WHEN SERVING AT YOUR TABLE RIPE, LUSCIOUS STRAWBERRIES

You can add greatly to the style and also to the enjoyment if you serve with Powdered Sugar, instead of granulated sugar.

Powdered Sugar is ground much finer than granulated sugar, but not as fine as Icing Sugar. It is much used by those who know as a table sugar, especially in sugar shakers. We sell it at our three stores, 3 pounds for 25c

Speaking of sugar shakers reminds us of the trouble the salt shakers are giving these damp days, with the common fine bag salt. Why not let us send you a package of Shaker Salt. It never gets damp, and is almost as cheap as the bag salt. Try it, per package, only 10c

This will be the big week for Strawberries. Many persons said we had the finest berries in the city on Saturday. We will have supplies from the same growers this week. We are able to buy the quantity that insures to you the lowest price. You will not be disappointed if you let us fill your order for both berries and sugar. We sell only the best sugar, the kind for preserving.

VON BUELOW MUST STICK

Kaiser Is Said to Have Refused to Accept Resignation.

Berlin, June 26.—A semi-official news agency announces that Chancellor Von Buelow during the course of his audience with the Emperor at Kiel today asked permission to resign. The Emperor, however, declined to accede to this request under the present conditions.

His majesty pointed out that, according to the unanimous conviction of the federated governments, the present settlement of the financial reforms was the vital question, both to the internal welfare, and the external position of the empire, and that he could not consider the chancellor's desire to retire until this work had been concluded in a manner acceptable to all the federated governments.

Prince Von Buelow's further plans are not known, but it is not believed that he intends to dissolve the Reichstag. He probably will have such bills passed as a majority in the House can be obtained for, and then adjourn the Reichstag until autumn, when supplementary bills will be presented.

The People's Forum.

The second meeting of the People's Forum was held last night in St. George's Hall, Richmond street. The subject, "How Shall We Employ the Unemployed," was handled ably by Mr. Chas. Hill, and the discussion was so interesting, that although maintained to the last minute, it had to be referred to an adjourned meeting to be held next Sunday evening.

Mr. Sutherland Injured.

Mr. Edward Sutherland, tinsmith, met with a serious accident Friday night by falling into a cellar a distance of some fifteen feet. He had been putting in some pipes in a house on Queen's avenue east, when his foot slipped, throwing him heavily to the cellar below. When picked up Mr. Sutherland was in a semi-conscious condition. He was hurried to his home, 506 English street, where Dr. Moore was called. An examination showed him to be suffering from a very severe contusion of the spine, and it was feared that he was injured internally. This morning he was resting easily, and the internal injuries had not developed. The strain to the spine will, however, keep Mr. Sutherland confined for some time.

SISTER AND BROTHER PERISH IN WATER

Fort William, June 27.—Mrs. J. Laughton and her brother, William Ward, were drowned in the Kaministiquia River, about five miles above Kakabeka Falls.

They were canoeing and were overturned by the swift current. Laughton made an heroic effort to save his wife and held her in his arms until he was unconscious. He was rescued.

They were one of the best-known couples in Fort William.

FAREWELL SERMON OF REV. MR. LANCELEY

Pastor of Dundas Centre Methodist Church Says, "Good-bye."

Rev. E. B. Lanceley preached his farewell sermons in Dundas Centre Church yesterday, and large congregations were in attendance at both the morning and evening services. Mr. Lanceley leaves this week for Hamilton, where he will take charge of the First Methodist Church.

Last night Mr. Lanceley took as his text, I. John, v., 4, "And this is the victory that overcometh the world, even faith." He spoke at first of a group of children playing together, and said they were happy in the possession of the whole world. No child ever sees an obstacle to its happiness, and because of that does not become unhappy. A change takes place, however, when defeat after defeat is experienced in the maturer years of life, and the grave is the last place to be encountered.

Basis of Faith.

"No matter how famous, popular or wealthy a man is," he said, "two weeks after his death he will be forgotten. Man's moral principles and his trust in God form the basis of his faith, and this will overcome the whole world."

In saying farewell, Mr. Lenceley spoke of his work during the past four years and thanked the congregation and various boards for the aid they had given him and requested them to extend the same kindness and help to his successor. Rev. Dr. Manning.

Mr. Lanceley was very pleasantly surprised yesterday afternoon when, during the Sunday school services four little ones from the infant class ascended the platform and handing him a parcel said, "The Sunday school wishes to be kindly remembered." On opening it, Mr. Lanceley found a very handsome Bible suitably inscribed. He made a short address in which he assured the children that they would always be most kindly remembered by him and thanked them for their beautiful gift.

Combined Farewell.

On Wednesday evening in the lecture room there will be a combined farewell and reception service, when the congregation will formally bid farewell to their pastor and welcome Dr. Manning.

DOCTOR KNEW

HAD TRIED IT HIMSELF.

The doctor who has tried Postum knows that it is an easy, certain, and pleasant way out of the coffee habit and all of the ails following and he prescribes it for his patients as did a physician of Prospertown, N. J.

One of his patients says:

"During the summer just past I suffered terribly with a heavy feeling at the pit of my stomach and dizzy feelings in my head and then a blindness would come over my eyes so I would have to sit down. I would get so nervous I could hardly control my feelings.

"Finally I spoke to our family physician about it and he asked if I drank much coffee and mother told him that I did. He told me to immediately stop drinking coffee and drink Postum in its place, as he and his family had used Postum and found it a powerful rebuilder and delicious food drink.

"I hesitated for a time, disliking the idea of having to give up my coffee but finally I got a package and found it to be all the doctor said.

"Since drinking Postum in place of coffee my dizziness, blindness and nervousness are all gone, my bowels are regular and I am again well and strong. That is a short statement of what Postum has done for me."

Look in packages for the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville." "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

REV. DR. RUTLEDGE TO HIS CONGREGATION

Pastor of First Methodist Church Preached to Large Audience for Last Time.

The Rev. Dr. Rutledge Sunday night preached his farewell sermon to the congregation of the First Methodist Church. Considering the weather it was a very large crowd that turned out on that occasion.

Dr. Rutledge took as his text Revelation xxii., 21: "The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen."

It is fitting, said the speaker, that these should be the last words in the Bible. The first words of it speak of God's power, and these the last words speak of God's love, and all our lives are bounded by these two. It is a universal benediction. We cannot think that it was meant only for the church in Asia, in the face of those marvelious words, "Whosoever will, let him take of the water of life freely." The tendency of all religious thought is to set in stronger outline the universality of the teaching of the gospel for Jesus Christ was the most inclusive person in the world.

The Divine Presence.

"And then the presence of the grace of God assumes the presence of God himself. Many people have come to believe in a God that was. He did things in days that were, but he is farther away from them today that he has ever been before, and today is the day that we need him most. God is filling all the foreground of life, and yet there are people who cannot see him at all. Some people look on God as one to fear, and on Christ as one to love, but there are not two Gods, and when you have seen Jesus you have seen God, and that is what I have been trying to teach you during the years of my ministry among you."

In conclusion, Dr. Rutledge spoke a few words of regret at leaving a congregation among whose numbers he could count so many dear friends. "I came to you a total stranger," he said, "but we have watched together by the sick bed and we have stood together at the open grave. We have shared our sorrows and our joys, and we can never be strangers any more. Upon all sides I have met with great kindness and there is no shadow of regret in my heart that I came to London. Preaching has its advantages," he continued. "We sometimes wish that we had a permanent home. If the itinerancy were the only thing in the Methodist ministry I wouldn't stay in it for six months; perhaps, sometimes we wish that we had more money or the advantages that money can bring, but I would rather have all the disadvantages with the high privilege of preaching the gospel of Jesus Christ than all the advantages without it. And I can sum up all that I have been trying to say, all that I have been trying to bring into your lives since I came among you, when I pray for you that 'The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ be with you all.'"

After the service Mr. George McCormick, the president of the choir, had them remain to have an opportunity of saying good-bye to Dr. Rutledge. Mr. McCormick spoke gratefully of the sympathy and encouragement that the choir had always received from the pastor. In replying Dr. Rutledge said that they were worthy of all encouragement and support for the loyal way in which they had stood by the church and the great help that they had been to him during his ministry.

STEAM TRAWLERS BANNED

Is Seriously Injuring Business at St. Pierre Miquelon.

St. Pierre, Miquelon, June 26. — The continued presence of steam trawlers upon the fishing grounds in this vicinity is causing intense indignation on the part of the owners, skippers, and crews of the sailing vessels engaged in the fisheries. Following closely upon the firing upon a French steam trawler by a Gloucester skipper another American fishing captain, Capt. Shay, of the schooner Smuggler, has put in here and lodged a protest with the governor of the colony. Capt. Shay reported that his trawls had been destroyed by one of the steamers, 275 pieces of line and other fishing paraphernalia having been carried away. Several French, Canadian and Newfoundland sailing vessel captains have also filed claims against a number of the French steam trawlers. Their complaints will be forwarded to the French ministry of marine at Paris, together with their respective claims for damages.

PRESS CONFERENCE COMES TO AN END

National Defence Resolution Was Not Put Through.

BERESFORD'S SPEECH

Says Must HaveAid of Sister Nations To Keep Up Two-Power Standard.

London, June 28. — The Imperial Press Conference Saturday resumed the adjourned discussion on imperial defence, Lord Esher presiding.

The chairman told the delegates that he thought it was impossible to agree upon any definite scheme of imperial naval defence.

"If, however, you can agree upon a plan," he said, "which will give you good sailors and good officers, then good ships—the right types of ships—are bound to follow. Your true guides will ultimately be not the British admiralty, but your own expert officers, who will have learned their naval lesson in the main battle fleet, and who will be in touch with the strategical plans of the British admiralty, and also in touch with your own sentiment and your own needs."

The necessities of imperial military defence, Lord Esher said, were summed up in the words "Imperial general staff." He then emphasized the necessity of organizing the whole resources of the nation for the purposes of defence. In the future victory would rest with the organized nation.

Beresford's Speech.

Admiral Lord Charles Beresford thought the grave note of the statesman's speeches during the conference was due to the fact that they knew we were not prepared for defence. He thought that owing to deferred liabilities and other things it was impossible for Britain to maintain the two-power standard without the aid of the five sister nations.

"Don't let us be in a hurry, but don't let us be too long," he said. "Let us meet together on the same platform and discuss how each can help the other."

Lord Beresford suggested that the oversea states could do most by protesting the weakest places, namely, the imperial trade routes. They should have mobile defensive forces, and he advocated an interchange of cruisers, pointing out the pleasure it would be to British sailors to see a Canadian or Australian ship leading the line.

Having praised the personnel of this navy, which, he said, had never been better during the last 50 years (applause), he referred to the "mad infatuation" which resulted in the dismantling of repairing stations all over the world. He suggested that the oversea states might put those in repair, and concluded by declaring that when it came to war, the oversea fleet must come under a great strategic bureau, which will be at the admiralty, but is not there now. (Laughter and applause.)

Sir John French dealt with the imperial general staff. In order to weld together the scattered forces of the empire, he asked the delegates to use their power in furthering this object (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Temperley moved a resolution to the effect that national defense is the most urgent question of the day for the empire.

The Australian and home delegates monopolized the ensuing discussion, but towards the close, Mr. J. A. Macdonald, of Toronto, rose and hoped the resolution would not be put, first, because it either meant too little or too much, and second, because it could not express the result of the conference. The result is that we all know and see each other's standpoint and obligations, and we go back with a wide outlook and sense of empire relationship and empire obligation which could not be expressed by a reckless, thewless, pithless resolution.

Canada and the United States.

Referring particularly to defense, he said that if Canada had 20,000,000 people no power could wipe it off the map with 80,000,000 alongside it, but it behooved Canada to be wise. Their international boundary of 2,000 miles was without a gun and without ship. He desired to see that one instance of humanity and civilization retained undisturbed. (Applause).

Mr. Temperley withdrew the resolution, and after the delegates had expressed the warmest appreciation of their reception in Britain, the conference concluded with the National Anthem and cheers.

Invited to Winnipeg in 1912.

London, June 26.—Mr. Nicholls of the Winnipeg Telegram submitted to the imperial press conference today a cabled request from Hugh Sutherland, chairman of the Winnipeg World's Fair Committee, to the effect that he and Mr. Defoe should invite the conference to meet in Winnipeg in 1912. Mr. Nicholls said that if the conference would meet in Winnipeg he could assure them a warm-hearted British welcome.

Kyffin Thomas, expressing appreciation of the invitation requested the delegates to meet and subsequently consider it. The heartiest vote of thanks was passed.

Another Case in Which Dr. Hamilton's Pills Saved a Life That Physicians Despaired Of.

What a pitiful sight it is to see a handsome, able man being gradually robbed of good looks, health and ability to work. Such cases are frequent—the one here described being that of E. P. Lascelles, a well-known printers' Supply man, residing in Hamilton. "About six months ago I began to notice a worn, tired feeling coming over me. I was unable to shake it off. It was not the fatigue that follows hard work—it was sort of an unaccountable laziness that assailed me. I was anxious to work, but didn't have the energy. Something was dragging me down, robbing me of my health and spirits. I got tired of taking prescriptions that did me no good and used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Their action soon proved to me that I was suffering from a terribly congested liver and acute indigestion. Dr. Hamilton's Pills brought back my appetite, cured the heavy pains in my side and back, gave me a new grip on life. I gained in weight and now I am stronger, look better, work better than ever before I was taken sick."

If you want to get back the vigor and spirit of youth, if you want the sparkle of robust health on your cheeks—use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly. They cleanse, purify, tone, strengthen—make the sick well, give this grand medicine a faithful trial. 25 cents per box, or five boxes for $1, at all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

HEADLONG SURRENDER SAYS RUDYARD KIPLING

London, June 28.—Rudyard Kipling has a new poem in the Post, prophesying national disaster from the present-day tendencies of the national government. Describing the citizens of an imaginary state, "The City of Brass," he tells how they started "to decree a new earth at a birth without labor or sorrow." Their administrative ideas are thus described:

"They said: Who has hate in the soul?
Who has envied his neighbor?
Let him arise and control both that man and his labor.
They said: Who is eaten by sloth?
Whose unthrift has destroyed him?
He shall levy a tribute all because none have employed him.
They said: Who has toiled? Who hath striven and gathered possession?
Let him be spoiled; he hath given full proof of transgression."

The poem relates their ramparts to convert them into pleasure grounds, flung away the imperial possessions their forefathers gained, scouted faith and endeavor, and derided the idea of restraint. Nemesis comes when they are steeped in self-satisfaction in the form of a hostile host, and the poem concluded:

"The eaters of other men's bread, the exempted from hardship;
The excusers of impotence fled, abdicating their wardship,
For the hate they had taught through the state brought the state no defender,
And it passed from the roll of the nations in headlong surrender."

THE LATE MRS. PRICE

Funeral Was Held to Woodland Cemetery on Sunday.

The death of Elizabeth Harvey, beloved wife of John Price, former engineer of the London postoffice, took place on Friday morning at her home, 184 Wellington street. Rev. R. S. W. Howard, of Christ Church, conducted impressive services on Sunday afternoon, after which the funeral cortege left the house, and proceeded to Woodland Cemetery. The pallbearers were Messrs. Brady, Evans, Greer, Wood, Teale and Grenfell. Amongst the beautiful floral offerings was a handsome wreath sent by the letter carriers of the city.

The late Mrs. Price was born in Marwood, Devonshire, England, in 1830, and came to this city with her husband over fifty years ago.

She is survived by her husband and one daughter, Mrs. E. T. Stephens, of this city; one sister, Mrs. Skinner, of Windsor; a brother, Mr. John Harvey, J. P., Swansea, Wales. The late Mrs. Price was a woman of fine presence and sterling integrity, and her death is deeply regretted by all who knew her.

PROFESSOR JORDAN IN ST. ANDREW'S

Preached an Eloquent Sermon on Sunday Morning.

Rev. Prof. Jordan, D. D., of Queen's University, preached to a large congregation in St. Andrew's Church yesterday morning, from the text, Acts, viii., 30: "Understandest thou what thou readest?"

"The ordinary man," he said, "seems to have to take a chance between religion and superstition. No man can live by science alone, because he cannot get enough of it. One of the dangers to our young people is the multitude of books which are to be had everywhere today. With such a supply of indifferent literature, the young people and, in fact, all people, are in danger of neglecting to read the classics and great works. Books are necessary because so much progress has been made that no memory is capable now of holding it all and passing it along. We should, however, endeavor to read the best literature, and there is none better than the Bible. It is not only a history. It is more; it is a revelation, and by far the greatest book we have."

There was a special gathering of the Sunday school pupils in the afternoon, and Dr. McDonald, postmaster, gave an address of a patriotic nature.

FOUGHT ON PIKES PEAK

A Desperate Hand-To-Hand Struggle in the Dark.

Colorado Springs, June 28.—After a desperate hand-to-hand fight yesterday on the summit of Pike's Peak, 14,000 feet high, John A. Clarke and George Shipley, Chicagoans, and former students of Dartmouth College, are in jail, and Howard H. Robinson, Government caretaker of the Summit House, is in a critical condition at St. Francis Hospital in this city. The fight was the result of a quarrel over a remark made by Robinson at the Summit House. The battle took place in the darkness, when the three men were the only ones on the mountain top. The two young men said that Robinson attacked them because they awakened him, and they fought in self-defence. Robinson was left unconscious, and has not been able to give his version of the affair.

A BALD HEAD IS NO DISGRACE

BUT YOU DON'T SEE VERY MANY PEOPLE HANKERING AFTER ONE.

Thousands of baldheads wouldn't be bald if Parisian Sage had been used at the first sign of immigration.

Somehow or other there isn't much patriotism in hair; it's very apt to wander from the place of its birth; it leaves without notice.

A good head of hair isn't so hard to keep if you get the right keeper.

Parisian Sage is the right keeper, and its timely use will grow hair and prevent baldness.

It's good for anybody's hair, because it gets right down to the roots, and feeds them with the right sort of hair food.

Of course, it's guaranteed by W. T. Strong on money back; all really good hair growers are.

Parisian Sage is guaranteed to cure dandruff, stop falling hair, itching scalp, in two weeks.

It makes women's hair lustrous, soft and luxurious and irresistibly attractive.

And only 50 cents for a large bottle at W. T. Strong's, 184 Dundas street, and guaranteed, too, mind you.

If Parisian Sage isn't sold in your town don't use "something just as good, because you can't find it, but send 50 cents, and the Canadian makers, Giroux Manufacturing Company, Fort Erie, Ont., will send you a large bottle all charges prepaid. To girl with the auburn hair on every package.
