David Lutes named as new SRC administrator

By STEVEN D. ROBERTS

The SRC has a new administrator this year, Mr. David Lutes, who will be replacing, Mr. Wayne Charters who has been appointed to a new position. Lutes has some solid experience that should assist him in his new position.

After High School, Lutes worked for a year at the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce. He then moved on to work for the Omista Credit Union where he worked for six months as a loans officer. Seeing a need for more education, Lutes enrolled at UNB Fredericton, graduating in the spring of 1975 with a Bachelor of Business Administration. During his time in University, Lutes was involved in a variety of activities in the residence that he stayed in.

In his last year at the University, Lutes was directly concerned in getting students in the Business faculty involved in the field of business. The particular area that he helped students move towards was in that of the already existing Travel Office, located in the SUB, operated under the direction of Mr. Gid Mersereau.

As SRC Administrator, Lutes will serve both the SRC and the SUB. His major function with the SRC, will be as an advisor to the Administrative Board of the SRC. Here, he will advise the SRC on financial matters and policy, such as dealing with the annual budget and the likes. Lutes is strictly an advisor in this area as he says, "I am not a voting member of the Board. . The decision-making process is left up to the Comptroller and the elected SRC REps." Also, Lutes will not be directly involved with campus politics, and Lutes said that, "I do not get involved in the actual political set-up itself," but rather indirectly in his capacity as an advisor.

A second responsibility that Lutes will have, will be to investigate the financial feasibility of the various projects that are proposed by, and to, the SRC.

Lutes' second function will concern activities centering around the SUB itself. He will be an assistant to the SUB Director, Howard Goldberg, and will deal with the SUB Supervisors, and the Information Desk Staff. Lutes will also act as manager of the Social Club, which is another major area of his new responsibilities.

Lutes feels that his new job "... will be a very demanding and challenging job." Concerning his working associates, Lutes said that he was "... very impressed by the calibre of the staff working for the SRC and the SUB. These seem very capable of doing the job." Lutes also says that he will do his best to work for the students as he said that, "I want to be very conscious of the students' needs and desires. I do not to get so completely wrapped up with the administrative aspects of my job as to lose touch with the students."

Changes slated for AUC

By BEV HILLS

Minor alterations will be made in ice level exits of Aitken University Center is order to conform with fire regulations.

The seating capacity for special events, which would primarily be housed on the ice surface, has been set at around 6,500 people according to Professor Eric Garland, vice president Administration, University of New Brunswick.

Although the center was originally planned with this maximum number of people projected to be housed at one time within the structure, the fire marshalls office has suggested that the alterations are necessary.

The AUC is an all steel and concrete building with 17 fire exists on one level as well as a $60,000 sprinkler system.

Lady Beaverbrook Rink, which was originally designed and approved as fire safe for hockey games and other events where the floor surface would not be used, has had its seating capacity limited to 1650 people because not enough exists are provided to house any more. Events such as rock concerts have in the past drawn about five thousand people.

Fire orders for the province require a certain amount of door space for certain size crowds in order to evacuate a building safely in the case of fire.

Poole appointed at STU

The appointment of J. Winfield Poole as acting academic vice-president of St. Thomas University has been announced by STU president Rev. George W. Martin. The position opened up when Father Martin relinquished it in order to take over the presidency.

Dr. Poole was born and received his early education in Milltown, N.B. He acquired his doctorate in theology at the Universite de Montreal, where a bachelor of arts degree was also conferred upon him. After receiving a bachelor of education degree at St. Thomas, Poole went on the study mathematics at Fordham University in New York, where he earned a Master of Arts degree, and later at the University of Toledo in Ohio.

He has been professor of mathematics at STU since 1954.

Delays in mail caused by wrong addressing

Incorrect addressing is causing some UNB students' mail to end up in the dead letter box of the UNB post office in the basement of the Old Arts Building.

Besides having the student's name on the letters, they should also be sent in care of the persons with whom the student is residing and have the appropriate box number. Letters addressed to UNB end up at the UNB post office.

There seems to be a particular problem with students living in Silverwood Court or Greenwood Trailer Park.

Students who suspect their mail has been displaced should check the alphabetically arranged mail boxes in the post office.

Stairs is confirmed as VP

George McAllister, University of New Brunswick student council chairman, ruled at the Sept. 15 meeting that vice-president Gary Stairs be permitted to vote during sessions despite his not being a UNB student.

McAllister made the decision, he said, since Stairs had stated he intended to beomce a student. The late registration, said Stairs, was due to his being uncertain whether he would be employed in Saint John or Fredericton and thus unable to know at which campus he would be studying.

Originally, McAllister had ruled that Stairs could not vote since article seven of the Students' Representive Council states only students can sit on council.
