GAMEY STOPPED BY SPEAKER'S ORDER

these roads promised by the minister. This year he hoped to see that $5700 in the estimates and another $5000 or $10,000 thrown in for good will. If the government had taken the timber limit they gave to "that old navigator" for $250, and sold it for what it was worth, they would have been able to pay for the roads and give the captain a little rake-off besides.

A Normal School in New Ontario was required. There ought to be resident inspectors in those districts. Last year the government had a man working as inspector in New Ontario part of the time and working in The Globe office the balance of the time. What kind of an educational system could be expected from such a condition of affairs?

After Globe Editor.

The man from Manitoulin then turned his attention to The Globe, reading some of the epithets hurled at his head by the "reverend editor." What would the editor do if he resorted to Gamey's "barroom vocabulary?" "If that is the kind of language you stuff a minister with and if that's the kind of language you go out to convert the world with I am not disappointed that I do not belong to the Presbyterian Church."

Mr. Gamey recalled a rebuke the editor of The Globe, when he was editor of The Westminster, received from the late Premier Hardy. When he wrote the "barnacle" editorial he had the devil cast out of him, but the devils had returned seven-fold.

The opposition desks resounded with loud applause when he referred to the decision of Judge Winchester not to try the charge against the Assessment Department because he had a son working in that department. What would Judge Winchester think of a judge having three sons working for the government and trying the government?

Common rumor said that the editor of The Globe was going to be dismissed. "I hope not; I believe as long as The Globe abuses me I am hurting the government."

The Globe had said he was reviling the judges. But behold the editor of The Globe reviling Lord Alverstone in regard to the Alaska decision!

The member for North Grey had spoken of a number of prominent people taking someone down to the station and telling the conductor to "Put me off at Buffalo." "When I get on a train," said Mr. Gamey, "I am always sober enough to get off wherever I want to."

Premier a Pirate.

Mr. Gamey said the Premier ought to know what a pirate is. He was the Capt. Kidd of Canadian literature. He actually stole the poem that appears in the old school books under his name. Was not that the most miserable and contemptible act of a pirate?

Speaker Charlton interposed: "Surely," he said, "the honorable gentleman is not going to attack the honorable Premier in this way?"

"Perhaps I should not use as strong language," replied Mr. Gamey.

Mr. Speaker: You are making a direct reference.

Mr. Whitney: You're right. The difference is this: The honorable member for Manitoulin names the one to whom he refers, but the Premier did not, but everybody knows to whom he referred.

Mr. Gamey resumed, but his first statement again aroused the Speaker. The Premier was a political pirate as well as a literary pirate.

The Speaker said the rules of debate debarred any direct reference to a member of the house.

Mr. Gamey: Will he say he didn't mean me when he said "pirate"? Either I shouldn't be in the house or the government should not be in the house.

Should Have Acknowledged It.

If the letter to the Premier sealing the bargain was received in the regular way, if it was regular and honest, then the Premier would have acknowledged it. The envelope was never produced in court, because it was left in the Provincial Secretary's office.

Mr. Stratton said he had denied in the witness box and in the house that the letter was left in his office.

But perhaps the honorable Provincial Secretary may have forgotten?" Mr. Gamey suggested.

The Speaker stopped Gamey. The statement of the Provincial Secretary must be accepted.

Mr. Whitney acknowledged the difficulties the Speaker had to contend with in dealing with this question. The member for Manitoulin had said the letter was left in the Provincial Secretary's office, and the Provincial Secretary had said that it was not. It was man against man.

The Speaker declared that he did not intend to press the rules too hard, but the member for Manitoulin was clearly out of order. It was not in order to refer to past debates.

Continuing, Mr. Gamey said the Premier owed an explanation to the people why he did not acknowledge that letter if it was an honest letter. The speaker had intended going fully into some of the matters connected with the case, but he was debarred from that by the ruling of the chair. He was going to tell them why Mr. McGregor was not called at the trial. Nearly all the Liberal speakers had referred to the case without interruption, but he must not do so, and he would have to wait till another time. He promised that he would move an amendment to the address, and would avail himself of the opportunity of speaking on some portions of his case.

McCart of Stormont.

W. J. McCart followed, devoting a considerable portion of his time to answering Dr. Nesbitt's speech of Tuesday. Every one knew that any difficulty about the sale of the Temiskaming Railway bonds was due to the condition of the money market and not to the government's incapacity. He defended the administration's financial policy, and its disposal of the timber lands, and went back some years to show that the government of Sir John Macdonald was corrupt. The institutions of the province were doing a great work, and he quoted some figures in support of his statement, enlarging on the returns of farm produce and the general prosperity of the province. The Liberal party, he declared, was united under one of the most trusted leaders of this country.

Duff of Simcoe.

J. S. Duff said, in opening, that he intended to look into the means employed by the Liberal party to hold power so long, referring to the redistribution bill as a measure designed to offset the waning popularity of the government. When they were defeated by a large majority of the popular vote, their duty was to resign, but instead they decided to fight, and today they retained office by a meagre majority of three. While he believed that the Minister of Agriculture was the only minister who was not involved by the Gamey charges, Mr. Dryden had been lacking in progress; he had merely accepted the suggestions of the farmers' associations. The dead meat industry should be encouraged, so that our small beef cattle could be placed on the English market in such a way as to compete with the Armours, the Swifts and other American producers.

Continuing after 8 o'clock Mr. Duff traversed quite a number of provincial issues, holding the Minister of Crown Lands responsible for the wasting of the timber resources of the province. He asked why the government had not taken any steps to ascertain the source of the money which the member for Manitoulin says he received for his support of the government. He compared the delay in holding the election in North Renfrew with the hurry to fill the seat of the late Andrew Pattullo. Discussing the early calling of the house, he said it was because the Minister of Crown Lands, like Cox, could not wait. The Liberals had spent a good deal of time abusing Gamey, and it must be because Gamey had been doing them a lot of harm. The speaker had been on the platform with Mr. Gamey and he was not ashamed of it.

Mr. Graham Replies.

George P. Graham, after a touching reference to the death of his desk mate, the late Andrew Pattullo, denied that he had used the expression attributed to him by Mr. Whitney, that The Globe must be possessed of the devil. Mr. Graham, taking up the question of the popular Conservative majority, said figures could be made to prove anything, and he next observed that anomalies would always exist. Col. Munro had received a larger majority than was ever polled in North Oxford in a straight fight. If the Conservatives had won three seats in New Ontario before the Gamey charges were made, they had lost one of them since those charges were made. He did not believe that Gameyism had anything to do with the result in Muskoka and North Renfrew, and the Conservatives were doing their leader and other good men who took part in the campaign an injustice in putting forth Gamey as the man who won those fights. Mr. Graham read from The Woodstock Express, deprecating the influence of Gamey in the North Oxford campaign.

Says No One Suffered.

The speaker argued that no interest suffered thru the disfranchisement of North Renfrew. There must be a way, Mr. Graham said, by which the member for North Renfrew can be seated legally, if any technicality exists that would deprive him of his seat.

He contended that it would have been a rant cowardice for the government to put off the session of the house to allow the election trials to go on, because, if the members had been unseated and the government found to be in a minority, the business of the province would have suffered, while the lawyers fought the protests out and until a new government was formed.

Great as Mackenzie was, and Sir Wilfrid is, they were not as great as Hon. G. W. Ross. He read from The Telegram that the weakness of the opposition was in the front row. He sighted a conspiracy promoted in the second row to oust the front row, and he was glad that the member for North Toronto was willing to jump right over the front row and support the temperance legislation to be introduced by the government.

First in This Reform.

Mr. Graham claimed to be first in advocating free school books. This was in 1901, and he asked the opposition to point to a single instance where they made such a proposition before that time. He was going to keep saying something along this line, and he believed that a way would be found to carry out the policy that he advocated. While he did not believe our education system was perfect it was being rapidly developed. He thought there were too many books in use by the scholars, and he also thought that no home work should be given to children up to the third book. The opposition said "Hear, hear!" to this. Mr. Graham presented many figures in support of his plea for free school books.

He would not go so far as to advocate the establishment of a printing bureau to print the school books, and he believed that if the printing bureau at Ottawa had not been established when it was it never would have been.

Where Will Money Come From?

The money for the purchase of school books might come from an increase of the succession duties, or it might be wel lto let the timber resources of the province assist in the education of the young.

Never was such a practical demonstration of sympathy for labor as was shown when the government came to the rescue of the workmen at the Soo.

Mr. Graham said Liberal principles were the same to-day as they were one hundred years ago.

Mr. Hanna moved the adjournment of the debate at 10.30.

Saw Mr. Stratton.

A deputation from Lindsay, consisting of J. D. Flavelle, T. Stewart, H. O'Leary, Robert Kennedy and Thomas Saddler saw Hon. J. R. Stratton yesterday morning with respect to the development of the marl deposits at Sandy Lake. Mr. Stratton declined to say definitely whether a charter for a development company and a concession of the territory would be granted.

The annual sleighing party, followed by supper and dance, of the British American Business College students, was held last evening.

The Empire Club luncheon will be held to-morrow at 1 o'clock sharp, at Webb's. A. T. Hunter, LL.B., will speak.

The Equity Fire Insurance Co.

SIXTH ANNUAL MEETING.

The Directors of the Equity Fire Insurance Co. beg to present herewith to its shareholders the 6th Annual Report and the financial statement of the company for the year ending Dec. 31st, 1903, duly certified by the Auditors.

We have pleasure in calling your attention to the fact that the company's income has increased from $175,281.74, in the year 1902, to $196,235.05, in the year 1903, and that the expenses of the company have been less for 1903 in proportion to the volume of business than in any preceding year.

The company closed the year with a surplus revenue of $60,295.12, after providing for all fire losses and all other expenses. Your Directors, therefore, have declared and paid a dividend of 6 per cent.

The agency organization has improved, and the company in other respects is better prepared to handle larger lines of insurance and to more fully share in the increase of business which is bound to come with the rapid development of Canada and increased public confidence in Canadian institutions.

We regret to report that the company has lost the services of Mr. W. H. Biggar, K.C., as a Director. He, having changed his residence to Montreal, found it impossible to attend the meetings of the board, and accordingly resigned. Mr. Wm. Greenwood Brown was elected by the board in Mr. Biggar's place for the unexpired term.

Your Directors desire to commend the staff and the agents for their interest and zeal in behalf of the company.

The time for which the Directors were appointed now expires. They are eligible for re-election.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

EXECUTORS' SALE OF VALUABLE freehold land at the corner of Queen Street and University Avenue,

Sealed tenders, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed, "Tenders for Thomson Property," will be received by the undersigned up to noon on Thursday, the 18th day of February, 1904, for the purchase of that freehold land situate in the City of Toronto, at the northwest corner of Queen-street West and University-avenue, described as follows: Lot No. 1, on the north side of Queen-street, as shown on a plan registered in the Registry Office for the Eastern Division of the City of Toronto as Plan No. 55. Said Lot No. 1 has a frontage of 40 feet on Queen-street and a depth on University-avenue of 100 feet, and contains 4000 square feet. The said land will be sold subject to a certain lease dated 27th July, 1887, registered in the said Registry Office on the 9th day of May, 1888, as No. 3641 G. and made by the late Rev. Charles E. Thomson to John O'Malley, for a term of 21 years, from the 27th day of July, 1887, at a yearly rental of $720, payable quarterly, with provisions for renewal of the term from time to time at an increased rent.

The tenant owns the buildings, and is entitled to be paid the value of them if the term is not renewed.

The buildings at present on the said lands are known by the street numbers of 160 and 162 Queen-street West, occupied, respectively, by J. & J. L. O'Malley and Hargreaves Bros. This property is particularly desirable for a branch bank, factory or apartment building.

Terms: Ten per cent. when offer accepted, remainder within 30 days thereafter, or, if purchaser prefers it, one-half the purchase money may be left on mortgage on the property, repayable by four annual instalments of $300 each, and balance in five years; interest, 5 per cent., half-yearly.

The highest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted. A copy of the above lease may be seen, and further particulars and conditions of sale may be obtained at the office of the undersigned Solicitors for the Executors of the late Rev. Charles E. Thomson.

Blocked Railways Cause Famine.

Bad as the severe weather is for passengers, it is still worse for freight. There have been no freights in Kincardine for three weeks except a couple carloads of coal. This has produced something approaching a famine in many places, and grocery keepers have been trying to help one another out. In Kincardine the other day not an onion was to be had, and there is a similar famine in several other eatables.

Controller Richardson yesterday presented to Council his resolution providing for a return to the former system of electing controllers and members of the Board of Education. It was referred to the Committee on Legislation for consideration and Council adjourned.

The committee of the King Edward School Art League, having in hand the leap year at-home to be held in the school on Monday evening, Feb. 29, met last night at the home of Mrs. Wilkinson, 405 Markham-street, and from all reports the event will be a great success. Refreshments will be served in the new domestic science room.
