CANADA BY SAMPLES.

Displays Made by the Dominion at the World's Fair.

Natural and Developed Resources of the Country Artistically Exhibited —Ores, Coal and Manufactures from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

With all the enterprise and competitive spirit of her Yankee cousins, Canada has made a display at the World's Fair which admirably serves its purpose of illustrating the natural and developed resources of her vast territory. No department of the exposition has been slighted by Canada. Each big building contains a comprehensive exhibit, installed according to the best methods that could be employed to make it attractive. Possessed of resources so nearly similar to those of the United States that but slight distinctions can be drawn, Canada has been animated by the spirit of competition more keenly, perhaps, than any other nation represented at Jackson Park. She has given special attention to the display of her agricultural products, upon which she prides herself most. She has not neglected, either, the treasures hidden beneath her broad domain, as can be seen in the Mining building. The same conscientious endeavor to do herself justice has been manifested everywhere in the exposition, and the result has been most satisfactory to the visitor.

Great care has been taken by the Dominion official to properly present the display in the Agricultural building. A beautiful court, covering 7,000 square feet and rising 25 feet from the floor, stands, a model of its kind, on the north side of the center aisle. It is surmounted by a handsome trophy and by a large stuffed deer from the Rocky mountains. The curtain which surrounds the court on four sides is made entirely of grain and straw tastefully and artistically arranged.

DISPLAY BY PROVINCES.

At the west corner of the court, Ontario, the banner Province of the Dominion, has a large and tastefully arranged display. A handsome pavilion made entirely from cereals and grasses from the Ontario Government Agricultural College at Guelph is admired by all visitors. Samples of grain in glass jars constitute a beautiful trophy which rises to a height of fully 35 feet. The display of grain and cereals from the Province of Quebec is one of the most beautiful in the section. An interesting feature is a magnificent trophy of Canadian tobacco. There is also a pretty showing of maple sugar and syrup, which are two staple products of this Province. The display of grains and cereals from the great grain-growing areas of the Northwest show the splendid quality and extensive variety of these staples from the storehouse of the Dominion. There is also a splendid exhibit of furs and stuffed birds which adds largely to the attractiveness of the display. The Maritime Provinces of the Dominion show splendid exhibits of cereals and grains. Across the aisle from the handsome agricultural court is a second court containing exhibits of ales and beer. Here is the mammoth Canadian cheese which attracts general attention. There is also a display of biscuits, cheese, mineral and aerated waters, bacon, hams, and a fine exhibit of Canadian whiskies. In the annex of the Agricultural building, Canada has a large display of agricultural machinery.

WHERE COTTON IS REGENT.

Canada has out done her mother country in the neat and pretty curtains she has erected around her section in the Manufactures building. The section is on the west side of Columbia avenue, with Great Britain on her north, Denmark on the south, and Belgium on the east across the avenue. Every foot of 16,000 square feet of space is crowded with manufactured goods from all parts of Canada. There are a great many lines of manufactured products in the Canadian court which will compare favorably with those of the older, more populous and more pretentious manufacturing countries. The cotton king has been at work in the Dominion, and in two long, well-finished native wood cases are most tastefully arranged many of the products of the Canadian cotton mills. Cotton fabrics of all kinds are shown, and textile goods occupy a prominent place. Tweeds, meltons, braids, silk thread and carpets are also extensively exhibited. Gloves, hosiery, underwear and ready-made clothing are tastefully arranged in glazed cases made of Canadian elm, birch and cherry. Two very pretty cases are filled with specimens of women's work from different parts of the Dominion. There is also a creditable exhibit of sole and harness leather. Scales, stoves, hollow ware, water heaters, horseshoes, stove polish, screens, rivets, spades, shovels and an immense array of like articles meet the eye in every direction. An exhibit of circular and band saws of almost every pattern has attracted much attention, and it is doubtful whether in this department Canada is surpassed. A creditable display of boots and shoes occupies a prominent position.

INDIAN EXHIBITS BY INDIANS.

At the west side of Canada's space is a very interesting and instructive exhibit made by the Department of Indian Affairs at Ottawa. Here, with the teachers, are a number of Indian boys and girls from the Government Indian schools in the distant northwest of Canada. These young people daily pursue their routine work just as if they were at home in their schools. All around are the products of the civilized Indian—grain that he has sown, tilled and harvested, flour that he has ground, roots and vegetables that he has planted and cared for, manufactured goods of many kinds that he has skillfully put together and samples of the work of the school children of these Indian tribes under the guardianship of the civil government. There are also many curios of the warpath, the hunt and the trail.

The display which the Dominion makes in the Mining building is a fair index of the natural mineral resources of the country. The Canadian section comprises an area of 10,000 square feet, and is on the main floor, west of the central aisle extending back under the west gallery. Canadian flags and bunting give a gala day appearance to this most interesting section. Upon entering the large central court the visitor is immediately interested by the great pyramids of gold blocks, representing the yield of that precious metal throughout Canada since it was first discovered in the far western Province of British Columbia. The total yield of gold from British Columbia alone is estimated at something over $53,000,000, while across the continent the surf-beaten Province of Nova Scotia on the Atlantic has produced from her gold deposits since 1864 over $7,640,000. In the banner Province of Ontario extensive deposits of gold quartz are been worked, largely by American capitalists, and here the output is estimated at nearly $1,000,000.

COAL AND ORE SAMPLES

The samples of coal from British Columbia show the excellent quality, both anthracite and bituminous, of the inexhaustible coal fields of the Pacific Province. Black diamonds are also taken out in large quantities in the Province of Nova Scotia, and the sparsely wooded and illimitable areas of farming land in the great Northwest of the Dominion have a plentiful supply of excellent coal. The Province of Nova Scotia makes a poor show of coal samples despite the fact that she has some of the greatest coal areas on the continent.

The showing of nickel and nickel ore from the Sudbury district of Ontario it one which has attracted universal attention, not only of mining experts but of naval officers. The quality of these ores can best be indicated by the result of the recent tests made by the naval departments of Great Britain, France, Germany and the United States, in which Canadian nickel was found to have the greatest power of resistance, and was by all means the most suitable for the purpose of making armor plates for improved war vessels.

The display which Canada makes in the Horticultural building is one of the most important and attractive in that department of the fair. There are three Canadian courts devoted to fruit, vegetables and wine exhibits. An interesting feature of this splendid display of fruit is that Canada not only excels in the variety and quality of the harder fruits peculiar to a northern country, but her pears, peaches and the small fruits from Western Ontario are of that firm, juicy character which at once places them in the first grade of fine fruits. Although the destruction of the cold storage warehouse has greatly impaired the exhibit Canada had in the fruits of last year, even yet her display is the largest shown by any single State or foreign country, and occupies about one-sixth of the entire fruit space. Canada lost through the fire all the fresh fruit which was stored for examination by the jurors of awards.

The Province of Ontario has a large exhibit of over 500 plates, embracing 38 varieties of apples in a fresh state and 1,400 bottles of various kinds of preserved fruits. In the center of the court is a display of fruits from the Government central experimental farm at Ottawa. The Province of Quebec has been more successful than any of the other provinces in keeping up a display of fresh winter apples, of which there are over 70 varieties. Nova Scotia's display of the different varieties of apples from the famous Annapolis Valley is beyond criticism. The exhibit from British Columbia attracts much attention because of the immense size of the apples and pears. There is also a great variety of the smaller fruits. Prince Edward Island, the Northwest Territories and Manitoba have all credible displays of the smaller fruits. In the vegetable court in the north pavilion is a display of last year's vegetables, contributed by all the Canadian provinces and the Government experimental farms of the Dominion. This is the only exhibit of vegetables in the department of horticulture at the exposition.

IN TRANSPORTATION BUILDING.

Canada's exhibit in Machinery hall is located at the east end of the center floor, immediately opposite that of Great Britain. While this exhibit has many features of peculiar interest to visitors, many important lines are absent, and a number of the largest manufacturers are not represented at all. There is a good display of automatic and traction engines, compound marine engines, steam injectors and exhausters, high speed engines, fire engines, water wheels and working machinery of all descriptions. The display of woodworking machinery is one of the finest at the fair. The exhibit of brickmaking machines has attracted special attention.

The Canadian exhibit in Transportation building is on the main center floor annex and in the west gallery. A feature of the exhibit consists of car couplers and chilled car wheels, for which Canada is noted. There are also semaphores and headlights for yachts and vessels and a working model of the Chignecto Ship Railway, which is now being constructed across the Straits of Northumberland. This work, when completed, will shorten the ocean trip between Montreal, Quebec and other ports on the Lower St. Lawrence River and Boston and New York by hundreds of miles besides avoiding the dangerous shores of Eastern Nova Scotia. The exhibit of carriages, wagons, carts and trucks is fairly good. Particular interest is manifested in the splendid exhibition of sleighs. In one of the courts is a beautiful model of the sleigh presented by the women of Canada as a wedding present to the Duke of York and the Princess May. It is a magnificent specimen of Canadian workmanship. The display also includes a large exhibit of sporting and pleasure canoes, folding boats, snow shoes, toboggans, etc., for which Canada, as the home of the sportsman, has a world-wide reputation. In the annex of the transportation building is a full standard vestibuled train of the Canadian Pacific Railway, entirely of Canadian manufacture, the cars being made from native Canadian woods. One peculiarity about this exhibit is that the train was not built for exhibition purposes, but is an exact type of the regular trains on the Canadian Pacific Railroad.

WONDERFUL WOOD DISPLAYS.

In the Forestry building Canada occupies 3,000 square feet, situated on the main aisle and south of the central exhibit. The space is divided between the Provinces of Ontario, Quebec, British Columbia and the Northwest Territories. The Dominion has a large collection of photographs of living trees, contributed by the geological survey museum at Ottawa. The photographs are shown in frames made of the wood represented in the picture. The forest resources of Ontario — it commercial timber or fir woods — are especially interesting to practical lumbermen, builders, wood and cabinet workers, and the birch, beech, cherry and other fine woods capable of brilliant polish attract much admiration. From the Pacific slope the magnificent specimens of Douglas fir and cedar hand-split shingles 2 feet wide, of fir and spruce planking 4 inches thick, 4 feet wide and, if necessary, 100 feet long, and free from knots, are marvels. Quebec exhibits pine and spruce in great variety. In the middle of its space is a trophy of pulp wood. In it are shown the various stages of manufacture, from the tree in the rough to the pulp in long sheets, and, finally, the useful articles made by this indurating process.
