There will be a large St. John representation at the meetings.

GIVES IMPROMPTU PICNIC.

J. D. O'Connell was taking a few minutes' rest in Haymarket Square Saturday afternoon when he was "spotted" by some of the children there. He dealt generously with them, and soon the square was the centre for hundreds of children. There was nothing left for Mr. O'Connell to do but respond to the impromptu gathering, and for several hours he had the kiddies scrambling for pennies. His big picnic for St. John children will be held at Rockwood Park some time between July 1 and 5. Final arrangements have not yet been made.

PAYS FOR DAMAGE.

James Morgan, a sailor, while in company with another sailor on Saturday night, fell against the window of a vacant store in Prince William street owned by Mrs. Kate Foster and broke the glass. He was arrested along with his companion, but yesterday they left a deposit of $8 and rejoined their ship. Morgan also paid $8.50 for the damage caused to the window.

BOY GETS NICE TROUT.

Charles H. Millican, 14-year-old son of Walter H. Millican, Douglas avenue, while fishing in the brook above the bridge at Loch Lomond yesterday landed a trout weighing two pounds and two ounces. Several visitors out that way yesterday had young Millican pose with the trout for the camera.

ADMITS HIS LOVE FOR CORESPONDENT

Gwathmey Says That if Freed He Will Marry Mrs. Judd.

New York, June 23.—Colonel William Rand Jr., counsel for Archibald B. Gwathmey, former President of the New York Cotton Exchange, who is being sued for absolute divorce by his wife, Isabella C. Gwathmey, told Supreme Court Justice Davis and a jury that his client was in love with the co-respondent named in the case and if the divorce was granted intended to marry her. The co-respondent named is Mrs. Betsy C. Judd, widow of James C. Judd, a cotton broker.

"This is a most peculiar case," said Colonel Rand in court. "In most cases the burden is usually upon the plaintiff to show that the defendant is in love with some one else. In this case the jury needn't bother about that feature.

Colonel Rand said the Gwathmeys were married in 1895 after an elopement and had lived together unhappily until five years ago when they agreed to separate. Their acquaintance with the Judds, he said, began in 1913.

The Gwathmeys and Judds frequently met to play cards and often attended the theatre together. When Mr. Judd died in 1919, Colonel Rand said, his widow turned to Mr. Gwathmey for aid in settling her affairs.

Records show that Mr. Gwathmey obtained a divorce in Texas since that time. Mrs. Gwathmey contends that the Texas decree, obtained by the broker after she got an injunction here preventing him from suing her in Florida is not valid because the papers were not served on her legally. Gwathmey agreed not to plead his Texas divorce as a bar to her action in order to have the case heard here on its merits. The trial goes on today.

CHILD IS INJURED.

George McNeil, the eight-year-old son of Ernest McNeill, 178 Pitt street, was struck by an automobile in St. James street Saturday evening as the crowd was returning from the Trojan-St. Stephen game. Fred Scott of St. Stephen was conveying some of the visiting players from the grounds to the hotel when the lad ran out in front of the car. Fortunately the driver brought the car to a sudden halt and avoided running over the child. Dr. J. R. Nugent, who attended him, found his injury was not serious.

Woman Would Clear Out Darkened Autos

Hamilton, Ont., June 23.—Possessing several years' experience as a store detective, Mrs. Florence Stokoe appeared before the police commission and volunteered to patrol the road along the mountain brow, a lonely spot, the haunt of many lightless autos. Residents have demanded a special officer for several summers.

All this was emphasized to Mrs. Stokoe. "Give me a good dog and a gun and I will clean up the condition complained of," she said. The commissioners are considering her application.

EXPECTS 74 CLUBS TO SEND DELEGATES

Seventy-four Canadian Clubs are affiliated with the Association of Canadian Clubs at present and in all probability more clubs will have affiliated before the annual convention of the Association is held in St. John in September, according to C. W. Romans, national secretary. Each of the affiliated clubs will send two or more delegates to the convention and a large attendance is assured, he says. The local arrangements for entertaining the delegates and formulating the programme are being proceeded with energetically and it is expected that the convention will be an outstanding one.
