TEAS.

WHY IS IT?

Why is it we have the largest number of agencies selling our teas in this city?

BECAUSE

Our teas are bought by a competent judge, who does not have to accept the testimony of any wholesale man about the quality. Consequently stores handling our teas say they double their business.

Why is it others engaged in the tea trade try to bribe our agents to find out the secret of our famous mixed teas?

THE REASON IS,

When a man finds his customers dissatisfied with the teas he sells, it is natural for him to resort to any means to keep his trade. The only successful way found, so far, is to keep James Laut's famous teas in stock for your customers.

The following is a list of a few of the branches where you can obtain our pure, unadulterated teas:—

LONDON, April 18, 1882.

This is to certify that I was suffering very severely from a cold which had continued about three months, which caused me to cough terribly and raise large quantities of mucus from the lungs. After trying various remedies I applied to Dr. M. Hilton Williams, January 28th, 1882, who prescribed for me, and after using his remedies for ten days I was entirely cured, and I can recommend his to any who may be like afflicted, believing it to be the only true method of treating lung diseases.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Jan. 3rd, 1882,

M. HILTON, WILLIAMS, M.D.:
My Dear Sir,—In September last I contracted a severe cold which settled upon my lungs quite seriously, affecting the left one. I had a very bad cough, accompanied by expectoration indicative of Pulmonary Phthisis. My strength decreased and spirits sank very low, and when I called upon you I was in doubt whether any medical treatment would avail in my case. Under your treatment I have already recovered my wonted strength and health. My strength has increased, my cough has ceased, and in every way I feel much benefitted by your treatment.

You are at perfect liberty to use these statements as you please.

Very sincerely yours,

THE CURTAIN LOWERED

ON THE LAST ACT IN THE PRESIDENTIAL TRAGEDY AVENGED.

After a Run of Twelve Months—Guiteau Executed Yesterday—A Blasphemous Prayer—Joy Over the Country.

The last act in the presidential tragedy took place at Washington yesterday. Guiteau was executed at 12 40. Full particulars were wired to all parts of the continent.

THE MURDERER OF GARFIELD.

Charles Jules Guiteau was of Huguenot descent and the grandson of Dr. Francis Guiteau, jr., who for many years resided in Utica, N. Y. He was born about forty-one years ago in the State of Illinois and led a wandering life till some six years ago, when he set up at Chicago as a lawyer in a very poor way. He was known as a man of fair acquirements, but of bad reputation, and an accomplished hotel dead beat. Further inquiry into his career proved him to be a thorough hypocrite and a blackmailer. After living in a precarious fashion for some years in Chicago, he went to New York, only to return to the former city in 1876. He sank lower and lower in the social scale, every now and then being heard of in some new line or another. For instance in 1879 he published a book in Chicago, entitled, "The Truth, a Companion to the Bible, by Charles J. Guiteau, lawyer, theologian and lecturer, a book for every one to read." The book, which was a crazy production, a mixture of blasphemy and hypocrisy, was a failure, but few copies having been sold. About 1880 he disappeared from Chicago, and did not re-appear in a public character till July 2, 1881, the day on which he fired the fatal shots at President Garfield in the Washington depot of the Baltimore and Potomac railway.

Guiteau was very restless during the latter part of the night, not sleeping more than twenty minutes at a time. Towards morning he fell into a sounder sleep from sheer exhaustion. He rose a few minutes after 5 and breakfasted at 6.30, eating steak, eggs, potatoes and other dishes. When the cook took his breakfast into the cell, Guiteau told him to bring dinner at 11 promptly. Hicks, who remained at the jail all night, was called into the cell soon after the prisoner rose, and held conversation on religious subjects with him. At 8 Hicks saw the prisoner again, and the latter made a request for a bath and asked Hicks to go and see the scaffold. Guiteau desired him to arrange with the warden to as soon after 12 as possible. He also expressed considerable anxiety lest some accident should occur, and insisted that Hicks should see that the scaffold and appurtenances were in proper and safe condition. After Guiteau disposed of these matters he read a poem composed by himself which he calls "Simplicity or Religious Baby Talk." Guiteau then talked some time about his future. "I don't think," he said, "I can go through the ordeal without we ping; not because of any great weakness, for the principle in me is strong; but because I am nearer the other world. I hold to the idea that God inspired me." Guiteau subsequently asked that in his books all complimentary remarks about President Arthur and his administration should be eliminated. Shortly before 11 o'clock Guiteau called for paper, and for twenty minutes busied himself making a upon the scaffold. At 11, contrary to general expectation, Mrs. Scoville arrived at the jail and besought admission. She appeared laboring under great excitement. Crocker declined to admit her unless the prisoner specially requested it. John W. Guiteau, in the rotunda was informed of his sister being outside and at first assented to go to her, but after a moment's hesitation decided not to interfere saying "I will leave the whole matter with Crocker." Guiteau was not informed of his sister's presence. After a short conference with the warden, John W. Guiteau went outside the jail to see his sister. He found her in great excitement, bordering upon hysteria, but he soon calmed her and dissuaded her from an attempt to gain admission. She acknowledged the propriety of such a course, but said he could not possibly remain in the city during all these.

COPY OF HIS PRAYER

WRETCHED HOURS OF THE MORNING

She brought with her the flowers Guiteau asked for, and they were taken to the prisoner. At five minutes past 12 Crocker read the death warrant to Guiteau in his cell. While Hicks was in the cell Guiteau made some requests as to his execution, and having copied a paper, poem and other writings, tore up the originals. He sent for the jail bootblack and gave him his shoes to shine for the last time. Dinner was brought and he ate with much relish. The dinner consisted of a pound of broiled steak, fried potatoes, four slices of toast and a quart of coffee, of which very little was left. Shortly before 12 o'clock Guiteau seemed to break down completely, burst into tears and sobbed hysterically. Hicks fanned and vainly tried to calm him. At 11.30 preparations began to be made for the execution, and at 11 50 a detachment of artillery was formed on the east side of the rotunda and brought muskets to parade rest. At that time about 250 people were in the rotunda. Hicks was with the prisoner engaged in prayer.

GUITEAU SHOWED GREAT NERVOUSNESS

and appeared greatly startled when he heard the rattle of muskets on the stone floor of the rotunda. From that moment Guiteau appeared to be thoroughly overcome by emotion; he wept freely and seemed to be in great anguish. After the death warrant was read the prisoner became much composed and turning away began to brush his hair with his old apparent swaggering sang froid. At 12.25 the steamwhistle sounded at the workhouse near the jail and two minutes later the iron gates at the end of the corridor clicked, the warder appeared, and a moment later Guiteau. The latter's face was pallid, and the muscles about the mouth moved nervously. The procession moved quickly to the scaffold. Guiteau ascended twelve somewhat steep steps with as much steadiness as could be expected from a man whose arms were tightly pinioned behind. Guiteau was placed immediately behind the drop facing to the front of the scaffold. There was a slight delay, while 250 or more spectators were pushing through the door from the rotunda to the corridor at the lower end, near which the gallows was placed. Guiteau gazed upon the crowd looked upon the beam overhead and quickly surveyed all the dread paraphernalia. As soon as the crowd entered Crocker waved to them to uncover.

HICKS PRAYED AS FOLLOWS:

Father, out of the depths we cry to Thee, hear Thou our supplications for the sake of Jesus Christ our Saviour, who made full propitiation for us. Behold this Thy servant, we humbly pray Thou will deliver him at this supreme moment of his life. Let Thy light shine upon him. Liberate his soul from prison, may he appear before Thee absolved by Thy great mercy, from blood guiltiness, deliver him and us. God have mercy on us; Lamb of God that taketh away the sins of the world have mercy on us, amen and amen.

During the prayer Guiteau stood with bowed head. Hicks opened the bible, Guiteau in firm tones said, "I will read a selection from the tenth chapter of Matthew from the 28th to 41st verse inclusive." He then read in a clear strong voice with good intonation and showing little if any nervousness. Hicks then produced the manuscript prepared by the prisoner this morning, and held it before him while Guiteau read. While Hicks was arranging the manuscript Guiteau exhibited a slight nervousness and moved several times from one foot to the other. He soon recovered his composure, and said, "I am now going to read to you

MY LAST DYING PRAYER."

He then read in a loud tone, with distinct deliberative emphasis, the following:

Father, now I go to Thee, and Saviour I have finished the work Thou gave it me to do, and I am only too happy to go to Thee. The world does not yet appreciate my mission, but Thou knowest it. Thou knowest Thou didst inspire Garfield's removal and only good has come from it. This is the best evidence of the inspiration that it came from Thee, and I have set it forth in my book that all may read and know that Thou, Father didst in pire the act for which I am now murdered. This government and nation by this act I know will incur Thy eternal enmity as did the Jews by killing Thy man my Saviour. Retribution in that case was quick and sharp, and I know Thy divine law of retribution will strike this nation and my murderers in the same way. The diabolical spirit of this nation, of its government, and its newspapers toward me, will justify Thee in cursing them, and I know Thy divine law of retribution is inexorable. I, therefore, predict that this nation will go down in blood, in that my murderers from the executive to the hangman will go to hell. Thy laws are inexorable. Oh! Thou Suprem Judge woe unto the men that violate Thy laws, only weeping and gnashing of teeth awaits them. The American press has a large bill to settle with Thee righteous Father for their vindictiveness in this matter. Nothing but blood will satisfy them and now my blood be on them and this nation and its officials. Arthur, the president, is a coward and an imbecile. His ing attitude to the man that made him and saved his party and land from overthrow has no parallel in history, but Thou righteous Father will judge him. Father Thou knowest my heart. Thou knowest the word hath not known me and now I go to Thee and our Saviour without the slightest ill-will toward a human being. Farewell, ye men of earth.

When he finished reading he again surveyed the crowd and said in a firm voice, "I am now going to intended to indicate my feelings at the moment of leaving this world. If set to music they may be rendered effective. The idea is that of a child babbling to his mamma and his papa. I wrote it this morning about 10 o'clock." He then commenced to chant these verses in a sad doleful style:

I am going to the Lordy, I am so glad,
I am going to the Lordy, I am so glad,
I am going to Lordy,
Glory hallelujah, glory hallelujah,
I am going to the Lordy.

I love Lordy with all my soul,
Glory hallujah.
And that is the reason I am going.
Glory hallujah glory hallelujah!
I am going to the Lordy.

Here Guiteau's voice failed, and he bowed his head and broke into sobs. But he rallied a little and went on with the chant.

I saved my party and my land
Glory hallelujah.
But they have murdered me for it
And that is the reason I am going to Lordy,
Glory hallelujah, glory hallelujah,
I am going to Lordy.

Here again his feelings overcame him and he leaned his head on the shoulder of Hicks and sobbed pitifully, still he went on

I wonder what I will do when I get to the Lordy,
I guess I will weep no more when I get Lordy.
Glory, hallelujah!

Prisoner again wept bitterly, and then with quivering lips mournfully went on:

I wonder what I will see when I get to Lordy,
I expect to see most splendid things,
Beyond all earthly conception,
When I am with Lordy,
Glory, hallelujah.

(raising his voice to the highest pitch he could command)

Glory hallelujah
I am with Lordy.

Hicks gave Guiteau the final benediction and farewell, saying "Good Father be with thee and give peace forever more."

The attendants then pinioned his legs and about his neck. Strong placed the black cap over his head, and Guiteau called out loudly, "Glory! Glory! Glory!" Instantly the spring was touched the drop fell at 12 40. Guiteau swung around in the air, the body turned partly around, but there was not the slightest perceptible movement of the limbs. When the drop fell some person inside the jail yelled. A thousand people outside hurrahed lustily, and there was a general onslaught by the populace upon the door. Hundreds of people crowded into the office, and there was a terrible crush. The body hung with the feet just touching the ground for over half an hour, when it was lowered into the coffin.

ADJUSTED THE NOOSE

THE AUTOPSY

The physicians who performed the autopsy were Lamb, Hartigan and Savers. Dr. Bliss and a number of other prominent doctors were present. The brain was found in a normal condition and weighed 49 ounces. The heart weighed a little over 9 ounces and was healthy, as were all the other internal organs. Dr. McWilliams said there was nothing abnormal about the brain as far as he could see. The general viscera he said were in perfect condition. The physicians were disinclined to go into details regarding the results thus far reached. Dr. Hartigon took with him Guiteau's brain. All the physicians agreed that there were lymphe in the brain and a hardening of the duremater. None care to express a positive opinion until the examination is completed. Numbers of physicians and surgeons repaired to the army medical museum late this afternoon, where the autopsy was continued. It was the intention of the surgeons to make a plaster cast of the brain with a view of the permanent preservation in that form of its configuration and external characteristics, but the organ was found so soft and yielding as to render this impracticable. Resort was therefore had to photography. A number of negatives were taken from various points of views with more or less success. The anatomical examination which will include a careful microscopical study of the tissues and structural characteristics of the brain will not be finished before to-morrow afternoon and may occupy several days. The surgeons pledged themselves not to make public any individual conclusions in order the official report may have full weight and value as representing the conclusion of all the examining physicians.

NEW YORK, June 30.—While Tommy White, aged 7, was sitting on a window sill of the fourth story of 46 Norfolk street last night with a baby sister of seven months in his arms, the blinds opened suddenly and both fell to the sidewalk. The baby was killed and Tommy badly hurt.

Robbery, Poison and Suicide.

ELGIN, Ill., June 30.—Norman Prout, a prosperous farmer, recently absconded with $5000 belonging to other people. His infant child died of poison the day after his flight. His wife narrowly escaped the same fate. Prout was captured, but suicided in jail by cutting his throat.

More Railway Horrors.

LACLEDE, Mo., June 30.—The second section stock train ran into the first section at Locust Creek, yesterday. Twelve cars loaded with cattle were ditched. Both sections were badly wrecked. Charles Koffinder, a brakeman, was terribly injured, and afterwards died. The engineer and fireman of the second section are probably fatally hurt. Several cattlemen were seriously injured, two reported dead.

Triple Tragedy in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, June 30.—Henry L. Cole of Milton and Young streets shot his wife Sarah and his daughter Nettie, aged 19, and immediately afterward shot himself. They comprized the entire family. Friends say they knew of no family trouble to cause the tragedy, but Mr. Cole has been heard to talk wildly for the past two or three months, and some now recall that he said when his family died they would all die together.

Destructive Floods.

ST. LOUIS, June 30—The heavy rain at Hannibal Wednesday night caused Bear creek to rise higher than was ever known before. The flood carried into the Mississippi river over half a million feet of lumber. Three small houses were swept away. It was reported that six persons were drowned, but this is probably a mistake as no bodies were found. Wheat was laid flat with the ground and a good deal will be lost. A number of bridges were washed away and travel is suspended.

Bradstreet's Weekly Report.

NEW YORK, June 30.—Special despatches to Bradstreet's Journal report continued stability in the general trade situation. The crop news is generaly favorable excepting portions of Nebraska, Indiana, Kentucky and Georgia where stormy weather has caused some damage. Lumber mills are busy. No change in the industrial situation. There were 153 failures in the United States and Canada reported during the past week. Bradstreet's journal summarizes the mercantile failures of the United States and Canada for the past six months as follows: Total number in the United States 3649; in Canada 362; total assets United States $27,329 765; liabilities $42 383,289; total assets Canada $2,739,182; liabilities $3,531,068.

THE LABOR WORLD.

No Change in the Freight Handlers' Strike—Back Down of the Iron Workers—Notes.

The painters at Winnipeg have demanded $3 per day.

The celebration of the Toronto trades council on July 22 promises to be a big affair. Representatives of labor will be present from many places.

The iron workers of the States appear to be getting the worst of it in their strike for higher wages. The scale signed by the manufacturers is last year's scale, which is a clear back-down on the part of the Amalgamated association.

HUDSON RAILWAY BRAKEMEN.

POUGHKEEPSIE, June 30.—The strike of the Hudson river railroad freight brakemen continues. All the main line men refuse duty. Conductors are acting as brakemen, and perishable freight is thus being sent along.

THE FREIGHT HANDLERS.

NEW YORK, June 30.—There is no change in the freight handlers' strike. The rush of freight to-day was enormous. Merchants have pressed their own men into the service. It is thought that the rise in freight rates to-morrow will increase the difficulties of the situation. The World says those familiar with the condition of the freight handlers' strike are generally of the opinion that the trouble will be over to-morrow, and by Monday the railroads will be ready to give the advance demanded by the freight handlers.

THE PEOPLE'S PAPER.

(From the Rat Portage Progress.)

Mr. Phipps, the gentleman who wrote the ablest articles on protection in the Mail during the last campaign, has been at work again this campaign, contributing to The World, the editor of which has a happy faculty of getting interesting editorial and other contribution from all kinds of people, the result being that "the only one cent morning paper in Canada" is the most readable and original paper in the country. The World appears to have taken its place as the people's paper.

MEN OF HELMETS.

Not long ago the only idea Canadians had of the modern civil helmet was from pictures of Englishmen hunting tigers in India or other foreign climes. Some three or four years ago a few specimens of this rather odd head-gear straggled across to America; to-day they are quite common on the streets. Lawyers are particularly addicted to them, and the sporting gentry think it the correct thing to be seen in them at the races to-day. The real helmet is made of East India pith and seems to be the best hat yet invented for summer wear. But helmet-shaped hats of every kind of material are now to be had: in straw, in felt, in cork, in linen, in pith, etc. But the Canadian farmer has not yet taken to the helmet in any shape or form. He looks upon a helmetted man as a foreigner—he prefers the "cowbite" of plaited straw to the modern invention. The first thing we know the ladies will take to them, and then—the fashion may change.

MR. KAJUR ON THE DEAD LANGUAGES.

The youth of the province are assembled at the metropolis to-day to display their ability in five languages and two other departments of knowledge—mathematics and history. Mr. Kajur, who is a self-made man, informs us it is all rot, this learning of languages, and his arguments carry conviction. Take any idea ever penned by Greek or Roman and you will find that idea set forth by some of our English writers. We gain no new ideas by learning French. The wise man will only learn French from a commercial or purely convenient standpoint, and will never imagine a knowledge of that language is going to make him wiser. While a considerable number of the youth of our province are learning to say "he has a book," "librum habet," with other variations, Mr. Kajur, who is a self-made man, has his sons down town acquiring five new ideas, while the youth above referred to have spent four times as much labor in acquiring one idea, and that probably of little practical utility. Mathematics is a much more desirable acquisition, because it is by mathematics we sail ships and help build railways. History is also of great worth, and deserves attention. Five sevenths of the examinations at the college seems to be languages, and with these the assembled youth of the province will wrestle for the next week or two. Such is Mr. Kajur's idea of the utility of the study of tongues, and as it so happens Herbert Spencer agrees with him.
