NEWCASTLE

Newcastle, July 18—Newcastle Town Improvement League, in adjourned session last night, took final steps towards calling a county temperance convention to consider the question of repealing the Scott act in order that the county may come under he provincial prohibition act.

There were present: Postmaster Jas. M. Troy, presiding; Revs. P. W. Dixon, S. J. Macarthur and Dr. Squires; Mayor C. E. Fish, Aldermen C. C. Hayward and H. H. Stuart (secretary); E. A. McCurdy, Alex. Astles, Edward O'Donnell, J. H. Ashford and Scott Act Inspector W. H. Finley. Mr. McCurdy read a letter from the attorney-general, dated July 8, in which it was stated that prohibition would come into effect in any Scott act county just as soon as the Scott act were repealed. In that case a provincial inspector would also be appointed at once. Copies of the act could now be had upon application of R. W. L. Tibbits, provincial secretary's office, Fredericton.

On motion of Ald. Stuart, seconded by Rev. Dr. Squires, it was resolved "That a county convention be called of representatives from all the churches, delegates from all temperance organizations, and all others interested in the repeal of the Canada Temperance act, in order to bring the county under the provisions of the new prohibition act."

On motion of Ald. Stuart and Rev. S. J. Macarthur, it was unanimously resolved that the convention be held in Newcastle town hall on Thursday, Aug. 10, at 3 p. m., with a public meeting in the evening at 8 o'clock.

On motion of Rev. Mr. Macarthur and J. H. Ashford, it was resolved to appoint a committee of eight to send the necessary notification to the different organizations of the county. The committee appointed is as follows: Revs. W. J. Bate, P. W. Dixon, S. J. Macarthur, M. S. Richardson and C. W. Squires, and C. E. Fish, H. H. Stuart and J. M. Troy.

The league adjourned to meet on Aug. 10, or on call of the chair.

HOPEWELL HILL

Hopewell Hill, July 17—The first anniversary of the organization of the Women's Institute of this place was observed by a very interesting meeting this afternoon at the home of the president, Miss Celia Peck. The officers were present as follows: Miss Peck, president; Mrs. G. M. Russell, vice-president; Miss Annie R. Peck, secretary-treasurer; Miss Nellie Newcomb, assistant secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Alice Peck, Miss Mabel Steeves, directors. There was a good general attendance also, and a fine programme, consisting of readings by Miss Margaret Archibald, Miss Iva Newcomb and Miss Ella Rogers; solos by Mrs. John Russell (Moncton), and Mrs. John L. Peck; instrumental duet by Miss Celia Peck and Miss Nellie Newcomb, and instrumental solo by Miss Peck and Miss Deborah Mitton. The institute, which was organized one year ago, has done, besides general work of such bodies, a great deal in the way of patriotic work to which they have given most of their attention. The secretary, Miss Annie R. Peck, read the following interesting report:

Madam President and Members: One year has passed since the organization of our society in this community. We could not call it a short year as greater events have taken place within the year than for centuries. We cannot call it a long year as we have all been too busy to notice the flight of time. It is a matter of thankfulness to us that our efforts, though humble and our positions of usefulness limited, we yet know from the letters that come from the front, from our noble hero soldiers, that we have at least in some small measure alleviated pain and discomfort, and discharged some portion of our duty to Almighty God, and king and country. We have a fine library of seventy-nine books, works from all the highest educational institutions on the continent. Our membership grew to twenty. As we enter a new year, we take up the work with renewed vigor, assured of past blessings—not for our reward—that we do not merit, but rather that we may do our bit. And may we trust that before another anniversary comes around the smoke of battle may be cleared away, and the sword be turned into an emblem of peace.

ANNIE R. PECK, Sec'y.

An interesting feature of the programme also were extracts from a letter from Capt. F. J. Newcomb, of the 140th Battalion, read by Mrs. G. W. Newcomb. The letter contained a fine description of life at Camp Valcartier, where Capt. Newcomb, who is a Hopewell boy, is located, awaiting the overseas journey.

Hopewell Hill, July 20—The ladies of the Patriotic league of this place, propose holding a concert in the public hall here on Saturday evening, July 29. A good programme, including vocal selections by outside talent and others, readings, etc., is being arranged for.
