POLICE PURSUE KRAGG MURDERER

Demented Man Who Shot Bartender at Interior Town Still Keeps Ahead of His Pursuers

With the provincial police authorities and a posse of citizen son the trail of Martin Heller, a demented man, who on Saturday evening last shot and killed William Palmer in the barroom of the hotel at Kragg, a small town on the Great Northern railway, thirty miles south of Fernie, there is small chance that the murderer will make good his escape, though so far the provincial police department has received no word that Heller has been captured. Beyond a short despatch from Chief Constable Sampson, of Fernie, who is personally conducting the man hunt telling of the crime no further word has been received by Superintendent of Police F. S. Hussey.

The seach for Heller will be a strenuous one. Constable Sampson wired that the man is well armed with a rifle and plenty of ammunition and will shoot on sight. It is doubtful if he will be captured without a struggle.

Palmer, the victim, aged 31 years, was shot in the presence of his mother. Three gunshot wounds in the breast caused his death while he was being hurried in the train to Fernie.

About 6 o'clock on Saturday evening as Mrs. Palmer, mother of the murdered man, Policeman Lacey and Burt Rawson, the bartender of the hotel conducted by Mrs. Palmer, were seated at a table in the dining-room, they heard reports of a gun in the direction of the barroom where William Palmer was on duty. Mrs. Palmer at once rushed to the bar, where she was met by Heller with a smoking rifle in his hands. Beyond him she saw the form of her son in a stooping position, with his hands pressed to his breast. When Palmer saw his mother he exclaimed:

"Oh, mother, he has killed me; he shot me through the lungs."

Heller said:

"Yes; I have killed him and I will kill you, too."

Notwithstanding this threat, Mrs. Palmer rushed past the man, and throwing her arms around her fallen son assisted him to the dining-room, where he sank to the floor overcome by the rapid flow of blood from the wounds on his breast.

In the confusion which followed the murderer escaped from the building and started down the railroad track. Constable Lacey followed him, but when the retreating man saw him he levelled his rifle at him and told him to go back if he did not want to be killed. Not having anything heavier than a revolver, the constable had to beat a temporary retreat and Heller disappeared in the woods.

The northbound Great Northern passenger train, then due, was stopped and Dr. Saunders, who happened to be aboard, held the train long enough to have Palmer and his mother taken aboard and started on a life and death journey to Fernie.

An examination of the wounded man disclosed that three shots had been fired, all of which had entered the upper part of the breast and left shoulder. Two of these evidently had penetrated the upper part of the lungs and proved fatal. Palmer expiring in the arms of his mother before the train reached Fernie.

The body of Palmer was taken to the undertaker's parlors to await an inquest by Coroner Hesadell.

Mrs. Palmer is well known in Fernie and at Coal Creek, where she resided before going to Kragg to enter the hotel business. She has been separated from her husband for several years and he is said to be residing in Nanaimo. A young son works in the Coal Creek mines and a married daughter also lives in the Boundary district.

Heller is said to be slightly demented and it is thought that he visited the barroom Saturday evening with the intention of wrecking vengance upon Rawson and made a mistake and killed Palmer.

COUNSEL OF DESPAIR

Girl Supposed to Have Drowned Herself in Fraser Because Her Lover Proved Recreant.

NEW WESTMINSTER, Aug. 22.—Unable to bear the experience of seeing her former lover marry another, Miss Esther Johnson, of Annacis Island, is believed by the police to have committed suicide by throwing herself in the Fraser river on Wednesday evening poor lass. She disappeared at that time and all efforts to find any trace of her have so far proved unavailing.

The river is being dragged in the vicinity of Annacis Island.

Miss Esther Johnson was an attractive Swedish girl about 27 years of age. Ten years ago her lover, Peter Pearson, left Sweden with a promise that as soon as he made enough money in far off Canada he would send for her to come out and marry him. He came to New Westminster and settled on Anacis Island, where he is now engaged in farming. He became enamoured of another girl, also from Sweden, who is living on Anacis Island. Having secured her promise to marry him he wrote to Miss Johnson, his former sweetheart, telling her of his new affection and advising her not to come out to Canada.

In the meantime Miss Johnson had sailed for Canada, before Pearson's letter was received. When she arrived she found out the true state of affairs but accepted the situation in silence.

Last Wednesday evening she left the home of Alex. Falk on Annacis Island, where she was doing some sewing, and went for a walk along the dyke. There she met her former lover, and according to him, walked and talked with him for a short time. After a brief conversation in which all the unpleasant events of the past years were reviewed she dismissed Pearson, telling him she would return in a few minutes. That was the last seen of Miss Ester Johnson.

CORONER'S JURY CHARGES MURDER

Finding in Case of French West and G. W. Wise, Concerned in Tragedy on Board Steamer Buckman

SAN FRANCISCO, August 23.—Murder on the high seas was the charge brought late today against French West and George Washington Wise by the coroner's jury investigating the death of Captain E. B. Wood, who was shot by the leader of the two pirates when they attempted to capture the steamer Buckman on the Oregon coast last Saturday night.

The verdict names Wise as an accomplice, but the penalty is death in both cases.

When Wise heard the verdict he collapsed and was led weeping from the room by United States Marshal Elliott, who went to the inquest armed with a warrant for his arrest on a charge of murder on the high seas. This warrant was issued on complaint of Second Officer Brennan, of the Buckman, just before the coroner's jury was empannelled. Wise was immediately taken to the Alameda county jail, where he will remain until further hearing.

FINELY EQUIPPED

Mr. Leonard Frank, of Alberni, arrived in the city Sunday from Comox, where he has been photographing the different operations of the Canadian Western Lumber Co. Ltd.

Mr. Frank states that wide as has been his experience of island timber, he has never seen any finer than that which lies on Berth 29, belonging to the company. Their logging road is the finest in the West and the equipment magnificent. They are building a railroad from their logging camp connecting with the road running from Union Bay to Cumberland.

Between Union Bay and Courtenay they have a wharf a mile and a half in length.

The marriage of Miss Katherine E. Macdonald, eldest daughter of Mrs. Macdonald, to Mr. Albert E. Sage, of Nelson, took place last Wednesday at the residence of the bride's mother, on Howe street, Vancouver. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dugald Campbell, of Armstrong. The bride, who wore white crepe de sole ornamented with motifs in seed pearls and folds of satin, and had a shower bouquet of bridal roses, was attended by Miss Helen Macdonald, her sister. The bridesmaid was prettily frocked in white, and carried a sheaf of pink carnations. Mr. A. W. Bulmer supported the groom. A reception was held by Mrs. Macdonald prior to the departure of the bride and groom for California, whence, after spending some time, they will go to Armstrong to reside.

IDENTIFICATION YET IN DOUBT

No Definite News That Man Held at Dillon is Haney, Train Robber and Murderer of Decker

From the fact that the provincial police authorities here have received no further word from Dillon indicating that the prisoner held there and believed to be William Haney, train robber and murderer of Special Constable Decker who was shot and killed by Haney near Ashcroft on June 28 last year, has been identified as Haney though officers from Los Angeles, well acquainted with Haney, are now at Dillon for the purpose of identifying the prisoner held for a bold attempt to hold up the Dillon State bank, it is possible that after all the prisoner is not Haney.

Superintendent Hussey stated yesterday that he had received no further information concerning the identity of the man held by the Dillon authorities, but that there was no hurry and every effort would be made to establish his identity before giving up. The superintendent cannot reconcile the fact of the remarkable resemblance of the descriptions of the prisoner and Haney, a resemblance which tallies even to the birth marks, scars, etc., without taking into account the physical similarities.

The crime for which the man believed to be Haney was arrested at Dillon was a distinctly bold one. The account of the attempted hold up of the bank as recorded in the Dillon press is as follows:

At about 12:15 today an alarm of fire was sent in from the third ward where a barn belonging to Mrs. Talent, of Railroad avenue, was burning. The department responded and the usual crowd of onlookers followed. While the people were running towards the fire a hold-up man entered the front door of the State bank and stepping up to the cashier's window, which A. J. Breda, one of the bank clerks was attending to during the noon hour while Assistant Cashier Graeter was at lunch, laid down two silver dollars asking Mr. Breda if he would give him one dollar bills for them. Mr. Breda turned and opened the bill drawer and when he faced around to give the man the bills he found himself looking into the muzzle of a revolver. He was told to throw up his hands, but instead he dropped behind the counter and started for the rear door. The hold-up called to him to stop or he would shoot, and a second later a shot was fired, which, striking one of the large bank books lying on the counter, was deflected and the bullet crashed into the door just above Breda's head. Breda then ran out the back door to notify someone and the hold-up knowing that he would be captured if he stayed any longer ran out of the front door and to his horse, which was tied to a guy pole of the electric light line, and jumping into the saddle, started his horse on a run down Bannack street. At the Holcomb house corner, which he attempted to turn too quickly, his horse slipped and fell, throwing him heavily to the ground and partly upon him.

Messrs. Pease and Stephenson, two Dillon lawyers, who were returning from lunch just at that time, saw the horse and man fall and ran to him. They got the horse up and seeing the man was armed and disguised with a wig which was partly off, they disarmed him and while Mr. Stephenson was holding the horse Mr. Pease ran for a doctor. Very shortly afterward the officers arrived and he was taken in a partially unconscious condition to the county jail. He was then examined by physicians and no broken bones or serious external injuries were found though he moaned constantly and it may be that he is injured internally by the horse falling on him, though many believe he is just "stalling" to keep from talking.

When his effects were searched it was found that he was well prepared for any emergency and apparently the robbery had been very coolly and deliberately planned. He had two revolvers, one a big Colts 45, the other a Colts automatic 32. He had two extra magazines ready loaded, for the automatic and a hundred rounds of ammunition tied up in the glove for the same gun. He also had a pair of wire cutters which he would have probably used to cut fences or telephone wires to aid in his escape. He wore a brown curly wig for a disguise and wore about a month's chin beard and a heavy black mustache. He is about 5 feet 8 or 9 inches tall, rather heavy set, quite dark and has prominent features. He was well dressed, underneath the khaki suit which he wore and was particularly clean and neat. His hands are soft and show no signs of ever having done any hard work. He wore a slouch canvas hat and had an extra suit of clothes in a bag behind his saddle. Among other things found in his possession were two letters written in code which contain such words as "bank" "meet me" "thousand" "much money" "Dubois" "Spencer" "fall" "get there" and others which apparently pertain to the case in point. Other things found on him were a fine gold Waltham watch, a large reflecting mirror, a silk handkerchief marked "R," a black slouch hat and some small change in silver. He also had with him a half pint bottle of whiskey which had a Metlen hotel label on it.

That the man had an accomplice who was to meet him later there seems to be no doubt. The hold-up man stayed at Carl Innes ranch the night before last and while there he was enquiring about the lay of the country. He also said that he was to meet parties from Dillon. At that time he had two horses with him, a big bay, the one he had in town today and a black horse. Last night the man was seen by Mr. S. S. Patterson camped in his field, and this morning Mr. Patterson's hired man saw him with another man at his ranch just on the west side of Dillon. He also seen around town last night and was in several barrooms. He was seen this morning by the local freight agent in company with another man who answered the description of the man seen with him at Patterson's and also of a man who purchased a half-pint of whiskey at the hotel bar last night. The description of the accomplice is given as tall and slender and quite dark. He wore a pair of blue overalls and black hat. At this time Sheriff Gosman and his deputies are scouring the country for the accomplice and he will probably be captured before he can get out of the country. He was last seen, as late as 10 o'clock today near the Patterson place.

DESPERATE MARINE

William Bower Jumps from Receiving Ship and May Have Been Drowned

SEATTLE, August 23. — William Bower, a marine on the gunboat Princeton, escaped from the receiving ship Philadelphia, where he has been held a prisoner at the Puget Sound navy yard, early this morning. Bower, who was being held on a charge of desertion and theft, felled his guard with a monkey wrench and jumped overboard, reaching shore in safety. This is Bower's second sensational escape. Several weeks ago he robbed the locker of his mate, cashed a stolen cheque at a Bremerton store, and at the point of a revolver forced a ferryman to take him across the sound to West Seattle. After buying the ferryman a meal and giving him some money, he ordered him into his boat and started to come back to Bremerton. Bower was arrested on information furnished by the ferryman.

Navy yard officers are not satisfied that Bower reached shore. The Philadelphia is more that seventy-five yards from land, and Bower, who is not an expert swimmer, took a long jump over the ship's side to the icy water below. The bay may be dragged in an effort to recover the body. In spite of this theory a general alarm has been sent to the police of Seattle and neighboring towns. Bower is considered a desperate character.

Get Long Sentences.

FAIRFIELD, Cal., Aug. 22.—A penitentiary term of 45 years today faces Charles Dubda Bishop and Joseph C. Brown, who confessed that they held up the China-Japanese fast mail near Suisun last April. Through their attorneys the men stated that they would not appeal, but wished to begin serving their sentences at once. Bishop will be taken to Folsom and Brown to San Quentin.

IMPOSSIBLE SOCIALISM WAS HIS SUBJECT

Dr. Emil Reich Says England's Greatness Springs From the Possibility of Individualism

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Dr. Emil Reich addressed a meeting of the Anti-Socialist Union at the Caxton Hall Westminster, on the subject of "Why England, of all nations, is least adaptable to any sort of Socialism." Socialism, he said, had been a failure for 3,000 years, though it had been tried in nearly every country, ancient and modern, in a variety of ways. There was not one form of Socialism, but at least 25 forms of it, and it was invariably propagated by people who did not consult the one source of knowledge—history. The English Socialist called out for equal chances, and did not realise that the British Empire had been built on inequality. Frenchmen, Germans, and Italians knew that England's geographical position gave her a pre-eminent position. England had not been invaded for over 800 years, and consequently, unlike other Continental nations, could go out into the world and build up an empire. "You have built up a huge Empire on inequality, and now you cry for equality," proceeded the speaker.

The underlying principle in the building up of the empire was written on the faces of every one, on every building, and in every law. It was the principle of individualism. England has been fortunate in the possession of a large number of great personalities, the product of individualism. Some of those personalities had been eccentric and some foolish, but there was no doubt of the greatness of many of them. France was great because she had no great personality. The greatest men in France were the women. (Laughter.) That was why France had a democracy. (Laughter.) Personality was the soul of individualism. It was personality that made art, literature, great military strategists, and great captains of industry. It was the basis of the foundation of everything, and it could not co-exist with Socialism, with its necessary array of inspectors and officials.

Last of all, Socialism had no foreign policy, which was the basis of all politics, especially in England. England, on the one hand, kept up the balance between other countries, and, on the other hand, was kept up by the reaction from the other countries. England's foreign policy was life-giving and vital, and must be kept up. He wanted to see England kept up for that reason. The neglect of foreign policy, such as would take place under Schialism, would mean decay.

Hungary, 189,137,620, against 124,989,058 bushels last year. Roumania, 107,137,520, against 58,836,797. Japan, 22,047,674, against 26,035,612. In Great Britain the yield per acre is 31.99 bushels, compared with 34.47 last year. Conditions in Germany are the same as reported July 1st. Austria shows some deterioration.

CHILD DROWNS OFF BEACON HILL

Little Alma Westwood While Playing on Beach Falls Off Rock—Rescuer Comes Too Late

Falling from off the rock on which she was playing, nine-year-old Alma Westwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Westwood, Nanaimo, was drowned yesterday afternoon shortly after 3 o'clock off Beacon Hill Park. Though the body was recovered within a few minutes and every effort made at resuscitation, life had become extinct.

The young girl, with her sister Fanny, had been visiting with their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Allen, 229 Government street. Yesterday afternoon the two children, with their cousins, Ethel and William Allen, were playing on the beach just opposite the end of South Turner street. They were resting from their fun and sitting on a log when Alma jumped up and ran out upon a rock projecting into the water. She got too near the edge of the slippery surface, and with a cry fell into the water, which was over her depth. Her clothes weighed her down and she almost immediately sank beneath the surface. The cries of the other children brought Robert Cross, to the spot. He was walking on the bank above and lost no time in getting to the water's edge. Throwing off his coat, Cross sprang into the water, though he could not swim, but the water was not beyond his depth and he succeeded in catching hold of the body and bringing it ashore. In the meantime Mounted Constable Beckon, who was patrolling along the Dallas road, was summoned and Dr. Holden called. The latter, when he arrived, endeavored to resuscitate the child, but without success. Nobody at the time of the drowning was an individual who saw the occurrence, but who feared to make an attempt to save the child, believing that the water was over his depth, and as he was unable to swim, he was afraid to jump in after the drowning child.

The body was removed to Mr. Allen's residence in the police patrol wagon and later to the undertaking rooms of W. J. Hanna. Dr. Bapty, acting coroner, stated last night that he did not know whether it would be necessary to hold an inquest.

The parents of the drowned child were telegraphed to last evening, and pending receipt of word from them, the funeral arrangements will not be made.

WILL EXCEED ALL ALL LINERS AFLOAT

White Star Liner Olympic Will be Launched in October—Titanic To Follow in January 1911

BELFAST, Aug. 23.—Vulcan's fabled workshop on the heights of Olympia, where the thunderbolts of the gods were forged, was a noisy place indeed compared to the comparative quiet that reigns over the bustling Belfast shipyards of Harland & Wolff, where the White Star line's twin sea giants Olympia and Titanic are under construction. Modern methods have eliminated practically all the noise, especially that of the riveting process, as the large pieces comprising the sides of these sea monsters are being clamped by a new hydraulic system.

The Olympic's plating is finished and her huge hull overtowers that of the Titanic, the plating of which is nearly two-thirds completed. Work on the Olympic was started in January, 1909, and on the Titanic the April following, and the former steamer is scheduled to leave the ways on October 20th next, the Titanic following about January 1, 1911. Both will enter White Star line's New York-Plymouth-Cherbourg-Southampton service next summer.

Best Everything Afloat

These massive ships are 860 feet long and 45,000 register, which means that they exceed all others now afloat by 70 feet in length and by 13,000 tons measurement. It is estimated that their deadweight at launching time will be between 25,000 and 30,000 tons, while their total displacement when fully equipped is calculated to be more than 60,000 tons. The steamers are 160 feet longer than the height of the Metropolitan tower in New York, while they dwarf the Washington monument, 55 feet high, to which, so many recent vessels have been compared. When it is realized that their combined tonnage far exceeds that of all the vessels engaged upon both sides of the famous conflict of the Spanish armada, and that their tonnage is 10 times greater than any one of the famous Atlantic greyhounds of little more than a decade ago, the enormous strides in marine architecture are better appreciated.

The immense gantries, by which technical terms the "cradles" in which the Olympic and Titanic are being reared are known, form most imposing landmarks at Belfast. Each gantry is 1,000 feet long and 110 feet wide, and before the keel of either vessel was laid narly a million dollars had been expended building them in preparation for this vast undertaking.

Beams Weigh Four Tons

The largest single plates of steel employed on the ships measure 36 feet and weigh 4 1-4 tons, and the largest single beam, supporting the decks, measures 92 feet and tops 4 tons. The giant rudder, which will be easily controlled by a specially designed electric motor, weighs 100 tons, and the "boss-arms," the huge brackets which hold the triple-screws, weigh 78 1-2 tons. On these ships more than 1,000,000 specially welded steel rivets have been used to fasten the plates of the huge double bottoms alone, segregating 540 tons, and along the towering sides these rivet heads stand out by the thousands, giving the bulls every appearance of the greatest stability.

The White Star line has intimated that the stateroom accommodations on the Olympic and Titanic will afford every comfort and luxury, the cabin being especially large and the fittings and equipment along model lines. In the public apartments, such as the dining saloons, "lounges," smoking rooms and drawing rooms, the decorations are now being prepared by the best foreign artists and exquisite effects are being obtained. The ships will be equipped for 600 first class, 500 second class and 2,000 third class passengers, with a crew of 800.

To Be Launched Soon

The Olympic, which will be launched on October 20th next, will enter the Atlantic trade in the summer of 1911, and the Titanic, due to leave the ways soon after January 1, 1911, will be in commission in the early fall following. It is confidently expected that these sea monsters will find instant favor with the traveling public, because they will far surpass in size, comfort and luxury any others in the transatlantic trade.

Charged by Bull Moose.

SEWARD, Alaska, Aug. 23.—Chas. G. Hubbard, of the Hubbard-Elliott company, narrowly escaped death when charged by a bull moose while hunting in the Lake Kenai country. He killed the enraged animal when it was only ten feet away. The horns are said to be the most beautiful yet found in this section of Alaska.

"I HONESTLY BELIEVE 'FRUIT-A-TIVES'

The Greatest Cure For Rheumatism In The World"

Knowlton, Que., Oct. 12th, 1909.

"For many years I suffered from severe Rheumatism, and the attacks were very distressing and prevented me from doing my ordinary work. I tried many remedies and physicians' treatments, but nothing seemed to do me much good, and I was becoming very anxious for fear I would become a permanent cripple from the disease.

"I tried 'Fruit-a-tives,' and this medicine has entirely cured me and I honestly believe it is the greatest Rheumatism cure in the world.

"E. E. MILLE,"

Such a statement could not be bought from a man like Mr. Mills. He thinks too much of his good name to sell it or sign it to an untruth. Mr. Mills tried "Fruit-a-tives" after all other treatment failed—and "Fruit-a-tives" cured him of Rheumatism. In the goodness of his heart, he wrote the above letter in order that sufferers in all parts of Canada would know that there is one remedy that actually does cure Rheumatism. This testimonial was entirely unsolicited on our part. We did not know that Mr. Mills was taking "Fruit-a-tives" until we received the above letter.

It is a case like Mr. Mills' that proves the marvellous powers of "Fruit-a-tives" in arresting and curing disease. It may be stated, without fear of contradiction, that "Fruit-a-tives" will positively cure Rheumatism when properly used.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine in the world made of fruit juices and is the greatest Rheumatism cure known to modern science.
