TORONTO ONT.

M. HILTON WILLIAMS, M.D. PROPRIETOR.

All diseases of the respiratory organs treated by "Medical Inhalations," combined with proper constitutional remedies.

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS.

Bronchitis is an inflammation of the mucous membrane of the bronchial tubes, and is one of the most common of the pulmonary affections. Chronic Bronchitis more often occurs later in life. When a cold settles on the lungs, the disease either ends in bronchitis or pneumonia. If it ends in bronchitis, it usually passes off as a cold on the chest, and still the patient does not feel entirely well. He feels tired and languid, and is incapable of taking his usual amount of exercise, and experience a shortness of breath, with more or less warmth in the palms of his hands. Soon after this a cough appears, accompanied by an expectoration of thick mucous, followed by a hectic flush, loss of flesh and strength, and night sweats continue, when the patient assumes all the appearance of having a genuine case of consumption. But this is simply catarrh of the lungs, or chronic bronchitis.

In the later stages of the disease the mucous membrane of the larger bronchial tube softens, while in the smaller tubes and air cells of the lungs the mucous membrane becomes congested and inflamed. There are no cavities nor tubercles in the lungs, but merely a wasting away of the larger bronchial tubes, and death takes place from obstruction of the bronchial tubes and air-cells of the lungs. The patient dies from exhaustion and suffocation, being unable to expectorate the mucous which accumulates in the passage leading to the lungs, which in some cases is sticky and small in quantity, but more commonly copious, of a light straw or yellowish green. Oftentimes streaks of blood make their appearance in the mucous, and at times there is a disagreeable smell. Persons thus afflicted are very liable to take a cold, at which time the mucous becomes clear and frothy, and it is not uncommonly the case that the patient dies in one of these attacks.

Inhalations are applicable in all diseases of the respiratory organs, including catarrh, throat diseases, asthma, bronchitis, consumption; and thousands of cases can be cured by this mode of treatment when nothing else can reach them.

Those who desire to consult me in regard to their cases had better call at the office for an examination, but if impossible to visit the office personally, may write for "List of Questions" and circular, both of which will be sent free of charge. Address

Winnipeg v. Selkirk.

(Special Despatch to The World.)

WINNIPEG, April 21.—It is hinted here that Winnipeg will soon cease to be on the main line of the Pacific railway—that in fact Selkirk is to be the coming centre of the Northwest. An air line from Selkirk to the main line—away west of Winnipeg—is already projected. The sydicate say there will always be trouble with the bridges at Winnipeg.

The Red River Floods.

WINNIPEG, April 21.—The Louise bridge is still safe, though the breakwater is smashed. The remaining four spans of Broadway bridge are standing but are strained. The river is dangerously high and still rising at Emerson. A portion of the town on the river bank is under water, and people have removed their effects in boats. A considerable portion of St. Boniface is submerged. The flood is the greatest known. The ice jam continues for for a mile and a half below the Louise bridge. There are no casualties.

Funeral of the Late Andrew Stewart.

The funeral of the late Andrew Stewart took place yesterday at Hamilton to Burlington cemetary. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Harry Crewl, F. J. Glackmeyer, C. T. Jeffries, Edward Roach, William Loudon and Samuel Durney, all of Toronto. The casket containing the body was made of rosewood, with silver mountings. The many friends of deceased in Toronto sent a large quantity of floral tributes, consisting of crosses, anchors, horseshoes and other wreaths. Rev. S. Lyle conducted the services at the house and at the grave. Deceased was 32 years of age, and had been seventeen years with Messrs. Hendrie & Co., and nine years at their office in this city.

I. O. O. F.

At the last regular meeting of Ontario lodge No. 8, C. O. O. F., there was a large attendance of members and brethren from the city lodges and a large amount of business was transacted. Two candidates were initiated. N. G. J. M. Hovenden and Secretary Edwin W. Wood were appointed members of a committee to act with those appointed by the other city lodges for the annual excursion on the Queen's birthday. The concert committee appointed at the previous meeting, the proceeds of which are to be devoted to the library funds which has been very heavily called upon during the past year, reported favorably. Some of the best talent in the city has volunteered their services. Past Grand Master Samuel Harris will preside and, a large attendance is expected. The concert takes place on Wednesday evening next.

FOR HIS LANDLADY'S MURDER.

William Sindram Hanged at New York Yesterday—History of the Crime.

NEW YORK, April 21.—Sindram, hanged at 8.36 this morning, was firm until the last. His heart stopped beating in fifteen minutes. He was pronounced dead at 8.45. His neck was not broken, but he died from strangulation after protracted struggles. At 8.33 the procession emerged from the prison, led by the sheriff and under sheriff. After them walked Dr. Morgan praying aloud, and immediately behind him came the prisoner walking firmly, having on either sides a deputy sheriff. He was calm and nodded to those he knew as he passed. The hangman's assistant was nervous and forgot to lower the cap until reminded. Sindram's face twitched but he merely said "hurry up." Pulling it down with a jerk, the assistant stepped in front of the pophole, and when the sheriff gave the signal it could not be seen by the hangman. It was many seconds before the difficulty was discovered, and the signal was again given when the body shot up in the air and settled back six inches, twitching convulsively in the arms and legs. In three minutes the body was lowered within nine inches of the ground, and six minutes afterwards the pulse ceased to beat.

SINDRAM'S CRIME.

William Sindram shot his landlady, Mrs. Catarine Crave of 4 Charlton street, on January 26, 1881. After a remarkable trial he was convicted of murder in the first degree. Sindram's act, it is alledged, was precipitated by the fact that Mrs. Crave, who heard that he spoke scandalously of her, threatened to expel him from her house. Sindram, when he heard what Mrs. Crave said, quit the house in high dudgeon, saying that he would return the next day and "make a bloody row." He bought a revolver and came back in the following day, and had hardly entered the house when he committed the deed that consigned him to the gallows. Mrs. Crave was in the act of turning around to tell Sindram he had no business in the house, when he drew a pistol from his pocket and shot her in the head. It was thought that Mrs. Crave's wound would result in immediate death, but nothwithstanding the fact that she suffered from other bodily infirmities, she lingered for about five months dying on June 5.

Sindram was brought to trial on December 6. He was defended by counsel appointed by the the court. The husband of Mrs. Crave was the first witness. He recounted the threats made by Sindram, and was corroborated by Abel Crave and Henriette Crave, the step-son and step-daugter of Sindram's victim. The accused, by his conduct on the trial, aroused public sentiment bitterly against himself, and his own foolish action, no doubt, contributed more toward securing the verdict that was rendered than any other consideration.

Sindram continually exulted over his crime, and his consul, who found that a very difficult case to handle, sought to interpose a plea of insanity in his behalf. To prevent his counsel from attempting to make him out a lunatic, Sindram wrote letters to the prosecuting officers and to Mr. Crave, which simply condemned him out of his ownmouth. In a letter to Mr. Crave he said:

"I will try once more to convince you that your dearly beloved wife was wrong, and that it was her own fault that she was shot, and if you had been in the place, you would have done just what I did."

In another letter Sindram sarcastically said:

"I was so overcome with grief when I heard that your wife had died that I found it almost impossible ever since to do anything else but shed tears. I felt very sorry at not being able to attend her funeral or to send her any flowers. Circumstances over which I had no control prevented me from doing either one or the other. I hope you gave her a fine, showy funeral—plenty of carriages, flowers, a rosewood coffin with silver handles, etc. Did you dump her carcase into a hole on Hart's island? Don't forget to put a fine monument on her grave."

The verdict in Sindram's case was rendered on December 10, 1881. Ex-assistant District Attorney Lyon in summing up spoke for two hours and a half.

Judge Brady charged the jury that they had neither to consider whether the homicide was justifiable or excusable. Their duty was simply upon the admission of the killing to determine the degree of guilt. The jury remained out an hour and a half. Sentence was pronounced on December 19, February 10 being the day set for the execution. The case was appealed and the clemency of the governor was invoked, but to no purpose more than three times deferring the day of the execution until today.

GOSSIP FROM OTTAWA.

Laval University Bill—Business in the Railway Committee—Personal.

OTTAWA, April 21.—No decision has yet been arrived at by the ministry in reference to a petition for disallowance of the act respecting Laval university, passed at last session of the Quebec legislature. The opponents of that act feel greatly encouraged by the arguments advanced by Sir John in support of his disallowance of the streams bill.

In the railway committee this morning the bill to incorporate the Rapid City Central railway company was passed, with the exception of a clause authorizing amalgamation with another company, which was struck out. The bills to incorporate the Great American and European Short Line railway company, and Montreal and Central Canada railway company were passed.

It is understood that the cabinet council will to-morrow consider the question of the exploration and survey of Hudson bay and straits. Commander Cheyne has laid the matter fully before the government, and it is believed that they entertain a favorable view of the project.

Hon. Mr. Wilmot, lieut-governor of New Brunswick, is in the city.

There is a great scarcity of farm hands in this district.

A young man named Thornton was drowned last evening near Cumberland.

The Judge and Goldwin Smith.

At Osgoode hall yesterday Mr. Justice Armour remarked while holding chambers that he had seen in the newspapers a report of something that he had said about Mr. Goldwin Smith. What he had said had been misconstrued. He neither intended nor expressed anything disrespectful to Mr. Goldwin Smith. He simply used his name to illustrate a remark he had made about trial by jury. He hoped that the newspapers which were so ready to report his remarks would do him the justice to publish what he now said.

The paper that made the statements referred to by his honor was the Globe.

THE GRAND CENTRAL DEPOT.

The Bill of Incorporation Knocked on the Head—A Lively Debate.

OTTAWA, April 21.—The bill to incorporate the Grand Central station of Toronto was taken up in the railway committee today.

Mr. White (Cardwell) thought the bill should not be passed because the charter to the same company had been refused by the Ontario legislature when the matter had been very fully discussed.

Mr. Robertson (Hamilton) strongly supported the bill, pointing out the great inconvenience passengers who were obliged to change cars at Toronto were put to for want of better station accommodation.

Sir Charles Tupper said when the promoters of the bill brought it before the local legislature they did so with the knowledge that it was quite within its jurisdiction. The members of the local house, sitting in the city of Toronto and knowing all the circumstances of the case, had thrown out the bill. He thought the promoters of the bill under these circumstances now had no right to come here and ask to have the bill passed. He did not think the bill should be entertained.

Mr. Hector Cameron spoke with great warmth in support of the bill. He said Mr. White, who was a Montreal man, had no right to oppose a purely local Toronto matter. The opposition to the bill came from the Grand Trunk railway company—even the Toronto city council was under that influence. (Cries of "Oh!") He defied any gentleman from Toronto to say the city council was not under Grand Trunk influence.

Mr. Beaty—I will say they are not.

Mr. Cameron—You were a long time in the city council yourself, and perhaps you are still under the soothing influence of the Grand Trunk.

Mr. Beaty—I have not been under as many influences as you.

Mr. Cameron continued to argue at some length in favor of the bill.

Sir Chas Tupper took Mr Cameron severely to task for charging that the Toronto city council and the Ontario legislature were under the influence of the Grand Trunk. The hon. gentleman even undertook to say that the Dominion government was under that influence. He (Tupper) did not believe the first two statements, and he knew the latter was false. He thought it a strange thing the government could not express their convictions in this committee without having their honesty called into question.

After some further discussion the preamble was lost on a division of 27 yeas to 31 nays.

CANADIAN DESPATCHES IN BRIEF

The Revere house, owned by Sir Hugh Allan, on the west side of Lake Memphramagog, was entirely destroyed by fire yesterday morning. Nothing is saved. Cause of fire unknown.

The Case of Selina Simpson.

The case of Selina Simpson, who was sentenced by the Hamilton police magistrate to twenty-three months in the Mercer reformatory, on a conviction for keeping a house of ill-fame, was before Mr. Justice Armour at Osgood hall yesterday morning. On her trial before the magistrate she pleaded "guilty," through the advice of a constable who told her that she would get off with a lighter sentence if she did so. Under the circumstances she has reason to complain of the constable's advice sufficient to convict her, and she got a very heavy sentence. This, however, was held to be no ground for discharging her, and the judge also refused to give effect to some technical objections which where urged against the conviction. She will therefore serve her full term in the reformatory.

Short Measure.

The Ontario trade benevolent association met yesterday to take action in connection with the alleged short measure supplied by a certain brewer. After having explanations made by the party, and letters read from the coopers who monufactured the barrels, the association came to the conclusion that instead of being supplied with short measure they have been getting more than the measure. The meeting also took up the colonization scheme for discussion. The prospectus of the society will be issued next week. They have received notice of a grant of 150,000 acres of land, and are going to have a fixed capital of $600,000, to be held only by the trade.

License Law in Durham.

The board of license commissioners for East Durham have passed a resolution which comes in force on May 1 next as follows: That the proprietors of hotels, taverns or saloons, who in any way break the laws under which their license is granted, shall be considered unworthy of being entrusted with licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors during the year of 1883-4.

The N. P. at Yorkville.

A meeting for the discussion of the national policy was held in the town hall, Yorkville, last evening. M. A. W. Wright, secretary of the manufacturer's and industrial association, and Mr. N. F. Davin spoke in support of the N.P., and Mr. A. Jury in opposition. All the speakers were well received and were loudly applauded by their respective supporters. The utmost good feeling prevailed, and both parties seemed well satisfied with the results.

The Globe the other day published a statement to the effect that Sir John Macdonald's annual income amounted to $20,000. The Globe is just about $6000 astray. The Deficit in the Books of the Late Alex Fisher of the Ontario Bank.

Rumor was busy on the street yesterday with the affairs of the late Alex. Fisher, local manager of the Ontario bank. His defalcation or deficiency, whatever it may be called, is stated by the bank authorities to be about $33,000. General Manager Holland will not say much on the matter, and says that a thorough investigation is being made of the deceased's accounts. Mr. Holland further states that the bank is fully secured. The following letter has been issued to the press:

SIR,—Inasmuch as the unfortunate and lamentable death of the late manager of the Toronto branch of this bank is being made the occasion for the spread of rumors prejudicial to the interests of the shareholders, I am authorized by the board of directors to intimate that, from an investigation commenced yesterday and concluded to-day under my personal supervision, they desire to assure the shareholders that the deficiency in the accounts of the late local manager will not exceed $33,000, and that no loss will occur to the bank in respect of this deficiency.

C. HOLLAND, General Manager.
Toronto, April 20, 1882.

The Smallpox Scare at Windsor.

WINDSOR, April 21.—The Windsor board of health met yesterday to consider what was best to be done about the two cases of smallpox which have broken out. It was resolved to portion off the house in which Mr. Askew lives, and seal the doors, allowing no one to enter but the health officers and doctors. All the men who have been boarding at Askew's house went out to work as usual in the morning, but were forced to return by order of the board of health, with the exception of two who could not be found. It is proposed to thoroughly disinfect all the clothing, etc., in the house, and then allow the men to depart if they wish. As the little child is only two years old, its mother will be allowed to tend to it, but no one else will be permitted near the sick persons except the officers.

The Warlike Indians.

TUCSON, Texas, April 21.—Rumors from Eagle Creek say McMaster and six Mexicans were killed there by a large force of Indians. A party from Saffora says at Eagle Creek yesterday three prospectors were killed. Their bodies were warm when the troops came up. The Indians destroyed the freight, shot some of the horses and carried others off. They also tried to fire the wagons. Later news says that ten Mexicans were killed at Eagle Creek, including McMaster's wife and children. An Indian herder was captured but escaped. He says that Newland and his wife and Murren and others were killed. A San Carlos special says the Chiricahuas made a raid there after the Lucos band, killing twenty people as far as heard from. There are not sufficient troops to protect the place.

A Girl's Attempted Suicide.

NIAGARA FALLS, April 21.—Charlotte O'Neill, aged 14 years, of Buffalo, in the employ of John Brennan, merchant tailor, as servant, made a bold attempt to commit suicide this morning about 11 o'clock, by jumping over the precipice on the river near the English church. She was prevented from doing so by Edward Brennan and others, who happened to be near at the time. She was promptly sent home to her folks in Buffalo by the 11.30 train, in charge of a member of Mr. Brennan's family. The cause of the attempt is supposed to be temporary insanity.

QUEBEC, April 21.—The jury this morning returned a verdict of manslaughter against Bezeau and one of the Roberts, accused of killing Genest in St. Sauvier, and acquitted the other Robert. Judge Monk then sentenced the two guilty parties to twenty years each in the penitentiary.

—Now that winter has well commenced we would advise our readers against using pills containing calomel and other injurious substances, as there is great danger of catching colds after their use. An excellent substitute for pills is a vegeable preparation known as Dr. Carson's Stomach and Constipation Bitters, a family medicine best, from all accounts, will soon take the place of every other purgative and blood
