THOSE WHO VOTE IN TORONTO JUNCTION AND WHERE THEY VOTE

The World publishes to-day the voters' list for the Town of Toronto Junction, also the polling places. These lists, upon which the present election is being held, were prepared over a year ago. Many whose names are on the lists have, therefore, left the riding permanently, and are not entitled to vote. It is estimated that the absentees in Toronto Junction number 400 electors.

All those desiring a fair election should look over the list carefully. If there is any suspicion that anyone on the list, but who has since moved away, and is therefore disqualified from voting, will attempt to return and cast his ballot, notify immediately the Conservative headquarters, 14 East Dundas street.

Who May Vote: Every male of full age of 21 years, a British subject, and whose name is on the voters' list, and who, at the time the election, is holden is actually resident and domiciled in the electoral district.

The question of absence or temporary absence is only considered in getting the names on the voters' list. On the voters' list, the only question then is, if the voter is an actual resident, or domiciled in South York.

Mere occasional or temporary absence from the municipality in the prosecution of his occupation as a lumberman, mariner, fisherman or in attendance at an institution of learning in the Dominion will not prevent him from voting. Anyone whose name appears on the list, who has moved out of the Junction, but who is still resident in the constituency, may vote.

Electors should be careful not to be deprived of their votes by reason of their names being misspelled or their residences mislocated on the voters' list. The lists are very inaccurate, and where there is a mistake in the spelling of a voter's name or in his address, he can still vote, provided he knows that he is the person named or intended to be named by the name as it appears on the list.
