frenchman was Premier of the Dominion and the representative of all Canadians in the great celebration in London. [Cheers.] In 1759 the French and English were contending for supremacy in this country. The success attained by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the honors showered upon him would be enough to make the French people themselves recognize that the struggle ended well for their fellows. The present occasion should inspire Canadians to turn with renewed efforts to the building up of a great country. [Applause.]

Dr. Parkin closed his remarks with a reference to the regret that was felt at the absence of Sir George Airey Kirkpatrick, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, and to the pleasure that all felt at the honor done him by his Queen.

Rev. Dr. Potts Replies.

Rev. Dr. Potts agreed with everything that had been said by Dr. Parkin about the Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Had the whole country had the choice of a representative for this occasion they could not have chosen a better man. [Applause.] When all the colonies were expressing their loyalty it was pleasant to know that Canada was loyal to the core and that there was not a more loyal city in the Dominion than Toronto. [Cheers.] Toronto was the first city in the Dominion to make the Queen's birthday a public holiday. This was done in 1848. In 1849 it was made a half holiday, but ever since that year it had been a whole holiday, and Canada was leading the Empire in the efforts to make it a perpetual holiday. [Cheers.] It was very pleasant to see the intense enthusiasm that marked the celebration in Toronto of the good Queen's jubilee, a Queen firmly seated on the throne of a mighty empire, with three generations behind her preparing and prepared to take the responsibilities of that exalted position. [Applause.] The most popular man in England would be King of Great Britain and Emperor of India, the Duke of York would follow and then would come the baby. [Cheers.] Toronto was greatly indebted to John Hallam—[cheers]—for the splendid success of the celebration. If the present assemblage could confer titles they would confer one on John Hallam. [Cheers.]

Ex-Mayor and M. P.

E. F. Clarke, M.P., said that the honor of having his name coupled with the toast to Canada on this great occasion was as unexpected as it was undeserved. In no part of the world would the Diamond Jubilee be more enthusiastically observed than in the broad Dominion of Canada. [Cheers.] Canadians had shown their fealty and loyalty in 1812, 1837, 1866 and 1885, and were always prepared to prove their devotion to British institutions. [Applause.] It was a remarkable and significant fact that a Frenchman was called upon and enjoyed the privilege and high honor of presenting the love and loyalty of the Canadian people at the foot of the throne. [Loud cheers.] He was sure every person present marked with regret the absence of Sir George Kirkpatrick and would devoutly pray he might be spared for many years to his friends and his country. [Applause.] Canadians, when they considered what they had accomplished, had every reason to look forward with confidence to the future, and might feel assured that their children would enjoy the proud citizenship which they themselves now enjoyed. The speaker congratulated Ald. Hallam on the success of the celebration and remarked that the chairman had a loyal people behind him to make such a success possible.

The speaking concluded, the company dispersed and spent the remainder of the afternoon enjoying the outdoor attractions.

The menu card was very tastefully designed, and they were carefully preserved as a souvenir by those who were favored with an invitation to the luncheon.

THE CHILDREN'S CONCERT.

Only One-Half the Singers Promised Owing to Insufficient Cars.

Various circumstances militated against the complete success of the school children's concert, which was scheduled for 1.30. The cessation of street railway traffic during the progress of the procession made it a matter of impossibility for more than a few of the girls of the chorus to reach the grounds on time, and it was not until 2 o'clock that two thousand of the four thousand promised children were assembled in the centre of the crowded grand stand. Then Conductor Crispin took his post in a pulpit-like red, white and blue structure on the edge of the track and waved his baton. The introductory strains of the National Anthem, rendered by the Grenadiers' band, were distinguished above the murmur of the immense crowd, and the clear young voices of the choristers rang out tunefully with

God save our gracious Queen;
Long live our noble Queen;
God save our Queen.

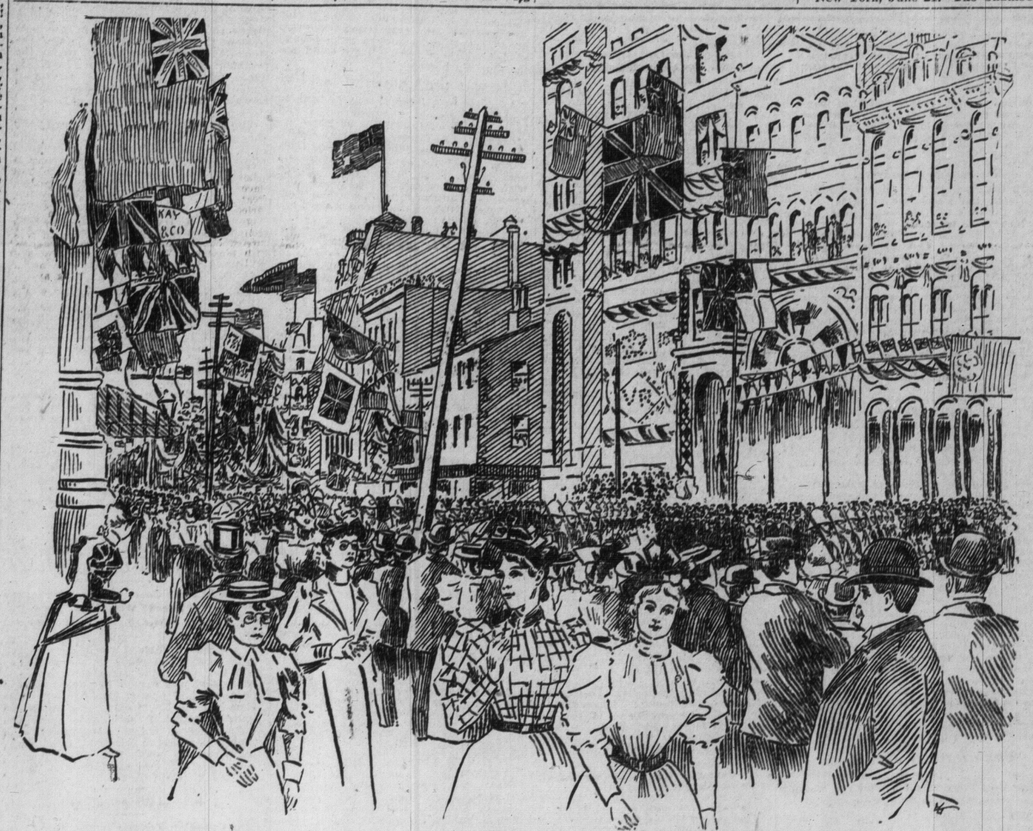
To those who could see the children the scene was inspiring. The girls were dressed in white, with blue sashes, and boys and girls bore miniature Union Jacks and branches of maple, which were waved in unison during the singing of several of the choruses.

"The Maple Leaf," "Rule Britannia," "Land of the Maple," "Victoria's Jubilee" and other patriotic songs were sung by the children, who fairly earned the unstinted applause accorded by their vast audience.

THE CHILDREN'S GAMES.

Keen Competition in the Events Open to All Pupils.

The games of the children of the Public and Separate Schools took place on the lawn south of the Main Building, being witnessed by thousands. Each event was hotly contested, many enjoying these games with much more zest than the contests of the older ones.



THE PROCESSION PASSING ALONG KING-STREET.

THE ATHLETIC GAMES.

Fine Exhibition Given by the Various Contestants.

In the ring and in front of the big stand a well-arranged program of first-class athletic sports was successfully carried out. Promptly at the time called for the first event was started, this being the floral bicycle tournament, there being seven entries in this. The first prize was awarded to F. Brown, who had his wheel artistically built up with white roses and carnations; the second prize to L. Pearse, he having his wheel decorated with maple and oak leaves and roses; hanging in the centre of the frame was a picture of the Queen. The third went to L. Lombers, he having his wheel built to represent a ship with all sails furled, the decorations being of roses and carnations. The next event, the hundred-yard foot race, was a hotly-contested one. In the first heat there were four starters. This heat was won by W. A. Paterson, J. S. Taylor second. The next heat was won by McGarry, Hubbard second. Third heat, Caldwell first, J. D. Morrow running a more than close second. Then came the first heat of the mile novice bicycle race, with 11 starters. This was won by E. Gascoigne, F. Abraham second and Paterson getting third on account of doing the pacing. The second heat was won by T. A. Durham, J. Cameron second, Harry Herns third for pacing. In the third A. Gascoigne got first, W. Hallman second and George Campbell third. Next was the final for the hundred yards, which was won by Caldwell, McGarry second, Hubbard third. This race was a very close one and the time wonderfully fast, it being within a second of the amateur record. The mile novice bicycle final went to A. Gascoigne, his brother Ernest getting second, Harry Herns third. This was a pretty race, the brothers closing up in the stretch and finishing one and two. The 220 yards, for firemen and policemen, was won by Dean of the Portland-street hall, J. McArthur of P. A. A. A. second, and S. Price of Lombard-street station third. The mile bicycle race, for volunteers, only had six entries, and was won rather easily by R. E. Westrop, Q. O. R., F. W. Logan, Q. O. R., second, J. N. Watt, Q. O. R., third. In this race there was a collision between George Gooch and W. F. Sparling. Gooch had his wheel smashed, and the fall completely put Sparling out of the race. Both these riders represented the Q. O. R. In the two-mile tandem bicycle race there were only three starters out of 12 entries. This was won in a walk by Sparling and Cinnamon. Snell and Oakley might have made a better showing if they had tried, but at the turn they rode farther out into the track than was necessary, thus giving the race away, they getting second, Cockburn and Macdonell getting third. The 220-yard foot race was won on its merits by Caldwell, Morrow second and Duke McGarry running a close third. The half-mile bicycle race went in an easy manner to Frank Moore, Archie McEachren second and Bobbie Thompson a poor third. The half-mile foot race went to R. J. Campbell, Y. E. Henderson second and J. Flake third. Then came the mile bicycle race, won by Frank Moore, F. J. Grove next, J. Barrett last. The time was fast and the finish was one of the closest of the day's sports. The putting the 16-pound shot went to T. O'Rourke, Sweetman's throw being 17 inches shorter and Ross' one foot shorter than his. Throwing the 16-pound hammer was awarded to J. McArthur, Nicol getting second and O'Rourke being given third place. Next was the throwing of the 56-pound weight, it going to O'Rourke, W. Nicol second and A. Babcock third. His throw was two feet shorter than O'Rourke's. The running broad jump was won easily by Frank Webber, E. Harding a poor second and Robinson a good third. The running high jump went to Webber, Harding next and Farley third. Summary:

In the grand stand and around the fence there were 25,000 spectators, children and adults, watching the athletic sports, and applauding each event in an enthusiastic manner. The whole afternoon's sport went off without a hitch, and the officers and committee are to be congratulated on the success of the day. Although there was a large number of policemen present it was almost impossible to keep the crowd off and from crossing the track; but, notwithstanding this, there was not one single accident, and the events were run off promptly on time, and the program was finished 30 minutes ahead of the time allotted. After the last event the hon. sec., H. J. P. Good, who was the busiest man on the track, called for three cheers for Her Majesty Queen Victoria, and three more for Toronto, and with three and a tiger for the officers the sports of the greatest holiday ever held in Toronto came to an end and everyone present went home satisfied that they had done all in their power to celebrate Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee. The entries were more numerous than ever in any athletic contest held in Toronto.

NOTES OF THE DAY.

Incidents and Adventures Seen by or Told to World Reporters.

Many people, unable to gain even standing room on cars bound to the grounds, walked as far east as the Don before finding room.

Why did not Sachem Hallam prevail on his brother chiefs of the Six Nations to remain in the city and take part in the proceedings?

The "Boys in Green," who usually do things thoroughly, did not disperse at the grounds, as did the Grens and Kilties, but re-formed and marched back to the Armouries.

The handsome float of the Independent Order of Foresters, which was so much admired by the thousands of sightseers, was built by Mr. Albert Brown of Lewis Morrison's company.

A small boy riding a donkey was thrown off in King-street near Bay. The incident caused a commotion amongst the horses ridden by the butcher boys, but the youngster escaped with nothing worse than a bruised knee.

Hundreds of persons waited as long as an hour in the afternoon at Spadina-avenue and Bathurst-street only to find the cars bound for Exhibition Park fully packed. Hence, many despairing of car accommodation walked the long distance.

The young ladies of Harry Webb's establishment took their station on the roof of Michie & Company's building, and as the procession was passing sang "The Maple Leaf" and other appropriate airs, to the delight of the big crowd below, which cheered the girls again and again.

Among those who witnessed the parade was Mrs. Greenwood of 20 Alma-avenue. This lady, who is of the same age as Her Majesty, has a distinct recollection of the Queen's coronation and the procession which marked that notable occasion, and still treasures the dress she wore on the coronation day.

Four Canadian Peers.

Sir Donald Smith is the fourth Canadian peer, the others being Lord Aylmer of Melbourne, Que., the Baroness of Earnscliffe and Lord Mountstephen.

The new peer was born in the north of Scotland, at Morayshire, in the year 1821. When a young man he came to Canada and entered the service of the Hudson Bay Company. He rose post by post till he became a director, and afterwards president, governor and chief commissioner of the Hudson Bay Company. No other public man in Canada has been more prominently connected with the history of the Northwest, and the C. P. R. He has been identified with a great many commercial enterprises, and prior to being appointed High Commissioner for Canada, had considerable experience in politics in the Manitoba Assembly, and in the House of Commons.
