Easter Dawn.

By Mrs. Alfred Chipman.

Sweet as the songs of angels to my ear,
The Robin's notes from out the gloomy drear.
Far in the East the kindling dawn's blest ray
Pierces the darkness bids the gloom away.

Listen my soul! Oh, catch the sweet refrain
Jesus is risen—the Lamb for sinners slain.
Yes, Christ is risen! Past now sins fearful doom,
The scourge, the crown of thorns, the cross, the tomb.

For as He left His throne of love on high,
Bore all our sins and chose for us to die—
Listen my soul! And join the loud acclaim
Of Seraphs' voices, Christ is risen to reign.

Spring's Good Cheer.

Spring is coming in like a boy crawling unwillingly to school or like a watched pot, like anything that is too slow. She is a dear young slattern. Work that she might clean up in a day she keeps always putting off, clearing a side-walk here and there o' snow, leaving the puddles about from which mud is dragged and smeared over all the places. Of things in back-yards, and even on boulevards that the charitable snow covered decently, she makes unblinking, exposure. Housekeepers and yard-workers will soon have to clean up after spring. But who thinks the less of her?

Fevers and colds come sneezing with her. She is the most unsanitary nurse and a vixen as well as a slattern. Her mood is never dependable, she may fly at you any time with hail columbia and gives no hint of the day's disaster in a morning face. For days together sometimes she never smiles and often she rages like a suffragette in a china shop. But when again she is in her coming-on mood, and the muddy pools grow beautiful as they reflect the blue sky and dart the sun's arrows back, then all faults are forgotten, we think of what a fine Summer she will yet grow up to, and what warm impulses she has already. Sometimes, to-day for example, even with her frostiest airs she is altogether ravishing, a fair stunner.

Easy-going herself she moves the whole world to new activities. At first, it is true, on her arrival, men stretch themselves lazily and feel not unlike a patient who has just come through a severe operation but feels himself now at ease again and looks forward leisurely to renewed life and healthy activity in the open air. But soon humanity leaps up and dances about. Ladies run to doctors, dressmakers and dentists. The fag end of the Lenten season is not at rest, but an intense preparation for Easter, an agony in and out of the millinery establishment. Men's tailors also shuffle into motion. As lapwings and doves must put on new hats and dresses, why not young men and maidens? Let Jove laugh if he likes, and he does at this season.

The children, who are busy at all times, take up new games. The streaming roads and puddles are so much fairy-land to them, and any chip becomes a boat. They eye the Thames with hopes of a flood. Even the grown-up community feels robbed of a sensation when the ice breaks up without a noise and steals away; but the mere possibility of trouble is sensation enough.

As the snow fades from the land plows and motor-cars reappear, building operations are again in full swing, agents increase and multiply upon the face of the earth, students bend themselves to their examinations. In favored woods the sugar making holds a short season and a merry one. The maple tree, like a good mother, suckles the land with her ambrosial food. There is not a Canadian who takes no interest in this annual phenomenon; syrup making is almost a sacred rite of the nation. Good luck to the priests and ministrants who labor in it. The city moves with the country; to judge from advertisements, merchants toil exceedingly with bales of spring and summer stock.

All the world opens its eyes and stirs. Calves see the light and young lambs soon are bleating. Presently there will be an outrush from stall to field. Hills clap their hands, creeks swell with pleasure, the land steams up its welcoming incense, as man and beast return to it. Good cheer and hope are the work of that untidy, charming scold, the spring.—London Advertiser.

THE PATIENT BRAIN

A tireless worker so long as supplied with rich, red blood.

The brain is one of the most patient and industrious organs of the body. It can be induced, by good treatment, to perform prodigies of work. But it is sensitive and will not brook abuse. It responds to the lash at first, but if the lash is laid on too hard it bulks.

Nervous trouble is generally brain trouble, and no suffering is to be compared to mental suffering, with the accompanying dread, suspicion and melancholy.

One-fifth of the blood in the human body is consumed by the brain, so make the blood rich and red by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and you will overcome diseases of the nerves. Headaches will disappear, irritability will go, digestion will improve, and weakness and despondency will give place to new hope and courage, new vigor and energy.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food will enable you to avoid such extreme nervous trouble as prostration and paralysis. 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50; at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Keep Minard's Liniment in the house.

New Strength in the Spring.

NATURE NEEDS AID IN MAKING NEW HEALTH GIVING BLOOD.

In the spring the system needs a tonic. To be healthy you must have new blood just as the trees must have new sap to renew their vitality. Nature demands it, and without this new blood you will feel weak and languid. You may have twinges of rheumatism or the sharp, stabbing sting pains of neuralgia. Often there are disfiguring pimples or eruptions on the skin. In other cases there is merely a feeling of tiredness and a variable appetite. Any of these are signs that the blood is out of order—that the indoor life of winter has lessened your vitality. What you need in spring is a tonic medicine to put you right, and in all the world of medicine there is no tonic can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These Pills actually make new, rich, red blood—your greatest need in spring. This new blood drives out the seeds of disease and makes easily tired men, women and children bright, strong and active. Mrs. Murray Marshall, Zephyr, Ont., says: 'I do not believe I would ever have been well and strong again but for Dr. William's Pink Pills. I was so weak and nervous that I could not be left in the house alone. I would take weak spells with my heart and think I was going to die. I tried doctors and electric belts, but they did me no good. Then a friend urged me to try Dr Williams' Pink Pills. To my surprise I noticed my appetite improving, and from that on I improved rapidly until I was enjoying the best of health, and I have not been troubled with weakness or nervousness since.'

These pills are sold by all medicine dealers or can be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Education in Nova Scotia.

The annual report of the Superintendent of Education of Nova Scotia for the year ended 31st July, 1911, was laid before the House of Assembly April 1st. The report states that, apart from the technical schools, the regular public school enrollment increased from 102,035 to 102,910, making an advance of 875 pupils over the previous year, which had made an advance of 583 over the preceding year.

The schools were two days longer in session; but owing to stormy winter weather and unusual prevalence of epidemics, the actual attendance and the percentage of regularity in the lower grades did not reach those of the previous year.

In the higher grades, however, the attendance was larger and more regular than last year, the annual percentage of attendance in the Academies having increased from 76.3 of last year to 76.7 per cent., and the average of quarterly percentages from 82.8 to 83.8.

The attendance at all the technical and special schools directly under the Education Department increased from a total of 2356 to 2476. The total attendance in all public schools therefore, increased during the year from 104,341 to 105,386, an increase of 1,045.

The cost of the technical department is indicated by the rise of the annual expenditure which increased from $33,068.15 in 1909, to 39,783.38 1910, and to $53,998.72 in 1911.

The Metallurgical Laboratory building is now in course of construction as an addition to the suite of buildings around the Technical College, which accounts for an expenditure on capital account of $21,558.38, thus raising the total cost of construction and equipment of the College to $207,349.42

The number of vacant schools was the least for many years. There were sixty more schools in session last year—namely 2639—by far the greatest number in the history of the province.

Death of Mrs. C. O. Illsley.

BERWICK, April 1—Another aged resident passed away at her home on Main street on Sunday evening in the person of Lydia, widow of C. Preston Illsley. Mrs Illsley was a daughter of the late William Foote, of Chipman Brook, Kings Co., and was born 83 years ago. She had been in poor health for a long time and her death was not wholly unexpected. She was a very estimable woman and had a large circle of friends who will sincerely mourn her loss. She was always ready with a helping hand to assist the poor and the needy. She leaves three daughters, Edith, Mrs. McGregor, of Dakota; Effie, Mrs. James M. Patterson, of Berwick; and Harriett, Mrs. X. L. Anthony, of Spokane, Wash. A daughter and three sons passed away several years ago. She also leaves two brothers, Pope Foote, of Grafton, and S. Whitney Foote, of Lakeville; the latter who is at the present time very ill, also three sisters, Mrs. Jonathan Newcombe, of Grafton; Mrs. Strong, of Wolfville, and Mrs. Selina Lyons, of Centreville, who is also very ill. The funeral takes place this afternoon.

No Moral Excuse for a Saloon.

There never was, is now, nor ever can be a moral excuse for a saloon. Intoxicating liquor corrupts the morals, ruins the character and destroys the reason of its victims. It furthermore deceives, pauperises and damns. The true servant of God cannot, dare not, will not compromise in any way with this monstrous evil. It is the enemy of the home, the State and the church, and every enlightened Christian is the enemy of the saloon.' Brother, you cannot countenance the saloon without betraying the cause. On which side is your influence? Think on it. Pray over it.—Herald of Truth.

'Why are you so sore on that eminent millionaire? He has done some good things.'

Are Microbes in Your Scalp?

IT HAS BEEN PROVED THAT MICROBES CAUSE BALDNESS.

Professor Unna, of Hamburg, Germany, and Dr. Saubourand, the leading French dermatologist, discovered that a microbe causes baldness. Their theory has time and again been amply verified through research experiments carried on under the observation of eminent scientists. This microbe lodges in the Sebum, which is the natural hair oil, and when permitted to flourish it destroys the hair follicles and in time the pores entirely close, and the scalp takes on a shiny appearance. When this happens there is no hope of hair being revived.

We have a remedy which will, we honestly believe, remove dandruff, exterminate the microbe, promote good circulation in the scalp and around the hair-roots, tighten and revitalize the hair-roots and overcome baldness, so long as there is any life left in the hair roots.

We back up our statement with our own personal guarantee that this remedy called Rexall '93' Hair Tonic will be supplied free of all cost to the user if it fails to do as we state.

It will frequently help to restore gray and faded hair to its original color, providing loss of color has been caused by disease, yet it is in no sense a dye. Rexall '93' Hair Tonic accomplishes these results, by aiding in making every hair-root, follicle and pigment gland strong and active and by stimulating a natural flow of coloring matter throughout the hair-cells.

We exact no obligations or promises—we simply ask you to give Rexall '93' Hair Tonic a thorough trial and we will refund the money you paid us for it. Two sizes, prices 50 cents and 1 dollar. Remember, you can obtain it in Wolfville only at our store—the Rexall Store. A. V. Rand.

Nova Scotia Fruit Growers' Association.

A special meeting of the Nova Scotia Fruit Growers' Association is to be held at the Court house, Kentville, to-day. Two sessions will be held, in the afternoon and evening.

The program for the meetings will include:

Reports of the delegates to the Fruit Conference at Ottawa.

A resolution will be submitted by Dr. Cutten, of Acadia University, asking the aid of the Association in securing the installation of Meteorological Instruments at Wolfville.

By the direction of the Department of Agriculture, Inspector G. H. Vroom has prepared three sample apple barrels with their staves jointed at different widths. These barrels are of the same capacity but vary in size of their bilge. They will be on exhibition and the Association will be asked to vote on the size best adapted for Nova Scotia.

Mr. W. B. Gornall, of Middleton, will address the Association on the Nova Scotia apple trade as seen from a London standpoint. Mr. Gornall has spent the winter in London and has information of much value for Nova Scotia fruit growers. He will speak especially of the need of the Co-Operative Fruit Companies of representatives in the English market.

Mr. John N. Chute, of Berwick, will give an address on the present standing of Co-Operative Fruit Companies and the value of the Central Association to the individual Companies.

Mrs. Jenkins was standing before the mirror, arranging her thin hair when her baldheaded husband entered the room.

'Say, Em'ly,' he began, 'why don't you do your hair the way you used to?'

'Why don't you?' retorted Mrs. Jenkins.—Lippincott's.

Utilizing the Surplus Potatoes.

An overproduction of potatoes in Germany in recent years has led the industrial community of that country to make great efforts to devise means of utilizing the surplus of the crop. This problem is being solved successfully in two ways; first by stimulating the use of potato spirits as a fuel and illuminant, and second by a great extension of the various processes of drying potatoes, for use both as a food and in the arts.

According to a recent consular report, there are now 436 plants established in Germany for drying potatoes, with an estimated annual production of 110,239 to 165,345 short tons, or 3,674,000 bushels. Of these plants, 350 are for the production of potato flakes, while in 86 the potatoes are dried by the hot-air process. Potato flakes can be used for feeding stock, for distilling alcohol, for making starch, and for the other purposes for which natural potatoes are used; or they can be ground and bolted to make potato flour. This flour is a yellowish white product, rich in carbohydrates, and is used principally by bakers for adding to rye and wheat flour in making bread. It is claimed that the addition of potato flour gives the bread a good flavor, makes it more digestible and keeps it fresh for a comparatively long time. It is also used to some extent in thickening soups and sauces. The potato flour industry has also assumed large proportions latterly in the Netherlands, most of the factories being in the Province of Groningen. The same country disposes of its surplus potatoes to a large extent in the manufacture of dextrine.—Scientific American.

Dr. Wilfrid Grenfell, who was recently dined by the Medical Association of Vancouver, was presented with a purse of gold at the end of the dinner.

Easter.

Can you not picture that sublime scene in the garden of Joseph of Arimathea on the first Easter morning—the early dew on the lilies and hyacinths, and the gorgeous blossoms of the azalias?

And in the midst of all the freshness of the spring foliage, and the wealth of Easter bloom, the woman walking there disconsolate. No flowers, no Springtime beauty, have any charm when her head is filled with the dark picture of the Cross and the Crown of Thorns.

But suddenly, at a turn in the road, she discovers the 'gardener' stooping over a bed of pure white lilies. In a moment she is before him, her heart in her eyes, 'O, Sir, can you tell me where they have laid Him?' And—then—He turns and speaks that one word, 'Mary!' It is enough. And forever and ever the world and its light are changed for Mary Magdalene. With her, let us fall at His feet in a tumult of joyful adoration and with her exclaiming, Rabbouni!—Master.

The Last Straw.

The British working man was lounging at the street corner, with a cigarette tucked into the corner of his mouth.

Up to him lurched another of his kind.

'Here, mate,' said the newcomer, 'got a cigarette-paper about you?'

'Yus,' said the first, and handed him a grimy slip of paper.

'Got any tobacco?' was the next remark of the new comer.

'Yus,' replied the first again, but he was not so eager in handing over his tobacco box and did not hurry matters.

The new-comer rolled a cigarette, stuck it in his mouth, and then asked:

'Got a match, mate?'

The other eyed him sharply up and down and then down and up again.

'You haven't anything for smokin' but the 'abit, 'ave yer?' he drawled indignantly.

He (anxiously)—How long, darling, will it take to complete your trousseau?

She—All the rest of my married life.
