LONDON, Oct. 21.

John Bright addressed 16,000 people at Birmingham to-night on topics of general public interest. He commended the administration of Gladstone for the past legislation, with the exception of Education Act, which was incomplete. Of the war against the Ashantees, Bright said no one is more anxious than the administration for reasonable pacific adjustment. He believed that the interests and honor of the country would be best consulted by the absolute withdrawal of the British Colonists from the Ashantee coast. He told some stern truths relative to the conduct of English people and Government during the southern rebellion. The conduct of the Administration in reference to the Treaty of Washington and subsequent Arbitration under its provisions, had added a nobler page to the history of England than had all the bloody battles recorded in its history.

Bright's address occupied one hour and ten minutes, and was received with unflagging enthusiasm to the close.

The insurgent fleet has returned to Carthagena.

A severe famine is threatened in Bengal.

It is practically settled that the French Assembly will meet on October 29th. and a motion for the restoration of monarchy will be made on November 5th.

A meeting of delegates of Right Centre was held to-day. A resolution recalling Count de Chambord to France was unanimously adopted.

The meeting also adopted a resolution formally coalescing with members of the Right.

A communication was addressed to the Left Centre with a view to an understanding upon the question of the ministry.

Markets generally unchanged. Bullion in Bank of England has decreased £287,000 during week. Pease, the Conservative candidate, has been elected a member of Parliament from Hull, to fill the vacancy, by majority of 297.

The London police seized a quantity of arms designed for the Carlists, and arrested parties in charge. The Carlists claim a brilliant victory on 19th over the Republicans near Purgcerda. Two hundred government troops are said to have been killed.

Admiral Cobo assigns as a reason for returning from Carthagena to Gibraltar with the Government squadron that the only iron-clad vessel attached to his fleet was disabled.

Papers Submitted to Parliament—Lord Dufferin's able Defence.

The documents presented to the House yesterday have created a great sensation in all circles. They contain Lord Dufferins account of his course of action in connection with Prorogation, Oath's bill, Pacific Scandall, Royal Commission, and Earl Kimberly's despatches in reply. It appears from Kimberly's despatch that Sir John urged the home authorities to sanction Oath's bill, but upon consulting the law officers of the crown they disallowed the bill. In a letter to Sir John respecting the proposed appointment of Royal Commission, Dufferin says: "For the part of the Crown, I should have no objection to offer to the Commission as you propose, and I think you may with perfect propriety act upon the presumption that members of the Committee will accept the charge confided to them. The Government has stretched its legal conscience, and encouraged Parliament, though not without warning to exceed its legitimate powers, etc. In order to facilitate this enquiry the obstacles interposed is one in which you have no concern and beyond your control. You propose to obviate the difficulty by the only means in your power, but a means both legitimate and effectual, no one can doubt that for the purpose for which the committee was originally constituted. Its conversion into a Commission can make no practical difference, as a Commission it will take evidence, and as a committee it will report upon that evidence, to the House. It would be unreasonable to allege that in discharging this double function, and in acquiring in addition to the powers delegated to it by Parliament a techinical authority at the hands of the Crown, to take evidence on Oath's. It abates not one tittle of constitutional independence.

In another place Lord Dufferin says: "Nor has Huntington himself any grounds to dispute my right to take cognizance of the affair. While the Parliamentary Committee was still in existence, he approached me officially and directed a communication criminating a member of my Privy Council. He, Mr. Huntington was invited at my intervention to the direct cognizance of the Crown."

It also exposed how Huntington tried to prejudice Lord Dufferin against the Ministers while the matter was in the hands of a Parliamentary Committee. "Mr. Huntington sent me a sealed package, covered by an official communication to my Secretary, which, as I understood from the gentleman who brought it, as well as from Mr. Huntington's letter, contained copies of the incriminatory documents, in his possession. As matters to which papers referred became subjects of public investigation before a House of Commons Committee; and, as I was still uncertain what turn affairs might take, I did not consider it would be proper for me to take personal cognizance of these papers. I therefore returned the packet unopened to Mr. Huntington.

Respecting the Prorogation, Lord Dufferin shows that a protest was signed by a minority of the members. That on last test vote in the House the Gov't. had a majority of thirty-five. He quotes A. L. Palmer's letter to Sir John, showing that members from a distance understood that the House would be prorogued. He then says, "On one point I was quite clear, namely, that it would not be right for me to countenance the settlement of the serious issues raised between my ministers and their opponents, involving as they did the personal honor of the most eminent men in Canada. The fate of my ministry and public credit of the country except at the hands of a full Parliament, in which the distant Provinces of the Dominion were as well represented as those of Ontario and Quebec."

NEW YORK. Oct. 24.

A PARRSBORO BRIG LOST.

The British brig Jane, foundered at sea on the sixth instant, and six of the crew of seven were lost. The Jane was 143 tons register, and hailed from Parrsboro, N. S., but was in the Haytien trade from Boston.

A TERRIBLE HURRICANE

occurred at Jacmel, Hayti on the 18th inst., blowing down five hundred houses and causing the loss of many lives.

PARIS, Oct. 23—p. m.

ACTION OF THE LEFT CENTRE.

The last sitting of the permanent committee was held to-day. The subject of calling the Assembly was not touched upon, and the day for the re-opening is left to the ministry. The deputies of the Left Centre adopted by a unanimous vote the resolution in favor of a conservative Republic. M. Say, on behalf of the Left Centre refused to listen to the overtures of Duke Daudiffret Pasquier for a coalition with the Right Centre.

M. PEREIERE

whose intentions were previously doubtful declared in favor of a Republic. The Monarchists are less hopeful.

City Police Court.

Justice McAvity presided at the court this morning, and a smile of satisfaction spread over his face at seeing so few names on the list. In consideration of it being Thanksgiving yesterday, the simple drunks were nearly all allowed to go, so that of all classes, probably they will be most truly thankful.

James O'Hara was arrested for being drunk and assaulting a man with a stone near Lower Cove slip. He was fined for this $6.

Thomas Reardon went into B. Curran's licensed tavern in Duke Street. Rum was sold to him, and he drank enough to cause him to assault Curran and his wife. He was given in charge but as no one appeared to prosecute was allowed to depart.

Alexander Flemming and George Cunnigham went to the Station for protection and were also let go.

Patrick Canty, a simple drunk, and Jas. Dick, the same, were also released without any fine.

Pat Lynch and Pat Malone, who were found wandering about the streets at a late hour, only had to spend a short time in the Station, as early in the morning, they were told to go in peace.

Peter O'Neil, an Indian, was arrested drunk, and fined $4. He promised to pay the fine when he sold his baskets. The privilege was given him, and he was told he need not appear to pay the fine, as it was his first offence.

Abram Hainsworth was fined $4 for drunkenness.

The Deputy Common Clerk's Decision Sustained.

The decisions of the City Court are not often appealed from, but the case of Richards vs. Belyea was an exception to the general rule. The first appeal was to the cowhide, as already published. The decision of the Deputy Common Clerk, Geo. Fairweather, Esq., who gave a non-suit for defendant, was on the grounds that subsequent to the agreement to rent the property, there was an agreement to purchase, and whether such agreement was valid or not was not in the province of the court to decide. The case, on application of W. Pugsley, Esq., was reviewed before Judge Watters and Mr. Fairweather's decision sustained. An appeal was then made to the full Bench, but was not successful. The decision was an important one, and being sustained by all the Judges is quite complimentary to the Deputy Clerk. During the summer, since B. L. Peters, Esq., has been absent, the entire work of the city, including this Court, has been performed by Mr. Fairweather. The Court has on one or two occasions sat all day and late into the evening. It will be a question for the Common Council if Mr. Fairweather should not have some extra remuneration for his services. The people would support any action of the Common Council in granting him something extra.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD, nothing has ever been offered which can compare with this EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA. It is found a great promoter of health, when taken in the spring, to expel the humors that rankle in the system at this season of the year. Many complaints have their origin in the spring, and in the causes above mentioned, for which no better remedy has ever been devised. By its use multitudes can spare themselves from the endurance of foul eruptions and ulcerous sores, through which the system strives to rid itself of corruptions, if not assisted to do this through the natural channels of the body by an alterative medicine. Cleanse out the vitiated blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in pimples, eruptions, or sores; cleanse it when you find it is obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it whenever it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Even where no particular disorder is felt, people enjoy better health, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. Keep the blood healthy, and all is well; but with this paramount of life disordered, there can be no lasting health. Prepared by
